'79 AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE: A GUIDE

*A consumer guide prepared by the Massachusetts Division of Insurance
A Progress Report from the Commissioner*

After several years of massive change in the governance of our automobile insurance markets, 1978 has been a period of welcome calm. There were no legislature actions in the last session of the General Court to change the nature of your coverages. The new incentive-based classification system, stressing individual driving record in place of age, sex and marital status, has received wide acceptance. I am hopeful that the calm will continue in 1979. Rate changes for the new year will be moderate for most drivers. Because of this year's decision and the decrease ordered last year for 1978, cumulative rate level changes since 1975 on an aggregate basis have averaged substantially less than the increase in the consumer price index over the same period. For many urban drivers with good records, and particularly the young, premium rates have fallen sharply. Only those drivers with merit rating surcharges have experienced large increases in the cost of automobile insurance. These drivers will continue to face increases.

The 1979 rates will be higher than last year's for some drivers and lower for others. How they will affect you depends primarily on where you live and what coverages you choose. Most of the available rate relief this year will go to drivers in traditionally high rated territories. This results from continued effort to place greater emphasis on individual merit and less emphasis on geographical rating. Premium changes from 1978 to 1979, moreover, will not be uniform from coverage to coverage. The compulsory coverages will rise in cost for most drivers. This occurs in part because of a reallocation in the way commission allowances are computed in the rates and in part because the 1970 no-fault law, with its $500 threshold for lawsuits, is now being eroded by inflation. This latter problem will repeat itself until the tort threshold is increased to keep pace with inflation. The costs for Collision Coverage and Comprehensive Coverage will fall for most drivers this year. Most of the credit, in my judgment, belongs to the continuing incentive effects of merit rating and to recently enhanced police work against car thieves and traffic violators.

None of this, of course, should obscure the fact that auto insurance remains expensive in Massachusetts. In states with high traffic densities, auto insurance will always be costly. Part of the cost is beyond your direct control, but the care you exercise in purchasing protection can definitely make a difference. The next section contains my advice on choosing your coverages. Compare it with your own judgments about coverage needs and those of your agent or company representative.

Buying Only What You Need

The first rule of careful insurance buying is never to buy what you do not need. Many people misunderstand the fundamental nature of insurance. By its very essence, insurance must cost the average person more than it can pay back. Out pays for auto coverage, roughly thirty-five cents will be absorbed in insurer expenses and overhead costs. Only sixty-five cents can come back over the long run to the average consumer. Moreover, while uninsured casualty losses are partially tax deductible for people who itemize their deductions, insurance premiums are not. The buyer of insurance simply loses the available tax advantage. Auto insurance, therefore, is much too expensive to use as an ordinary maintenance contract. It is meant to protect against unexpected and un-

WE'RE EIGHTY-ONE YEARS OLD!

The City Record, the present official chronicle of municipal affairs, will be celebrating the eighty-first anniversary of its publication on January 6, 1979. On January 6, in 1898, when it was first published, it was known as the Official Gazette of the Executive Departments of the City of Boston.

The paper was edited under the direction of the Board of Municipal Statistics, Edward M. Hartwell, Secretary, in the old City Hall on School Street, and was capably printed (as it is today) by members of the City of Boston Printing Section, under the expert direction of Superintendent Joseph Toto, Sr. In the old days (1898) a single copy of the paper was only 5 cents and a yearly subscription $2. If one would compare the present-day cost (15 cents per single copy or $5 per year) he would realize the city has been quite fair to its subscribers by not increasing the cost of the publication, nor does it intend to at this time.

Insurance . . .

manageable losses. The most sophisticated insurance purchasers will buy coverage only for unexpected catastrophies, paying for smaller losses out of their pockets.

Taking deductibles and doing without unnecessary coverages can save you plenty of money. In the new readable policy form, the coverages have been renamed to make their titles more descriptive. Below is a summary of the ten principal coverages with a discussion of some of the things to consider when you decide how much, if any, of each coverage to buy.

Part 1: Bodily Injury to Others.

This part is compulsory. It provides up to $5,000 per person and $10,000 per accident of bodily injury liability coverage. It pays amounts for which you are legally liable to others injured in Massachusetts, except guests in your car. You have no choices to make in buying this coverage. Higher limits, which most drivers should purchase, are available under Part 5 of the policy.

Part 2: Personal Injury Protection.

This part is compulsory. But you may decide to take a deductible with it. It is best known as "No-Fault" coverage and, briefly stated, it pays medical expenses and 75% of lost wages for anyone injured in your car or struck by your car, up to $2,000 per person. You can cut the cost of this coverage by taking a deductible which waives all or part of the $2,000 coverage for yourself or for yourself and members of your household. You will get a small cost reduction with a $500 deductible and a larger one with the full $2,000 deductible. If you and the members of your household have other means of securing medical expenses and salary continuation, you should consider taking the full deductible.

Part 3: Bodily Injury Caused by an Uninsured Auto.

This part is compulsory. It protects you, your family or any guest in your car against injury caused by an uninsured vehicle. Minimums of $5,000 per person and $10,000 per accident are required and they are all most drivers need. If you frequently travel out of state, though, you should consider the optional higher limits.

Part 4: Damage to Someone Else's Property.

This part is compulsory. It covers property damage, including damage to automobiles, caused by your car. It never covers your own property and pays only when the driver of your car is found to have been at fault. The required limit is $5,000. Your decision is whether to purchase optional higher limits. Given today's high new car prices and repair costs, a limit of $10,000 is a reasonable choice.

Part 5: Optional Bodily Injury to Others.

This coverage extends the Part 1 protection to injuries occurring elsewhere in the U.S. and Canada and injuries to guests in your car. It also provides higher than the minimum liability limits for Massachusetts accidents. This is one place where many drivers are underinsured. Limits of $100,000 per person, $300,000 per accident make good sense.

Part 6: Medical Payments.

This optional coverage gives extra protection for medical expenses after your Part 2 limits are used up. It does not cover the wage losses covered by Part 2. It is not worth buying if you and your family have adequate medical insurance already.

Part 7: Bodily Injury Caused by an Underinsured Auto.

This optional coverage protects your family and guests occupying your car if injuries are caused by a driver without the resources or adequate insurance to pay for the damages. If you feel that you have enough medical and disability insurance through other policies, there is no reason to buy additional protection here.

Parts 8 and 9: Collision and Limited Collision Coverage.

The most difficult choice you face in buying auto insurance is how much accident protection to buy for your own car. You can follow any one of three different approaches. You can buy Collision Coverage, which pays for damage to your car beyond your deductible no matter who was at fault. You can buy Limited Collision Coverage, which covers the damage beyond any deductible you select only if another auto was at fault and its owner can be identified. Or you can buy neither kind of coverage and then use your right to sue to protect against having to pay for damage someone else causes.

Buying Collision Coverage is the most expensive choice because it pays without regard to the circumstances of the accident. The cost varies widely depending on the value of your car, but it is always high. For drivers with good driving records or with cars in worse than average condition, Collision Coverage is statistically unlikely to be worth the cost. Buy it only if you feel you really need the fullest protection possible or if it is required because the vehicle is financed. Remember that a tax deduction may be available if you have an uninsured loss.

No one should buy Collision Coverage without a sizeable deductible. As an example, in 1978, Collision Coverage with a $100 deductible for a 1977 Ford Pinto garaged in Central Boston cost $308. With standard $200 deductible, the cost was $268.

A rate of $4 per inch of 12 lines (set solid) has been established for such advertisements as under the law must be printed in the City Record. Advertising and other copy must, except in emergencies, be in hand at the City Record office by noon, Monday of each week to insure its publication in the following Monday's issue.

In other words, you would have paid $40 up front to get $100 more in the event of an accident. For most people, this is a dubious deal. If you feel you must take Collision Coverage, you should look into taking a deductible higher than the standard $200. Companies will offer large discounts for taking a $500 deductible.

Buying Limited Collision Coverage makes good sense for drivers with better than average records. Remember, it does not pay for one car accidents or hit-and-runs, but it will help you collect for most other accidents in which you were not principally at fault. If the value of your car is low enough that you can afford to absorb the cost of any damage you cause to your car, Limited Collision is a sound purchase whatever your driving record may be. Limited Collision is much cheaper than full Collision. Its cost with a $200 deductible in 1978 was less than $20 for an average vehicle. It pays for 100% of your damage even if you were partially to blame for the accident.

If you purchase neither Collision nor Limited Collision, you are simply on your own. You can either file a claim against another driver's liability insurer or you can sue for damage caused to your car, but you will not be entitled to help from your insurance company. If your car is worth practically nothing, if you don't mind going to court, or if you feel that you lead a charmed life, this is your best choice.

My recommendation for most drivers would be Limited Collision. Paying out of your own pocket and taking a tax deduction for the damage you cause will be far cheaper in the long run than paying for the average driver's damage plus all the insurance company's expenses.

Part 10: Comprehension Coverage.

This optional coverage is for theft losses, fire or vandalism losses, and other losses not caused by a collision. For most drivers it is second only to Collision Coverage in cost. You can buy Comprehensive Coverage for the actual value of your car based on its cost to you and its condition at the time of loss; or you can buy it for an agreed value fixed in advance by you and the insurance company. If you can afford to pay without insurance for whatever may happen to your car, consider doing without Comprehensive. If you do buy Comprehensive, you should probably take a deductible. The standard $200 deductible is always cheaper than $100 deductible coverage and a $500 deductible can save you more than 20 percent of the standard coverage cost.

Discounts of 5 percent to 15 percent are now available on Comprehensive Coverage for autos with suitable anti-theft devices. The savings make it well worth the effort to protect your car.

Conclusion

My term as Commissioner of Insurance concludes at the end of 1978. I hope that the Buyers Guides and the easy-to-read policy form have been helpful to you. It is important that you understand your automobile insurance. Not only does a full understanding allow you to save money when you select your coverages; it also helps create a reasonable public policy environment for insurance issues. Government, the private sector, and the driving public must work together to assure a fair and sensible insurance system. The more you know, the more constructive you can be.

James M. Stone,
Commissioner of Insurance.

TWO PLANETARIUM COURSES AT SCIENCE MUSEUM

Astronomy for junior high students and basic navigation for owners of small craft are offered in courses beginning January 6, at the Planetarium of Boston's Museum of Science.

The junior high students are served in Astro-Workshop, an activity oriented course, which features roundtable discussion and projects. Providing a general idea of astronomy, the course includes star-mapping, building a spectro-scope, and designing a telescope. The students use Planetarium equipment and see films of celestial objects.

Opening January 6, the course runs for ten Saturday mornings, from 9:30 to 10:30. The fee is $35 with a discount of $5 for Family and Contributing Members.

Basic Navigation is an adult course presenting navigation methods especially suited to boating along the coast in small craft. It is designed for those who want to understand the navigation process as well as to be able to navigate. It is required for the Planetarium's spring course in Celestial Navigation.

The course is given eight Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30. It starts January 10. The fee is $40, also with a discount of $5 for Family and Contributing Members.

To register, call the Planetarium registrar at 723-2500, ext. 291.

MAYOR MEETS WITH PRESIDENT CARTER: ARGUES CITIES' CASE

Mayor Kevin H. White led a delegation of Democratic mayors to the White House meeting with President Carter on December 20, to argue against proposed federal budget cuts affecting public service manpower and employment programs.

Mayor White, president of the National Conference of Democratic Mayors, said "Those cuts, recommended to the President by the Office of Management and Budget, could spell genuine hardship for America's cities."

Mayor White added, "What those cuts would mean is simply this: if the President cuts back the federal funding allocation to cities as recommended, cities must either reduce services or they must increase taxes."

Mayors joining Mayor White in arguing the case of the cities to the President were: Lee Alexander of Syracuse, Charles Royer of Seattle, Maynard Jackson of Atlanta, Coleman Young of Detroit, Henry Maier of Milwaukee, and Ernest Morial of New Orleans.

MASSACHUSETTS REALTORS: YEAR-END REPORT

"The momentum of this year's high demand for housing, coupled with creative financing techniques, should be enough to carry the real estate industry through a possible recession in the first half of 1979," according to a year-end report on residential housing by the president of the Massachusetts Association of Realtors.

"The year 1978 is going to be a hard act to follow," said Earl A. LaFlamme, Jr., GRI of Holyoke, outgoing president of the 9,500-member real estate professional organization. "We closed out 1977 by breaking all records in Multiple Listing Service sales statewide — with total dollar volume climbing over the billion dollar mark. We expect to surpass even that by the end of 1978.

"Even with climbing interest rates and tight money supply, demand for housing has remained quite high," explained LaFlamme. "By mid-year, it was obvious that demand was in fact outpacing supply of homes, not only in Massachusetts but across the nation. It was solidly a 'seller's market.' We expect that this momentum of high demand should prevent a housing crunch through the first six or seven months of the economic slowdown predicted for next year."

He noted three reasons that demand for housing in Massachusetts has remained high. "First, there is the desire to satisfy the American dream of home ownership. Then, there is a 'Buy Now While You Still Can' feeling that interest rates won't go down that much, while the cost of housing will continue to appreciate.

"Accordingly," said LaFlamme, "Bay Staters realize that home ownership is a time-proven hedge against continuously inflating cost of living. It's a darned good investment for all segments of society."

He also addressed warnings that median-income families can no longer afford median-priced homes. "Generally speaking, that's true," admitted LaFlamme, "but then, according to a recent study done by Data Resources, Inc., in Lexington, the median-income families have never been able to afford the median-priced houses. Instead, such a family typically buys a house priced below the median and then later trades up."

In predicting a good year for housing in 1979, LaFlamme noted some necessary factors in being able to avoid a recession crunch.

"First, everyone must keep their heads. The severity of this predicted economic slowdown to a great degree depends on attitude. A widespread fear of recession could itself cause a more severe slackening of the economy than it should be. Certainly, it will not approach the degree of 3-4 years ago.

"Secondly, Government should get itself out of competition with the banks," suggested LaFlamme. "Those higher interest Treasury bills have threatened 'disintermediation' in many banks (depositors withdrawing funds to put into the Treasury bills). Thus less money was available for mortgages.

"Then, the Fed allowed banks to get back into the competition for depositors' funds with the federally-sanctioned, six-month certificates at an even higher rate. This could be called 'intra-transfuduciation', where a bank must pay a higher rate to keep depositors' money it already had. The net result is lowered profits and necessarily higher and higher interest rates for consumers on such things as mortgage loans.

Lastly, LaFlamme challenged bankers and realtors across the state to be creative in financing and satisfying housing needs. "Banks should be willing to experiment with such things as 'variable interest rates at longer mortgage durations, graduated payment mortgages for young families, etc. And real estate professionals must stay up-to-date on new ways to help buyers and sellers."

He noted "an enormous potential" for real estate on a long-range basis. LaFlamme pointed out that the number of persons of typical home-buying age (25-30) will peak through the 1980s. Some 42-million persons will reach age 30 between 1980 and 1990.

Figures from the Mass. Office of State Planning projects a need for 2,310,000 by 1985 and 2,480,000 by 1995. By the end of 1978, there will be roughly 2,100,000 homes in Massachusetts (divided half and half between single- and multi-family units).

And finally, LaFlamme noted that "our country is still considered a 'best deal' according to investors throughout the world. Massachusetts itself remains attractive with its culture, recreation, education, health facilities, climate, and historical offerings.

"There are great years ahead of us in real estate," concluded LaFlamme, "particularly for those who stay on top of current events. But we must have faith in some of the principles that have made this country strong — namely free enterprise and private property rights."

The Association's 1979 president will be John M. Peckham of Data Realty, Boston.

HMO STUDY PROGRAM

Mayor announces city, health centers and Blue Shield to study HMO Program in Boston.

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced that the city, its neighborhood health centers, and Blue Shield of Massachusetts will study establishing a Health Maintenance Organization (HMO) Program in Boston neighborhoods.

The study will be funded by a $381,753 grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

If found feasible, the program — which provides comprehensive health care to members for a fixed monthly fee — will be initiated at seven neighborhood health centers.

Mayor White said, "For the first time, the public and private sectors are pooling their resources in an attempt to establish a health maintenance organization which can provide affordable and easily accessible health care to inner-city residents.

"Included would be not just residents who are employed or basically healthy, but also the elderly and indigent, who most need access to good and personalized health care," the Mayor said.

John Larkin Thompson, president of Blue Shield, emphasized that the HMO is only at the stage of being a feasibility study. There are many legitimate concerns to be addressed before anyone can say whether the health plan will become a reality.

"I would like to praise the Affiliated Neighborhood Health Centers of Boston for their partnership in this feasibility study. Their expertise in meeting the needs of residents will be vital in designing a nationally-important innovation in health care delivery," Thompson said.

People living in the areas of each of the city's seven affiliated neighborhood health centers and Boston City Hospital would be the initial population invited to join, should the health plan become a reality. The areas are: South Boston Neighborhood Health Center, East Boston Neighborhood Health Center, Dorchester Neighborhood Health Center, Harvard Street Health Center, Uphams Corner Neighborhood Health Center, Charles Drew Family Life Center, and Whittier Street Health Center.

Plans include the creation of an advisory council including representatives of the state medicaid agency, regional medicare office, and potential subscribers.

Should the study show that the health maintenance organization is feasible, it has been proposed that it be named the Boston Community Health Plan (BCHP). The health maintenance organization would not affect the delivery of health care in the neighborhood centers to persons who are not plan members.

Study funds from the federal government will be supplemented with funds from the City of Boston Department of Health and Hospitals and Blue Shield of Massachusetts. The federal funds will emphasize studying the Title 18 and 19 recipients' receptivity to receiving health services in a pre-paid system of care.

The plan would be the first health maintenance organization in the country to market its services to the medically underserved as well as to more traditional health markets. Studied will be the feasibility of marketing the plan to six separate groups. They are: Medicare recipients (Title 18), Medicare recipients (Title 19), medically underserved residents, municipal employees, federal employees, and current Blue Cross and Blue Shield subscribers.

SCIENCE MUSEUM: RECORD BREAKING ATTENDANCE

Boston's Museum of Science announces record-breaking attendance and income gains in its recently issued 1977-78 Annual Report.

Museum Director Bradford Washburn said the Museum continued to draw more people than any local, fee-charging attraction — except the Red Sox. Last fiscal year's 976,000 visitors, up 12.3 percent over the previous year, brought to 13½ million the number that have come to the Museum since it opened at Science Park 27 years ago. (The 14-millionth was recorded in November of the current fiscal year.)

In commenting on income and fund-raising, President Mark C. Wheeler noted in the report that the Trustees voted in the spring to begin construction on a Hall of Energy, with the plan of raising the necessary funds while construction is under way. A letter accompanying the report states that $1.5 million must be raised in the next ten months to avoid borrowing.

Wheeler said the Museum received $2,632,000 in gifts and pledges for the 1977-78 period. The bulk of that amount went toward the goals of the 150th Anniversary Campaign, to be concluded in 1980. A major impetus was provided, he said, by the receipt of two federal challenge grants. Response to these brought in 2,000 gifts, including donations from 709 new supporters. Since May, 1975, when the campaign started, the Museum has raised more than $7 million toward its $10 million goal.

The Charles Hayden Planetarium also experienced record-breaking attendance, the report said. More than 400,000 people, some 28 percent above the previous year, saw the programs. Another 108,159 attended the evening Laser Magic shows.

School group visits were high, with 200,654 children coming in 4,044 class groups both from Massachusetts and other states.

The Education Department presented a series of special programs for Boston's McKay and Philbrick Schools and broadened ongoing programs with the Roxbury and Charlestown Boys' Clubs.

Among new exhibits installed, the Annual Report called attention to the one on Vesuvius, arranged as a back-up of the exhibit on Pompeii at the Museum of Fine Arts. The cooperative effort included a reciprocal admission for the two institutions' members, the first such arrangement between art and science museums.

BOSTON POLICE REPORT

Boston Police have announced that as a result of their intense traffic enforcement campaign during the week of December 1, 1978, to December 7, 1978, 2,516 citations were issued for various moving vehicle violations and 54 violators arrested.

Since the campaign was launched by Mayor Kevin H. White and Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan on September 6, 1977, 151,812 citations have been issued.

The enforcement has been directed to priority violations of speeding, failure to stop at red lights, stop signs, illegal turns, driving to endanger, and driving while intoxicated.

The Registry of Motor Vehicles inspectors, along with members of the Boston Police Mobile Operations Patrol, issued 1,670 citations of the weekly total.

In addition, Boston Police in the 11 districts and the Tactical Patrol Force issued, 846 citations during this period and made 54 arrests.

U.S. POSTAL SERVICE INTRODUCES COMPUTERIZED POSTAGE METER RESETTING

The U.S. Postal Service and Pitney Bowes today unveiled a new system which enables companies to reset their postage meters by a telephone-to-computer link-up.

Pitney Bowes calls the new system, which it developed, the Remote Meter Resetting System. It will be introduced in early 1979.

Customers will be able to reset postage meters in their own offices by means of a telephone call to a computer center, eliminating trips to the post office for meter resetting. Funds for resetting additional postage are predeposited in a trustee bank account.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger said that computerized meter resetting systems offer distinct benefits for the postal customer and the Postal Service.

"This computerized meter resetting system will provide added convenience to the mailer, who no longer will have to take his meter to the post office periodically for resetting. It will allow the Postal Service to reduce its cost associated with meter setting," Mr. Bolger said.

The system is expected to accelerate the collection of payments for meter postage. In 1977, $6.1 billion of Postal Service revenue was collected through postage meter settings.

Pitney Bowes said its RMRS system represents the most dramatic breakthrough in postage meter technology since it pioneered the metered mail system in 1920.

"Postal Service approval was granted on the basis of two years of field tests at customer sites, laboratory analysis of the RMRS meter, and a review of our funds-transfer procedures," Fred T. Allen, chairman and president of the business systems and equipment company, said. He explained that before postage meters are approved by the Postal Service, they must meet stringent requirements for reliability and fool-proof operation to protect postal revenues.

"The RMRS system represents the first successful attempt to link the familiar postage meter with computer technology," Mr. Allen said.

To reset a meter under the RMRS system, the meter user telephones the Pitney Bowes computer center and enters the required code information as requested by a voice response activated by the computer. If the data is accurate and acceptable, the user is then issued a unique resetting number which activates a special unlocking mechanism and permits crediting of the meter with a specified amount of postage.

Postage continues to be paid to the Postal Service as it has in the past. Funds deposited by customers in the trustee accounts will be transferred to the Postal Service Federal Reserve account on a daily basis to cover meter resettings. Postage meters for the new system have been designed for single and multiple increments of $200 and $2,000.

Pitney Bowes plans to introduce its RMRS system in other countries when post office approvals are obtained and the necessary equipment manufactured. A field test of the system is being planned for 1979 in the United Kingdom.

"BLAKE ESTATES" PLANNED FOR HYDE PARK

The Boston Redevelopment Authority held a public hearing December 14 on a proposal to build 175 units of elderly housing on the former Allis-Chalmers manufacturing plant near Cleary Square.

At the conclusion of the hearing the BRA board voted to recommend that the Authority's legal department draft a decision to approve the project.

Redevelopment of the Allis-Chalmers site for elderly housing is a component of the Hyde Park portion of The Boston Plan, a $500-million economic development program launched in 1977 by Mayor Kevin H. White.

Mayor White, in praising the BRA's action, said, "This development is an important step forward in our program for Hyde Park. Public investment, through The Boston Plan, is intended to spur new investment in our neighborhoods. New housing on this site will undoubtedly have a spin-off effect in terms of future revitalization for Cleary Square."

The elderly housing proposal was made by the Beacon Companies, a development firm which has constructed several office buildings in downtown and also developed the Georgetowne apartment complex in Hyde Park. The firm has received financing commitments for the elderly units from the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency and section 8 rental subsidies from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Strong support for the proposal was voiced by a number of long-time Hyde Park residents. Supporters cited the need for more elderly housing in Hyde Park and the improvements which would result from redevelopment of the vacant land.

Opposition for the proposal centered on the possible increase in traffic flow due to the new development.

BRA Director Robert J. Ryan said "This proposal addresses a real housing need in Hyde Park. This will also complement the revitalization activities under way in Cleary Square. An unsightly area on one of Hyde Park's main arteries will be eliminated and in its place there will be well-designed and attractive housing for elderly residents."

In urging the BRA approval of the project, Ryan added that there was a possibility housing subsidies might not be available in the future to carry out a project of this type.

The housing complex will be a low-rise building, two and one-half stories in height. The area near Mother Brook will be landscaped and a public scenic area created. All units will be one-bedroom and will contain closed-circuit television and an intercom system.

The development will be named "Blake Estates" in honor of Alpheus P. Blake, one of the 20 original founders of Hyde Park over a century ago.

Architects for the project are Paul Belluschi Associates and Jung-Brannen Associates.

T'S "CAR FREE" NOW AVAILABLE

If you're looking for a good book, then "Car-Free in Boston" may be the answer. The second edition of the popular user's guide to public transportation sells for only $1.95 and is currently available at bookstores, newsstands and other outlets throughout the Greater Boston area.

Published by the Association for Public Transportation, the new "Car-Free in Boston" has been expanded to 128 pages of information on how to get to over 1,000 locations in and around Greater Boston by bus, train, and ferry. It also contains 20 maps including a removable full-color MBTA system map, diagrams of all trolley and rapid transit lines and information on all 177 MBTA bus routes.

"Car-Free" also tells people how to get to stores, theaters, concert halls, museums, sports arenas, and dozens of other places using public transportation. Also included in the new guide is a listing of all MBTA buses serving Boston's new Downtown Crossing — the car-free shopping district.

"Another important aspect of 'Car-Free' says Editor Gordon Levin, 'is a questionnaire asking for comments and suggestions. We want to make the book the most comprehensive and most useful guide possible and we depend on our readers to help us.'"

The first edition of "Car-Free in Boston" sold over 20,000 copies and elicited comments and inquiries about the book from transit operators throughout North America. The new guide has a green cover and measures approximately 4½ inches by 8¼ inches — small enough to fit easily in a handbag or pocket.

The Association for Public Transportation, publishers of "Car-Free in Boston", is a non-profit, tax-exempt organization dedicated to education of the public on issues affecting public transportation.

Labor Relations Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston, I request your written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertising and to award to Holtz and Drachman, attorneys at law, 185 Devonshire Street, Boston Mass., a contract to supervise and direct all labor relations matters dealing with the Boston Teachers Union and BASAS, including contract negotiations and the preparation thereof; investigation of contract grievances and conferences on grievance disposition; the preparation and presentation of grievance arbitrations; proceedings before the State Labor Relations Commission; and court proceedings, in the amount of $60,000 for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

Since the services to be provided under the proposed contract are both professional and confidential in nature, and due to the experience of Holtz and Drachman in labor negotiations, it is the view of the Boston School Committee that publicly inviting proposals would serve no useful purpose.

Transcription Services

Dear Mayor White:

The School Committee of the City of Boston request your authorization for the awarding of a contract, without public advertising, to Mary E. Ford, 30 Federal Street. This contract is for transcribed records of the proceedings of the School Committee, during the period July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978. The total cost of this contract will not exceed $40,000.

This work has been performed by Mrs. Ford since 1977, and for many years before that, she and her husband had been providing this service to the School Committee without a contract. Mrs. Ford has done an excellent job doing this kind of work that many stenotypists are not willing to do.

Because of the professional and personal nature of the stenographic services to be provided and reasonable cost, it is the opinion of the School Committee that advertising would serve no useful purpose.

I regret the delay in submitting this contract for processing. We were notified by the City Auditor last fall that no further payments for this service would be made until a contract had been drawn up and approved. There followed discussions with Mrs. Ford as to the wording of the contract. After agreement was reached the contract was inadvertently placed in the wrong file in this office and was not brought to the School Committee until March of this year. The School Committee then raised questions concerning the amount of this contract, and after making inquiries among others who do this type of work the Committee agreed that the amount was justified.

Very truly yours,

Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

The apartment was vacant, but the landlord was fussy about who it was rented to. One day, a young chap appeared. "Any children, radios, phonographs, cats, dogs, or pets of any kind?" asked the landlord.

"No," the young man answered. "But I think I ought to warn you that I have a fountain pen that scratches a little."

CITY RECORD

KEVIN H. WHITE
MAYOR OF BOSTON

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE, MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

JOSEPH M. TIERNEY
PRESIDENT, CITY COUNCIL

VOL. 71

MONDAY, JANUARY 8, 1979

NO. 2

MAYOR DELIVERS ANNUAL ADDRESS

Mayor White cites housing, education and tax reform as 1979 priorities; creates Blue Ribbon Panel to study public housing problems.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on January 2, cited neighborhood housing, education, and tax reform as his administration priorities for 1979, and urged all Bostonians to contribute to the public debate on these questions as the city nears the end of the decade.

In an optimistic "State of the City" address before the Boston City Council, Mayor White seized the lead in shaping that debate by announcing the creation of a blue ribbon panel to examine the problems confronting public housing in the city, and the impact of court-ordered supervision upon the Boston Housing Authority.

That panel, to be named later this month, will be composed of experts in such fields as constitutional law, management, social policy, and neighborhood needs. It's scheduled to report its findings and recommendations for action to Mayor White by May.

Mayor White also vowed to continue his active campaigning for tax reform for Boston, and promised a petition drive to gather 50,000 signatures by May 15 in support of tax reform measures proposed by Governor-elect Edward J. King.

Citing Boston's successful support of the tax classification amendment last fall, Mayor White added, "At no time in three centuries has the question of taxes had such an impact on public reaction as it did in 1978. It changed outlooks. It changed the public debate. It changed public opinion, and it changed public officials in wholesale numbers."

Mayor White said that any meaningful solution to Boston's property tax woes must be predicated upon:

- a greater tax base for Boston. The city can no longer solely rely on the property tax.
- reduction of the property tax level. Taxes are simply too high.
- equalization of assessments across the city. The classification amendment has provided the framework for that to become a reality.

Mayor White's plans for education on his 1979 agenda center around rebuilding public confidence in the Boston School System.

"To bring about such confidence we must produce students who are fully prepared upon graduation for further higher education or for work, whichever they choose. Right now, less than a third of our students go to college. This is a record that can and must be improved.

For the Boston students who are not college-bound, the city's innovative Project YES, a federal job program, provides the incentive to stay in school while also paying students to acquire a productive skill. Mayor White also announced continued federal funding for that program through 1980 in his "State of the City Address."

But the key to restoring public confidence in the schools, according to the Mayor, is the end of the federal presence in the Boston school system.

"The emergency conditions that warranted federal court presence no longer exist. Now, at last, we have a superintendent fully deserving of the court's confidence as well as the public's. It is time for the court to wind down its involvement, and close the final chapter on a most difficult time in this city's history."

Mayor White struck an upbeat tone as he described the fresh vitality apparent in the city's neighborhoods.

"People are fixing up their homes in Mission Hill, in West Roxbury, in Dorchester, in East Boston. Business districts have come alive. Property values are up. Health services are increasingly accessible and affordable. Unlike any other major city in the country, our neighborhoods are now beginning to see young families moving back into Boston — and making a commitment to stay here."

To buttress his contention, Mayor White revealed that "In thirty days I will present to the public documentary proof of this dramatic change." That proof will be the result of a recently conducted poll of the attitudes and views of the people in the city's neighborhoods.

The past year has been an extraordinary one for the city.

In last year's state of the city speech, Mayor White promised:

— that within two years, the city would go forward with the San Marco Housing Project. Within one year, the project has already been dedicated.

— that within two years, hundreds of jobs would be created at the Marine Industrial Park. Within a year, there are 1,000 new jobs there.

— that within two years there would be a new police station in West Roxbury. Construction will begin in the spring.

— that within two years the city would begin rehabilitation of housing on Peterborough Street. That has been done in less than a year.

— that within two years the city would construct a park on Sumner Street in East Boston. That park is three-quarters complete and should be open in early spring.

— that within two years the Charlestown Navy Yard would reopen, creating jobs, housing, and economic growth. The project is ready to go.

— and that tax increases would be limited to the inflation rate. The tax rate was held this year, and for the first time in history, the city was also able to announce a steady rate for next year.

Mayor White said, "So, as this decade winds to a close, we can be proud of our accomplishments. But in a year we will have a new decade with new problems — new issues to be resolved. And government cannot always start by meeting goals. Sometimes, it first must raise the right questions, knowing not what the answers might be, but determined to find out."

NEIGHBORHOOD EVOLUTION: A CLOSER LOOK

Part III

As part of its continuing work on the evolution of city neighborhoods, the Parkman Center has studied patterns of middle class resettlement in the urban core. A recent Parkman House conference brought together a group of young professional newcomers to discuss the reasons for their choice and their feelings about city life. Soon afterward, Parkman Center staff visited a number of other cities to supplement findings in Boston.

The following report is an effort to present issues that emerge from this new migration and to encourage discussion about a trend of apparently increasing significance. Emphasis here falls on Boston, but in its essentials the report should be relevant to developments in several American cities. Numerically the new migrants may be few; in what they may portend for a potentially much greater shift in locational preference, they deserve notice from a national perspective.

The New Migrants

Long-time residents of older urban neighborhoods are sometimes annoyed to hear that their communities have been "discovered" by young professional newcomers. The fact is, however, that such people — whether they are architects, planners, professors, journalists or whatever else — in a sense can claim to be discoverers, since what is new to them often has a way of seeming new to society at large.

They are sometimes called "trendies." It is not a bad tag. With generous options in where and how they live, with an edge in their ability to communicate tastes and values, they can influence public perceptions of what is desirable simply by talking to one another — and thus in the course of time to the media.

If a "rediscover the city" movement is to amount to much, an adventurous middle class subset of the baby boom generation will be on its leading edge. There are several reasons for this. One is that a tolerance toward or even a desire for a degree of cultural and racial heterogeneity seems most marked among this group. Another reason is that, as trend-setters, such people are alert to city options (a new interest in old houses, for instance), while the bulk of society remain fixed on a suburban ideal. Still another reason is that with relatively high earning power, they can find ways to "live around" such urban difficulties as poor public education; and if they cannot, they have the means to leave them behind rather quickly.

They are much more important in the long run than older and very affluent returnees from the suburb who will gravitate toward fortresses of condominiums and luxury rental towers. Young professional urban settlers are more important because of the large household-forming peer group on whom they will exercise a taste-making influence.

Individual cities and metropolitan areas have been conscious of the young professional phenomenon occurring within their own boundaries, in some cases for a decade or more. A national awareness, of the phenomenon, however, and its possible consequences for urban evolution, is just developing. That awareness will grow as more instances are noticed. Just a few examples of established or emerging settlements in older cities are Trenton Place in Wilmington, Society Hill in Philadelphia, South Baltimore and Charles Village in Baltimore, Mt. Adams, as well as parts of Hyde Park and Mt. Auburn in Cincinnati, the Central West End and Lafayette Square in St. Louis, Hyde Park in Chicago, Noe Valley in San Francisco, and even a formerly run-down rooming house area of old German mansions in San Antonio.

In Boston, young middle-class immigrants no longer live just on Beacon Hill and in the Back Bay (where they are no novelty), or even in Charlestown and the South End, but now also in the nineteenth century streetcar suburbs of Dorchester and Jamaica Plain and West Roxbury. Several of these neighborhoods, or parts of them, once had but largely lost a professional presence. That presence is now reappearing as a more broadly defined professional class "reclaims" areas of past gentility.

The term "young professional" is obviously imprecise. Neither it nor "intellectual" — a term also used — will do at all for the purposes of a social taxonomy. The possible quibbles over who is or is not a young professional are infinite. However, one can point with confidence to an emerging group whose class characteristics are quite distinguishable, in gross, from those of the majority of their urban neighbors.

While the people at issue have respectable to quite impressive incomes for the most part, income by itself is not the final test of their identity. Many blue-collar workers do as well. While higher education is a common feature, and while values, tastes and attitudes attributable to prolonged schooling are often conspicuous, a college degree is not the invariable sign. Nevertheless, superior income and education combine to help identify the type.

Although there are exceptions, many of the young professionals are indeed young — that is to say in their twenties and thirties — for the obvious and extremely significant reason that they are a part of the population bulge moving through the age profile of American society.

The great majority are white, with their black counterparts more apt to be migrating toward the suburbs. This appears to be true even in cities with a substantial older black middle class. Single-member households are common, often as a result of separation and divorce. For that matter, the trend toward episodic marriage may be an increasingly important factor as a second or third round of mate selection draws the newly single toward a pool of the unattached. Also common are childless couples, couples with young children, and homosexuals. Homosexuals, it has been observed, may play a part in the "regentrification" of declining urban areas well out of proportion to their numbers.

It is frequently the case that young professional migrants have come from outside the city, the state or even the region where they are presently living, and the experience of living in a variety of places is a common part of their life histories. Particularly common is prior urban experience, often during college or graduate school years.

How are young professional city dwellers different from suburbanites like them in education, occupation and income? "We're more interesting," said a young St. Louis woman, quite simply. Or again, "I'd say we were more concerned about intellectual things," remarked a woman in Boston's Back Bay. "We want to have seen the latest films. We want to know what people are reading."

A homeowner in a part of the city still marked by a good deal of blight presented it another way. "I don't go to the movies. I don't even read books much. I work on my house. As for people in the suburbs, I don't know many of them, but probably the difference between us is that I don't care about joining country clubs or things like that. I don't like to feel that I have to do anything to claim some kind of status."

"Why didn't I move to the suburbs?" A former New Yorker considered the question. "I don't know. For me, there is more freedom in the variety of the city. I want a racially and socially mixed neighborhood. It's the way I think this country has to go. To put it another way, I don't want to live with a collection of people who are just like I am professionally and socially. The friends I have tend to share those feelings."

A woman from Jamaica Plain emphasized escaping from the conventional "We wanted a house that wasn't like anybody else's house, that wouldn't be Levittown. It could have turned out to be an apartment over a store on Centre Street."

This might be seen as a way of asserting status by denying it, at least according to customary tokens. Somewhat in the same vein is the pleasure new city dwellers get out of having suburban friends hesitate about visiting "the city."

Whether the young professional emphasizes intellect ("the latest films"), or living style (bare brick, butcher block and hanging plants, for instance), or a Thoreauesque standing apart from convention, there are very often feelings of superiority toward his or her suburban counterparts. In this sense, at least for the duration of their time in the core city, young professionals identify themselves as part of an elite within the middle-class elite.

Such feelings, at times ambivalent, were expressed by the participants at the Parkman conference. The participants, both couples and single-member households, came from the South End, Roxbury, Dorchester and Jamaica Plain. Among them were an architect, two planners, an anthropologist, a child psychologist, a court officer, a crafts person, an environmentalist, an electrical engineer, and a graduate student working on a combined business and law degree. In age, they ranged from the early twenties through the late thirties. In length of residence, they had lived in their present neighborhoods from two months to seven years. Only two had been born in the Boston area (and had left it for a time), while more than half had come from outside the New England region. With one exception, all were homeowners.*

The first question discussed among them was the deceptively simple one, "Why do you live where you do?" Their answers follow some general observations about the new appeal of urban neighborhoods.

*The group specifically did not include persons of comparable age, income and occupation who grew up in Boston and have opted to stay in the city. While they share much with the conference participants, they also tend to be notably different, as for instance in their awareness of "secret" housing markets, their settlement patterns, and their attitudes toward local institutions. Some notes on this group are contained in an earlier unpublished Parkman report.

ENERGY AUDITS PROGRAM

DOE hearings on a proposed energy audits program could bring $17-million to New England.

The United States Department of Energy has scheduled three public hearings in January on proposed regulations to implement Energy Audits Grant Program for schools, hospitals, local government, and public care buildings.

The Energy Audits Program is mandated by the New National Energy Act and is part of a $900-million program, which under a proposed formula, would give some $17-million to New England.

The program also includes grants for technical assistance for installation of energy conservation systems in the four sectors of public and private non-profit buildings.

Energy audits examine hours of building operation, uses of various areas of the building, past energy use patterns and costs and types of windows. This information can be used to indicate methods for improved operation and may suggest areas which could benefit from installation of energy conservation devices.

Under proposed regulations, DOE's Office of the Assistant Secretary for Conservation and Solar Applications will provide grants to states and units of local government and public care institutions for energy audits of buildings constructed prior to April 20, 1977.

Harold J. Keohane, regional representative said, "the potential for fuel savings is greatest through conservation. The schools and hospitals program is directed toward facilities that are publicly used and supported. Any effort," said Keohane, "to hold down the increasing costs of the operation of these facilities will benefit all of us."

"I urge all concerned to review and comment on the proposed regulations."

The closest hearing to New England will be held in DOE's National Office, Room 3000A, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C., on January 8, 9, 10th. Other hearings on proposed regulations for the Audit Program will be held in San Francisco and Chicago.

The proposed regulations were issued in the Federal Register, December 12, 1978.

Individuals or groups wishing to testify at the hearings should call (202) 633-8608. Written comments should be sent to: Mr. Michael Wellingham, DOE Director, State Specific Programs, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Conservation and Solar Applications, Room 6454, Federal Building, 12th and Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C. 20461. Closing date for comment is January 12, 1979.

Copies of the Federal Register are available by writing to the DOE Region I Office, 150 Causeway Street, Room 700, Boston, Mass. 02114 or calling (617) 223-3106. Copies are also available from Mr. Wellingham at (202) 566-7276.

TIME AND ATTENDANCE

To: All Department Heads.

From: John E. Murphy, Jr.,
Supervisor.

A "year-at-a-glance" 1979 calendar must be used by all departments to record employee time and attendance records.

Department heads and supervisors shall ensure the monthly review of employee time and attendance practices. A progressive disciplinary action should be implemented when employees have exhibited "excessive or pattern" absenteeism. The Office of Labor Relations shall be informed of all cases involving proposed suspensions and will be available to provide advice in all other progressive disciplinary matters in accordance with the city-wide guidelines for disciplinary policy and practices.

Department heads are encouraged to review each employee's time and attendance practices and the time and attendance practices of a supervisor's work unit. The attendance review is normally performed in most departments, but it shall be utilized in all departments along with other criteria to ensure the selection of the most qualified candidate for promotion.

The Personnel Division will be implementing a Sick Leave Control Program within the next two months, and it will be ensuring conformance to existing established sick leave procedures and practices.

A supply of these calendars can be obtained in the Personnel Division, Room 612, Boston City Hall.

If you have any questions concerning these procedures, please contact Mr. John Boyle, Ext. 3366.

MAYOR'S APPOINTMENT

Mayor Kevin H. White has appointed Mrs. Evelyn Campbell assistant manager of the Roslindale Little City Hall.

Campbell, a life long Boston resident, lived in Roxbury prior to moving to Roslindale fifteen years ago. She has been extensively involved in community activities.

Prior to her appointment, Mrs. Campbell worked in the Roslindale Hall as a service coordinator. She also served as a part-time receptionist.

Said Mayor White, "Evelyn is a dedicated community resident. She is always concerned about Boston and her neighborhood. She brings sensitivity and know how with her and she isn't afraid to fight for what she believes."

Active in community service, Mrs. Campbell has worked on and directed a number of neighborhood projects. She has served as chairperson for the Archdale Task Force, as a board member for the Citywide Tenants Policy Council, as vice-president for the Roslindale Health Center and on the boards of Roslindale FIRST and the Roslindale Improvement Association.

Said Mrs. Campbell, "The Roslindale Little City Hall belongs to the people of our neighborhood. All of the staff are concerned about the needs and problems of our area. I look forward to continued service at the Hall."

Evelyn, mother of three boys, resides at 21 Granfield Avenue in Roslindale with her husband Thomas.

Doctor: "Well, well! You're certainly looking much better than I thought you would!"

Patient: That's probably because I followed the directions on that bottle of medicine you gave me."

Doctor: "Undoubtedly. What were they?"

Patient: "Keep bottle tightly corked."

Modern technology has brought us to the point where it now takes about ten times more gear for a cookout than the early settlers needed to conquer the wilderness.

BASKETBALL OFFICIALS: TAKE NOTE

The Boston Parks and Recreation Youth Basketball League will be starting another season soon. Persons interested in officiating must attend an officials' basketball clinic sponsored by the Boston Parks and Recreation Department. Each potential official should be a member of the International Association of Basketball Officials (I.A.B.O.) and have their card with them. The clinic will be held at the Tobin Gym, 1481 Tremont Street, Roxbury, on two evenings — Monday, January 8, 1979, and Wednesday, January 10, 1979, at 7:00 p.m., with an alternate date of Thursday, January 11, 1979, in case of inclement weather. Remember if you are at all interested in officiating at the Youth League game it is mandatory that you participate in the clinic. For more information please contact Dorothy M. Curran, director of recreation, at 725-4006.

DON'T BE "CONNED"

An illegal chain letter scheme that is apparently sweeping the nation is being investigated by Postal Inspectors because of numerous complaints, according to Chief Postal Inspector C. Neil Benson.

The chain, called the "Circle of Gold," is believed to have started about three months ago in Marin and Santa Cruz counties outside San Francisco, California.

Typically, the chain requires any participant to buy two copies of the letter for $100 in cash. The buyer in a face-to-face transaction gives $50 of the total to the person from whom the letter was purchased and sends the other $50 to the first person at the top of a 12-name list. This top name is then crossed off and the buyer's name is added at the bottom of each copy before it is sold again.

The scheme is similar to a Series "E" Savings Bond scheme popular during the summer of 1976.

"Aside from the fact that those who buy and sell the chain letter are actually in violation of a federal law," Chief Benson said, "the majority of those who become involved in this type of scheme end up as victims since actual profits from chain letters usually reach only those who enter the scheme early."

If the scheme involves the mailing of money, a bond or other valuable item, even if the chain letters themselves are not mailed, it is still a violation of federal law.

However, so-called chain letters offering nothing more than recipes or the like are considered to be mailable because the items mailed do not constitute "a thing of value" within the meaning of the applicable law. Postal cards involving a "good luck" chain containing a threat of bad luck to those who break the chain are, however, illegal under the law that prohibits placement of threatening matter on the outside of mail.

Chief Benson urged those who receive all chain letters to "turn them over promptly to any postmaster or Postal Inspector to avoid possible criminal involvement in the scheme, and to assist the Postal Service in its efforts to protect the public from this activity."

FREE CROSS-COUNTRY SKIING

Mayor Kevin H. White is pleased to announce the opening of the Boston Parks and Recreation's George Wright Golf Course, 420 West Street, Hyde Park, for cross-country skiing. Provided there's snow, the course will open on Saturday, January 6, 1979, and will continue to be opened every weekend from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. throughout the winter. There will be instruction available for the novice and a challenging five-mile course for the intermediate. For the convenience of the skiers and their friends, the Clubhouse at the George Wright will be opened weekends providing hot food and drink.

If you're interested in lessons or need directions to the course, call either Dorothy M. Curran, director of recreation, at 725-4006 or the staff at the George Wright Golf Course at 364-3179.

MAYOR NAMES GEORGE BENNETT TO HEAD EEPA

Mayor Kevin H. White has appointed George Bennett administrator of Boston's Employment and Economic Policy Administration.

Bennett, 61, had served as deputy commissioner for the Division of Employee Relations where he supervised the state's collective bargaining negotiations with all state employees since 1974.

Said Mayor White, "George Bennett brings to EEPA a breadth of experience in manpower programs which is hard to match. His understanding of the overall employment picture, and his proven administrative skills make him a great asset to Boston."

Admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in 1947, Bennett holds an AB from Harvard University, an LLB from Boston University Law School, and an LLM from Yale University Law School.

He brings to city government an impressive array of labor relations and manpower administration credentials.

Bennett served for two years as the deputy collective bargaining chief for the City of New York, and for 11 years as a government labor mediator for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. He also worked as an attorney-adviser in the legal services division of the U.S. Department of Labor for two years.

From 1966 to 1968, Bennett headed Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD), Boston's non-profit anti-poverty agency. As executive director, he was responsible for both program management and fiscal administration for a $15-million annual budget for education, day care, manpower, health, and legal services in Boston's neighborhoods.

Bennett, a Boston resident, has held a variety of manpower and labor relation consultant posts.

MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR., STAMP TO BE ISSUED IN ATLANTA

The U. S. Postal Service has announced that the 1979 commemorative stamp to honor civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., will be issued January 13 in Atlanta, Georgia.

The first day of issue ceremony for the 15-cent stamp honoring Dr. King will take place at the Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta.

Dr. King (1929-1968) played a major role in the civil rights activities of the 1960s. He received the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964 for his leadership of the nonviolent struggle for racial equality in the United States.

The Postal Service said that issuance of the King stamp on Saturday, January 13, will make it available at post offices nationwide on January 15, the 50th anniversary of Dr. King's birth.

The stamp honoring Dr. King is the second in the Black Heritage USA series that recognizes the contributions of Black Americans to the growth and development of the United States. The series began with the issuance of the Harriet Tubman commemorative stamp on February 1, 1978.

Orders should be addressed to "Martin Luther King Stamp Postmaster, Atlanta, GA 30304." The cost is 15 cents per stamp to be affixed to covers. Do not send cash. Personal checks in the exact amount will be accepted as remittance for orders up to the limit of 50 covers. Postage stamps are unacceptable as payment. Orders must be postmarked no later than January 29.

Personnel Order No. 78-302

The Boston Police Department Awards Board consisting of Deputy Superintendent Paul E. Johnson, Deputy Superintendent Anthony J. Leone, Deputy Superintendent James J. MacDonald, Lieutenant Joseph P. Sheridan and chaired by Captain Morris V. Allen, convened for the purpose of selecting officers who have distinguished themselves in the performance of duty so as to merit the award of the Schroeder Brothers Memorial Award, the Walter Scott Medal, the Department Medal of Honor, the William J. Taylor Meritorious Service Award and other awards.

After due deliberation, the Awards Board selected each of the following named officers as being entitled to the medals and awards designated.

The Schroeder Brothers Medal for Courageous Police Service, the Department Medal of Honor, the Boston Police Relief Association Memorial Award, the Thomas F. Sullivan Award, the Boston Bank Award.
To: Police Officer Paul Varley, District 13.

About 3:05 p.m., Tuesday, July 11, 1978, Officer Varley, off duty and in civilian clothes, was in the Shawmut Bank, 494 Gallivan Blvd., Dorchester, on personal business.

While at the window of Teller Three, he was informed that a man known to the female teller as a regular customer of the bank was being assaulted in the bank's parking lot. At that moment they both heard what sounded like a gun shot.

In complete disregard for his own personal safety, Officer Varley ran through the rear door and immediately observed a male being struck about the head with a firearm, by an unknown assailant, who then fired a shot at the victim.

While running to the aid of the victim, the officer heard another shot and observed another male go to the aid of the first assailant. Both men proceeded to assault the victim, who was now on the ground, in an effort to force the man to surrender three money bags he had in his possession.

The officer ran to the assault, yelling that he was a police officer, and the second assailant, now in possession of the money bags, seeing the officer, jumped backward, drew a small revolver from his belt and swung it toward the officer, who, at this time, dropped to one knee and fired one round from his own weapon and struck the assailant in the face, which caused him to fall to the ground and drop his weapon.

The wounded man then got up and ran to a sedan which had been parked in front of the drive-in teller's window. As he reached the car, he collapsed to the ground.

In the meantime, the other assailant had the victim lying on the ground with a gun to his head, and as Officer Varley approached, the culprit fired a shot at the officer from a distance of about ten feet. The officer dropped to the ground again, and fired one shot at the suspect who immediately fled the scene on foot with the officer in pursuit. The suspect ultimately eluded the officer on Gallivan Blvd., but was captured a short time later by Troopers Edward DeAngellis and Robert Zeph of the State Police and taken to the Carney Hospital, where he was positively identified as the assailant by the victim.

The victim meanwhile had retrieved the money bags and the weapon of the wounded suspect. When Officer Varley returned and approached him, he pointed the recovered weapon at the officer, thinking he was one of the assailants. The officer immediately identified himself and dropped his weapon to the ground, and the victim allowed Officer Varley to assist him into the bank.

The Walter Scott Medal of Honor, the Department Medal of Honor, the Boston Police Relief Association Memorial Award, the Thomas F. Sullivan Award, the Boston Bank Award.

To: Police Officers John J. Corboy and Robert D. Kyle, Towing Enforcement Unit.

About 3:15 a.m., Friday February 10, 1978, Officers Corboy and Kyle, assigned to the 17-4 car and cruising inbound on Washington Street, Jamaica Plain, observed flames coming from a three story frame dwelling located at 3510 Washington Street, with several of the occupants screaming for help.

The officers immediately notified Operations and jumped out of their vehicle, being met by an unknown female who informed them that there were two children trapped in a bedroom on the second floor. Both officers ran into the house, with Officer Corboy ascending the stairs to the second floor landing where he kicked open a door leading into the apartment and found the room engulfed in smoke and flames. He checked the back rooms but was unable to locate any bedrooms.

At the same time, Officer Kyle kicked in the door of the first floor apartment and roused eight to ten persons who had been asleep and escorted them to the street. He then joined Officer Corboy on the second floor and hearing a man screaming, made several attempts to force a closed and locked door. They were unable to enter the room and were forced to the street by the smoke and flames, making further attempt impossible. It was later learned that the male occupant leaped to safety from the window, landing in a snowbank.

When the officers got back to the street, they were again met by the unknown female who reiterated her claim that two small children were still trapped somewhere in the second floor apartment. Both officers again entered the building which by this time was totally engulfed in flames, and climbed to the second floor where they tried once more to open the locked door, without success. Officer Kyle finally was able to force one panel from the door and when that occurred, an explosion of dense smoke and flame blew both officers backward, causing them to strike their heads on the stairs and walls and rendering them unconscious. Both of the officers were ultimately dragged from the second floor landing by two civilians and removed to the Faulkner Hospital, where they placed on the critical list.

Unfortunately, two young children were reported missing from that address and presumed to be the victims of the fire, in spite of the heroic actions of the two officers.

The Department Medal of Honor, the Boston Police Relief Association Memorial Award, the Thomas F. Sullivan Award, the Boston Bank Award.

To: Police Officers Enrique D. Guevara and Dennis Ross, District Two.

About 3:56 a.m., Monday, January 30, 1978, Officers Guevara and Ross were on patrol in the 2-10 car, when at the intersection of Columbia Road and Geneva Avenue, they observed a 1971 brown Ford being operated by an unknown male and stopped at a red light. The operator was bent over, partially concealed, when the officers approached. As soon as the suspect looked up and saw the police car, he took off at a high rate of speed, with the officers in pursuit, until the vehicle went out of control at Devon and Vaughn Streets.

Both officers left their vehicle and approached the Ford; while doing so observed the operator take a gun from his belt and aim it at Officer Guevara. Officer Ross immediately yelled a warning to Guevara who fell to the ground and crawled back to the rear of the cruiser. The suspect, who had slid over to the passenger side, fired one shot at Ross from a distance of approximately eight feet and the officer dove to the rear of the police car.

At this time, the suspect was out of the vehicle and yelled at the officers, "Leave me alone; I don't want to hurt you!", and then fired again at the officers.

Both officers returned the fire and the suspect ran up Devon Street, into the alley behind a lounge where, after a call for assistance by the officers, he was found under a porch at 130 Devon Street, suffering from two gunshot wounds to the chest. A .22 caliber Derringer was found within arm's length of the suspect, along with a plastic bag containing eight rounds of .22 caliber ammunition and a box of .22 caliber cartridges.

Later investigation showed the Ford Pinto belonged to a woman in Jamaica Plain who was unaware that the vehicle had been stolen or the two guns. A second gun was found in the car, along with a total of $2,600.00 taken in a housebreak in Stoughton earlier.

The alertness, professionalism and courage shown by these two officers merit the awarding of the Department Medal of Honor.

The Department Medal of Honor, the Boston Police Relief Association Memorial Award, the Thomas Sullivan Award, the Boston Bank Award.

To: Sergeant John P. Meade and Police Officer Michael J. Carroll District One.

About 2:42 a.m., Wednesday, March 1, 1978, Sergeant Meade and Officer Carroll responded to 22 Phillips Street, Beacon Hill, on an alarm of fire. Upon arrival, they observed a five-story brick dwelling engulfed in flames and heavy smoke. Both officers immediately called for assistance and entered the building. On the first floor they found a male in a semi-conscious condition, overcome by dense smoke, and managed to carry him from the building.

After removing the victim, Officer Carroll was found to be suffering from smoke inhalation and was administered oxygen. After receiving the oxygen, the officers again entered the burning building and were able to assist five other occupants through the smoke and fire to the street and safety. Both officers then entered the adjoining building, heavily charged with smoke, and assisted ten to fifteen occupants out of that building to the street.

At this time, it was brought to the officers' attention that two occupants of the fifth floor of the burning building had fled the building by leaping from the roof of that building to the adjoining one, an abandoned synagogue, and were now unable to find a means of egress from the roof.

Sergeant Meade immediately forced open a steel lock on the front gate leading into the building, and after breaking the glass front window of the main door, entered, raced up the four floors to the roof and effectively led the two victims back down the four darkened stairway floors to safety.

The Department Medal of Honor, the Boston Police Relief Association Memorial Award, the Thomas F. Sullivan Award, the Boston Bank Award.

To: Police Officers Henry Keskula and Donald F. Holland, District Four.

About 6:25 p.m., Saturday, November 25, 1977, Officer Keskula was assigned a walking beat on Boylston Street, but dispatched to a leather goods store on Newbury Street, on a report of an armed robbery in progress. Upon arrival, he met Officer Holland, also dispatched from a walking beat.

Both officers entered the premises and observed a male standing in the center of the store with a number of pieces of leather goods under his left arm and with his right hand in his coat pocket.

At the same time, they observed the proprietor of the store standing at the rear and signalling that the suspect had a gun. The officers then ordered the suspect to take his hand out of his pocket and the suspect backed away, saying, "Don't be crazy. I have a gun on you and I'll blow you away."

Both officers simultaneously jumped on the suspect, and after a furious struggle, managed to subdue and handcuff him. A loaded 9mm Browning automatic hand gun was removed from the suspect's pocket.

The proprietor stated to the officers that the suspect had come into the store and pointed a gun at him and said: "Don't make any false moves or I'll blow you away. Where is the money?" He then took some cash and ordered the owner to remain still while he took some coats. It was while he was gathering the coats that the officers arrived.

There is no doubt that the arrival of the officers and their subsequent brave actions in subduing and disarming this violent suspect without personal injury to any of the parties involved in this hazardous situation, speaks well for both of these officers.

The Department Medal of Honor, the Boston Police Relief Association Memorial Award, the Thomas F. Sullivan Award, the Boston Bank Award.

To: Police Officer John A. Martel, District Three.

About 2:30 a.m., Thursday, December 15, 1977, while he was off duty and returning to his home from a first half tour of duty, Officer Martel observed what appeared to be a robbery in progress at the corner of Blue Hill Avenue and Morton Street. Officer Martel left his personal vehicle and asked the victim, a 58-year-old male, if he was all right. The man told the officer he had just been robbed at gunpoint by two males who were then running down Blue Hill Avenue.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

With complete disregard for his own safety, the officers pursued the suspects and captured them with drawn service revolver in front of 1154 Blue Hill Avenue. The victim's wallet, containing $75.00, was found in the pocket of one of the two 20-year-old robbers.

Both subjects had extensive criminal records. One was out on appeal from an armed robbery conviction and the other on an appeal from a larceny conviction.

The unselfish devotion to duty shown by the officer on his way home from a tour of duty, activating himself to fulfill his commitment as a sworn police officer, is truly deserving of this award.

The Department Medal of Honor, the Boston Police Relief Association Memorial Award, the Thomas F. Sullivan Award, the Boston Bank Award.

To: Police Officer George J. Lynch, Jr., District Four.

About 11:40 a.m., Thursday, April 6, 1978, while off duty, unarmed and in civilian clothes, Officer Lynch was standing in a teller's line at the First National Bank on East Berkeley Street.

While waiting, he observed a 29-year-old male, in a line adjacent to his, acting in a suspicious manner. The man would not allow anyone to stand behind him in the line, telling everyone that that window was closing. Upon reaching the teller's cage, he passed a note to the teller, informing her that this was a holdup and to pass all of her money out to him. The teller passed several stacks of bills out to him; he hastily scooped up the money, turned and headed out the door.

Officer Lynch, realizing that a holdup had just occurred, waited until the suspect had passed him and then jumped on him from behind, wrestling him to the floor, and at the same time, disarming him of a pocket knife he had been holding in his hand. Officer Lynch then restrained the suspect until the arrival of District Four units, who responded to the silent bank alarm.

The valor, initiative and professionalism of this officer is certainly worthy of this recognition.

About 3:40 a.m., Thursday, September 14, 1978, the B104 car, containing Officers Garcia and Matthews and cruising on Brunswick Street, Roxbury in the vicinity of 103 Brunswick Street, observed a heavy concentration of smoke billowing from a three-story home at that address.

The officers immediately contacted Operations and informed them of the situation, requesting that the Fire Department be alerted to the scene, fast becoming devastating. Flames were spurting through the windows of the house as well as from the basement windows.

The officers quickly entered the flaming building to rouse the occupants and proceeded to the third floor where, after banging desperately and receiving no answer, they kicked in the door. Upon entering the smoke-filled apartment, the officers searched through three rear bedrooms and found four females, woke them from a deep sleep, and led them to safety.

Following this, the officers then carried three more female children, nine, eight and three years old, to the street. This made a total of seven persons, all of whom were cared for by neighbors who welcomed the fire victims into their homes at the request of Officers Matthews and Garcia.

To: Detective John J. Mulligan, Police Officer Francis Tarantino, General Investigation Unit.

About 12:30 a.m., Wednesday, January 4, 1978, the 9-55 car with Detective Mulligan and Officer Tarantino responded to the Sunny Corner Farm store on West Newton Street on a report of a holdup.

While proceeding inbound on Mass. Avenue at the intersection of St. Botolph Street, the officers observed a gray A.M.C. Pacer sedan, with three males, being operated in an erratic manner. The officers contacted the dispatcher to determine whether or not he could furnish them with a vehicle description.

The 4-10 car, with Officers Heffel and Nave, who were then at the scene of the holdup, cut in on the call and stated that there was in fact a holdup and the persons responsible, armed with two handguns, had left the scene in the direction of Mass. Avenue in a late model gray A.M.C. Pacer sedan.

When the officers began to follow the Pacer, the occupants began to act suspiciously and the vehicle accelerated to a high rate of speed on Mass. Avenue, in the direction of Columbus Avenue.

The pursuit continued through several streets on the ice and snow-covered pavement, crashing into parked cars on Camden Street, finally coming to a stop in the middle of the street. As the officers were pursuing the vehicle, they were reminded again that the men were armed with two handguns and advised to exercise caution.

When the vehicle finally came to a stop, the three males jumped from the vehicle; the officers did likewise, calling to the suspects to stop and announcing their office. From a distance of twenty five feet, Detective Mulligan, having drawn his service revolver, warned the suspect to drop his gun.

It immediately became apparent that the suspect was not going to comply, and from a crouch, the officer fired one shot, striking the suspect below the right knee, with the bullet entering the front of his leg and rear calf. The suspect dropped his weapon, grasped his knee, and with the other two suspects, turned and fled in the direction of the project.

A brief foot chase ensued, in which Mulligan captured the suspect gunman and Tarantino captured a second suspect. The third was identified and warrants were issued for his arrest. All three suspects were identified as the perpetrators of several holdups in the area, with warrants outstanding for two hotel robberies.

To: Officers John C. Ghilardi and Joseph P. Driscoll, District Two.

If you were to draw specifications for complete police officers you would be describing Officers Ghilardi and Driscoll.

These two officers have consistently maintained an incredible record of quality arrests; 85 to 90 percent of which have resulted from on-sight observations.

The extraordinary and creative efforts of Ghilardi and Driscoll have resulted in over 100 arrests from January to October of this year; with offenses evenly proportioned between armed robberies, violations of the Controlled Substance Act, firearm violations and aggravated assaults.

These officers have consistently jeopardized their physical safety and expended immeasurable hours of their own time, culling informants to establish the probable cause so necessary in assuring effective prosecution. In all of their prosecutions, the officers have attained successful conclusions. Not one of their cases resulted in a Not Guilty finding by the Court.

Additionally their reputation for identifying and apprehending offenders, while protecting the constitutional rights of individuals is without parallel, and while both officers have been injured as a result of their endeavors, they have continued on duty with no loss of time. Each officer has been injured no less than twice during 1978 alone.

In short, these are "Cops' Cops", and it's a pleasure indeed to honor them.

Special Citations.

To: Sergeant Walter B. Tower, Detectives John J. Dennehy, and Robert F. Lawrence and Police Officer Joseph A. Saia.

About 3:04 a.m., October 1, 1977, a male and female were walking together through the Fenway when they were accosted by two unknown males. The first was described as six feet, heavy build, 17-19 years of age, with a knife. The second described as five feet, six inches, 17-19 years, slim build, and carrying a crowbar. The victims were separated by the assailants and the larger of the two raped the girl, holding a knife to her neck. Upon completion of the rape, he robbed the girl of a Timex watch and $5.00. While the rape was taking place, the second assailant held the male victim with the crowbar and robbed him of a Hamilton watch and his school ring. The male victim was then ordered to remove his clothes, put to his knees, and told how he was going to be killed and thrown into the river; he then was slashed repeatedly on the chest by the assailant's knife.

The male, at this point, thinking he was going to die anyway, ran from the scene when his assailant moved several feet away from him. The victim ran for several blocks, and summoned police. During this time, the female victim was also able to escape.

Sergeant Tower, Detectives Dennehy and Lawrence and Officer Saia were assigned to investigate the case.

Each officer, working both on and off duty, diligently applied himself with the incentive that these two vicious criminals were at large and able to perpetrate their acts against other victims.

After many hours of following painstaking leads to dead ends, the officers finally located the pawned watch of the male victim, and on November 14, 1977, two weeks after the vicious assault, the case was brought before the Court after positive identification by the victims.

To: Police Officers William T. Lang and Thomas L. Matthews, District Two.

About 10:15 p.m., Friday, March 24, 1978, Officers Matthews and Lang, while assigned to patrol in the 2-2 car, observed an unknown male about 20 years of age, beating a 17-year-old female, with a two foot length of tree limb, and at the same time, ripping her clothes from her body and attempting to rape her.

Just prior to the arrival of the officers, the assailant had struck the female in the face with a broken bottle.

Officers Matthews and Lang jumped on the attacker, and after a violent struggle, subdued and arrested him.

The young lady was taken to the hospital where she was admitted for both physical and psychological treatment. Her face was badly cut and swollen and she was in a state of near hysteria.

The assailant, who was on bail at the time of the incident, awaiting trial for other rapes, was advised of his rights and taken to District Two.

But for the alertness shown by these two officers, more serious injury or death would have certainly ensued.

To: Policeman James C. Martin, District Thirteen.

On Thursday, April 20, 1978, at about 2:00 p.m., a woman in Jamaica Plain reported to police that upon responding to the ringing of the front doorbell, she was confronted by an unknown male, armed with a small black handgun, which he pressed against her back, and ordered her upstairs to her apartment.

The intruder was immediately followed by a second male who was armed with a long-bladed knife. The woman was subsequently robbed of cash and a portable T.V.

At about 2:30 p.m., Officer Martin was on foot patrol assigned to the Hyde Square section when he received information regarding the robbery over his Walkie Talkie. The officer's attentiveness and keen powers of observation caused him to notice a vehicle parked in the vicinity of Hyde Square, containing two men fitting the description of the suspects, along with a female companion and presumed accomplice, sitting in the rear passenger compartment.

Officer Martin advised Operations of his findings and requested assistance. However, in order to insure that the suspects did not flee the scene prior to the arrival of additional police units; or possibly panic and engage the first response unit in gunfire, Martin proceeded unnoticed to the operator's side of the vehicle where he posted himself, and at gunpoint, placed all three suspects under arrest, simultaneously advising them of their rights. The officer ordered the operator to remove the keys from the ignition and to surrender them to him, which the suspect did.

The potential for violent disorder was demonstrated by the finding of a fully loaded handgun on the floor of the passenger side of the vehicle, as well as the knife described in the incident report.

But for the initiative shown by this officer, in containing the suspects and ultimately placing them under arrest, without regard for his own safety, these dangerous criminals might have remained at large to prey on society.

To: Police Officer William T. Lang, District Two.

At about 5:30 p.m., Monday, September 4, 1978, Officer Lang, off duty and in civilian clothes, visiting the Quincy Market, heard an unknown female screaming for help in the parking lot opposite the Sea Side Restaurant.

Officer Lang told his companion to call 911 while he investigated the call for help. He ran into the parking lot and observed a woman calling for help and screaming, "Stop that man!" She pointed to an unknown male who was carrying a four-foot metal pipe. At that time the officer observed another male on the ground near the woman attempting to get up. The wounded man had what appeared to be a serious head wound and was bleeding profusely.

In the parking lot at the time, 75 to 100 people had gathered and more were coming all the time to see what was happening.

The officer, realizing a felony had taken place and a dangerous situation could develop which could mean injury to himself and/or innocent bystanders, drew his personal revolver and placed it alongside his leg so as not to have it readily seen. Approaching the suspect he identified himself as a police officer and told him to drop the pipe as he moved in closer to the suspect. The suspect refused. When the officer was close enough, he grabbed the pipe, and with the suspect still holding on, managed to turn the suspect away from the crowd, toward the wall of the restaurant, while he explained the futility of the situation. He talked to the suspect for three or four minutes and finally the suspect accepted arrest.

The cool and efficient manner in which this officer handled a hazardous situation and used his weapon with discretion while at the same time avoiding endangering the surrounding public, merits this citation.

To: Detective William T. Morrissey and Officer Patricia Murphy.

On August 1, 1978, Detective William Morrissey, assigned to the Drug Control Unit, while investigating suspected drug dealings in the South Boston area, developed information relative to a vicious assault and rape of a thirteen-year-old South Boston resident. The assault took place July 30, 1978.

Due to the nature of the crime, and the victim's fear of reprisal, both the girl and her family were apprehensive and reluctant to report the incident to police.

On August 3, 1978, Detective Morrissey requested the aid of a female police officer, and Officer Murphy, then assigned to District Four, was detailed to assist in the investigation.

Officer Murphy's demeanor, empathy and choice of words immediately generated a rapport with the young girl, causing her to overcome her fears and agree to cooperate with the investigation and to testify later in the criminal courts against her assailants.

Subsequently, the two felons were arrested and the case made ready for prosecution only fourteen days after this vicious assault which but for the professionalism and persistence of these two officers would have gone unreported.

To: Detective Michael W. Monahan, Technical Services.

On November 9, 1977, a fire at 530 Tremont Street claimed the life of an unidentified male.

Detective Monahan went to the Southern Mortuary where he viewed the badly burned body, so badly burned that the fingers were fused together. A small portion of burned flesh was removed from the left thumb of the victim and the body photographed for facial features.

Detective Monahan then started a systematic search of the department files, consisting of an examination of 450,000 prints that would have as a classification, a whorl pattern with a double loop in the left thumb.

On Saturday, May 27, 1978, seven months after the start of the search, Detective Monahan found the left thumb print of a 40 year old male to be similar in characteristics. He removed the print and enlarged the portion of interest. A latent print layout was made and positive identification of the fire victim was made. The Medical Examiner was notified and arrangements were made to notify the family of the victim. The brother and two sisters of the victim came to the Southern Mortuary and visually identified the deceased, with arrangements made for burial on May 30, 1978.

The task was accomplished as a result of many painstaking hours of file search for a minute portion of a fingerprint, much of which investigation was done on Detective Monahan's own time.

Without the dedication and desire to perform, the identification would never have been made and the incident would have been closed with a burial by the city of an unknown male and the family of the victim mentally anguished for many years to come, never knowing what had become of a brother.

To: Officer John A. Sacco, District Four.

On Saturday, October 28, 1978, a group of suburban teenagers, 14 to 16 years of age, came to Boston for the purpose of presenting an amateur show. After the performance, a group of six boys and girls went to Trinity Plaza to attempt to purchase some marijuana. They approached three males and inquired regarding the purchase. One of the men took $12.00 from one of the young females and they lured her into the hotel, using the sale of the marijuana as a ruse. One man managed to lure her to the third floor, and by force, took her to the roof of the hotel. Meanwhile, when the girl failed to return, her companions reported her missing.

At that time, Officer Sacco was present in the lobby, performing a paid detail. He calmed the youths, ascertained the circumstances, and immediately contacted Operations for assistance in the search. The officer was then alerted by the hotel public address system that a man was on the roof with a young girl. He immediately proceeded to the roof with drawn revolver and observed a man in the act of raping the girl. The suspect yelled: "Go ahead, shoot me, I don't care!" The officer holstered his weapon and grabbed the assailant, with a violent struggle ensuing as the officer tried to prevent the culprit from leaping off the roof to the street below, a seven-story drop. Officer Sacco finally managed to pull the assailant to safety and held him until additional officers arrived.

The action of this officer who after apprising the situation, holstered his revolver and at great personal risk, prevented the assailant from leaping off the roof, merits this citation.

To: Edward Brady, Police Dispatcher, Operations Division.

At about 3:23 p.m., Monday, December 26, 1977, Police Dispatcher Edward Brady received a telephone call on line 911 from a woman in East Boston who stated that her mother was choking on a piece of meat that had become lodged in her throat.

After obtaining the necessary information, so that a response unit could be dispatched, Dispatcher Brady calmed the caller, told her to quiet the others in the room, and then gave detailed instructions on how to use the Heimlich Maneuver to dislodge the obstruction. The women followed his instructions and were successful in removing the piece of meat, thereby permitting the victim to get her breath.

The ambulance arrived at the residence and the crew was told that the woman was breathing normally at that time, and that they were no longer needed. The Dispatcher at Health and Hospitals was also notified that the women was all right then.

The woman caller later called Deputy Superintendent Geagan, Commanding Officer of the Operations Division, and informed him that there was no doubt that the action of Dispatcher Brady had saved her mother's life.

To: John R. Mercurio, Police Dispatcher, Operations Division.

About 6:34 p.m., Monday, February 13, 1978, a Brighton woman telephoned the 911 line and reported that her mother, who had had a recent throat operation, was choking on a piece of meat.

Dispatcher Mercurio received the call and immediately attempted to transfer the call to Health and Hospitals, only to find that all transfer lines were busy. Dispatcher Mercurio calmed the woman and instructed her how to perform the same maneuver described in the previous citation. The procedure met with success and the meat was dislodged from the woman's throat.

The actions of Dispatcher Mercurio were examined by his superiors and found to be consistent with those of the previous dispatcher, calm, efficient, professional and worthy of this citation.

To: Mr. John O'Brien and David Corey, Jamaica Plain.

These are the two gentlemen who performed the lifesaving rescues of Officers Corboy and Kyle, at the deadly fire at 3510 Washington Street on Friday, February 10, 1978.

There is no question but that for the heroic actions of these two men, two police officers would have been added to the list of lives claimed by that conflagration.

It is a pleasure indeed to award them these citations.

To: Mr. Francis W. O'Donoghue, New England Telephone Company.

About 12:00, noon, Friday, November 25, 1977, a 58-year-old woman from Marlborough Street, Boston, was walking on Exeter Street when she was approached by two young men from the rear, who stole her handbag and ran down the alley in the rear of Marlborough Street.

At that time, Francis O'Donoghue, while operating a telephone truck, observed the crime and the two suspects running away. He immediately stopped his truck and chased the suspects on foot, succeeding in apprehending the culprit who had grabbed the woman's handbag. Mr. O'Donoghue additionally appeared in court as a witness for the prosecution.

The kind of concern displayed by Mr. O'Donoghue cannot go unnoticed. He is indeed a credit to himself and his employer, and it is an honor to present him with this citation.

About 11:30 p.m., Wednesday, October 25, 1978, Charles Parnell of Dorchester, on leave from the U.S.S. Pase, from Norfolk, Virginia, observed a fire in four buildings located at 861 Dorchester Avenue and Roseclair Street. He immediately gave the alarm so that the firebox could be sounded and entered the building at 87 Roseclair Street, in the belief that people were still in the building, unable to get out. The building by this time was involved in heavy smoke and burning out of control. Due to the heavy smoke, Parnell was beginning to become overcome, and, in an effort to clear the smoke and with complete disregard for his own safety, he began to break the windows with his bare fists to ventilate the fire and to get some air into the building. He searched the third-floor landing but was forced back by heavy smoke and flames, but could hear people inside the apartment on the third floor. As he groped his way down the stairs in an effort to get some air into his lungs and go back to help the people, he was met by Sergeant Howe of District Six, and informed him of the victims on the third floor. Although he was bleeding profusely from both hands, he remained to help in any way he could.

The heroic actions of this young serviceman is in keeping with the highest tradition of the military, and the community needs to be informed of the unswerving courage of this man on that day in October.

Two copies of the general bid shall be filed with the Awarding Authority, at the office designated above, accompanied by a bid deposit in the form of a bid bond, or cash, or in the form of a certified check on, or a treasurer's or cashier's check issued by, a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Boston in the sum of 5 percent of value (not to be less than $100, not to exceed $50,000). One copy of the general bid will be filed with the City Auditor. The general bids shall be filed before the time stated above for the opening of general bids.

No general bid may be withdrawn after the time limit for filing general bids and for five (5) days (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded) from the opening of the general bids. In addition, no general bid filed by the three lowest responsible and eligible bidders may be withdrawn prior to execution and delivery of the general contract, unless no award has been made upon expiration of the prescribed time therefor.

The successful bidder will be required to provide insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Law, General Laws (Ter. Ed.), Chapter 152, to all persons to be employed under the contract, and sufficient proof of compliance with the foregoing stipulation will be required before commencing performance of this contract.

A performance bond and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a surety company qualified to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Awarding Authority and the Housing and Urban Development Department, and each in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price, will be required of the successful general bidder.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the contract documents must be paid on this project and that the contractor must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, creed, color, or national origin.

The Building Commissioner is allowing a thirty-three-day period to complete the demolition and site clearance of these buildings starting within seven (7) days after the signing of the Mayor's award.

The Awarding Authority reserves the right to waive any informalities and to reject any or all general bids if it be in the public interest to do so. NOTICE OF REQUIREMENT FOR AFFIRMATIVE ACTION TO ENSURE EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY (EXECUTIVE ORDER 11246).

The contractor's attention is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specifications" set forth in this part.

The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered areas, (See pages EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specifications for goals and timetables).

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered areas.

As used in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Arlington, Boston, Belmont, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Canton, Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Milton, Norwood, Reading, Revere, Somerville, Stoneham, Wakefield, Westwood, Winthrop, Winchester, Woburn, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for Minority Business Enterprise Utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation section of the City of Boston contract, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business at least 50 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or, in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock is owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form", "Minority Business Identification Statement", "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report" and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent".

Each contractor must complete, sign and file with his bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a Minority Business and General Contractor's Letter of Intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents including, with limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders), and the provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications on supplemental equal employment opportunity anti-discrimination and affirmative action program contract provisions, and to the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of workforce needs as requested by section 3 and a section 3 affirmative action plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. A section 3 affirmative action plan consists of tables AAP-1 to AAP-3 and forms AAP-1 and AAP-2 and can be found at pages ST1-ST7 of the contract documents. This requirement will be strictly adhered to. Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. No bidder shall be eligible for award on this project unless he is able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Awarding Authority his ability to comply with these requirements. All prospective bidders will be required to attend a prebid conference prior to submitting a bid. The time and place will be announced.

NEIGHBORHOOD EVOLUTION: A CLOSER LOOK

Part IV

Choosing the City

What is it that draws a fraction of the young professional class into the urban core, or holds it there? A certain avant-gardism has been noted. They are people who are self-rewarded by doing that which is not perfectly typical in terms of their education and income. They can be quite pleased when other people seem incredulous about where they have freely chosen to dwell.

Beyond that, they are drawn very often by the character, quality, and often relatively low price of housing. Their taste for "interesting" old houses has already given a new lease on life to a good many thousand examples of nineteenth-century, domestic architecture. While quality is a premium value, even undistinguished stock can be made to serve, if there are compensating features. In the Mt. Adams section of Cincinnati, for instance, which overlooks the Ohio River Valley, quite inferior, turn-of-the-century, worker housing has been gutted and expensively redone with hardwood floors, sliding glass doors, skylights, and balconies, either for upper-income ownership or luxury rental.

Convenience to jobs and to cultural resources — particularly in cities like Boston, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago — is another priority item. Two working members of a household, especially without children, respond sometimes to an overwhelming logic when they look for a near-in location. Yet another reason, akin to the unsuburban or antisuburban self-image mentioned above, is the allure of people like themselves who have opted for urban neighborhood living. The magnetic effect of urban chic, which needs to be looked at on a neighborhood-by-neighborhood basis, is the overriding factor which carries middle-class resettlement toward a point of critical mass.

In the Parkman Center conference, personal circumstances were naturally stressed. Even for those who had gone about the business of choosing a home most rationally, there was an element of impulse in the final decision. For several, their locational choices coincided with major life changes — a new child or a new job or breaking out of a university orbit, for instance.

A young woman who looked at thirty houses in other communities before choosing Dorchester (the first house she and her husband saw there) down-played any commitment to the city as opposed to the suburbs. Their mental map of the world was drawn along transportation lines.

"No, I didn't think in terms of strengthening the core city by moving in. There was some sense of responsibility to the city, but it was very much at a second level. Maybe it's because I went to a very political college — we both went to Antioch — and I've gotten sick of political stuff. I was just inundated with it. I went through all the flower child business, and now having a house and a little bit of land to make something beautiful in terms of my emotional life is really what I'm looking for."

The compelling attraction for her was one which might hardly occur to a New Englander — hardwood floors and bannisters. "You don't know what that means to someone from California. All that beautiful wood. I just fell in love with it."

For this Californian, a bargain price, architectural features, and access to transportation ranked high in the making of the final quick decision. The existence of nearby stores came as a later pleasant surprise, while the neighborhood was generally perceived as a neutral environment, with a few problems. The bad image of the area shared by the longtime residents as well as suburbanites clearly had little influence on this couple. As her husband said, "There's minor crime around, but that's everywhere. We expected it." About negative images conveyed by television, he responded with a laugh. "We don't have a television set."

The house itself, along with affordability, appeared to predominate as the basis for the majority of participants' decision to live where they do. The person most explicit in this regard had had a considerable experience of "urban pioneering" in Boston. He and his wife had first renovated a house as non-owners in East Boston and had moved on, both to turn their sweat into equity and to escape some unpleasant cultural conflicts. ("The first day we were there, a little kid came up and told us he was going to slash our tires.") They subsequently spent several years fixing up a house in the South End.

"This Jamaica Plain house is our third in Boston. I'm very into houses, the physical house. I looked all over Brookline at physical houses, and if you're into physical houses, what you look at in Brookline is a $100,000 investment. So finally I discovered this little jewel, the oldest house on its street."

Beyond a quick inspection to establish a sense of compatibility, the neighborhood did not appear to weigh as heavily as one might have expected at the outset. However, neighborhood characteristics did emerge as a factor in the likelihood of the participants' staying on.

Self-perceptions were one way in which the match between neighborhood and newcomer were expressed. As a wife who had reluctantly moved (at her husband's insistence) from Cambridge to Jamaica Plain recalled, "It was traumatic. I came kicking and screaming. I never realized that where I lived was so important to me, had so much to do with my self-image. I think I'm like a lot of people — that although I wouldn't have said I was like that, what is familiar to me is safe and that's where I'm comfortable and happy."

In an interesting way, this young woman's feelings became one of the nodes of the evening. Admitting that she had resisted the move and was now trying hard to adapt to it, her very open expression of the need for a "fit" between herself and her surroundings hinted at a key issue for everyone.

In what was perhaps the nearest to an ideological statement, a young Roxbury homeowner remarked that a part of his decision (only a part) was his desire to promote the development of a black professional enclave in Boston. "In my view the future of Roxbury as a black community depends on black professionals moving in."

Yet the evening helped to show that all of these decisions need to be viewed in terms of individual and household life cycles and that, as most of the participants would agree, what might be true of their feelings about where they live this year might not be true a year or five years from now.

Give a man credit for anything today and he will take it.

ASSIST YOUR LETTER CARRIER!

Each year hundreds of letter carriers suffer injuries due to falls on ice and snow. Such injuries are not only painful, but usually result in loss of work and heavy medical expenses.

In an effort to reduce the danger of injury to mail carriers, Postmaster Philip L. Sullivan, of Boston, is appealing to all residents to remove ice and snow from porches, stairs, and sidewalks, and to sand and salt walkways and steps when necessary.

Postal customers are responsible for keeping approaches to their mail boxes clear of ice and snow and any obstructions that would make delivery difficult or impossible. Failure to do so, particularly after a heavy storm, may temporarily prevent carriers from making deliveries.

Suburban customers, who receive mail in curbside boxes, delivered by vehicles, are also asked to keep approaches to mail boxes clear of ice and snow so the carrier can easily reach the box from the vehicle. If a driver cannot reach a mail box without risk of getting stuck or slipping off the road, the mail will be returned to the Post Office until the approach is cleared.

"T" APPROVES VOC ED CURRICULUM

The development of a vocational education curriculum, to be used in the Southwest Corridor Project's Educational Training Program over the next four years, was approved recently by the MBTA Board of Directors.

The curriculum will be used in the program for young men and women sixteen- to twenty-one-years-old who live in the Southwest Corridor communities. The program provides the students training for possible employment opportunities in the fields of architecture, planning and engineering, or for further educational opportunities.

During the life of the $669-million Southwest Corridor construction project, the 80 percent federally funded, $666,484, Educational Training program will provide about 120 places for trainees, according to Anthony Pangaro, Southwest Corridor coordinator. The Southwest Corridor project will relocate the Orange Line from the Washington Street elevated to the railroad corridor between Back Bay Station and Forest Hills.

The curriculum will be based in part on the pilot Educational Training Program which last summer graduated thirty young people from the South Cove, South End, Back Bay, Roxbury, North Dorchester, and Jamaica Plain areas of Boston. As of January 2, there will be fifty participants in the program, which includes public and private school students, and nonstudents, who reside in the area.

One student in the program already has been hired by the MBTA as a junior draftsman.

Funds to pay student wages ($3.40 an hour), and to provide teaching and counseling services and educational materials, will be apportioned to the following firms: the joint venture of Kaiser Engineers, Inc., and Fay, Spofford & Thorndike, Inc., designers of the segment from the vicinity of South Cove tunnel to Massachusetts Avenue, $489,304; $86,700 to Frederic R. Harris, Inc., designers of the segment from Massachusetts Avenue to Jackson Square; and $92,480 to Howard Needles Tammen & Bergendoff, designers of the final segment between Jackson Square and Forest Hills.

The program has been approved by the Civil Rights Office of the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, U.S. Department of Transportation.

The objectives of the educational training program are to teach working skills in the fields of architecture, planning, landscape architecture and engineering to minority and unemployed youth in SWCP neighborhoods; familiarize trainees with the diverse aspects of the design of the SWCP as well as its history and development; and encourage trainees to pursue careers in the areas of architecture, planning, landscape architecture, engineering or transportation.

The curriculum for the winter/spring session includes five weeks each in drafting and engineering, six weeks in architectural design, and four weeks each in photography and landscape architecture.

The nine-week summer session will take up planning, urban design, graphic design, and construction.

BPS INITIATE PROGRAM TO PREVENT CHILD ABUSE

Robert E. Donahue, Deputy Superintendent in charge of academic operations for the Boston Public Schools, announced recently that all school personnel will be directed to participate in a program to prevent child abuse among Boston's 70,000 students.

A Child Abuse Task Force composed of school officials working with representatives of medical, human services, and legal agencies has been meeting much of the past year. Training of all school personnel will begin with a series of meetings for administrators.

Boston's nine community superintendents and all elementary school principals attended the first session, January 11, at the Campbell Resource Center, 1216 Dorchester Avenue.

Additional presentations will take place January 18 for school physicians, nurses, pupil adjustment counselors, and supervisors of attendance at the Agassiz School from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and at West Roxbury High School on January 19, at the same hours, for school psychologists, guidance counselors, and leaders of evaluation teams.

The Boston School Committee has approved the policy regarding School Department responsibility for reporting all cases of child abuse and neglect to the proper human service agencies. The task force will continue to be active to insure that reports to human service agencies will be followed by investigation and action.

FUND ESTABLISHED FOR DECEASED TROOPER'S FAMILY

State Police have established a fund honoring the memory of Trooper Donald E. Shea, twenty-eight, of Norwell, who died December 16, when his cruiser hit a utility pole off Rte. 9 in Natick.

Funds collected will be held in trust for the two Shea children, Kevin, one, and Ryan, two months. Donations are being received at the Pioneer Cooperative Bank, 69 Washington Street, Norwell, 02061.

Contributors to this most worthy cause will be appreciated.

MAIL STANDARDS TO BE IMPLEMENTED

Implementation of new, minimum-size, mail standards will take place next March or April, the U.S. Postal Service has announced.

The same effective date will be used to implement a surcharge for oversized mail — a matter now pending before the Postal Rate Commission.

The Postal Service's Board of Governors established the timetable for the common implementation date at its regular monthly meeting in Washington. The Postal Service had previously stated that the minimum-size standard would become effective "not before November 30, 1978."

The board decided, at the recommendation of Postmaster General William F. Bolger, to defer the minimum-size standards to avoid any unnecessary complication during the Christmas mailing season and to allow customers a final opportunity to prepare for the change.

Rather than have separate implementation dates occurring around the same time for the minimum size standards and the oversize surcharge, the board decided to consolidate the actions.

Currently, the independent Postal Rate Commission is considering the Postal Service's proposal for a 13-cent surcharge for oversized mail and has until February 25 to act on it. Assuming Postal Rate Commission action around that date, the Board of Governors would consider setting the specific implementation date at its March meeting.

In April, 1976, the commission approved the minimum-size criteria and the principle of a surcharge for oversized or nonstandard mail pieces. At that time, the Postal Service announced implementation would be deferred until 1978 in order to permit customers to use up existing supplies and prepare new inventories.

The minimum-size standards, which apply to all classes of mail, establish that envelopes and cards measuring less than 3½-inches high or 5-inches long, and certain other items that can jam machinery and damage other mail, will not be accepted. Also, the new requirements call for a thickness of at least .007 of an inch. Postal cards have a thickness of .009 of an inch.

The new standards for oversized or nonstandard mail allow that type of mail to be accepted; however, it will be subject to the surcharge under consideration by the Postal Rate Commission.

In discussing the decision to put the implementation date off until early 1979, Bolger noted there have been a number of appeals for extensions of the minimum-size standards. He said deferral of the effective date would provide "one final warning" for postal customers.

HEW GRANT EXTENDS MAGNET SCHOOLS PROJECT

Superintendent Robert Wood announced recently, that the Health, Education and Welfare Department of the federal government has approved an extension of the Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) Magnet Schools Project originally funded in the fall of 1977. These funds, totaling $355,729, are now available through June 30, 1979, and will enable the Boston Public Schools to hire twenty instructional aides for Kindergarten II Extended Day Programs. In addition, the contract extension will enable university consultants from Lesley and Wheelock Colleges to plan and provide workshops for Extended Day Program teachers and aides.

The Extended Day Kindergarten Programs are a unique, voluntary, magnet option for Boston students. Their full-day format allows teachers to concentrate on reading and math readiness, through a learning center approach.

Commenting on the HEW grant extension, Dr. Wood expressed his pleasure on behalf of the Boston Public School Department. "HEW has recognized the contribution of our Extended Day Kindergarten II Program both in terms of educational value as well as an important pipeline to the Boston Public Schools system."

BUILDERS ASSOCIATION SPONSORS SPECIAL COURSE

The Builders Association of Greater Boston will sponsor a course on Residential Building Principles beginning, January 25. The eleven-session course is taught by Builder/Developer, Richard G. Lind, and runs on consecutive Thursdays, from 7:15 p.m. to 10 p.m. A field trip in addition to all classroom materials is also included.

The course is designed to be an introduction to the steps involved in constructing a home or small building — from the initial process of planning, permits, and specifications, to the completed contract. Emphasis is on a basic rather than technical analysis of construction steps and procedures along with a discussion of subcontracting and the use of materials.

Enrollment is limited and the reservation deadline is January 18, 1979. To register, call the Builders Association of Greater Boston at 357-5550, or write 93 Purchase Street, Boston, MA 02110.

BOSTON CONSUMERS COUNCIL the consumer as a tenant

Did you know that:

- Your landlord must give you a copy your lease within thirty days after you sign it, if he doesn't he can be fined.

- Your landlord cannot require you to pay more than two months' rent as a security deposit. He must also pay 5 percent annual interest on any deposit he holds more than a year.

- Your landlord cannot discriminate against you because of your sex or marital status, and he cannot refuse to rent to you because you have children.

- Your landlord cannot evict you unless a court first says he can. He cannot just tell you to leave, lock you out, shut off your utilities, forcibly remove you or take your possessions. You have your right to your day in court!

Massachusetts has many laws that protect your rights as a tenant. An entire section of the State's Consumer Protection Law (chapter 93A) is devoted to tenant-landlord relations.

Before you sign a lease

- Read it thoroughly! Don't be afraid to ask questions about unfamiliar or suspicious clauses.

- Make sure all blank spaces have been filled in.

- Be certain the lease clearly states your TOTAL rent and shows what is included in the rent (heat, parking, etc.)

- Know the lease termination date and whether or not the lease is self extending from year-to-year.

- Be sure that your lease contains the name, address, and telephone number of the owner or other person who is authorized to accept legal notices and certified mail.

- Note the procedures for subletting the apartment.

Before you get settled in your new apartment

Make an itemized list of everything that is wrong with the apartment (holes in walls, broken windows, etc.) and get it notarized. Send one copy to the landlord with request that the problems be repaired, and send another copy to the Boston Rent Control Administration. If possible, get the landlord to sign the itemized list.

Each year hundreds of tenants have the cost of repairing damage deducted from the security deposits, even though a previous tenant may have been the cause of the damage.

The purpose of the Budget Management Program is to identify and evaluate the cost of providing education to the residents of the City of Boston, and to institute methods and procedures for controlling such costs.

Because of the need to continue the implementation of this program, and because of the unique experience of this consultant, it is the determination of the School Committee that public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Chafets as budget and management analyst to the Budget Management Program, during the period of July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $18,000.

The purpose of the Budget Management Program is to identify and evaluate the costs of providing education to the residents of the City of Boston, and to institute methods of procedures for controlling such costs.

Because of the need to continue the implementation of this program in management control and accounting, and operations research, and because of the unique experience and training of this consultant, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Very truly yours,
Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

Dictation Equipment

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Your authorization is requested for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to IBM corporation, One Gateway Center, Newton, Mass., for furnishing IBM 6:5 dictation equipment under lease, during the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978.

This equipment is located at Boston Business School and this contract is a continuation of their existing contract. The equipment has proven satisfactory and the cost is reasonable. Because of the specialized nature of IBM equipment it is the opinion of our staff that advertisement of bids would serve no useful purpose. The amount of the contract shall not exceed $3,100.

Very truly yours,
Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

Various Foods

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The School Committee respectfully requests the approval of your Honor for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to the Fantini Baking Company, for the purchase of bread and rolls, doughnuts, and crackers for the Boston Public School cafeterias, for the period February 28, 1978, through June 30, 1978. The previous contractor defaulted by reason of bankruptcy. Fantini Baking Company will supply products at the same price as previous contractors not to exceed $12,205.

I deem it in the best interest of the city that this contract be awarded.

Very truly yours,
Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

Media Specialist Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon recommendation of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for the awarding of a contract, without further public advertising, to Abdullah Muhammad, 216 Highland Street, Roxbury, Mass. 02119, as the media specialist, ESAA Teaching in a Multi-Cultural Classroom Component, during the period beginning on May 22, 1978, through June 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $2,410. This cost is reasonable in light of services to be performed. (Total includes $160 for mileage.)

This contractor shall provide for the ESAA Teaching in a Multi-Cultural Classroom Component the videotaping and editing of Sixty-six, twenty-minute, classroom lessons which will serve as an evaluation tool for discussion of techniques, content, and interaction between pupil and teacher.

Initially the specifications for the service were submitted to public advertising through the appropriate channels. Persons hired through those channels have since quit. Therefore this component sought individuals through other personnel still on staff. This contractor was found to have the necessary skills to accomplish the task.

Because of the need to initiate this program during the remainder of the present academic year and because of the specialized qualifications of this contractor, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by continued advertising for bids.

This agreement is to be executed, without an appropriation, from the city under provisions of G.L. c. 44, s. 53A, and is to be made subject to the receipt of funds under grant from the Emergency School Aid Act, Grant No. GO1-77-526-01.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendation of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to Melvin Smith, 6 Soldiers Field Park, Apt. No. 602, Boston, Mass. 02134, for the implementation of a pilot project, Teaching in a Multi-Cultural Classroom, Materials and Techniques, during the period March 20, 1978, through June 30, 1978, at a cost of $3,000 plus $160 for mileage, for a total cost not to exceed $3,160. Such cost is reasonable in the light of services to be performed.

The contractor shall assist in the taping and editing of sixty-six, thirty-minute, Multi-cultural, classroom lessons; in training teacher trainers in the use of videotapes, recorder and monitor, and the maintenance of videotapes for playback sessions to participants; in making monthly reports and suggestions to the coordinator; and in performing any media tasks as directed by the coordinator.

Because of the need to initiate the program during the present academic year and because of the video background of this consultant, it is the determination of the School Committee that public interest would not be served by public advertising for bids.

This agreement is to be executed, without an appropriation, under the provisions of G.L., c. 44, s. 53A, and is to be made subject to the receipt of funds under grant from the Emergency School Aid Act, Grant No. GO1-77-526-01.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

File Cabinets

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I request your permission to award a contract, without public advertising, for the purchase of 100, five-drawer, Shaw Walker, Grade A, used file cabinets from Mr. Thomas Walsh, 9 Algonquin Road, Canton, Mass., for the sum of $4,500.

Mr Walsh has made a bulk purchase of these Shaw Walker file cabinets which are considered to be of excellent quality by all persons in the trade.

If the Boston School Department were to purchase 100 of these lockers new, it would cost approximately $20,000.

However, the file cabinets which have been offered to the School Department are used, but in excellent condition, and will be cleaned and ready for delivery in perfect operating condition.

It is my considered judgment that it is an excellent buy and represents a saving to the taxpayers of the City of Boston of some $15,000.

Whereas these file cabinets will be used for storage purposes they will suffice for the purpose for which the purchase is being made.

It is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

Anthony L. Galeota,
Chief Structural Engineer.

Printing Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendation of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization of the award of a contract, without public advertising, to IBM Corporation, 520 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass. 02115, to make slight alterations in existing plates and to reprint 40,000 test booklets for the use in the Spring Citywide Reading Test Program, on or before May 1, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $9,000.

The contractor had designed and printed such test booklets in 1976 and 1977. The School Department will conserve a substantial sum of money by preparing such test booklets as compared with purchasing booklets and scoring from the publisher.

In 1976 all major manufacturers of computer documents were contacted to react to the first booklets developed. Data Processing Center has filed notification that the process is unique to IBM.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Alarm Systems

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I request your approval of my action in awarding a contract, without public advertising, to the following firm for the supervision and maintenance of intrusion alarm systems presently in operation in seventeen school buildings.

American District Telegraph, 11 North Avenue, Burlington, Mass. 01803.

The total amount of the contract will not exceed $44,200, and the contract will be in effect from July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979. It is my opinion that this cost is reasonable and fair.

This company has been providing this service to the Department of planning and Engineering for many years and is uniquely qualified to perform this work in these school buildings. Inasmuch as this equipment has over a period of years been leased from this firm, and along with the fact that the equipment is tied in with their central station and is monitored on a full-time basis by them, the American District Telegraph is the only firm that can supply this service to the seventeen school buildings covered by this proposed contract. In addition, this program operates in conjunction with the City of Boston, Public Facilities Department, Electronic Security Patrol.

It is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully yours,

Anthony L. Galeota,
Chief Structural Engineer.

Program Development Specialist

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I am writing this letter on behalf of the School Committee and upon the recommendation of its Board of Superintendents, to request your authorization for the award of a contract, without public advertising to Thomas F. Hehir, 97 Sunset Drive, Northboro, Mass. 01532. Mr. Hehir, as occupational education special program development specialist, will be responsible for in service training to career instruction managers; operationalize the ninth-grade, diagnostic team teaching model projects; develop a procedure for recording progress of special need students in occupational programs; plan a comprehensive continuum of support services that will most effectively insure the successful participation of special need students in regular occupational programs. The salary is $21,000, fringe benefits of $3,000 from June 1, 1978, until May 31, 1979. This contract is funded under P.L. 94-482, Grant No. 78-035-035-987-1.

Staff responsibilities are so specialized that there are very few people available with the necessary qualification and experience to provide the services. For these reasons it was necessary to recruit out-of-city residents. However, Mr. Hehir, will be a resident of the City of Boston within the month.

Therefore, it is the determination of the School Committee that the interest of the Boston Public Schools would not be served by public advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,

Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Educational Materials

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Centron Corporation, Inc., West Ninth at Avalon Road, Lawrence, Kansas.

Under the terms of this contract, the School Committee will purchase books and educational materials when needed by Boston public schools, during the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979. The cost of all items purchased under this contract will not exceed standard catalog prices then in effect.

Because of the constant need to provide Boston Public Schools with books and educational materials, and because text-books and educational materials are unique to a particular publisher, it is my opinion that advertising for bids would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,

Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

IBM Service

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Your authorization is requested for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to IBM Corporation, One Gateway Center, Newton, Mass., for furnishing IBM machine and service for Mag Card II, Model 6616, for the period September 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979.

This equipment is located at Boston Business School and this is a continuation of the existing contract to maintain its service. The equipment has proven satisfactory and the cost is reasonable. Because of the specialized nature of IBM equipment it is the opinion of our staff that advertisement of bids would serve no useful purpose. The amount of the contract shall not exceed $3,100.

Very truly yours,

Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

Consultants Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendations of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for the award of a contract to Harvard University.

The contract shall be in effect during the period of July 6, 1978, to August 31, 1978, and occur at a cost not to exceed $5,598, which is deemed to be reasonable by the Committee.

The contractor will provide the following instructional services at the Roxbury High School:

The hiring of a medical consultant to assist in the design and implementation of a health sciences-health careers program at Roxbury High School. The hiring of a promotional consultant to plan and design appropriate materials and information for dissemination to parents of Roxbury High School students and prospective incoming students to Roxbury High School.

The contractor is especially qualified to provide the above services because the university has served as a paired partner with Roxbury High School developing and assisted in the implementation of educational programs for the past three years.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this agreement and the expertise of the contractor in providing such services, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

This agreement is to be executed, without an appropriation of funds, under the provision of General Laws, chapter 44, s. 53A, and is to be subject to the receipt of funds under grant from chapter 636, state-approved, Project 78-BC-0759.

Very truly yours,

Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendations of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for the award of a contract to Judge Baker Guidance Center.

The contract shall be in effect during the period of January 1, 1978, to June 23, 1978, and occur at a cost not to exceed $2,508, which is deemed to be reasonable by the Committee.

The contractor will provide the following instructional services at the Mary E. Curley Middle School:

Mental health consultation on a weekly basis with the therapeutic Resource Room teachers, focusing on behavioral management techniques in dealing with special cognitive, social, and emotional needs of students. A total of 114 hours of consultation will be provided over the course of the academic year, ending in June, 1978.

The contractor is especially qualified to provide the above services because of extensive expertise and specialization in the area of education, consultation, and service, regarding learning disabilities and psychological disorder of children. The Judge Baker Guidance Center has a longstanding tradition in this area and has worked closely over a long period of time with the public schools in these areas.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this agreement and the expertise of the contractor in providing such services, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

This agreement is to be executed, without an appropriation of funds, under the provision of General Laws, chapter 44, s. 53A, and is to be subject to the receipt of funds under grant from chapter 636, state-approved Project 78-25-0039.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT Tax Collection Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with the usual form of advertising and to award a contract to Western Union Telegraph Company, of 230 Congress Street, Boston, Mass. The amount of this contract will not exceed $60,000, for the period from July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

The work to be performed under the proposed contract will involve the processing of Mailgrams on all delinquent taxes.

We have been dealing with Western Union over the past few years and we have found that the services they provide are very effective in contacting delinquent taxpayers, therefore I feel that the public interest would be served by the award of this contract. I deem the above cost to be reasonable.

Respectfully,
James V. Young,
Collector-Treasurer.

Keypunch Services, etc.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with the usual form of advertising and to award a contract to Shawmut Bank of Boston, N.A. of 1 Federal Street, Boston, Mass. The amount of this contract will not exceed $25,000, for the period from July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

The work to be performed under the proposed contract will involve the processing of City of Boston real estate, personal property, and excise tax payments and a keypunched card containing information from the tax invoices will be produced as outlined on the keypunch format supplied by the City of Boston. Batches of approximately 100 keypunched and key verified cards will be produced corresponding to the batches of tax invoices. A roll of microfilm, containing checks processed for deposit, will be produced and delivered to the City of Boston.

Lockbox material (i.e., tax invoices, tape listings, deposit advices, and keypunch cards) will be delivered to the City of Boston, City Hall, on the day following receipt of mail from the City of Boston.

I deem the above contract cost to be reasonable. The implementation of the computerized lockbox services will result in the acceleration of processing for these tax payments. I have discussed this project with other potential vendors in the field of such processing and have concluded, both in terms of cost and capability, that the public interest would be served by awarding of this contract to Shawmut Bank of Boston.

Respectfully,
James V. Young,
Collector-Treasurer.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with the usual form of advertising and to award a contract effective July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, inclusive.

The equipment listed below will be rented from the Univac Division, Sperry Rand Corporation, Wellesley Office Park, Wellesley, Mass. The cost of the proposed contract will not exceed the sum of $43,760. I deem the cost of the proposed contract to be reasonable.

Nine Model 1710-04 Verify Interpreting Key Punch Machines, at $180 per month for each machine, at a total cost of $19,440.

Two Model 1720-00 Electronic Sorters, at $165.00 for each machine, at a total cost of $3,960.

One Type 0603-04 Card Punch with FO871-00 Selective Stacker, at $274 per month, at a total cost of $3,288.

One Type 3030-00, No. Processor with 300 lines per minute print speed, 132 print positions, 8 lines per inch print spacing, storage 8k, card reader, and 90-column read at $1,381 per month, at a total cost of $16,572.

Under the terms of the proposed contract a transportation and cartage charge of $500 will be paid upon the termination of this contract unless the city shall continue to use the machines.

The contract will contain an article giving the City of Boston the right to terminate this contract or any part thereof at anytime after giving the contractor a thirty-day, written notice.

There is no competition in the awarding of this contract as this corporation is the only supplier of this equipment. Remington Rand equipment has been in use in the Collecting Division since the year 1938 and has been found satisfactory.

Sincerely,
James V. Young,
Collector-Treasurer.

Consultant Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with the usual form of advertising and to award a contract for consulting services to Dr. Daniel Holland, The Sloan School for Management, M.I.T., 50 Memorial Drive, Building E-52, Room 252A, Cambridge, MA 02139. The amount of the contract will not exceed $12,000, and will run from July 1, 1978, to January 1, 1979, at a rate of $300 for each full day's services. I have determined that this amount is reasonable.

Dr. Holland will provide the city with consultant services to analyze new sources of tax revenue for the City of Boston. Such services will include, but not be limited to, a study of, and recommendations on, the merits of any such new tax sources to meet tax revenue needs caused by 100 percent revaluation and/or classification, and the methods available to the city to constrain the property tax burden.

Dr. Holland's curriculum vita is attached. From it you will see that he uniquely qualified for this work. Public advertisement for the services would, therefore, serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
James V. Young,
Collector-Treasurer.

MAYOR OF BOSTON

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE, MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

JOSEPH M. TIERNEY
PRESIDENT, CITY COUNCIL

MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1979

BOSTON: A CITY THAT CARES

Among the qualities people often comment on as being distinctively Boston, and a major reason people choose to live here, is the city's human scale. The characteristic is evident in Boston's physical compactness and convenience, and in a number of less obvious ways as well: the great sense of community Bostonians enjoy, the city's spirit and civility, and the congenial atmosphere wherein people feel a closeness to one another and to their municipal government.

This administration is especially proud of having done much to create and enhance these qualities. Recognizing that the neighborhoods within a city are most important and that a good city is responsive to its citizens' needs, we have provided a gamut of human services that function on a neighborhood-by-neighborhood basis. Indeed, a number of these services have made Boston a model for the rest of the nation. The spectrum ranges from our Little City Halls, the innovative one-step service and information offices designed to bring government close to the people, to programs relating directly to local and personal concerns such as education, health, culture, consumerism, youth, and the elderly.

This series is a guide to the services in your neighborhood. We urge you to use them as part of the daily satisfactions of living in Boston—a city that cares about people.

Kevin H. White, Mayor,
Catharine D. Kane, Deputy Mayor.

Boston Community Schools

Through a unique partnership between the neighborhoods and city government, eighteen of Boston's newest school buildings serve as Community Schools on weekday afternoons and evenings during the regular academic year. Under the general headings of recreation, social development, education, and the arts, the activities of each Community School are designed to reflect the particular needs and desires of its neighborhood residents. Specific offerings include day care; after-school reading programs; counseling; teen drop-in centers; dancing; swimming; gymnastics; organized athletics; cooking; sewing; arts and crafts; theatre; training in business skills, languages, and consumer rights; and GED and college courses. Overall, the program serves some 30,000 residents weekly.

Each Community School is self-governed by a Council consisting of locally selected neighborhood-based representatives. The Community Schools program is supported by a combination of city funds and grants to the individual Councils from private foundations and from state and federal governments. The city provides a core administration budget for each school, plus some program monies which are spent according to priorities established by the Council.

In addition to the September through May curriculum, Community Schools offer extensive summer activities particularly geared to the needs of children and youth.

For more information, telephone 266-9390, 73 Hemenway Street. See list of Community Schools at the end of this series, Paul Grogan, Director.

Boston Consumers Council

The primary goal of the Boston Consumers Council is to insure that Boston consumers get a fair deal in the commercial marketplace. The Council has established an impressive record of protecting Bostonians' rights by actively correcting unfair market practices, recovering money and property, and resolving potentially costly situations. In a typical year the Council handles an average of 31,000 complaints, saving the public over $570,000.

The Consumers Council serves the public free of charge, providing consumer dispute mediation, consumer education programs, pre-transaction advice, and rights counseling. Staff investigators who have been trained in the complexities of consumer law are based at the Council's central office in City Hall and at Little City Halls throughout Boston.

In addition to dealing directly with consumer problems, the Council acts as an unofficial watchdog agency for monitoring pending legislation and marketing practices that could infringe on the legal rights of consumers.

The Council also administers the Boston Energy Office, created to plan and implement procedures for the reduction of energy consumption within city government, and to advise residents on ways to reduce their energy use and costs.

For more information, or help with a consumer problem, telephone 725-3320, or write to the Council at City Hall, Boston, Mass. 02201 for a free brochure—Vito Alula, Deputy Director.

Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly

Dedicated to meeting the special needs of Boston's senior citizens,

the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly is an umbrella agency that administers and supports senior programs and services throughout the city. Its work includes strong lobbying for effective legislation to protect the rights of senior citizens and to insure that the supply of elderly housing keeps pace with increased demands. The Commission provides planning and logistical support for the city's independently run, senior citizen agencies. It also works closely with the Department of Elder Affairs of the Commonwealth.

The city-wide programs administered and staffed by the Commission include:

- Elderly Hotline (722-4646) offers vital telephone information and referral services to older Bostonians.

- Retired Senior Volunteer Program—R.S.V.P. helps Boston residents, age sixty and older, find volunteer work in the community, and provides seniors with transportation and partial reimbursement for meal expenses they incur while volunteering.

- Mayor's Older Bostonians—M.O.B. is a comprehensive, retail price, discount system for Boston residents, age sixty and older. It was developed in cooperation with over 400 Boston merchants.

- Mobile Market is a "super-market on wheels" to facilitate food shopping for residents, age sixty years and older, who cannot easily travel to a grocery store. The market operates on a regularly scheduled route designed for safety and convenience.

- Visiting Aides Program provides outreach services to Boston's homebound, senior residents through a trained staff of older workers, and helps keep isolated seniors in regular contact with their community.

- Senior Aides Program is an employment service designed to provide training and job experience for older Bostonians. Placements are made in a variety of nonprofit agencies throughout the city.

- Senior Citizen Security Program is an organized effort to reduce the vulnerability of older Bostonians to crime, and to assist those who have been victimized by it. It is operated in cooperation with the Boston Police Department.

- Senior Shuttle is a fleet of eighteen mini-buses that are available to help meet the medical, shopping, and social/recreational transportation needs of residents, age sixty years and older.

- Taxi Discount Program offers residents, sixty-five years of age and older, a 20 percent discount on taxi fares. The program was developed in cooperation with the City of Boston Cab Association.

In addition, the Commission's Community Services Department provides Boston seniors with a kaleidoscope of recreational activities such as day trips, picnics, dances, talent shows, craft fairs, and musical entertainment, plus free medical services, including health screening, eye examination, and flu shots.

For more information, telephone 725-4367, or write to the Commission at City Hall, Boston, Mass. 02201 for a free brochure—Elaine Guiney, Commissioner.

Community Development Block Grant Funds for Human Services.

Community Development funds, allocated to the city for the purposes of neighborhood preservation and community stabilization by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, are vital to maintaining essential services for thousands of Boston citizens. Each year, through a process involving broadly based neighborhood participation, the city selects eligible projects within four categories (housing, human services, business development, and capital improvements) to receive Community Development grants.

In 1977, the city disbursed 2.1 million dollars for human services programs. The sixty-one recipients included seven neighborhood health centers ($341,000); five senior citizen programs ($690,000); seventeen day care programs ($281,000); nineteen youth/recreation programs ($393,364); and thirteen multi-service neighborhood programs ($431,000). The city carefully monitors the performance of all funded programs to insure continued adherence to federal eligibility guidelines.

For general information, call the Office of Program Development (OPD), 725-3445. For information on human services grants, contact the office of Deputy Mayor Katharine D. Kane, 725-4442.

Mayor's Office of Criminal Justice (MOCJ)

The Mayor's Office of Criminal Justice (MOCJ) is responsible for obtaining and dispersing state and federal funds to support crime prevention programs on community, municipal, and county levels.

In its role as a funding agency, MOCJ solicits and administers Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) block grant applications under priorities established by the Massachusetts Committee on Criminal Justice. In a typical year, MOCJ procures over one million dollars in LEAA block grant monies, a large portion of which is distributed to community-based agencies for programs in job training, drug abuse treatment, educational tutoring, social development, outreach counseling, and vocational guidance.

The office also competes for LEAA discretionary funds through applications submitted directly to the Justice Department in Washington. In this category MOCJ has been the pivotal link in enabling the Youth Activities Commission to initiate its Diversion project which targets first-time, youth offenders for court-approved, special needs programs outside the criminal justice system.

For more information about the Mayor's Office of Criminal Justice, telephone 262-2100, 73 Hemenway Street—Brian Leahy, Deputy Director.

Department of Health and Hospitals

Three hospitals, an outpatient care facility, a network of strategically placed neighborhood health centers, and an around-the-clock, emergency ambulance service comprise the nucleus of Boston's comprehensive city-wide health care delivery service.

The 475-bed Boston City Hospital, a leading teaching institution in a city internationally acclaimed as one of the major medical centers in the world, has primary academic affiliation with Boston University's Schools of Medicine and Nursing. Its high quality inpatient care is backed by the most advanced medical technology and equipment. Its outpatient department housed in a new $30-million, ambulatory care facility, is considered by medical professionals to be among the most advanced in the country. The ambulatory care center includes fourteen specialty medical clinics available to all Boston residents, either through referral by their local health center or by direct admission on an appointment basis.

The Mattapan and Long Island Chronic Disease Hospitals are the city's treatment centers for the chronically ill, elderly, and handicapped. Over 500 patients receive long-term and rehabilitation care at these facilities.

The city's seven recently modernized neighborhood health centers, together with sixteen privately operated centers, many of which receive matching funds from the city, have won Boston a national reputation for having the best community health care delivery system in the country. More than a quarter million patients are treated annually at the centers. Services include prenatal care; ophthalmology, dental, OB/GYN, and mental health clinics; family planning; nutrition counseling; and home care visits for elderly and incapacitated residents.

The Department of Health and Hospitals' ambulance service responds to calls throughout the city twenty-four hours a day, with each unit staffed by a team of skilled medical emergency technicians specially trained at Boston City Hospital.

The department also administers city-wide programs for lead paint screening, rodent control, restaurant inspection, and environmental pollution monitoring.

For more information, telephone 424-5557, or write to the department c/o Community Relations Office, 818 Harrison Avenue, Boston, Mass. 02118 for a free brochure. See list of neighborhood health centers at the end of this series — David L. Rosenbloom, Commissioner.

MAYOR INTERVENES TO ASSURE NEIGHBORHOOD MARKETS

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced that "serious negotiations" have been opened between the First National Stores and Flanagan's Supermarkets of South Boston and Jamaica Plain to allow Flanagan's to purchase stores First National had planned to close in Codman Square and Lower Mills neighborhoods.

If negotiations are successfully completed between Flanagan's owner Leo Flanagan and First National, Flanagan's could restock and reopen First National's buildings within a month of their closing.

Mayor White, who characterized negotiations between Flanagan's and First National as in a "very fair state of progress," said, "Within seventy-two to ninety-two hours we should have a successful resolution to the negotiations. We want to provide an orderly transition between markets if at all possible."

Defining the city's role in the negotiations as a "catalyst," Mayor White singled out Vice-Mayor Edward Sullivan, and Dick Hogan from the Neighborhood Business District Program, for praise in making the negotiations possible.

Flanagan, when asked by reporters how he could make a store a success in an area where First National contends it can't, said "I work on a narrower margin with a lower overhead than First National. I don't have a high-paid, executive staff. I'm my own executive staff; and I'm not an absentee landlord. I work right in the store. If meat needs cutting, I can do that. If the floor needs to be swept, I can do that. I'm there all the time to make sure everything is running smoothly."

Flanagan has been successful in the past taking over former supermarkets. His stores in South Boston and Jamaica Plain are housed in former A&P supermarket buildings.

A speaker beginning his talk at a club meeting advised, "My job is to talk to you. Yours, as I see it, is to listen. If you finish before I do, just hold up your hand."

REALTORS OFFER LICENSE COURSE

The Massachusetts Association of Realtors is offering a six-week, Real Estate License Exam Preparatory Course, now through February 22.

Classes for the thirty-hour course are held Monday and Thursday nights, from 7:30 to 10 p.m., at the Holiday Inn, Newton. According to Course Dean John R. McGrath, Esq., of Boston, the course covers material for both the real estate salesman and brokers examinations. It includes intensive review of laws, rules, and regulations on real estate in Massachusetts, as well as mathematics, terminology, transaction and instrument preparation.

Students will use the "Handbook for Real Estate Examinations and Practice," written by Association Executive Vice-President Milton H. Shaw of Boston. There is a fee for the course.

For advance registration or further information, contact the association office in Boston at (617) 261-3800.

MAYOR URGES: CURB CETA CUTS

Mayor Kevin H. White has urged a neighborhood-based, organized, Congressional-lobbying effort to restore funds which are slated to be cut from the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

In a meeting with representatives of Boston neighborhood nonprofit organizations, like Lena Park Community Development, YMCA, and the Boys Club which all receive CETA funding, Mayor White stressed the importance of neighborhood-based lobbying of Congress.

"You must organize, to pressure Congress. You must take a message to Washington. You must tell the Congressmen about the disastrous effect CETA cutbacks will have on your programs."

Said Mayor White, "Before I led the Democratic Mayors to the White House, domestic spending in key programs was to be cut 50 percent. After we lobbied the President and Vice-President the reduction was about 20 percent. Your lobbying does make a difference."

The absence of effective, broad-based lobbying, resulted in the cutting of 500 public service positions from the Boston CETA roles this year.

Now, the Carter Administration is contemplating a budget where job-training funds would be slashed by $2 million more.

Said Mayor White, "You people, more than any others, recognized the impact more CETA cuts will have on your programs. You must lobby Washington. I don't make CETA cuts; Washington does."

Pledging support for the lobbying effort, Mayor White said that the organization should begin immediately, and lobbying should begin when the President's budget is submitted to Congress.

Said Mayor White, "I am not asking you to do this for me. I am asking you to do it for your programs, for your neighborhoods, and for the city."

BOSTON CONSUMERS COUNCIL— ON BUYING A USED CAR

When you buy a used car in Massachusetts, these laws protect you:

If you buy a used car that fails to pass the state inspection within seven days of the date of purchase, and if the cost of necessary repairs is more than 10 percent of the purchase price, you can cancel the sale and get your money back.

So consider getting your used car inspected at an independent inspection station right after you buy it.

However, you must supply the dealer with a written estimate of the required repair cost within ten days of the purchase date.

- The dealer is required by law to tell you if a car offered for sale has ever been used as a police car, taxicab, or rental car.

- If the car has been submerged in water, the bill of sale must show this information.

- It is illegal for a dealer to set back or adjust the mileage reading of any car he offers for sale.

- The seller must, upon request, tell you the name and address of the previous owner of the car. This enables you to contact the previous owner to determine the condition of the car.

- If you are buying the car on credit, the law requires that you be told what the total cost of the car (including interest) will be in dollars.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS "BOBBY ORR DAY"

Mayor Kevin H. White proclaimed on January 9, "Bobby Orr Day" in the City of Boston. The Mayor presented the proclamation to Bobby Orr at an afternoon press conference held at City Hall.

Orr, whose accomplishment while playing with the Boston Bruins are legendary, attended ceremonies later that evening at the Boston Garden at which his number "4" was retired by the Bruins.

Mayor White said "For what seems like a generation, Bobby Orr was the most exciting superstar in all Boston sports. His grace and agility on the ice was unsurpassed. Those of us here today know that on the ice, he was and is, a legend in his own time."

WOMEN'S AFFIRMATIVE ACTION PROGRAM ADOPTED BY MBTA

An affirmative action program for women was approved recently by the MBTA Board of Directors as part of the Authority's Affirmative Action Plan, adopted in December, 1977. The new program is designed to achieve the goal of equal opportunities for women employees as specified in the 1977 plan.

Dr. James D. Corbin, director of the Department of Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action on, said that since adoption of the plan, significant progress has been made toward the broad goals for female hiring. However, he said, there are certain areas requiring more aggressive efforts" if the goals are to be met.

The program for women specifically addresses promotion, recruitment, training and educational assistance, access to nontraditional job environments, career planning, and management-awareness training to acquaint MBTA managers and decision-makers with affirmative action policies regarding the hiring and promotion of women.

Dr. Corbin, pointing out that from last January 1, through October 29, the percentage of full-time, female employees has increased from 4.4 percent to 5.58 percent, women are still under-represented in executive, managerial, technical, and professional job categories." The promotion rate of women lags behind that of men, he added.

The Affirmative Action Program for Women sets as Authority policy promotion of women already employed wherever possible. To implement this policy, a skills bank and promotional tracking system will be established next year when anticipated federal aid becomes available.

The program also establishes a seven-member, Women's Opportunity Task Force to monitor and assist in implementing the program. Task Force membership with at least four, female members will consist of one representative each from the Labor Relations and Personnel Department, the EEO/AA Department, Construction and Operations Directorates, the Law Department, the Treasurer/Controller's Office, and one appointed by the chairman.

The teacher walked into the noisy classroom, slapped his hand on the desk and ordered sharply, "I demand pandemonium." The class quieted down at once.

"It isn't what you ask," he bragged later in the teacher's lounge. "It's how you ask for it."

FAMILY NIGHT AT THE CHILDREN'S MUSEUM:

Computer terminals, Grandmother's Attic, the Japanese Home and all the other "do-touch" exhibits are what bring kids and grownups to the Boston Children's Museum. But on Friday evenings, there are two bonuses: a bargain admission rate and the Friday Night Performance Series.

Every Friday, from 6 to 9 p.m., admission is just 50 cents for each adult or child. That's a substantial savings over the regular admission rates of $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

For an extra 75 cents, children and adults can flop down on one of the carpeted platforms in the Sit Around and see some of the best family entertainment in the Boston area—jugglers, storytellers, clowns, musicians, and magicians.

True to the tradition of the Children's Museum, all the performers encourage participation from the audience.

Two of the most popular performers in the series are the Gerwick Puppets and Tom Smith.

The Gerwick Puppets have been appearing regularly at the museum for almost two years, and they've developed a loyal following with such shows as "Beauty and the Beast," "Adventures from Thornton W. Burgess," "Aladdin and the Magic Lamp," "Rumpelstiltskin," and "Inside the Haunted House." Each show has its own hand-painted scenery.

"We depend on the response of the audience to help generate excitement," Deborah Gerwick explains, "and that's why we enjoy the Children's Museum so much. There's a wide range of ages among the children and quite a lot of adults, too."

Friday Night Performance Series: January 26, Tom Smith, storytelling and folksongs; February 2, Laura Sheppard, Mime; February 9, Reg Bacon, "Scrub Board Slim," jug band music; February 16, the Gerwick Puppets, "Adventures from Thornton W. Burgess"; February 23, Tom Smith, storytelling and folksongs. All performances are at 7:30 p.m. The series is always listed on the What's Up Phone, 426-8855.

Although the museum is moving to Boston's waterfront this July, the museum is still on the Jamaica Way, Route 1, until April 22.

PLANETARIUM COURSE AT MUSEUM OF SCIENCE

Keeping up with discoveries about the universe will be easier for those who attend the next course given by the Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science.

In "Beyond the Solar System," starting Tuesday evening, January 30, participants will learn how such phenomena as pulsars, quasars, and black holes provide clues to the nature of the universe. Its evolution will be traced according to the most recent scientific theories, which include information gained from planetary probes.

The instructor is Norman Sperling, assistant editor of Sky and Telescope magazine, formerly director of the Duncan Planetarium in Princeton, New Jersey.

Planned for adults (aged sixteen and older), the course will meet for eight Tuesdays, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The fee is $40 with a $5 discount for Museum Family and Contributing Members. To register, call 723-2500, extension 291.

Permanent

OFFICIAL ADVERTISEMENT
TRAFFIC AND PARKING DEPARTMENT

January 11, 1979.

Whereas, The Traffic and Parking Commission is not in session, now, therefore, under the authority granted to me under St. 1929, c. 63, s. 2B, as amended, I hereby promulgate the following:

The Traffic Rules and Regulations of the City of Boston are amended as follows, effective January 11, 1979.

Article VIII, Section 1 (Parades, Processions, and Formations), is amended by striking it out in its entirety and inserting the following in its place:

No person shall take part in any parade, procession, or other organized formation of persons or vehicles, other than a funeral procession or a picket line, in or upon any street, way, highway, road, or parkway under the control of the city unless the Commissioner has granted a permit for such parade, procession, or formation. The Commissioner shall issue such permit in all cases except where the time, place, and manner are not in conformity with the rules set forth below and except where the permit would conflict as to time or place with a permit previously issued. No fee shall be charged for any such permit.

The written request for the permit shall be filed with the Commissioner at least seventy-two hours prior to the occurrence and should include the following:

- The date and starting time.
- The name and address and telephone number of applicant and the name of the organization involved.

c. The formation or assembly area and time therefor.

d. The route of the parade or motorcade and and what portions of the streets traversed may be occupied by such parade or motorcade.

e. The approximate number of people and vehicles in the parade or motorcade.

No permit shall be issued authorizing a parade, procession, or formation under the following conditions:

a. When the sole purpose is advertising any product, goods, wares, merchandise, or event, and is designed to be held for private profit.

b. When the time, route, and size will disrupt the use of any street or any public place, or material portion thereof which is ordinarily subject to great congestion or traffic and is chiefly of a business or mercantile character, except upon those holidays or Sundays when places of business along the route proposed are closed.

c. When it is of a size or nature that requires the diversion of so great a number of police officers of the city to properly police the line of movement and the areas contiguous thereto, that allowing the parade or motorcade would deny reasonable police protection to the city.

Special permits for occasions of extraordinary public interest, not annual or customary, or not so intended to be, may be granted by the Commissioner for any street or public place, and for any day or hour, with the approval of a majority of the Traffic Commission.

The Commissioner shall have the authority to modify the route, time, and place of a parade to facilitate crowd control in the interest of relieving congestion and promoting public safety, provided that the applicant's right of free speech is not denied thereby.

EMILY LLOYD,
Commissioner.

BOSTON: A CITY THAT CARES

Part II

Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs (OCA)

Through a series of city-wide events and programs, the Office of Cultural Affairs (OCA) seeks to bring the enjoyment and beauty of the arts to the lives of all Bostonians.

By establishing strong ties with the city's cultural institutions, OCA has substantially broadened public access and exposure to the arts. OCA produces "Summerthing" the annual neighborhood arts festival founded in 1968 that features eight full weeks of free stage performances, workshops, and exhibits throughout the city. The office has encouraged neighborhood involvement in the arts through the formation of some sixteen Community Arts Councils in the city. In addition, it has been an important vehicle for securing housing and studio space for local visual artists, and has facilitated the municipal licensing process for amateur theatre groups and street performers.

The Office of Cultural Affairs sponsors a City Hall educational tour program for Boston school children; assists schools in developing arts education programs; operates a Visitor Information Center in City Hall; provides "Artsline" (telephone 261-1616), a daily recorded calendar of Boston's cultural events; administers the City Hall Art Galleries, which offer free rotating showings by recognized professional artists; and organizes large public celebrations such as Walk to the Sea weekend and Bravo Boston, a free program of nightly summer entertainment in downtown Boston.

The dramatic revitalization of Boston's downtown theatre district is the result of work by the Mayor's Theatre District Committee, conceived by OCA to create a constructive working alliance between the city, theatre owners, and area retailers.

For more information, telephone 25-3000 or write to OCA at City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts 02201 or a free brochure—Helen Rees, Director.

Office of Public Service (OPS)

The Office of Public Service (OPS) operates the city's Little City Halls program. Eighteen Little City Halls, located in each neighborhood of the city, provide a broad spectrum of direct services and information to Boston residents. The program has been instrumental in bringing about greater citizen participation in the local governmental process, and has increased the sensitivity and responsiveness of the city's line departments to the special needs and concerns of neighborhood residents. Little City Hall managers and staffers are thoroughly versed in all aspects of city government.

In 1977, some 718,000 citizens took advantage of Little City Halls as their one-stop centers for municipal tax payments, voter registration, notary public service, resident parking stickers, abatement applications, income tax assistance, consumer problems, dog licenses, and general complaints. To help residents resolve problems involving one or more branches of city government, Little City Hall workers have direct access to all municipal departments including Building, Fire, Health and Hospitals, Housing Inspection, Public Works, Water and Sewer, Sanitation, and Traffic and Parking.

Representatives from each Little City Hall attend and frequently arrange community meetings to discuss important issues such as zoning and license ordinances and the allocation of federal Community Development Block Grant funds affecting neighborhood residents.

OPS also maintains a twenty-four-hour information and referral call-in service to assist residents with virtually any matter involving city government. In 1977, 48,000 calls were handled by that service. Bostonians may reach it weekdays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., by contacting their nearest Little City Hall and at all other times by telephoning 725-4000.

For more information, telephone 725-3025 or your local Little City Hall listed in this brochure—Richard Kelliher, Director.

Office of Substance Abuse

The Office of Substance Abuse coordinates and supports the work of both city-operated and independent neighborhood-based drug and alcohol abuse services. The office's strategy and goal development arm is the Mayor's Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse, which also serves as the Mayor's primary advisory resource for drug-abuse policy and as the city's liaison with federal, state and private drug-related agencies. Treatment, prevention, rehabilitation, education, and criminal justice comprise the office's five main areas of focus.

In its support and planning role, the Office of Substance Abuse maintains close ties with over forty drug and alcohol prevention and rehabilitation centers throughout the city. It distributes a wide variety of informational material concerned with substance abuse, sponsors educational seminars for professional care givers, provides consultation to the Police Department and courts, and handles specific case referrals.

The office also conducts investigations into the effects of newly discovered street substances, and seeks to reduce the impact of substance abuse on the city by monitoring and initiating constructive legislation and funding proposals.

For more information, telephone 725-3112 or write to the Office at 31 State Street, Boston, Mass. 02109 for a free brochure—Paul Robinson, Director.

Youth Activities Commission (YAC)

The Youth Activities Commission (YAC) is the city's primary youth serving agency. Operating out of eleven multi-service, Youth Resource Centers throughout the city, YAC aids some 25,000 young people annually. The agency's services include career, family and development counseling; crisis intervention; and education and recreation programs—all implemented by trained youth workers assigned to schools and strategic street locations in every neighborhood of the city.

YAC's Diversion Program forms a unique and vital link between troubled youth and the law. Working with the Boston Police Department and juvenile courts, trained YAC police liaisons in district stations and courts serve as advocates for young offenders involved in nonviolent crimes by referring them to a variety of neighborhood-based treatment and rehabilitation programs administered by youth specialists.

As the main recruitment resource for the city's Summer Jobs Program, YAC matches eligible youths with appropriate job slots, and provides follow-up monitoring and evaluation. The commission also operates the Summer Youth Recreation Program enjoyed by 12,000 youngsters each summer, and participates in the new, year-round, Youth Employment Program.

To assist with career counseling, the Massachusetts Occupational Information System (MOIS) has been introduced at each Youth Resource Center. MOIS is a computerized information bank containing extensive career planning data on over 95 percent of all professions in the Commonwealth requiring formal training as a prerequisite for employment.

For more information, telephone 266-7600, 73 Hemenway Street. See list of Youth Resource Centers—Donald B. Manson, Executive Director.

ELDERARTS URGES: GET INVOLVED!

Two lines of older men and women flex their knees as dance instructor Ed Koenig informs them: "We seniors eat too much. We sleep too much. We drink too much. We need to exercise!" For the next hour, Koenig dances his group through everything from waltzes to hustles in a dance class made possible by ElderArts, a program of the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly.

The ElderArts program was first announced in December, 1977, as an outgrowth of the Office of Cultural Affairs' Senior Summerthing. Mayor Kevin H. White says, "ElderArts attempts to provide older Bostonians with opportunities to contribute their great reservoir of time, talent, experience, and enthusiasm to the arts."

ElderArts urges active involvement of seniors in the arts by offering a variety of programs. Project Homespun provides a marketing outlet at Faneuil Hall for crafts created by elders. An Artists in Residence Program permits artists to spend time teaching and working at selected senior sites with interested elders. Five, resident artists now offer painting, photography, choral singing, crafts, and horticulture. The Arts Sampler Program provides opportunities for senior groups to encounter and try new arts experiences in a set of five, weekly sessions whose offerings include line dancing, mime, painting, basketweaving, stained glass, astrology, and handwriting analysis.

Music, theatre, feature, and discussion-provoking films and lecture demonstrations comprise an extensive ElderArts performance series. Some performances are reserved for requests from senior groups and at least two performances per month are reserved for nursing homes.

ElderArts also works to increase senior access to the arts by providing information and referral services. Special publications periodically appear to assist elder groups and individuals interested in arts programs. For instance, an arts access brochure, listing over 100 arts institutions and attractions with location and admission information, will be published this year. ElderArts also develops joint programs with other cultural institutions and assist successful arts programs whose initial funding has run out.

"ElderArts is the only, full-scale, arts program in the country sponsored by a city department for the elderly," says Elderly Affairs Commissioner Elaine Guiney. ElderArts programs are offered in Community Schools, nutrition sites, elderly housing, nursing homes, churches, and multi-service centers. All programs are free of charge to Boston citizens over sixty years of age. There is a small fee to cover the cost of materials in some cases.

For further information on ElderArts, or any other of the programs offered by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, call the Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Mayor appoints Joseph Alviani Acting Corporation Counsel.

Mayor Kevin H. White has appointed Joseph D. Alviani as acting corporation counsel for the City of Boston.

Alviani, thirty-three, had served as special counsel to the Mayor since October, 1977. He will succeed Herbert Gleason as corporation counsel.

Said Mayor White, "Joe Alviani brings to the corporation counsel job a keen legal mind coupled with a broad experience in government. His grasp of issues and his ability to formulate practical solutions to complex, public-policy problems will prove genuine assets in this most demanding of positions. Herb Gleason's shoes will be difficult to fill. I think Joe Alviani is the one who can do it."

During his tenure as special counsel to the Mayor, Alviani served as liaison between the Mayor's Office, the corporation counsel, and city department heads. He also monitored the affirmative action agreement between the city and the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, and helped develop the city strategy on the tax-exempt suit against the state.

From 1974 to his appointment, Alviani had served the U.S. Conference of Mayors first as a legislative counsel for criminal justice, health, and employment and training, and more recently as executive director and associate general counsel.

A magna cum laude graduate of Dartmouth College, Alviani graduated from Harvard Law School in 1970. Book editor of the Harvard Journal on Legislation, he was associated with the Boston law firm of Goodwin, Proctor and Hoar from 1971 to 1973.

RICHARD KELLIHER RESIGNS AS DIRECTOR OF OPS

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced that Richard Kelliher, director of the Mayor's Office of Public Service (OPS), has resigned his position, effective no later than March 15.

Kelliher, twenty-nine, of West Roxbury, has directed OPS, which administers the city's Little City Halls program, since January of 1978.

Kelliher said he would pursue his law studies at Suffolk University full-time this spring. He was graduated from Harvard in 1971.

He joined the White administration in 1972, serving in the Office of Criminal Justice.

He worked in a public safety capacity from 1973-1975 during busing, heading the rumor control center and coordinating neighborhood planning.

Mayor White appointed him manager of the Jamaica Plain Little City Hall in March of 1976.

The Mayor said Kelliher was a steady and dependable administrator who related to people well. He has served the city well in several difficult roles, and I wish the best for him."

AMERICAN HEART MONTH

Kathryn White attends opening of Cardiac Stress Unit at Boston YMCA and kickoff of American Heart Month.

Mrs. Kathryn White on January 22, attended ceremonies marking the opening of a Cardiac Stress Test Unit at the Boston YMCA and the beginning of American Heart Month held at the Greater Boston YMCA on Huntington Avenue.

The Cardiac Stress Test program is a joint venture of the Greater Boston YMCA and the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Hospital. The stress test is geared for post-cardiac patients and is followed by a monitored exercise program for participants. The cost for the program for patients referred by their physician is approximately one half the price charged at private facilities.

"By naming February 'American Heart Month' we launch the annual campaign against America's number one cause of death — heart disease. This campaign is especially important to Boston's elderly, who suffer the most from the effects of heart disease. This new Cardiac Stress Test Unit is a major preventive measure which will provide more affordable services to many of Boston's senior citizens," Mrs. White said.

Joining Mrs. White, wife of Boston Mayor Kevin H. White, at the ceremonies were Dr. Alvin Sinoff, director of the Greater Boston YMCA, Dr. Walter Downing, chairman of the Board of the Greater Boston YMCA, and Ms. Judith Chevarley of the American Heart Association.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Dr. Robert C. Wood, superintendent of the Boston Public Schools, has announced the appointment of Peter G. Meade to fill the post of senior manager of intergovernmental affairs. The appointment has been approved by the School Committee and Meade will assume his duties immediately at a salary of $32,000.

Meade previously was commissioner of Parks and Recreation for the City of Boston and directed the Office of Public Service and the Community Schools Program. He was coordinator of the public safety campaign for Phase II of Boston's school desegregation. Recently Meade campaigned for the office of state auditor and received statewide support.

Superintendent Wood praised the selection of Meade, who was chosen after a nationwide search. His responsibilities include the development of strategies to ensure continued acquisition of state and federal funds while working with senior staff to develop new priorities as acceptable proposals.

The selection of Meade leaves one senior management vacancy. A search continues to fill the post of senior manager of equal opportunity.

A chemist stepped up to the drug counter, hesitated for a moment, and asked for some acetylsalicylic acid.

"You mean aspirin," said the druggist sarcastically.

"That's right," the chemist replied apologetically. "You know, I never can remember that name."

CONTRACTS AMENDED

The Mayor has approved the amending of contracts, based on the following information:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT Purchasing Division Scanner Accessories

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On June 8, 1977, your Honor approved a permission to award a contract to Dennen Instruments, Inc., for furnishing an ultra sound body scanner to the Boston City Hospital. This company was the lowest responsible and eligible bidder on the publicly opened bid. The approximate total amount of contract read $57,500, less 2 percent discount, time of payment. It should have read, net.

The original proposal, No. 324, provided for prices for optional accessories at various prices which were not awarded at that time.

The City Hospital has now requested certain of the optional items. Permission is requested to amend my letter dated June 7, 1978, and approved by your Honor on June 8, 1978, to include optional accessories A, $2,030; C, $21,000; D1, $6,400; and F, $4,500, and increase the approximate total amount of contract for Dennen Instruments, Inc. to read $72,630, net, F.O.B. Santaana, California.

Respectfully yours,

Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

Drugs

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On July 17, 1978, your Honor approved a letter to award contracts to several companies for furnishing drugs to the various city departments, for the period from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, inclusive, as a result of publicly opened bids of May 25, 1978.

Permission is requested to cancel the contract with Rachelle Laboratories, Inc.

The amount of the contract for Park Davis & Co. read $76,500, net, 30. Permission is requested to amend the original letter dated July 12, 1978, and award Item 31 to this company and have the amount of the contract read $82,080, net, 30.

Respectfully yours,

Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

CITY COUNCIL Legal Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your written permission to amend Contract No. SC-7558-78, awarded to Charles F. Choate, Choate, Hall & Stewart, 28 State Street, Boston, who is representing the members of the Boston City Council with respect to a case entitled, Inmates, et al., v. Eisenstadt et al.

This contract was originally authorized in the amount of $15,000. An additional amount of $720 is necessary in order that we may process payment on Mr. Choate's final billing statement for this fiscal year.

Your consideration of this matter would certainly be appreciated.

Sincerely,

James M. Coyle,
Staff Director.

EEPA

Keypunch Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend a contract with Key Entry, Inc., One Bulfinch Place, Boston, Mass. 02114. Approval of the contract amendment for $2,000 will increase the total contract to an amount not to exceed $14,500. This amendment is necessary because of the extensive and continuous programs operated by EEPA, requiring the maintenance of keypunch services.

Under the terms of this amendment, Key Entry will continue to provide keypunching services to the Employment and Economic Policy Administration for its CETA, Title I, Management Information System. The new period of performance will extend the contract (presently October 1, 1976, to June 30, 1978) through September 30, 1978. Funds for this amendment will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203.

Because Key Entry has been very successful in fulfilling its contractual obligations to date while maintaining reasonable costs, it is my opinion that no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Youth Program Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend a contract with Action for Boston Community Development, Inc. (ABCD), 150 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass. 02111, in connection with the operation of the FY 1978 Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth (SPEDY). The purpose of the amendment is to increase the contract amount to provide additional participant opportunities made possible by an increase in federal funding.

The amendment will increase the contract amount by $300,000, to an amount not to exceed $3,500,000. Funds for the operation of this contract are being provided to the city through a grant from the federal government under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will continue to be effective for the period June 1, 1978, through September 30, 1978.

Because of the beneficial nature of the services to be provided to economically disadvantaged youth in the City of Boston, the reasonable cost thereof, and the prior success of the contractor in operating the SPEDY program, no public purpose would be served by inviting sealed bids in connection with this award. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

HEALTH AND HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT Food Delivery Service

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby request your Honor's permission to amend, without advertising, the city's contract with Therma Tray Corporation, 801 Montross Avenue, South Plainfield, N. J. 07080, under which said Therma Tray Corporation is providing a centralized food delivery service to the Boston City Hospital, during the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $32,526.

This amendment shall increase the city liability by $5,868, and has been occasioned primarily by a fire which occurred on March 2, 1978, in the supply room area of the kitchen resulting in a loss of approximately $4,000 worth of Therma Tray supplies. The balance of $1,868 is almost equally divided between the cost created by a power outage during the storms of January and February, 1978, when the steam dishwashing system was rendered inoperative and the increase in the patient census within the past five or six months.

In view of the above and because the cost to the city, in my opinion, is reasonable, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to approve the award of this amendment in the stated amount.

Very truly yours,

David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

HOUSING INSPECTION DEPARTMENT Computer Services, etc.

Dear Mayor White:

I hereby request your permission to amend contract, currently for the amount of $130,000 and effective from July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978, with Scientific Time Sharing Corporation (STSC), 7316 Wisconsin Avenue, Bethesda, Maryland, for professional programming and computer services for the Mayor's Office of Housing.

Under the terms of the amendment, the original contract will be increased to an amount not to exceed $142,000, an increase of an additional $12,000. Payment for the contract and the amendment will be made from the Community Development Block Grant.

As the caseload and services of the Mayor's Office of Housing continues to increase, additional programming and computer services are needed from STSC. In particular, programming costs will continue to increase as our database increases.

In view of the high quality of services furnished by STSC to date, I recommend that the maximum compensation to STSC be raised to a level of $142,000 and that public advertising will serve no useful purpose. Considering the increased volume and additional services provided by STSC, the additional cost of $12,000 is quite reasonable.

Sincerely,

John A. Vitagliano,
Commissioner.

MAYOR'S OFFICE Health Care Program

Dear Mr. Mayor,

On November 28, 1977, this department

warded a contract approved by your Honor, without public advertising, to Affiliated Hospitals Center, Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, d/b/a Brookside Park Family Life Center, for the period August 1, 1977, through July 31, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $80,000. Your authorization is requested to amend this contract by extending the original cost of the contract by $31,000. Under the terms of the original agreement, Brookside Park Family Life Center conducted a comprehensive health care program which included adult medicine, pediatrics, obstetrics, gynecology, dentistry, social service, and mental health services for the Jamaica Plain area. The amendment of this contract will allow for the expansion and implementation of necessary services and supplies. The cost of this amendment is in my opinion a reasonable price for the additional services. The cost of the contract as amended, shall not exceed $111,000.

In the interest of continuity of service delivery, it is my view that public advertising could not serve any useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely,
Katharine D. Kane,
Deputy Mayor.

PUBLIC FACILITIES DEPARTMENT
Engineering Services, etc.

Dear Mr. Mayor:
Pursuant to a recent vote of the Public Facilities Commission, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to enter into an agreement with DI Corporation, formerly Comprehensive Designers, Inc., a Pennsylvania corporation registered to do business in Massachusetts, with local offices at 197 First Avenue, Needham, Mass., amending a contract executed November 14, 1977, to provide general engineering services and technical assistance to the Public Facilities Department in preparing multiple plans and specifications for use in carrying out a part of the alteration and repair program and emergency work performed during the period July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978, so as to increase the amount authorized for expenditure from $15,000 to $20,000.

This requested increase of $5,000 is necessary to cover additional work not planned or contemplated when the contract was originally proposed.

Due to the provisions of the law to the effect that executed and existing city contracts may be altered only by a writing signed by all parties thereto, including the Mayor and bonding company, public advertising in this instance could serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
Victor E. Hagan,
Acting Director.

CPM Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:
Pursuant to a vote of the Public Facilities Commission on June 28, 1978, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to enter into an agreement with Systematic Associates, Inc., a Massachusetts corporation of 123 Highland Avenue, Needham, Mass., amending a contract executed September 16, 1977, to provide Critical Path Method (CPM) services in connection with the construction of Southwest High School II, so as to increase the amount authorized for expenditure from $64,370 to $73,920.

This amendment extends the period of performance five months to coincide with the now estimated completion date of the project and provides additional payment for the extra monthly progress evaluations, weekly job meetings, and special consultations for claims work.

Due to the provisions of the law to the effect that executed and existing city contracts may be altered only by a writing signed by all parties thereto, including the Mayor and bonding company, public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
Donald B. Manson,
Director.

Blueprints, etc.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On June 28, 1978, you approved my written request dated June 22, 1978, to award a contract to Beacon Blueprint, Inc., 32 Lincoln Street, Boston, according to the following prices.

$.0289, $.10, $.55 for making and delivering blue line and blueprints for period July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979.

Inadvertently, we now ascertain that Beacon is not the lowest of the four bids received at this department on May 17, 1978. Our recent computation reveals that B.L. Makepeace, Inc. is the low bidder by $340.

Therefore, I respectfully request that my letter of June 22, 1978, be amended as follows:

(1) By striking out in the third paragraph the following words and figures: "Beacon Blueprints, Inc., 32 Lincoln Street, Boston, Mass., $.0289, $.10, $.55";

(2) by inserting in the place thereof the following words and figures: "B.L. Makepeace, Inc., 1266 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., $.029, $.12, $.45."

Except for this substitution of bidders my written request of June 22, 1978, remains in effect.

Respectfully,
Donald B. Manson,
Director.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT
Drawbridge Repairs

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On September 6, 1977, your Honor authorized a contract to the Metropolitan Corporation, 15 Saw Mill Lane, Medfield, Mass., to provide for repairs to existing mechanical equipment at various drawbridges.

In carrying out the above contract on the drawbridges, certain repairs had to be made requiring the use of other companies for machining of parts far too large for Metropolitan to manage.

The work was carried out by the other companies, but the billing for these services to Metropolitan Corporation came months later and added to the total amount of money that could be spent on the contract.

Therefore, your authorization is respectfully requested to amend the contract from $24,700 to $28,913.86. The cost of this request, in my opinion, is reasonable.

Very truly yours,
Joseph F. Casazza,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

Vocational Counseling Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I am writing this letter on behalf of the School Committee and upon the recommendation of its Board of Superintendents, to request your authorization for the extension of the contract, which has already been approved, for the position of special needs vocational counselor, under the Department of Special Services, Area of Mainstream Programs, for the specified services stated in the contract at a cost not to exceed a total of $1,881.

Mr. Edward W. Raynor, Jr. has been selected because of his specific background in counseling and the work which he has already accomplished in the Project No. 78-035-174B. The original contract was for the amount of $8,400, for the period from December 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978. This extension and amendment will change the contract to read $10,281, for the period of December 1, 1977, to August 11, 1978. The terms of this extension are for 150 hours at a compensation rate of $12.54 per hour, not to exceed a total of $1,881. This extension is to be charged to the same account under P.L. 94-142, Project No. 78-035-174B, for the period from June 30, until August 11, 1978.

Therefore, it is the determination of the School Committee that the interest of the Boston Public Schools would not be served by public advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Educational Programs

Dear Mayor White:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston, I request your written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement and to award to Thompson Island Education Center, the following amendments to a contract for participation in the development of education programs at Barnes/Michelangelo Schools:

Change the amount from $24,871, to $20,066.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this contract and the expertise of the contractor in providing such services, it is the determination of the Board of Superintendents, and has been approved by the School Committee, that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Yours truly,

Dear Mayor White:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston, I request your written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement and to award to Thompson Island Education Center, the following amendments to a contract for participation in the development of educational programs at McKay School:

Change the amount from $9,000, to $8,572. Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this contract and the expertise of the contractor in providing such services, it is the determination of the Board of Superintendents, and has been approved by the School Committee, that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Yours truly,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On May 18, 1977, this department awarded a contract without public advertisement for bids to the Massachusetts General Hospital, Ambulatory Care Division, Fruit Street, Boston, MA 02114, for special education services to Boston Public School pupils in accordance with each child's education plan devised for him by the School Department staff, during the period July 1, 1974, through June 30, 1977, at a cost not to exceed $11,600.35.

Your authorization is requested to amend this contract to provide additional funds for treatments that were not anticipated under the original contract. The treatments are required in each child's individual education plan. As amended the cost will not exceed $25,000.

Because it has been determined that this child or these children is/are in immediate need of special attention, and due to the professional nature of the services to be performed, and the expertise of the facility in this area, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertising for bids. Payments to this facility will be based on the rate structure established by the Rate Setting Commission of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Remodeling

I request your approval of my action to amend the contract with the Camdele Construction Co., 154 Salem Street, Boston, Mass., for math lab remodeling at the Jeremiah E. Burke High School, 60 Washington Street, Roxbury, Mass., from $10,479 to $14,299.

This amendment becomes necessary because on May 1, 1978, no subbids were received for math lab remodeling at the Jeremiah E. Burke High School. An allowance of $3,500 was carried by all of the general contractors for heating and ventilating work. Invited subbids were sent out to five contractors and the prices received were as follows:

J. A. Marino Automatic Heating Co., Inc., no bid; Edward H. Marchant Co., Inc., $7,320; D & F Plumbing & Heating Co., Inc., no bid; J. J. Hurley & Co., Inc., $7,390; American Heating Co., no bid.

The lowest acceptable bid was submitted by Edward H. Marchant Co., Inc., 15 St. Germain Street, Quincy, Mass. in the amount of $7,320. The price of the general contractor was amended from $10,479 to $14,299, which reflects a difference of $3,820.

Respectfully submitted,
Anthony L. Galeota,
Chief Structural Engineer.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Your authorization is requested to amend this contract by the adoption of the new rate set by the Massachusetts Rate Setting Commission of $13,467 per child, per year. The cost of the contract as amended shall not exceed $404,995.

Because it has been determined that this child or these children is/are in immediate need of special attention, and due to the professional nature of the services to be performed, and the expertise of the facility in this area, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertising for bids.

Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

On December 22, 1978, the department responded to still alarm, Box 1812, at 0420 hours for a fire at 19 Montpelier Road.

Acting Fire Lieut. Edward Hudalla, Ladder Company 20, entered the apartment and made his way through the heavily charged area to the rear rooms where he found an unconscious woman on the floor. He moved her to the front of the apartment where he was assisted by Fire Fighter Richard Stedman in removing her to safety. Acting Lieut. Hudalla continued the search and found a young boy under a bed in the rear bedroom whom he carried to safety.

Because the actions performed by Acting Lieut. Hudalla and Fire Fighter Stedman were done at great personal risk to themselves, the Fire Commissioner/Chief is pleased to highly commend these members and refers their cases to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

VIII. LETTERS OF THANKS

"Dear Commissioner Paul:

On Christmas Day around 3:30 p.m., one of your men on duty at the Oliver Street Station in Boston, showed great courtesy to us. We did not get his name but we are eager to express our gratitude for his help.

While men like him are on the staff of any of Boston's departments, the city is a good place to live.

It would please us too, if your were to include this commendation in his work file.

Sincerely,

Regina C. Caffrey."

"Dear Commissioner:

I want to take a moment to express the appreciation of the Red Cross Blood Service for the truly amazing turnout of fire fighters over the New Year's weekend.

As I mentioned to you on the phone, our blood supplies were at critically low levels and the response of your men and your willingness to cooperate helped us through a trying period. Over one-third of the donors at our 99 Brookline Avenue center this weekend were fire fighters, reinforcing my belief that these men are a special group with a strong commitment and dedication to this community.

I hope that you will express my gratitude and the gratitude of all those in the Blood Services to the men.

With best wishes,

Jerry Hauer, M.H.S.,

The American National Red Cross Blood Program,
812 Huntington Avenue,
Boston, MA 02115"

"Dear Sir:

We wish to express our sincere gratitude to the men of Engine Company 43, Ladder 20. Their quick action in getting our father to the City Hospital probably saved his life.

He is now in the intensive care unit.

Sincerely,

The Toner Family."

"Dear Sir:

On Friday, January 12th, about 4:30 p.m., I was not feeling too well so I went to your fire station on Cambridge Street and asked your men if I could rest awhile.

While there, I could not breathe. Your men gave me oxygen and called an ambulance. I refused to go to the hospital so they got me a taxi and I got home safely.

Please extend my many thanks to them as I am sure they saved my life.

Thanks again for all they did.

Louis C. Jacobs."

NEIGHBORHOOD EVOLUTION: A CLOSER LOOK

Part V

Interview

On September 7th the Parkman Center for Urban Affairs held a conference on the subject of neighborhood stability and juvenile misbehavior. The problem is a serious one. Antisocial activities on the part of kids (who in this instance may be in their twenties) represent perhaps the greatest personal threat to neighborhood security and self-confidence. Groups of young people who congregate on street corners or in parks, often late at night, and who behave in disruptive and abusive ways are perceived as a constant nuisance or danger. This can be true even when no felonies are involved. For that matter, it is no exaggeration to say that residents in some parts of this and other cities have literally been driven out of their homes by young people.

The problem has been so endlessly discussed that the Parkman Center sponsored the conference with modest hopes of what it might achieve. A minimum goal was to introduce to one another a group of concerned individuals from both inside and outside the criminal justice system. Personal relationships, especially at the local level, can sometimes accomplish what organizations cannot accomplish.

Included in the group were neighborhood residents and representatives of the police force, the judiciary, the Division of Youth Services, Boston's Youth Activities Commission, and community agencies. Participants were chosen, in part, to represent the major interest groups concerned. This approach not only provided a variety of viewpoints, but also helped to prevent the kind of scapegoating that can occur when one institution or another is not present.

Worsening Problem

Most participants agreed that the problem appears to be worsening. While the number of kids who hang out on street corners, vandalize property, and harass residents, may or may not be greater, the nature of their actions has grown more and more alarming. This seems a national trend. As the director of a neighborhood multiservice center put it: "Now you feel you've got to put up with their breaking in. You just hope you can stop them from wrecking the place or stealing the equipment."

Another participant suggested that what we have done is to lower our standards of tolerable behavior. As a society, we have adapted to juvenile delinquencies which would have been unthinkable a few years ago. Furthermore, the safeguards we used to trust — police, courts, correctional agencies — no longer seem to be functioning effectively to protect society against a segment of its own youth.

Institutional Safeguards

Police — Although the problem of threatening, disruptive groups of youths goes well beyond the bounds of the criminal justice system, it was inevitable that much of the evening's discussion focused on the narrower issue of that system and its failings.

Over the last few years, the spotlight of blame has somewhat shifted away from the police. The public, or at least the media, is now

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

The City Record, Boston's official municipal publication, presents a brief biography of the forty-five Mayors who have served the City of Boston commencing with the first Mayor, John Phillips, 1822, to Boston's present Mayor, Kevin Hagan White, 1975.

This series is written for Bostonians and visitors who are interested in Boston's history, especially its Mayors. They will find in its pages, a brief account of the rendition of services to the residents of Boston by its Mayors during their respective administrations.

JOSEPH J. FAHEY,

First Mayor
JOHN PHILLIPS
1822-1823

On February 23, 1822, the Governor of Massachusetts approved the act establishing the City of Boston. The charter incorporating the city was accepted by the town March 4, 1822. The city government was thereupon organized. When the new charter was drafted, it established the principal head of the city, to be named "Mayor." On May 1, 1822, John Phillips was chosen Boston's first mayor.

John Phillips was one of the committee of twelve which reported favorably upon a charter to make the town of Boston a city. After the charter was adopted, an unsuccessful attempt was made to elect a mayor, but the factions could not more aware of inadequacies farther along in the criminal justice process.

Neighborhood . . .

Nevertheless, poor police response continues to be a widespread complaint. Statistics indicate how much of a concern juvenile activities are. Some 800 calls a day — 20 percent of the total — request police presence to deal with juveniles.

"Maybe they can't do much," one person said, "but when kids are wrecking a house or burning a stolen car, you feel that the cops ought to at least show up." That expectation is only increased by the knowledge that Boston has one of the largest police departments per capita in the country.

A police representative agreed that response time left something to be desired. However, he also noted that it is hard to motivate police officers whose experience tells them if and when they apprehend offenders, it is unlikely that those offenders will ever be punished.

"You've got so many calls to deal with, and you've got to set priorities. We know how annoying this can be, but a bunch of beer-drinking, foul-mouthed kids is still a lower priority than an armed assault or a rape."

Courts — Criticism directed at lenient judges and inefficient courts has become increasingly common. Some of the criticism may be well deserved. However, a judge, one of the more vocal participants of the evening, argued that he himself was hampered in administering effective justice.

"I believe reasonable punishment and limit-setting are acts of concern and love. I agree about the roots of crime, but I have to deal with reality as it appears before me everyday, and I am talking especially about the serious, juvenile, multiple offender. I have been threatening him with 'or else' — which means DYS — and in too many instances, 'or else' turns out to be a paper tiger. I turn them over, and they may be back on the street the same day. There aren't nearly enough secure slots.

If a kid runs away, there's no penalty. He may simply vanish out of the system. DYS can be a kind of sieve, and streetwise kids know that. The present system is an absolute disaster.

What really troubles me is that it gives them a false sense of security. A kid can commit a crime the last day before his seventeenth birthday and quite literally get away with it. He may commit the same crime a day later and find himself facing a stretch in Walpole. Believe me, we aren't doing him a favor by letting him off as a juvenile. Strange as it may seem, I often give suspended sentences or continuances because there is more assurance of some supervision."

Division of Youth Services — In response to the judge's criticism, the DYS representative was encouragingly undefensive. He granted the need for more secure slots, although questioning the number required. He admitted the need to tighten up administration of the department, but argued that no reasonable person would want to go back to the old system. But most of all, he tried to lower expectations of what DYS, at the best, was capable of. "You are making a mistake," he said, "if you think that we are the solution to the problem. We are not and never can be."

The participant from DYS said that he, too, had changed some of his liberal notions.

"My philosophical mistake the past was to regard juvenile delinquency entirely as society's fault. I don't think that anymore. I do think that young people have got to see themselves as part of a larger community. There are many ways of handling problem kids before they get to us. Having offenders go before a mediation panel attached to a court is one way. It takes away some of the anonymity of crime. It also allows community representatives the chance to work out creative sentencing. It puts an offender into human touch with someone he may have injured and the neighborhood at large. To me that is both a liberal and conservative approach."

The continuation of progressive methods of correction was of great concern to the DYS representative. However, he saw growing problems with public acceptance of that approach, simply because DYS has not been able to deal with a minority of serious offenders.

Special Services — The DYS participant made a point of further interest. He suggested that activities in the area of mental health may be oriented too much to the middle class neurotic and not nearly enough to the "violent poor."

"You've got to remember that some of the kids we get are really sick kids. It isn't a matter of being firm and teaching them a lesson. The need for psychiatric help of a major kind."

Even those who do not require psychiatric care may be in need of special programs. As someone else pointed out, delinquency is often rooted in educational problems. Antisocial behavior, stemming from learning disabilities, perhaps could be alleviated if Boston were to move forward in implementing chapter 766 programs in its schools.

Job Programs — Although it is difficult to determine to what extent jobs reduce juvenile delinquency, most people agreed that jobs were very important and cited the summer work program as an example Bad as it is, it does a hell of a lot of good," was a typical comment.

The director of a community center urged that the jobs program be ear-round and advocated more meaningful jobs, including placements with local businesses. There was a consensus that federal restrictions on youth employment funds should be changed. While some private, nonprofit agencies clearly know how to administer valuable youth work programs, other agencies divert limited resources in order to "think up" asks for kids.

"Look, they can tell me as a social service agency that I have forty slots, but I'm not equipped to administer that many jobs. It's often a waste. And it can also teach bad habits. There are kids who see summer jobs in agency-type work as a bribe, pure and simple."

Youth Activities Commission — Job counseling and job placement were also mentioned as possible additional functions for the city's Youth Activities Commission. A critic of YAC felt that youth workers perhaps have seen themselves too much as youth advocates — buddies so to speak — rather than as professionals with a much more complicated role to play. "Befriending kids, by itself, is no great thing," someone offered.

Although it did not occupy much time during the evening, in follow-up conversations the goals and methods of YAC clearly were a concern. What does it hope to accomplish? What models does it work from in its interventions? How does it measure its success?

At times it seems as if YAC's goals are not harmonious with neighborhood needs. As a YAC worker herself pointed out, it is unrealistic to make seventeen years of age the cut-off point for intervention when eighteen-, nineteen-, and twenty-year-olds are often the core of a neighborhood's difficulties. She mentioned that it is likewise unrealistic to have YAC workers leave the streets at 11 p.m., when some of the worst nuisance occurs in the early morning hours.

Re-examining our Institutions

If the institutional safeguards we have established are serving us poorly, it is necessary to take a second look at them.

The director of the multiservice center touched on this when he brought up the role public institutions are asked to play. Citing his own experiences as an example, he confessed that his neighborhood house ought to define its purpose more clearly. No longer could it follow the cradle-to-grave model of community service which had been represented by the old settlement house. "We've tried to be all things to all people, and it's just not working. It's impossible. There are kids in our neighborhood we can't help, and we've got the best youth workers around."

The adequacy of institutions was a debated issue. One participant argued strongly that in the past decade our institutions — schools, courts, various youth services — have become far more sensitive and responsive than in the past.

"My own feeling is that the issue is being looked at a lot more intelligently than it was fifteen years ago. We've begun to see that institutional response is a key. Institutions were simply failing kids. We learned that we really had to view the youth problem in a much larger context — the context of poverty, for instance. My own feeling is that there has been an extraordinary movement in a relatively short period. Ten or twelve years ago, for instance, you couldn't even talk alternative schools. The connection between frustration over learning and antisocial behavior didn't even come up. Today the willingness to take risks is much greater than it was. Our job now is to sort out programs that worked from those that haven't, give them adequate funding, and see them through."

A number of other people in the room, concerned about the problem as it is experienced on an immediate, neighborhood level, seemed to be impatient with this view. A majority of them tended to feel that institutions should be performing far better than they are performing.

However, the question of which functions they can or cannot adequately perform remained largely unanswered.

One assessment might be that we have all come to expect too much of our institutions. We have asked them to do what it is not always in their capacity to do well. We have overburdened them and then blamed them for breaking down. We have scapegoated and continue to scapegoat them because it is so hard to know how we personally can carry out certain critical responsibilities. It should be said, we are not always crying out for a return of these responsibilities.

One might have asked in the course of the evening whether our institutions can reasonably be expected to be better, more efficient, more decent than society at large. The implicit answer was no. If our institutions are failing, we are in error to fault them very much. As they become surrogates to the large extent they have, perhaps they are bound to serve badly.

No one would suggest giving up attempts to improve the schools, the police, the courts, the penal system, but there may be a curve of accelerating costs for decreasing gains as these institutions are asked to substitute for what families, voluntary associations, and communities at large might better do.

An article recently published in The Public Interest seems germane to the Parkman conference. Its author, David H. Bayley, brings up some interesting points on the whole relationship of culture and antisocial behavior. In a comparative study of U.S. and Japanese crime, he shows that although the two societies share many social and economic characteristics, Japan is much less crime-ridden. It is Mr. Bayley's contention that this is due to a stronger system of informal social controls. The vitality of pressure groups (family, peers, etc.), the legitimacy of authority, the broad sharing of responsibility for law and order — all these contribute to keeping the crime rate low. Japanese culture and values are probably more important in determining orderliness than anything else.

Whether American culture, traditions, and values can permit a similar end-result is questionable. The author is not overly optimistic on this point and suggests that a high level of antisocial behavior perhaps is a logical conclusion to the American social and value structure, with its emphasis on individual freedom.

A psychiatrist attending the conference also had an observation to make on the American social order. He suggested that consistency, perhaps more than anything else; is critical in minimizing the delinquent behavior of young people.

"I think that consistency is more important than taking a hard line or a relatively softer line. But it very, very difficult for the public sector, through its host of services and programs, to produce consistency in an urban environment. It virtually cannot do that. Consistency must come from the family and the community. That is why I am somewhat pessimistic."

The evening conveyed a message, then, that no one particularly wants to hear; something at the core of our social values and arrangements has produced the problem, and its amelioration depends on improving those values and arrangements. In spite of this, though, the focus of the discussion turned again and again to institutional performance, perhaps because at least in this sphere there are officials to blame and improvements conceivably to be made. What everyone knew and could acknowledge — that the answer lies in such things as stronger family and community life — kept getting put aside.

Family and Community

A young woman, who maintains a Dorchester foster home with her husband, was insistent in her attempts to turn the focus away from public institutions.

"I've listened tonight and I haven't heard families talked about that much, yet that's where it begins. Mommy and Daddy are the core of the community, and there are many mothers who don't know how to 'mother' and fathers who don't know how to 'father' (or aren't even around). Parental loving is setting limits, and a lot of parents just don't know how to do it."

Some jokingly suggested that whole families should be committed instead of just youthful offenders, but almost at once a number of people were willing to reconsider the proposal in a serious light.

It's impossible, of course," said one. "But that's what you'd like to see. You'd like to see some help extended to the whole family, with penalties for not being willing to accept counseling."

It was noteworthy that even though the central role of the family was fully recognized, there were few ideas, even as off-handed as the one above, about how to strengthen family life.

More numerous were thoughts about a community response to juvenile problems. A police representative strongly suggested a neighborhood task force approach which would join residents, police, court personnel, parole officers, and others in a common front.

"It wouldn't work everywhere, but it's an approach that deserves to be tried. At the very least, everybody gets feed-back from everybody else about where the problem locations are and who the problem kids are. The way it is now, things just get passed along and nobody has a sense of the whole situation."

Another neighborhood-based approach was a citizen panel, attached to the local court, which could perform a variety of functions. It might, for instance, aid a judge in the disposition of cases or recommend work restitution to DYS. It might also bring offenders and victims together to lessen the anonymity of so much urban crime and other antisocial behavior. As one person suggested, in some instances it could make a real difference if a youth had to sit face-to-face with an elderly person whose home he had stoned at three in the morning.

An urban court model currently exists in the City of Boston, and while its success appears to be uneven, participants at the conference generally felt that citizen participation in the criminal justice process was an approach to be closely studied and further developed.

The Gooser

The final note of the evening was a frustrated call for action. A young member of the Police Department put it this way:

"Hey, we've got a whole laundry list of casual factors — poverty, poor parenting, mental and learning disabilities, lack of jobs. They're all important. We all know that. You have your pet theory, have mine, but the question is 'What the hell are we going to do about it?' We'll leave here tonight we'll say X ought to do this and Y ought to do that, and yeah, even Z ought to do something. But it won't happen unless we are always being prodded. The most important person in the world for public agencies is a 'gooser,' somebody who keeps coming back and asking, 'Did you do this? Did you do that?' I don't like it but it keeps me up to the mark."

choose between Josiah Quincy and Harrison Gray Otis. As it was felt that Phillips could unite the factions, he was asked to run. His almost unanimous election showed the wisdom of the nomination. He was inaugurated May 1, 1822, and ran the government along the lines of the new charter. Mr. Phillips was conservative, kind, and conciliatory. His administration which was marked by republican simplicity, enjoyed the confidence of all parties.

He was the son of William and Margaret Phillips, and was born November 26, 1770, on the family estate which is now the area occupied by Jordan Marsh or Washington Street. For many years his widowed mother kept the place of his birth as a drygoods store.

At the age of seven John Phillips entered Phillips Academy, Andover, founded by a relative. He went to Harvard and was graduated in 1784 as salutatory orator. After reading law with Judge Thomas Dawes, he was admitted to the bar. Upon the establishment of the Municipal Court, John Phillips was made prosecutor, and in 1809 he became judge of the Court of Common Pleas.

As one of the delegates in 1820 to revise the constitution of the state, he exhibited much wisdom and rare humor. In 1812 he became a member of the corporation of Harvard College, and as such served until his death, May 29, 1823.

"His administration laid the foundation of the prosperity of our city deep and on right principles," his successor, Mayor Quincy, said. Mayor Otis said of him: "His aim was to allure, not to repel, to reconcile by gentle reforms, not to revolt by startling innovations." As a speaker he was clear, forcible, conciliatory, and convincing.

He left at his death eight children, one of whom was Wendell Phillips, the great abolitionist orator.

Second Mayor
1823-1828

Josiah Quincy has been called the "Great Mayor." To him the city is indebted for Quincy Market and many of the early improvements. He was the son of Josiah Quincy, Jr. and Abigail Phillips, and was born February 4, 1772, in a house on Washington Street, not far from Milk Street.

It is said that his mother, a woman of great strength of character and original hygienic and social ideas, had her son, when he was but three years old, taken from bed every morning, winter and summer, into a cellar kitchen where he was dipped three times into a tub of water as cold as when it came from the pump.

He entered Phillips Academy at Andover when he was six, and entered Harvard when he was only fifteen. Upon graduating, the highest honor, the English oration, was given to him. He was admitted to the bar in 1793, and early became interested in public affairs, joining the Federalist party, to which he clung as long as it existed.

So brilliantly did Quincy deliver a Fourth of July oration in 1798, that he attracted much favorable attention, and though he was only twenty-eight, he was selected in 1800 by the Federalists to be their candidate for Congress. Though defeated that year, he was, in the spring of 1804, elected to the state Senate and to the Congress in the following November, serving three terms before he voluntarily retired.

While in Congress there was scarcely a question upon which he did not speak brilliantly and exhaustively. His attacks upon Jefferson and his administration were most bitter and sarcastic. After his withdrawal from Congress in 1813, he was elected to the Massachusetts Senate, and served there until 1820, when he was elected to the House and became its speaker.

In 1822, he was made a judge of the Municipal Court, and in the same year when the city government was formed, he was asked to be a candidate for mayor, running against Harrison Gray Otis. The first ballot resulted in no choice, and the two candidates withdrew and John Phillips was elected mayor. The next year Mr. Quincy was chosen mayor, and he at once laid a masterful hand on the tiller of affairs. He made himself chairman of all committees, improved the sanitary conditions of the city, and organized a system of street cleaning and collection of garbage.

In spite of determined opposition he personally secured the options, bought the land, and built Quincy Market. The cornerstone was laid by him, April 22, 1825, and he opened the market in 1827. The site was made by filling in the land around the town dock in the area of Faneuil Hall and the reclamation of about 125,000 square feet of land and flats. On this "made" land now known as Quincy Market. The total cost of the land and the market house was $1,100,000. The increased real estate values as well as the additional property secured by the city, more than paid for the whole improvement. The Fire Department was reorganized by Mr. Quincy, and he built, in South Boston, the House of Industry and the House of Correction. During his second administration Mayor Quincy had the honor of entertaining General Lafayette, who was then a guest of the city.

After being five times reelected, he was finally defeated, and retired from local politics. In 1829 he became president of Harvard, and resigned in 1845, at the age of seventy-three. He was a prolific writer on historic subjects. Among his works are "History of Harvard University," "A History of the Boston Athenaeum," a "Municipal History of the Town and City of Boston," and numerous historical monographs and biographies. Despite his great age he threw himself ardently into the antislavery controversy and the campaign to elect Lincoln. He died on July 1, 1864, at the age of ninety-two.

Third Mayor
HARRISON GRAY OTIS
1829-1831

The father of Harrison Gray Otis was Samuel Allyne Otis, and his mother was Elizabeth Gray, daughter of Harrison Gray, a Loyalist. Otis, who was born October 8, 1765, could remember standing at the window of his birthplace, which stood on the estate that joined the Revere House, and watching the British regulars march to Lexington.

In 1783, when but eighteen, he was a first-honor man at Harvard, and had already given evidence of brilliant oratory that was to give him such a prominent place in New England. He studied law with Judge Lowell, and was admitted to the bar. Each morning at a very early hour. Benjamin Bussy, a merchant, on his way to open his store, noticed a pair of shoes posted at the window of Judge Lowell's office, and led by his curiosity to learn who could be there, discovered young Otis at study. More curious to know if young Otis studied all night, Bussy went by one morning before daylight, and there were the shoes. He went in, and again found young Otis with his feet on the sill, who told him that the early morning was his favorite time to study. So impressed was the merchant that he straightway made Otis his attorney.

In 1796 Otis succeeded Fisher Ames as Congressional representative from Suffolk County. He became one of the leaders of the Federalist party, and upon his retirement from Congress was active in local political affairs, serving as Speaker of the House, and also as president of the Senate. In December of 1814, he was one of the delegates to the much-maligned "Hartford Convention," which met for the purpose of asking the federal government to allow Massachusetts and the neighboring states to assume their own defense and to raise taxes for this purpose. He was appointed, in 1814, judge of the newly established Boston Court of Common Pleas, and served until he resigned in 1818, having been elected in 1817 to the United States Senate. He was one of the great orators of his state. His wife, Sarah, was the daughter of William Foster.

His speech, in reply to Pinckney on the Missouri Compromise, was one of the great speeches of the debate. Upon his retirement from the Senate in 1823 he ran for the governorship, for which he had in 1816 declined a nomination, but was defeated. In 1829 he was elected mayor, and held office until 1831. He died October 28, 1848.

BOSTON CONSUMERS COUNCIL Counsels on Mail Orders

Delivery Schedules

Unless a specific delivery period is advertised, a company must ship merchandise within thirty days upon receipt of a valid order. If it can't, the company must offer the consumer the option of either 1) obtaining an immediate refund; or 2) agreeing to wait and additional stated period of time.

If a customer fails to respond to this notice with a refund request, the company will assume the buyer consents to the delay.

Should this second waiting period also expire without delivery of goods, a refund becomes automatic, unless the customer notifies the company of his willingness to wait even longer. (Even so, the consumer can still cancel at any time before shipment.)

Refunds

Credit card purchases: the mail order company must make an account adjustment within one billing cycle.

Cash, check, or money order payments: refunds must be issued within seven days following a legitimate demand. The company cannot limit refunds to merchandise credits.

Transactions Not Covered

1. "Services connected with merchandise" (primarily mail order photo finishing)
2. Magazines and other serial deliveries (book sets, for example)
3. Seeds and plants (deliveries generally depend on season)
4. Cash on delivery orders
5. Negative option plans (books and record clubs, for example, who send a monthly selection unless otherwise notified)

BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT THREE-HUNDREDTH-FIRST ANNIVERSARY

The following is a brief summary of the events leading up to the organization of the first fire company in the City of Boston and in the nation. On January 27, 1799, the Boston Fire Department celebrated the three-hundredth-first anniversary of the organization of the first fire company.

March 16, 1630

"A fire occurred in the Town of Boston when the chimney of Mr. Thomas Sharp took fire. The wooden construction, which was not clayed at the top, set fire to the thatch roof and burned the house to the ground.

Thus, the first recorded fire in Boston, the house of Mr. Sharp, which was believed to have been situated near the corner of Boylston and Washington Streets, started the events which lead to the appointment of the first fire officer and fire fighters in North America with the establishment of the first fire company.

At a town meeting held shortly after this fire, the first fire prevention law was established. "We have ordered that no man (in Boston) shall build his chimney of wood (which was covered with clay) nor cover his house with a roof of thatch."

January 14, 1653

The next major fire in Boston swept over the principal section of the town. Stored barrels of gunpowder made men fear to come near or to enter a burning house. The fire thus raged along State and Washington Streets. Three young children of the Sheaths family died in this fire, the first recorded fire deaths.

March 1, 1653

A "water engine" made by Joseph Junks, an iron worker from Lynn, was purchased by the selectmen of the town to aid in the fighting of fires. This engine failed in its first major fire.

March 14, 1653

In order to save lives and prevent the spread of fire, an act was passed by the selectmen at the town meeting. "The owners of buildings shall provide a ladder for each building that should reach the ridgepole. A 12-foot pole with a swab at the end to quench fires on the roof. The Town would provide six long ladders, hung on the outside of the Meeting House. Four strong iron hooks with attached chain and pole to pull down houses in the path of fire. Fire buckets are also supplied."

March 31, 1656

Mr. Jim Nabors was fined five shillings for allowing his chimney to catch fire.

November 27, 1676

At five o'clock in the morning, the terrible cry of "Fire" awakened Boston's inhabitants. Having started just north of Richmond Street, this fire consumed the area bounded by Richmond, Hanover, nd Clark Streets in just four hours. ne sparks were carried across the Charles River and at one point threatened Charlestown. A heavy downpour of rain added greatly in extinguishing this fire.

A secret and determined gang of "fire bugs" made many daring attempts to destroy the town. Candles were fastened to roofs, tallow poured on shingles; barns and warehouses were repeatedly set fire. Fear of flame stalked the town night after night.

The General Court became alarmed at these incendiary attacks and ordered that all persons in Boston, inhabitants or strangers, were directed to take the "oath of allegiance." For this purpose, constables and tax collectors were directed to take a census every three months.

January 27, 1678

At a town meeting, the first engine company in Boston was established naming a well-respected carpenter as its captain. "Mr. Thomas Atkins, with the aid of twelve assistants, will operate and maintain the fire engine purchased from England."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Therein lies the beginning of the Boston Fire Department. We believe it is second to none in the world.

"T" APPROVES CHANDLER STREET MINI-PARK

The MBTA will build a mini-park on Chandler Street near its intersection with Tremont Street in Boston's South End, in accordance with earlier assurances given to neighborhood and community groups before construction of the new Orange Line's South Cove Tunnel disrupted their street.

The Board of Directors has authorized the preparation of construction documents for a separate landscaping contract so that the park will be available for community use before tunnel construction is completed. The additional work will be done by the tunnel designers, Parsons, Brinkerhoff, Quade & Douglas (PBQ & D), under a $18,266, supplemental agreement to its original design contract. PBQ & D will also design weather protection louvers at the tunnel portal and extension of tunnel lighting under the Arlington-Tremont Street Bridge.

The South Cove Tunnel will be the connecting link between the existing Orange Line and a new, relocated line at Back Bay Station and in the Southwest Corridor.

In other Southwest Corridor-related action, the board approved the extension for three years of a lease at 131 Clarendon Street where the administrative offices for the South Cove Tunnel, Southwest Corridor, and Track Improvements Projects are located. The lease is for $43,000 a year.

WORK TO DO

Dear Lord, throughout this busy day
How shall I find the time to pray?
How can I possibly afford
To pause and have my soul
restored?

I'd like some leisure time with You,
But there is so much work to do.
When I had voiced this fervent plea
I seemed to hear God answer me:
"My child, for every common task
You have help, if you but ask.
You need not seek a place apart
To ease the longing in your heart.
Remember, God is yearning too,
To share in all the work you do."

MAYOR NAMES BLUE RIBBON COMMISSION TO STUDY PUBLIC HOUSING

Mayor Kevin H. White announced on January 25, the formation of "The Special Commission on the Housing Authority" to study public housing in Boston. The formation of the commission marks the commencement of a major effort to determine the effects of court intervention in public housing, a priority area named by the Mayor in his "State of the City" address.

The nine-member commission, chaired by Housing Developer Arnold Soloway, will conduct broad public debate on the effects of court intervention on public housing tenants and neighborhoods. It will also address the problems of management, funding, and accountability for public housing conditions. The commission will report its finding to the Mayor on May 1.

"On naming this commission of experts we will get the answers we need to act on one of Boston's most distressing problems — public housing," Mayor White said.

Boston Housing Authority operations have been under court supervision since a court-appointed master was assigned to the BHA in 1975, as a result of a class-action suit filed by BHA tenants.

Members of the Mayor's Special Commission on the Housing Authority are as follows:

Anna Mae Cole — Chairman, Board of Directors of the Tenants Policy Council; founder of Tenant Management Corporation, Bromley-Heath.

Neil Connors — Expert in the history of Public Housing; former administrator of the Boston Housing Authority; former chief economist, U. S. Public Housing Administration.

Carlos Diaz — Manager for Consumer Relations, MBTA; president, Cardinal Cushing Center for the Spanish-Speaking Advisory Board; Board of Directors Hispanic Office of Planning and Evaluation.

Barney Frank — Massachusetts Legislature, representative for Back Bay, Beacon Hill, and South End.

Herbert Gleason — Former corporation counsel, City of Boston; visiting scholar, Harvard Law School.

David Rosenbloom — Commissioner, Health and Hospitals Department.

Joseph Smith — Chairman, Allston Civic Association; Health Services Director, ABCD.

Arnold Soloway — Housing developer, owner, and manager; former faculty member, Economics Department, Harvard University.

Edward Sweeney — Chairman, Bunker Hill (Charlestown) Tenant Task Force.

FEBRUARY, BLACK HISTORY MONTH

February is Black or Afro-American History Month. It is an outgrowth of Negro History Week initiated in 1926 by the historian Carter G. Woodson. Woodson also founded the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History. For over fifty years that organization has published the Journal of Negro History and the Negro History Bulletin. Especially in the South, Negro History Week became the most popular celebration of Afro-American historical figures and events.

Exhibit

Caribbean Images: 1880 to 1910
February 1 through February 28

Over seventy photographs from the collections of the Library of Congress provide a visual awareness of life in the Caribbean islands between 1800 and 1910. Photographs of men, women, and children of Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Martinique, Jamaica, St. Kitts, Cuba, and other island countries reveal the strong African influence on Caribbean culture. One legacy of slavery was an adoption of some of the culture of the slave masters. This exhibit illustrates the overwhelming similarities of the African traditions in the islands regardless of the culture — French, Spanish, English, Dutch — of the colonizing powers. The exhibit was compiled by the Visuals Arts Research and Resource Center relating to the Caribbean.

Everyday (except Mondays) during February the Museum of Afro-American History will present continuous showings of films from its collection.

For information on subsequent showings call the Museum office, 445-7400 or the Gallery, 267-4160.

Museum Shop

The shop at the Gallery specializes in Afro-American handmade crafts — baskets, quilts, weavings, dolls, and jewelry, and in Black history books and curriculum materials. During Black History Month the shop will hold its annual "February Black Sale."

Month the shop will hold its annual "February Black Sale."

SENIOR SHUTTLE PROGRAM: IT WORKS

For the first time, Mary Morganelli, Virginia Bersani, Eleanor Roman, and Frances Grassa of Uphams Corner did not have to walk to lunch. They did not have to call taxis, nor did they have to request rides from relatives. Instead, The Senior Shuttle, provided by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, recently escorted the four friends, free of charge, to St. Patrick's Church Hall, Roxbury, to enjoy a hot lunch.

"The Mayor's Senior Shuttle provides seniors with one of their most needed services—transportation," says Elderly Affairs Commissioner Elaine Guiney. The four Uphams Corner women are representative of approximately 10,000 older Bostonians who use the Senior Shuttle vans each month for various kinds of outings.

The Uphams Corner Senior Shuttle driver is Jim Maloney. Like other shuttle drivers, he delivers his passengers, picks them up for the return trip home, and helps them in and out of the van when necessary.

"I heard about the shuttle from a sister at St. Patrick's," said Mary Morganelli of Burrell Street, and I'm going to try it to see how it works." Another senior approached the shuttle and asked if the van could escort him to a doctor's appointment in the future. "Just phone me at Uphams Corner Little City Hall," said Ken Black, neighborhood senior service coordinator. "We'll arrange a reservation."

Mayor Kevin H. White comments: "The Senior Shuttle provides elders with greater access to the community and allows them to avail themselves of the wide range of medical services, shopping areas, and recreational and cultural events which Boston offers."

Any Uphams Corner senior is eligible to utilize the Senior Shuttle service which operates out of Uphams Corner Little City Hall (287-1641). Individuals should contact the Uphams Corner Neighborhood Senior Service Coordinator, Ken Black, who will arrange a reservation with the local shuttle driver at Little City Hall.

For further information on the Senior Shuttle program, or on any of the other programs offered by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, call the Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

MAYOR'S REMARKS RE FEDERAL BUDGET

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White said today that budget cuts presented by the Carter administration for fiscal year 1980 "promote fiscal conservatism, but at the expense of the cities."

Mayor White, president of the National Conference of Democratic Mayors, said he hoped Congress would restore cuts made in the areas of public housing and hiring of the unemployed for public sector jobs.

"These are two areas that impact heavily on the cities," Mayor White said. "They are crucial areas. Public housing is a national shame as it is without cutting back on housing subsidies."

The Mayor noted that funds for subsidized housing under the Carter administration are less than in the Ford administration.

"If the new fiscal conservatism does succeed in cutting inflation," the Mayor said, "then perhaps it is worth some sacrifice."

"But what's wrong with the budget is that the brunt of that sacrifice is being carried by people who can at least afford it — the urban poor."

"I hope that a heavily Democratic Congress will remember its roots and preserve the historic Democratic commitment to the cities by restoring funds for vital programs."

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications.

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Personnel Division

Training Program

Dear Mayor White:

I hereby request your permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract in an amount not to exceed $15,000, to Organizational Dynamics, Inc., 16 New England Executive Park, Burlington Mass. 01803. Payment shall be made from the Administrative Services Department, Personnel Division.

Under the terms of the agreement, Organizational Dynamics, Inc., will provide an in-house, film-based, management and organizational development training system. The Managing for Productivity training program concentrates upon the dynamics of improving effectiveness and productivity, while at the same time, is a unique and custom-designed program for mid-level management personnel of the City of Boston. The period of performance shall be ongoing from June 15, 1978, through July 7, 1978.

The Organizational Dynamics, Inc. training program is authored and presented by George H. Labovitz, Ph.D., professor of organizational behavior at the Boston University School of Management, and an acclaimed speaker, author, and consultant in this field. In the interest of improving the management and productivity of the city's management personnel, I recommend that we enter into a contract with Organizational Dynamics, Inc., which is uniquely qualified to provide this type of educational management service.

Therefore, for the reason cited above, it is my view that public advertising would not serve any useful or practical purpose, and that the cost of this program is reasonable.

Sincerely,

John E. Murphy, Jr.,
Supervisor of Personnel.

Consulting, Advertising, etc.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to extend the city's existing contract with Jon-Jay Associates, Inc., a Massachusetts corporation, 281 Salem Street, Lynnfield, Mass., for consultant and advertising services in regards to cost control of unemployment compensation.

Under the terms of this contract, Jon-Jay Associates, Inc. will continue to evaluate unemployment compensation claims; educate staff; provide single source control; protest claims and charges; verify rates; monitor all claims; and produce timely reports at my request.

Jon-Jay Associates, Inc. was awarded a contract for the period April 1, 1978, through June 30, 1978, and has provided the city with excellent service.

Compensation under this contract shall not exceed $20,000, which is, in my opinion, a reasonable cost for the service to be provided. The term of their contract shall be from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful public purpose.

Very truly yours,
John E. Murphy, Jr.,
Supervisor.

Purchasing Division
Various Chemicals, etc.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On June 26, 1978, your Honor approved a letter to award contracts to several companies for furnishing research and diagnostic chemicals, reagents, and supplies, to the various city departments, from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, inclusive, as a result of publicly opened bids on May 3, 1978.

The bids of Beckman Instruments, Inc. and Calbiochem-Behring Corp. were received late. Authority is therefore requested to award contracts to these two companies at amounts not to exceed those indicated below:

Beckman Instruments, Inc., 599 North Avenue, Wakefield, Mass. 01880, $9,000, net; Calbiochem-Behring Corp., 10933 North Torrey Pines Road, LaJolla, California 92037, $8,000, net 30 days.

These companies are the manufacturers of the items awarded to them. They were the only bidders and are very reliable companies and their prices are reasonable.

In my opinion, no advantage would be gained by readvertising for bids.

Respectfully yours,
Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

Dictaphone Parts

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is requested to award a contract, without advertising, to Dictaphone Corporation, 120 Old Post Road, Rye, New York, for furnishing Dictaphone recorder heads and erase heads, Proposal 409, to the Fire Alarm Division of the Fire Department. This company is a responsible corporation and the prices are reasonable.

This proposal was advertised for public opening on June 22, 1978, but no bids were received. Dictaphone Corporation submitted a late bid on July 24, 1978, stating that "organizational changes within our company have delayed our processing invitations to bid."

Total amount of contract is not to exceed $4,402.30, net.

It is my opinion that it would be of no advantage to the city to readvertise for bids.

Respectfully yours,
Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

Various Furniture

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Under state law, any Massachusetts municipality may make purchases on state contracts through the Collective Purchasing Bureau. Prices were obtained by publicly advertising for bids and awards were made to the lowest bidders, meeting specifications. The City of Boston Law Department has ruled that, to take advantage of the state contracts, the city must award its own contracts. This can only be accomplished with an award without advertising.

Permission is requested to dispense with advertising and award contracts, without advertising, to the following companies which were the lowest acceptable bidders on publicly advertised bids for the State of Massachusetts and have existing contracts with the state Collective Purchasing Bureau. Amounts of contracts will not exceed those indicated below and will be for furnishing and delivering various items of office furniture to various city departments from July 3, 1978, to June 30, 1979, inclusive.

The following companies for which awards are requested are responsible establishments qualified to perform the requirements of contracts and all prices are reasonable. State contract numbers are indicated before each company name:

(1446), Business Equipment Corporation, $100,000, net; (1447), Edward V. McCarthy, McCarthy Bros., $100,000, net; (1448), GF Business Equipment, Inc., $100,000, net.

It is my opinion that the best interests of the city would be served by awarding the contracts in this manner.

Respectfully yours,
Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

Horses and Accessories

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On May 26, 1978, advertised bids, Proposal 365, for furnishing horses and accessories were publicly opened and read in this office. Item 2 was approved for award by your Honor on June 1, 1978. All other items were rejected.

The bid of Colt-Cromwell, the only bidder on Item 3, for sixty-six saddles at a total cost of $30,983.70 was rejected as the price was considered too high.

Prices have been obtained from B. T. Crump Company, Inc., the national distributor. The savings to the city will be approximately $6,600. This company will not bid publicly.

Permission is requested to dispense with further advertising and award a contract, without advertising, to B. T. Crump Company, Inc., P.O. Box 1597, Richmond, Virginia 23213, for sixty-six Stubben Tristan dressage saddles, complete with accessories, at a price of $368.75 each. Total amount of contract is not to exceed $24,337.50, net.

B.T. Crump Company, Inc. is a responsible company, the price is reasonable and it is my opinion that no useful purpose would be served by advertising.

Respectfully yours,
Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

As part of your overall program to expand the Police Mounted Unit by 600 percent, the City of Boston on May 8, 1978, publicly advertised in the City Record for the purchase of fifty-four horses for use with the Mounted Unit.

The advertisement was proposal Number 365, Item (1), the item description being:

Seven to ten years of age; mixed breed geldings, bay or chestnut in color; 15/2 hands in height (minimum); sturdy boned — about 1,100 to 1,200 pounds in weight; docile disposition without a biting or kicking habit.

Conditions of sale:

1. Delivered to the department stable on a thirty-day, trial basis;

2. Horses rejected by the department to be returned to dealer without cost or liability to department;

3. Horses are to be rejected for specific reasons: (a) not displaying an attitude or capabilities or developing into a police-type horse; or (b) if not certified as sound by the department veterinarian.

The final decision of the selection of all horses is left up to the discretion of the Purchasing Agent and the Boston Police Department.

4. Horses to be supplied to the department in groups of approximately twelve, and delivered within ten days after the purchase order is received by the dealer.

5. It is preferred that the dealer has the facilities to temporarily hold back on a shipment or part shipment, in the event that stall facilities are incomplete when delivery is ready to be made by the dealer.

In addition to the advertisement in the City Record, invitations for proposals were sent to the following horse dealers:

Leo Boyle, Fleetwood Farms, Pembroke, Mass.; Richard Columbo, 189 Hillside Street, Milton, Mass.; Ronald Peakes, Providence Turnpike, Sutton, Mass.; Arby Corporation, Williams Street, Jamaica Plain, Mass.; Joseph Arigo, 416 Cambridge Street, Winchester, Mass.; Crowley's Commission Sales, 32 Shoemaker's Lane, Agawam, Mass.

On May 26, 1978, bids were opened and publicly read aloud. The following bids were received:

Arby Corporation, $695 to $1,295 per horse; Ronald Peakes, $1,200 to $1,500 per horse.

Both bids were defective and unacceptable for the following reasons:

1. Arby Corporation — Although its price range was lower, they could not provide the required number of horses within the time frame specified in the conditions of sale.

2. Ronald Peakes — Bid proposal form not completed or signed; would only provide horses at a minimum height of 15 hands; would only provide horses for a fourteen-day, trial period instead of the thirty-day, trial period specified in the condition of sale.

It became clear after reviewing the bids and discussion with the two bidders that the city would not be able to secure the horses it needs from one supplier in a timely fashion and at a reasonable price. It is my intention, therefore, subject to your approval, to reject both bids submitted in response to the public advertisement and enter into a contract with the following dealers whose names have come to our attention as being reputable horse dealers:

Leo Boyle, Fleetwood Farms, Pembroke, Mass.; Richard Columbo, 189 Hillside Street, Milton, Mass.; Arby Corporation, Williams Street, Jamaica Plain, Mass.; Joseph Arigo, 6 Cambridge Street, Winchester, Mass.; Donald Peakes, Providence Turnpike, Rt. 145, Milton, Mass.; Crowley's Commission Sales, Shoemaker's Lane, Agawam, Mass.; Louis Ant, Roosevelt Sales Stable, Edison, N.J.; Melan Farms, Kings Street, Franklin, Mass.

Under this contract, all horses will be returned by the city for a thirty-day, nonbidding observation period, at the end of which the city will select those horses that best meet the criteria as outlined in the item description and conditions of sale. The price paid per horse will be reflective of the physical and behavioral characteristics of the horse, as well as the existing market fair price. It is expected that at this cost will, on the average, be $1,000 per horse.

The city will have absolute discretion to reject any horses deemed unsatisfactory for police work and not certified sound by the police veterinarian. Each dealer from whom the city purchases is to be paid 50 percent of the cost agreed to by the city within seven days of delivery of the horse or horses and the balance after final acceptance by the Police Department. Should the department choose not to select a horse for any reason, the owner will be required to return the full sum of money paid and pick up and remove the rejected horse.

This contract does not obligate the city to purchase from all of the dealers who offer horses for sale. But a contract with multiple suppliers will permit a greater selection and increase the likelihood of the availability of acceptable horses within the time frames prescribed by the city, and at more competitive prices.

In view of the above and considering the unique nature of the items being purchased and the unsatisfactory initial response to the public advertisement, I am convinced that further public advertisement would serve no useful purpose. I therefore respectfully request your Honor's approval to enter into this contract with the aforementioned dealers collectively for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979. In no event shall the total payments to be made nor the liabilities of the city under this contract exceed the sum of $30,000.

Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

Various Hospital Equipment Parts

Dear Mr. Mayor:

During each year, the Health and Hospitals

Department requires repair and replacement parts for its various items of medical, surgical and X-ray equipment which are purchased directly from the manufacturers, usually on an emergency basis. Combined purchases during a twelve-month period consistently exceed amounts which require formal contracts. The Health and Hospitals Department cannot foretell which type of equipment will break down or which parts will be needed, but the chief engineer of biomedical engineering, has submitted an estimate of the dollar amounts that may be required from several manufacturers. Since the items will be purchased directly from the manufacturers, it is my opinion that no useful purpose would be served by publicly advertising for bids.

It is therefore requested that authority be granted me to dispense with publicly advertising for bids and award contracts, without public advertisement, for furnishing repair and replacement parts for biomedical equipment to the Department of Health and Hospitals, to the following-named responsible companies at the amounts not to exceed those indicated below:

Hewlett Packard Company, 32 Hartwell Avenue, Lexington, Mass. 02173, $8,000, net; Picker Corporation, 220 Bolivar Street, Canton, Mass., $3,500, net; United X-Ray Corp. of Mass., 5 Haffards Street, Fall River, Mass. 02723, $2,000, net.

The contract period for each contract will be from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, inclusive. All prices will be manufacturer's list price at time of shipment.

Respectively yours,
Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

Blankets

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Authority is requested to dispense with public advertising and award contracts to the following-named companies for blankets furnished to the Boston City Hospital during the statewide snow emergency, declared by the Governor, during the February blizzard, February 6-8, 1978. The companies are responsible companies and the prices are reasonable.

Jordan Marsh Company, Boston, Mass., for 281 blankets, in an amount not to exceed $3,547.84, net; Sears, Roebuck and Co., Boston, Mass., for 512 blankets, in an amount not to exceed $3,341.71, net.

Because of the emergency situation prevailing in the city during the blizzard and the immediate requirement for the blankets, public advertising for bids was not feasible.

Respectively yours,
Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

Gasoline

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Under the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act of 1973, P. L. 93-159 and E.O. 11746 (38FR 33577), which requires the city to purchase from the supplier of record, permission is requested to dispense with advertising for bids and renew, without advertising, the city's contract with Mobil Oil Corporation, 105 E. 42nd Street, New York, New York 10017, with local offices at 504 Totten Pond Road, Waltham, Mass. 02154, for the purchase of approximately 2,647,000 gallons of gasoline for the various city departments, from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, inclusive. The amount of the contract is not to exceed $1,456,312, net 15th proximo. The price per gallon of gasoline is based upon prices posted daily at Mobil's East Boston terminal at 580 Chelsea Street.

Mobil Oil Corporation is a responsible corporation that has satisfactorily serviced the City of Boston for many years. Since government regulations require purchase of gasoline to be made only from the city's existing supplier, no useful purpose would be served by advertising.

Respectively yours,
Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

AFFAIRS OF THE ELDERLY Optical Testing, etc.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Your permission is hereby requested to award a contract, without advertising, to the Mass. Society for the Prevention of Blindness, Inc., 375 Concord Avenue, Belmont, Mass., for the operation of Project "Bright Eyes" within the City of Boston, in an amount not to exceed $5,850, for the period September 13, 1978, to June 30, 1979.

Project Bright Eyes, a free, optical testing and follow-up program for the elderly, is conducted weekly during the fall, winter, and spring months with an approximate weekly caseload of twenty-five persons and is a joint venture between the Commission on Affairs of the Elderly and the Mass. Society for the Prevention of Blindness who have satisfactorily performed this service in the past.

The funds to be provided under this contract will be used to meet transportation and food costs and other administrative and professional costs incurred by the society in the amount of $150 per week, which is a reasonable cost for this service. This will amount to approximately 50 percent of the total project cost, the remainder of which will be met by the society.

Due to the unique nature of the service to be delivered under this contract, it is felt that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Sincerely,
James F. McCarthy,
For Elaine F. Guiney,
Commissioner.

AUDITORIUM Door Repairs

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to enter an agreement with Kinnear Door Co., a Massachusetts corporation at 301 Reservoir Street, Needham Heights, Mass., for emergency repairs to the main loading dock door, in the amount of $3,560.

On February 2, 1978, in the midst of a busy show, the main door to the loading dock in the basement of the Auditorium became inoperative. Kinnear Door Co., the only one willing to do business with the city for this type of work, was called and inspected the door and told us that it could not be operated. They gave us two choices: one, would be to leave the door open, which was impossible due to the inclement weather, and two, would be to weld, temporarily, the springs to make the door operate. We decided to take the second choice and at the same time ordered the new parts to the door. Kinnear then proceeded with our second choice and welded the springs so that we could use the door. Most of this work was done on an overtime basis.

The door worked until May 26, 1978, when on this date, the temporary welds broke and the door crashed down doing extensive damage to the door and frame, but with no injury to any personnel. We again called Kinnear and at this time the permanent repair work was done, new springs were installed, and the door repaired.

We could not have foreseen that the original agreement would have necessitated a contract over $2,000. However, due to the severe emergency of the work involved, you can see that we had no choice but to proceed to get the door operative so that the shows could move in and out on schedule.

No useful purpose would be served by advertising this contract, and the monies should be charged to the Reserve for Encumbrances, Code 9-33-79.

Very truly yours,
R. C. Linnell,
Chairman.

Elevator Maintenance

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Your authority is hereby requested to dispense with advertising in the City Record, in awarding to Delta Elevator Service Corp., a full maintenance contract for servicing the two, electric, passenger elevators, the two, plunger electric, passenger elevators, the three, plunger electric, freight elevators, and the four escalators in the city's John B. Hynes Veterans Auditorium, at 900 Boylston Street, Boston, during the period commencing July 1, 1978, and ending June 30, 1979, at a cost to the city of $16,320. The contract is to include emergency repair callback service at any hour.

Each year, Delta Elevator Service Corp. has agreed to renew this contract with the Auditorium Commission with no increase in cost to the city. Again this year, Delta submitted a letter offering to renew the contract for the 1978-1979 year at no increase in price. As the services of this contractor have been very satisfactory, the Commission feels it would be in the best interest of the city to retain their services for another year and voted to accept Delta's offer.

Because of the professional nature of the work and services involved, it does not appear that any useful purpose would be achieved by advertising for bids for this contract. Therefore, we respectfully request your permission to dispense with advertising and award a contract to Delta Elevator Service Corp., 50 North Beacon Street, Allston, in the amount of $16,320.

Very truly yours,
Bertram A. Druker,
Vice-Chairman.

Charlestown Jubilant: Hails "Shipyard Quarters"

Mayor Kevin H. White and officials of Immobiliare New England, on February 2, concluded agreements which pave the way for start of construction on a 1200-unit, residential complex at the Charlestown Navy Yard.

Officials of the development firm presented Mayor White with a check for $1.7 million which the city, through the Boston Redevelopment Authority, will use to purchase 57 acres of the Navy Yard from the federal government.

Mayor White said, "The agreement between Immobiliare and the city is without precedent. This developer has confidence enough in this project and this city to advance its plans so we can purchase the site that will be developed.

"But so much about this exciting project is without precedent. It is probably the first time in this country that a former military installation will be redeveloped as a residential community. In the process, numerous buildings of architectural and historic importance will be restored for new uses. Most important, the city will for the first time in its history receive property tax revenues from this extensive tract of prime waterfront property."

The Navy Yard, established in 1800, was decommissioned by the United States Navy in July, 1974.

It is estimated that the Navy Yard development will contribute in excess of $3 million a year to the city in real estate taxes. About 1,700, permanent jobs will be created by the development and it will provide an average of 300, construction jobs each year for a ten-year period.

The ceremony, attended by business leaders, government officials, and Charlestown residents, was held in Building 42 at the Navy Yard. It is the building, once used to assemble ships, which will be converted to 362 market rental apartments. Building 42, which represents the first phase of the $150-million, development program being carried out by Immobiliare New England, will be called Constitution Quarters at Charlestown. The entire residential complex will be known as "Shipyard Quarters at Charlestown."

Immobiliare has already signed a construction contract for this phase of its development and work is scheduled to begin in early March on Building 42. Estimated cost for renovation of the structure is $22 million.

Mayor White said, "The Navy Yard today can be compared to the downtown waterfront fifteen years ago. There are distinctive buildings, but they are empty. The Navy Yard is located on one of the most attractive parts of our harbor, but few people, and particularly those who live in Charlestown, have ever been able to enjoy access to this waterfront. It is, in short, an area whose potential has not yet been tapped. By summer, work will be completed on a waterfront park here which will surpass the beauty of the park on the downtown waterfront. Today, we are beginning the next decade of development in the city."

Mayor White also lauded the efforts on House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., on behalf of the Navy Yard project, saying "From the start, Speaker O'Neill has been the person who has helped pull all the pieces together on this project. Time and again, his support has helped us move toward the day when development would begin and the Navy Yard is brought back to life."

Fourth Mayor CHARLES WELLS 1832-1833

Charles Wells, the fourth mayor, born December 30, 1786, was elected as a protest by the middle classes against what they thought was the high-handed and extravagant way in which Quincy and Otis had managed the city's affairs. He was a master builder, and was by training ill-fitted for public office. In the election held December 12, 1831, the three candidates, Charles Wells, Theodore Lyman, and William Sullivan, received respectively, 1,800, 1,800, and 1,100 votes. At the second election on December 22, Mr. Wells was elected. Mr. Wells, who had previously been a member of the Common Council and the Board of Aldermen, was a man of simple character, not versed in public affairs. His two terms were uneventful except for the erection of the courthouse in Court Square, the extension of Broad, Commercial, and Tremont Streets, and the establishment of quarantine regulations by which Boston was protected in 1832 from cholera, then prevalent in the British Provinces. He died June 23, 1866.

Fifth Mayor THEODORE LYMAN, JR.

Theodore Lyman, the son of a successful merchant, was born February 20, 1792, and was educated at Phillips Exeter Academy and at Harvard, graduating in 1810. After leaving Mayor White said he was particularly pleased that the developers and the city had signed an agreement with the Kennedy Center in Charlestown. That agency will serve as a job clearinghouse for the Navy Yard project. Under the agreement, the Kennedy Center will receive advance notice of job openings or subcontracting opportunities at the Navy Yard. That information will be posted at the Kennedy Center and the Charlestown Little City Hall, thus providing Charlestown residents job opportunities before the general public. The Kennedy Center will also screen Charlestown applicants before referring them to the developers.

Since the Navy Yard closed, the BRA has received, at no cost, over 45 acres of land at the former Navy base. Thirty acres of that land, the so-called historic monument area, contains over twenty-five historic buildings which the BRA has agreed to restore and then lease for a variety of uses. The remaining acreage under BRA control is being developed as the park which will be the focal point of the Navy Yard project.

The BRA has thus far received $10.6 million from the federal government and the state to carry out public improvements, including the construction of the new park. The City Council authorized $2.2 million, bond authorization for the city's share of the public improvement work.

BRA Director Robert J. Ryan said the BRA anticipated the need for another $8 million in federal funds to carry out additional public improvements, including the installation of new utilities. He noted that the $20 million in government funding for the project represented a small percentage of the money to be spent by private investors at the Navy Yard.

Within the next year, Ryan added, Immobiliare would begin rehabilitation of Building 197, which is next to Building 42, for 132 units of market rental housing. Both structures overlook the waterfront park.

Ten percent of the dwelling units developed by Immobiliare will be set aside for elderly housing.

Immobiliare New England is a Boston venture of two major international development and construction firms: Societa Generale Immobiliare, Rome, Italy, one of the largest and oldest real estate organizations in the world; and the ICOS group, which operates throughout the world in the highly specialized field of foundation construction.

Arturo Ressi, executive vice-president of ICOS Corporation of America, said, "The Shipyard Quarters at Charlestown development is uniquely suited to Immobiliare New England because of its scale, composition, and timing. We are extremely happy at this opportunity to develop in Boston. This project may provide the basis for future projects in Boston and New England."

Immobiliare's projects in North America include the Watergate complex in Washington, D.C.; Marina Del Ray in Los Angeles, a 380-unit, luxury-apartment complex and marina; and Place Victoria in Montreal, a major office and commercial center containing more than 1,000,000 square feet of office space.

ICOS developed in 1948 the basic, slurry-wall technology which has changed the foundation business throughout the world. ICOS projects using this technique include the World Trade Center in New York and the new subway system in Washington, D.C.

While Immobiliare is carrying out its phase of the development program, the BRA will offer buildings in the historic monument area for redevelopment. These buildings will be recycled by individuals and/or firms under long-term, lease arrangements with the BRA. The developers will have to abide by detailed agreements which spell out the design guidelines for restoring the exterior facades of the buildings.

Immobiliare officials said the firm would develop a ninety-three-boat marina in front of Pier 6, simultaneously with the first phase of the housing program. A 550-boat marina will also be built in the vicinity of Piers 8 through 10. Both marinas will be open to the public.

Immobiliare has retained the architectural firm of Anderson Notter, Finegold to design the first stage of the housing complex. The Boston-based, architectural firm has gained a national reputation for the number of recycling projects it has designed.

Sydney Construction Company will be the general contractor for the renovation of Constitution Quarters. The firm, incorporated in Massachusetts in 1966, has engaged in construction of large-scale, housing facilities, as well as nursing homes and industrial buildings, in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut.

The real estate firm of Minot, Deblois and Maddison is serving as consultant to Immobiliare on the Charlestown project.

Boston Mayor . . .

Lyman's public life ended in 1836 with the election of Samuel T. Armstrong, and he spent the last days of his life helping the criminal classes. He died July 18, 1849, a few days after returning from Europe, where he had been traveling with his son.

Sixth Mayor SAMUEL T. ARMSTRONG 1836

Samuel Turrell Armstrong was born in Dorchester, April 29, 1784, the son of Captain John Armstrong. He learned the trade of a printer, and began business as printer and publisher with Joshua Belcher. One of their earliest productions was a literary work called The Emerald. After dissolution of his partnership with Belcher he set up shop in Charlestown, and then published the first number of the Panoplist, a monthly magazine relating to religious topics and missionary work.

In 1811 he moved to Boston, and opened, at 50 Cornhill, a store and publishing house, which became the mart of the religious literature for the orthodox churches. He took into the firm Uriel Crocker and Asmyrn Brewster, his apprentices, and though the partnership was later dissolved, Armstrong was connected with the firm till his death. One of his publications in 1820 wascott's Family Bible, in six royal octavo volumes, one of the earliest instances of stereotyping on a large scale in the United States.

He was captain of the "Warren Phalanx" in Charlestown during the War of 1812, twice a representative of Boston in the legislature, once senator from Suffolk, lieutenant governor of Massachusetts for two terms under Governor Levi Lincoln and Governor John Davis, and in 1835 he was acting governor, Governor Davis having gone to the senate. The principal events in Armstrong's administration were the erection of the gloomy iron fence that originally enclosed four sides of the Common, the extension of the mall through the burial ground on Boylston Street, and the completion of the courthouse in Court Square. He was a member of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, and president in 1828 and 1829; and in 1845 he became a member of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, and contributed generously to its foundation. His wife was Abigail Walker, the daughter of the Honorable Timothy Walker of Charlestown. Mayor Armstrong died on March 26, 1850.

After college, he went abroad, where he spent four years, a part of the time traveling with Edward Everett. He was in Paris when the allied armies entered the city, and has given a vivid account of the scenes in his book, "Three Weeks in Paris." He also wrote a book on "The Political State of Italy," and one on "Diplomacy of the United States with Foreign Nations."

He was fond of military science, and served for a time as a general of the Boston Brigade of Militia. His predilection, however, was for literary pursuits, although he gave some attention to politics. He became a member of the legislature, and in December, 1833, was chosen mayor, serving during 1834 and 1835. As only a small part of the city received water from Jamaica Pond through four main pipes of pitch-pine logs, one of his first acts was to call the attention of the Common Council to the need of bringing a steady supply of pure water to Boston. Colonel Loammi Baldwin, the distinguished civil engineer who had built the Milldam Driveway, reported that Farm Pond in Framingham and Long Pond in Natick were the most available sources, but nothing was done except to discuss the project until the administration of Josiah Quincy, Jr., in 1846.

During Lyman's administration the Ursuline Convent on Mount Benedict in Charlestown (now Somerville) was attacked and burned on the night of August 11, 1834, by a mob which had been incited by stories that nuns were locked in underground cells and that Protestant pupils were forced to become Catholics. The next day the mob which had gathered was sent scurrying by the rumor that a horseman was galloping off to call the militia.

Mayor Lyman established the State Reform School at Westboro, and gave it $22,000 during his lifetime and $50,000 more in his will. At his suggestion, a similar school for girls was begun at Lancaster. It was during Mr. Lyman's mayoralty that the Garrison mob gathered. A meeting of the female antislavery society was held on the afternoon of October 21, 1835, at the office of William Garrison's "Liberator," at 45 Washington Street. As there was much feeling against abolition, a mob gathered which the few constables were unable to handle, and Mayor Lyman went there with more men. Garrison attempted to escape from the mob by a back window into Wilson's Lane, now Devonshire Street, but was seized by the mob and dragged as far as the Old State House, a part of which was then used as a City Hall, where he was rescued by the police and taken into the building. The Mayor shielded him with his own body for the mob. To save Garrison from the mob, Mayor Lyman placed him in the carriage and drove him to the jail, where he was confined, ostensibly as a disturber of the peace, but he was released the next day. The mayor was subsequently much criticized for not providing proper police protection for Garrison in the beginning and for not calling out the militia instead of treating Garrison as a criminal. It is only fair to Mayor Lyman to say that Garrison consented to Mayor Lyman's action, and was very glad to escape the mob by going to jail.

PROPOSED 10 PERCENT WATER AND SEWER COMMISSION RATE REDUCTION PLAN UNVEILED.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on February 3, unveiled a proposal which, if adopted after scheduled public hearing, could result in a rate reduction for Boston water and sewer customers of more than 10 percent.

The plan, proposed by the city's Water and Sewer Commission, was the product of more than six weeks of discussions between Mayor White's office and the commission.

The proposal, as outlined by the commission, would:

- reduce in excess of 10 percent city water and sewer rates;

- increase the discount afforded elderly customers from 10 percent to 15 percent;

- and, reduce the so-called "fire pipe charges," the annual levy assessed businesses for the connection of their sprinkler systems to the municipal water system.

Said Mayor White, "We have admittedly encountered problems in our efforts to improve the delivery of water and sewer service to Boston customers at fair and equitable rates. I think the plan the commission has proposed is a good one. I think it will go a long way toward correcting some of the flaws in our system."

The reduction proposal is possible because of a financial surplus which has developed since the Water and Sewer Commission was created by city, home-rule petition through the State Legislature in August, 1977.

That surplus resulted from:

- the improvement of general water and sewer bill collections under the commission;

- the quicker collection under the commission of old debts incurred under city operation;

- lower costs of operation under the commission than anticipated;

- and, general operational improvements undertaken by the commission resulted in savings.

Exact dollar amounts of surplus and savings will be available at the proposal's first public hearing on Tuesday, February 27, 1979.

If this proposal is adopted by the commission pending the outcome of public hearings, the new rates will become effective January 1, 1979. Boston water and sewer customers, however, will receive one last 1978 bill under the existing rates. The first proposed rate bill, if approved, would be mailed in June, 1979.

The Water and Sewer Commission is a semi-autonomous public authority which was created to consolidate the operation and financial support of the city's water and sewer system from a variety of city agencies to one central agency.

The members of the Water and Sewer Commission are: John Howe chairman; Melvin Miller, vice-chairman; and Michael Rotenberg member.

REMEMBER THIS ADDRESS?

The Gettysburg Address was delivered by President Abraham Lincoln at the dedication of the National Cemetery on Gettysburg Battlefield, November 19, 1863. It is a masterpiece of literature. President Lincoln, our sixteenth president was born February 12, 1809, and died April 15, 1865.

Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work they have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honoured dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom; and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Lincoln's famous Gettysburg Address is carved into the stone of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C. The address was delivered by President Lincoln at the dedication of the national cemetery on the Gettysburg Battlefield, November 19, 1863. The audience was disappointed at the shortness of the address, and few realized that a masterpiece of literature had been created. But the famous orator, Edward Everett, who had been the principal speaker at the dedication, wrote to Lincoln the next day, "I should be glad if I could flatter myself that I came as near to the central idea of the occasion in two hours as you did in two minutes." Lincoln later wrote out several copies of the speech, with slight variations. His final version is the now, world-famous Gettysburg Address.

Among the best biographies of Lincoln are Nicolay and Hay's "Abraham Lincoln," Ida M. Tarbell's "Life of Abraham Lincoln," Lord Charnwood's "Abraham Lincoln," Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln: the War Years," N. W. Stephenson's "Lincoln," and Albert J. Beneridge's "Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1858."

MAYOR URGES SUPPORT OF GOVERNOR'S PROPERTY TAX PLEDGE

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White, on February 4, launched a drive to collect at least 50,000 signatures from Boston residents in support of a proposal by Governor Edward J. King to return $500 million to the state's cities and towns in fiscal year 1979.

Mayor White met with neighborhood volunteers in the Ashmont section of Dorchester to initiate the drive.

He presented the first petition to Mr. and Mrs. James O'Brien, of Alicia Road, Dorchester, who hosted a house party for Dorchester volunteers.

Mayor White said the petition campaign "is a message from the taxpayers of Boston that the Governor's intention of cutting property taxes statewide by $500 million is a commitment that people took seriously when it was made—and take even more seriously now that he is in office.

"It was a pledge—and it is a matter of public trust—and we are here today to put in writing the unified concern of the people of Boston in seeing it become a reality."

Mayor White said signers of the petitions will be sending the following message to the Governor:

"We join with you in your commitment to return $500 million to the cities and towns in order to reduce property tax rates without cutting basic services; and do hereby petition you to implement this program by June 30, 1979."

Mayor White told volunteers that the petitions would be presented to the Governor in late April or early May.

He said although "the goal is 50,000, there are actually 5,000 petitions with space for thirty names each, for a potential of 150,000 signatures expressing support for the property tax reduction commitment.

"It's one of the few instances in which Boston residents are in a position to agree, neighborhood by neighborhood, on a single issue," the Mayor said. "It's a chance to take a stand and to be heard."

The Mayor said residents in all Boston neighborhoods can expect volunteers to be at their homes and on streets in their neighborhoods from now on requesting their support for the petition drive.

BOSTON CONSUMERS COUNCIL

The Warranty of Merchantability

The law provides a guarantee on all products offered for sale in Massachusetts by any merchant. This law provides that all products must be "merchantable" — that is, they must be fit for the ordinary purposes for which they were sold.

In other words, if you buy a toaster that doesn't toast, or a lawnmower that doesn't cut grass, the law gives you certain remedies no matter what the seller said at the time you bought the product.

What You Can Do

A consumer always has the right to check over what he buys before agreeing to keep it, and can reject goods if they don't conform to the contract.

If a buyer accepts merchandise, and later discovers that it does not conform to reasonable standards:

- The consumer can take the product back so the seller can correct the problem, or if the seller cannot or will not correct the problem,
- The consumer can return the goods and refuse payment or obtain a refund.

If necessary, the consumer can also seek damages (the difference between the original purchase price and the cost of replacement, plus out-of-pocket expenses incurred in keeping or returning the goods).

Remember: A merchant may not exclude or modify the implied warranty of merchantability by attempting to sell a product "as is," or through written disclaimers. He can, however, offer additional remedies which a buyer may want to use.

SPECIAL "GREEN THUMB" COURSE

Interested in learning about growing roses or vegetables? Want to know about soils, fertilizers, and backyard gardening?

Beginning mid-February the Boston Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring a ten-week "Greenthumb" Gardening Course for Boston residents at the city greenhouse in Franklin Park.

The ten-week course, taught by trained city horticulturists, will cover a wide range of gardening techniques, including plant propagation, seedage, soils, fertilizers, trees and shrubs, annuals, bulbs, roses, and vegetables.

Two classes will be held—one on Tuesday and one on Wednesday, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. for the ten-week period. A one-time $10 fee will be charged students to cover the cost of seedlings, soil, and other gardening supplies used during the course.

"Students will have the opportunity to work within the greenhouse environment raising seedlings and grooming plants," explained Mike Connors, the city's superintendent of horticulture. "In addition, all plants and seedlings grown by the students become the property of the students at the end of the course."

To register, interested Boston residents should mail their names, addresses and choice of day preference (Tuesday or Wednesday) to: Greenthumb Course, Boston Parks and Recreation, Room 802, Boston City Hall, Boston, MA 02201.

Class sizes are limited and students will be selected based on the earliest postmark date and notified of acceptance by return mail. Applicants are reminded not to enclose the $10 with the application.

MAYOR ANNOUNCES JOB OPPORTUNITY AGREEMENT FOR CHARLESTOWN RESIDENTS IN NAVY YARD DEVELOPMENT

Boston Mayor Kevin H. White on January 31, announced the signing of an agreement that will give first opportunity for jobs at the Charlestown Navy Yard development to Charlestown residents.

The job agreement was signed at a ceremony at the Charlestown Savings Bank in Thompson Square.

The agreement gives residents of Charlestown first appraisal of job openings and subcontracting opportunities at the Navy Yard development.

Construction of a 1,200-unit residential complex on the site of the former Navy Yard will begin in March.

About 1,700 permanent jobs will be created by the development, along with an average of 300 construction jobs a year for a ten-year period.

First consideration of Charlestown residents for jobs was a condition readily agreed to by the developers, Immobiliare New England, Mayor White said.

The Mayor said the pact "does not automatically guarantee a job, but it gives the people of Charlestown firsthand information on jobs that are available, and ready access to the developers to discuss job opportunities."

All job and subcontracting openings must be referred to the BRA. The jobs are posted at the Little City Hall and the Kennedy Center, a social service agency based in Charlestown. The jobs must be posted prior to advertising of the positions.

The Kennedy Center then screens applicants and makes referrals to the developer.

The job agreement covers the full length of the construction schedule. It will be reviewed periodically by the Charlestown Advisory Committee, which has advised the BRA on the Navy Yard project since its inception.

The Mayor said the agreement "provides Charlestown residents with fair—even favored—consideration, during construction of the most beneficial, exciting, development project in New England. It's a proud moment for me, and for the community."

PUBLIC MANAGEMENT PROGRAM: IT'S WORTHWHILE

In response to a strong and growing demand for professionally trained, public managers, Boston University offers qualified men and women an M.B.A. program in public management which may be pursued on either a full-time or part-time basis.

Initiated in 1975, the program provides management training with an emphasis on the unique skills required of effective managers of public sector and nonprofit organizations. Core courses use decision-oriented, case studies to develop in-depth analytic and strategy-making skills, emphasizing an ability to understand and deal effectively with the environment, the internal resources, and the operating context of public agencies.

Special sections of basic courses, such as accounting, marketing, finance, and operations management, have been restructured to focus on the concerns and problems of public sector and nonprofit managers.

The Public Management Program has established a rigorous and selective admissions policy. Over half the students currently enrolled in the program have had significant, public-sector, management experience. Among the jobs they have held are: City Treasurer; Assistant Commissioner of State Public Health Department; Director of Operations Analysis of Metropolitan Transit Authority; Director of Legitimate Theater Company; Chairman of State Labor Relations Commission.

These students—and others with less work experience—have entered the program to acquire strong management skills. Some will apply these skills to their current job situations; others will qualify for positions of greater responsibility.

Inquiries about Boston University's Public Management Program may be directed to Kathryn E. West, assistant director, Public Management Program, 212 Bay State Road, Boston, MA 02215 (telephone 617-353-2312).

CONTRACTS AMENDED

The Mayor has approved the amending of contracts, based on the following information:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Purchasing Division

Automotive Vehicles

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On October 18, 1976, your Honor approved a permission to award a contract to Westminster Dodge, Inc., for furnishing sixty Dodge Coronet sedans and twenty-five Coronet station wagons to the Police Department, in the amount of $423,119.60. Included in the contract was a trade in allowance for eighty-five, used vehicles.

During the period between the time of appraisal of the vehicles by the contractor and the actual time the vehicles were turned over to the contractor, six of the trade-in vehicles were inadvertently traded under another contract and three of the vehicles were partially destroyed as a result of accidents.

The Police Department and Westminster Dodge, Inc., with the approval of the Law Department, have agreed that the cost of placing the aforesaid partially destroyed vehicles in the condition which they were in prior to the filing of bids, allowing for normal wear and tear on the vehicles up to and including the day of delivery of the new vehicles, is in the amount of $900, and the trade-in allowance of the six vehicles not traded to Westminster Dodge, Inc. has been established at $2,100, for a total amount of $3,000, which in my opinion is a reasonable sum.

The Police Department and Westminster Dodge, Inc. have submitted to this office a list of vehicles and their revised trade-in allowances, approved by the Police Commissioner, a copy of which is attached.

It is therefore requested that permission be granted me to amend Contract 01-43-1511 by and between the City of Boston and Westminster Dodge, Inc. by making whatever changes are necessary to increase the approximate total of the contract to read $426,119.60, net 30 days, and to issue an order for $3,000, which represents the amount of the amendment.

Respectfully yours,
Eugene K. Welsh,
Acting Purchasing Agent.
EEPA

Demonstration Project Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with inviting proposals by public advertising in the City Record, and to amend a contract with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare, located at 43 Hawkins Street, Boston, Mass., to provide services in connection with a WIN/CETA demonstration project at a cost not to exceed $16,000. Funds for this amendment will be provided through a special WIN/CETA Federal Grant ($99,000) to the City of Boston through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P. L. 93-203. The effective dates of operation of this amendment will be from November 16, 1976, through December 31, 1977, inclusive, thereby extending the contract from November 17, 1977, to December 31, 1977. The costs associated with the amendment will not exceed $2,500, thereby raising the total contract amount to a figure not to exceed $16,000.

Under the terms of the amended contract the Department of Public Welfare will provide a WIN specialist in an effort to develop a successful prototype WIN/CETA linkage which can be expanded throughout the Boston Employment and Training delivery system.

Due to the experience and success of this agency in the human services field, it is my opinion that no useful purpose will be served by publicly advertising for proposals.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Software Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend an award letter for MetaSoftware, Inc., 320 Central Park West, New York, NY 10025, dated July 5, 1978, which you approved on August 1, 1978.

The purpose of the amendment is to correct a clerical error in the original award letter which incorrectly listed the starting date of the contract as July 1, 1978. The correct starting date is April 10, 1978. With this correction the request for award becomes retroactive in order to pay for work already performed in good faith at EEPA's request.

Whereas all other terms of the original award letter are correct (end date, May 30, 1979; amount, $37,400), approval of this amendment will enable EEPA to execute the contract as planned.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Harbor Light Program

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request our Honor's permission to amend an award letter dated April 25, 1978, which was approved subsequently by you. The purpose of the amendment is to correct an error in the amount by which the subject contract is to be increased.

The award letter in question should increase the Salvation Army Harbor Light Center contract by $9,205, to an amount not to exceed $65,443. The reason the award letter was submitted for an incorrect amount is that the figure for "enrollee wages and fringe" was transposed when it was brought forward to the face budget page resulting in a net error in the budget total.

Whereas all other terms in the April 25, 1978, award letter are correct, approval of this amendment will enable the Salvation Army to complete their Harbor Light program, on behalf of City of Boston residents as planned.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Procedures Study, etc.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend a contract with the Technical Development Corporation, (TDC), 11 Beacon Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02108, to provide additional professional services to the Employment and Economic Policy Administration in support of The Boston Plan, Project YES. These added duties include: (1) analysis of administrative systems and procedures by which enrollees and their records are initiated, assessed, processed, assigned, filed, controlled, reported, and analyzed; (2) investigation of organizational practices, policies, relationships, contract terms, management procedures, and communication techniques employed in the operation of the Boston Plan Project YES; and (3) recommendation for new or revised assignments, uses of contractors, and/or delegation of responsibilities and authority based upon the reviews — (1) and (2) above.

The amendment will increase the contract by $12,434, to an amount not to exceed $36,934. Funds for this contract will be provided through the Youth-Incentive Entitlement Pilot Project (YIEPP) grant to the City of Boston under the Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act of 1977, P.L. 95-93. The contract will continue to be effective for the period March 1, 1978, through September 30, 1978.

Because this award is for additional professional services from a contractor of proven effectiveness, at a reasonable cost, no public purpose would be served by publicly advertising for bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4 s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Youth Programs Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend a contract with Action for Boston Community Development, Inc. (ABCD), 150 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass. 02111, for an increase in funding for the ABCD Youth Intake and Assessment Center.

The Amendment will increase the Employment and Training contract amount by $177,838, to an amount not to exceed $3,500,000. Funds for the operation of this contract are being provided through a grant from the federal government under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P. L. 93-203. The effective dates of the amended contract will be October 1, 1977, through September 30, 1978.

Because of the continued operation of this program is critical to the delivery of CETA services to the youth of the City of Boston and because this is a negotiated contract at a reasonable cost consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs; no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids in this matter. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend a contract with Education Collaborative for Greater Boston, Inc., (EdCo), 20 Kent Street, Brookline, Mass. 02146, to provide private-sector, job development services in the model work/study program to serve one huned recalcitrant, out-of-school youths under the Boston Plan, Project YES.

The amendment will increase the contract amount by $5,895, to an amount not to exceed $6,000. Funds for this amendment will be provided from the Youth Incentive Entitlement lot Project grant (Project Y.E.S.) under the Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act of 1977, P.L. 95-93. The contract will continue to be effective for the period April 15, 1978, through September 30, 1978.

Because this amendment provides for additional services, in an ongoing program, at a reasonable cost, no public purpose would be served by advertising for bids in this instance. Therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s.7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

MAYOR'S OFFICE Alterations to Facility

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On July 21, 1976, you approved the written request of David Strohm, dated April 16, 1976, to award a contract in the sum of not to exceed $38,000, to the Jamaica Plain Neighborhood House Association, a nonprofit agency, located at 276 Amory Street, Jamaica Plain, Mass., to perform certain physical alterations to this facility.

I now respectfully request that this communication be amended by deleting the date September 30, 1977, and inserting the date September 30, 1978.

Except for this change the letter of April 16, 1976, remains in effect.

Sincerely,
Andrew M. Olins,
Special Assistant.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT Refuse Disposal

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On June 30, 1977, your Honor approved the award of a contract to M&C Division of Browning-Ferris Industries, Inc., 42 Highingale Avenue, Quincy, Mass., for the disposal of refuse from various districts of Boston, from July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978. The contract provides for the disposal of refuse from District 7, Dorchester South, at the cost of $12 per ton, at a total cost of $349,440.

The total cost of this contract was based on the amount of tonnage of refuse generated from the aforementioned district which, of course, can fluctuate. Therefore, because of the increase in tonnage over the estimated amount, your approval is respectfully requested to amend the present contract by increasing the amount by $7,570, and increasing the total amount to be expended under this contract not to exceed $357,010.

Respectfully,
Joseph F. Casazza,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On June 30, 1977, your Honor approved the award of a contract to Dooley Brothers Division of Browning-Ferris Industries, Inc., 164 Market Street, Brighton, Mass., for the disposal of refuse from various districts of Boston, July 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978. The contract provided for the disposal of refuse from District 10, Roxbury, at the cost of $12 per ton, at a total cost of $327,600.

The total cost of this contract was based on the amount of tonnage of refuse generated from the aforementioned district which, of course, can fluctuate. Therefore, because of the increase in tonnage over the estimated amount, your approval is respectfully requested to amend the present contract by increasing the amount by $7,670 and increasing the total amount to be expended under this contract not to exceed $335,270.

Respectfully,
Joseph F. Casazza,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT Evaluation Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I am respectfully writing to request an amendment to the contract for program evaluation services between the School Department and Beacon Research Associates, Inc., 45 Newbury Street, Boston, Mass., for evaluation of the Title VI-B and PL-142, Special Education Central Level Project.

Please amend this contract as follows: 1. to increase the payment amount from $6,821, to $14,236; 2. to extend the period of performance from April 15, 1978, to June 30, 1978, to April 15, 1978, to September 30, 1978.

A substantial amount of the allocated Title VI-B and PL 94-142 Special Education Project funds have not been used. The state authorities have granted approval for extending certain components so that they may be properly completed. These components are: (1) the 502.4 Day School, Special Needs, (7/1—8/31/78); (2) review team and placement team specialist (7/1—9/30/78); (3) special needs occupational guidance counselors (7/1—9/30/78); and (4) kindergarten teacher support, (7/1—9/30/78). Therefore, there is a need for continuing the evaluation of these programs. The firm of Beacon Research Associates, Inc. has submitted a proposal for $7,415, for evaluating these additional programs. Using Beacon Research Associates is cost-effective, will continue the present evaluation, and provide the city with one total evaluation picture of the Title VI-B and PL 94-142 Special Education Central Level Project. The latter is a mandate from the state authorities.

Funds for this payment are included within the present Title VI-B and PL 94-142 Special Education Central Level Project, Grant ED 78-140B, 78-035-174B, 78-035-175B, and 78-035-231B.

Sincerely,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications.

AUDITORIUM Boarding and Securing

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings or structures are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

62 Louis Prang Street, Ward 4; 25-29 Stoughton Street, Ward 13; 184 Westville Street, Ward 15; 348 Park Street, Ward 17; 831-837 Washington Street, Ward 17.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box — one copy to Auditing Department. Bid box opened by Office of Development and Construction. These buildings are in an unsafe and dangerous condition, a hazard to the general public.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to board and secure them.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for boarding and securing of these buildings or structures.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

James G. Grant Co., Inc., $3,820; D. Clancy & Sons Co., $3,503.

D. Clancy & Sons, 339 Dorchester Street, South Boston, Mass. 02127, has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $3,503, to D. Clancy & Sons, 339 Dorchester Street, South Boston, Mass. 02127.

Very truly yours,
Leo F. Martin,
For Building Commissioner.

Razing of Buildings

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

10 Port Norfolk Street, Ward 16.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box July 24, 1978 — one copy to Auditing Department. Box opened by Office of Development and Construction. This building is in an unsafe and dangerous condition, a hazard to the general public. Foundation is missing, building is ready to collapse.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the buildings or structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of buildings or structures, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

J. J. Duane Co., Inc., $3,700; Franklin Crane Co., $3,490; Raze Const. Co., $4,774; Mystic Wrecking Co., $4,400; John Berardi Co., $3,434; Napoli Wrecking Co., $3,600; James G. Grant Co., $3,750.

John A. Berardi Wrecking Co., 117 Franklin Street, Allston, Mass., has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for the individual buildings or structures were not requested because it would be a practical, physical impossibility for several different contractors to conduct efficient contracting operations simultaneously in individual buildings or structures. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference and each contractor would be exposed to severe hazards not under his control, by the operation of adjacent contractors. I also believe that the aggregate cost of individual bids would be much higher than the cost of one bid for the total buildings or structures to be demolished, and that handling the buildings or structures as one unit results in one administrative cost to the city rather than what would result from handling the individual buildings or structures as separate bids and contracts. Unit handling results, however, in the case in a contract price of over $2,000, or over the statutory limitations upon awards that can be made without advertising, unless your Honor approves the transaction.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $3,434, to the John A. Berardi Wrecking Co., 117 Franklin Street, Allston, Mass.

Very truly yours,
Richard L. Granara, Jr.,
For Building Commissioner.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

34 Burnett Street, Ward 11; 34 Folsom Street, Ward 13.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box July 20, 1978 — one copy to Auditing Department. Box opened by Office of Development and Construction. These buildings are in an unsafe and dangerous condition, a hazard to general public. Fire-gutted buildings are vacant — open to trespass.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the buildings or structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of buildings or structures, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Napoli Wrecking Co. Inc., $5,800; John Berardi Co., Inc., $6,395; Franklin Crane Co., Inc., $7,100; Mystic Wrecking Co., Inc., $6,050; James G. Grant Co., Inc., $8,570.

Napoli Wrecking Co., Inc., 105 Norwell Street, Dorchester, Mass. 02121, has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for the individual buildings or structures were not requested because it would be a practical, physical impossibility for several different contractors to conduct efficient contracting operations simultaneously in individual buildings or structures. Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $5,800, to the Napoli Wrecking Co., Inc., 105 Norwell Street, Dorchester, MA 02121.

Very truly yours,
Richard L. Granara, Jr.,
For Building Commissioner.

COMMUNITY SCHOOLS Red Cross Training

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's written authorization to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to the American Red Cross, New England Schools, a corporation with a place of business at 21 Foster Street, Newtonville, Mass.

Under the terms of the contract, the American Red Cross will furnish, during the period of June 11, 1978, to June 20, 1978, a training program consisting of intensive instruction, and room and board for a period of ten days, for a cost of $2,500, which I have determined to be a reasonable cost. This training will be provided to a maximum of twenty-two persons as stipulated and funded by an approved CETA, Title VI B grant. Individuals trained by the Red Cross will be stationed at the following Boston Community Schools: Agassiz, Blackstone, Charlestown, Cleveland, Condon, East Boston, Hennigan, Holland, Jackson/Mann, Kent, Lee, Marshall, Mat-tahunt, Murphy, Ohrenberger, Quincy, Tynan, West Roxbury, and Central Office.

In view of the professional and technical nature of the services to be performed, in addition to the excellent performance of the American Red Cross, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
Paul Grogan,
Director.

EEPA Housing Project Repairs, etc.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Boston Housing Authority, 53 State Street, Boston, Mass. 02109, for the purpose of implementing the State Development Program. Under the provisions of the contract, seventy, City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants will be employed to revitalize a number of the city's public housing projects. The revitalization includes repairs to vacant apartments, hallways, roofs, drains, and outside grounds.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VI B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203, supplemented by funds from the state. The contract will be effective for the period August 15, 1978, through August 14, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $1,010,000.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

1. The ability of the project to employ the CETA target population; 2. the ability of the project to deliver services to CETA-designated, significant segments, 3. the projects value in addressing unmet needs of the residents of the City of Boston.

In view of the reasonable cost of the project, the competitive process utilized, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Boston Housing Authority, 53 State Street, Boston, Mass.

02109, for the purpose of implementing the Management and Administrative Support Program. The contract provides for the employment of ninety-eight, City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants who will work in crews repairing roof drains, hallways, vacant apartments, and outside grounds in a number of the city's public housing projects. In addition to the rehabilitation, a follow-up staff will provide regular maintenance and a support staff will supervise the project.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VI B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period July 17, 1978, through July 16, 1979, at a total cost not exceed $1,350,000.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

1. The ability of the project to employ the CETA target population; 2. the ability of the project to deliver service to CETA-designated, significant segments; 3. the project's value in addressing unmet needs of the residents of the City of Boston.

Considering the contractor was chosen based on the aforementioned criteria used in the competitive selection process, the reasonable cost of the project and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to Authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Boston Housing Authority, 53 State Street, Boston, Mass. 02109, for the purpose of implementing the Federal Development Improvement Program. This contract will employ seventy-six, City of Boston, CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants in a program to restore vacant apartments and deteriorated hallways and entrances in the city's public housing developments.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VI B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203, supplemented by federal (HUD) modernization funds. The contract will be effective for the period August 1, 1978, through July 31, 1979, at a total cost not exceed $1,100,021.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

1. The ability of the project to employ CETA target population; 2. the ability of the project to deliver service to CETA-significant segments; 3. the projects value in addressing unmet needs of the residents of the City of Boston.

Because the award is the result of a competitive selection process and involves the coordination of the federal and local efforts, with reasonable cost to the city and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Youth Employment Projects

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award a contract to Action for Boston Community Development, (ABCD) 150 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass. 02111, for the operation of an Intake and Recruitment Project and a Job Development Project under the Boston Plan, Project YES. The intake/recruitment component will be responsible for placing 1,800 youths into Project YES; special emphasis will be placed on recruiting out-of-school youths who represent approximately 30 percent of the high-school aged population city-wide. The Job Development Project will have three primary purposes:

To expand the pool of available summer jobs by developing a total of 5,000 jobs to community agencies and organizations; to develop new jobs for Project YES enrollees for the program's fall and winter cycle; and to develop long-term, unsubsidized jobs for Project YES enrollees transitioning into the labor market.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title III of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period March 15, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $300,000.

Due to the experience and success of this agency in the operation of EEPA programs, the importance of programs of this nature, and the reasonable cost thereof, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. Since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, I request approval to award the contract without bids pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Division of Employment Security, Charles F. Hurley Building, Government Center, Boston, Mass. 02114, for the purpose of providing a computerized system of eligibility certification and job matching for the Boston Plan, Project YES. These services will assist in the income certification of prospective enrollees and the matching of those who qualify with the appropriate jobs developed by the YES staff.

Funds for the operation of the contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period March 1, 1978, through September 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $28,817.91.

EEPA is requesting approval retroactively for this contract because of delays encountered in the contract negotiation process. Because DES is singularly able to supply the information necessary to perform this service and can do so at a reasonable cost, it is my opinion that no public purpose would be served by public advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Secretarial Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Kelly Service, Inc., G.P.O. Box 1179, Detroit, Mich., for the purpose of closing out bills for temporary secretarial personnel in various departments of the Employment and Economic Policy Administration. These services were initially obtained on the basis of an emergency need in EEPA's processing of applications for federal funds which did not allow for the delay incident to formal advertising. Now that temporary secretarial needs for EEPA have been determined, a formal solicitation through the city's Purchasing Office will be conducted during the summer for such services in FY '79, commencing October 1, 1978.

Funds for this contract will be provided to the city through a grant from the federal government under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period February 15, 1978, through June 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $2,400.

The request for approval of this contract is retroactive because the services were obtained on the basis of an emergency need and because EEPA wishes to honor a number of bills which aggregate over $2,000. The contractor was selected on the basis of telephone solicitations for temporary secretarial services. Since this contract is for services already provided in good faith at EEPA's request, and at a reasonable cost, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and award a contract to Office Specialists, 110 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass. 02108, for the purpose of paying accumulated bills for temporary, secretarial personnel in various departments of the Employment and Economic Policy Administration. Temporary services of this nature are necessary because the episodic nature of federal grant deadlines produces an enormous strain on our permanent secretarial staff and makes it necessary occasionally to hire outside, temporary, secretarial assistance in order to complete submissions to the federal government in a timely fashion.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be made available to the City of Boston through a federal government grant under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The dates of operation of the contract will be from March 1, 1978, through September 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $11,500.

The request for approval for this contract is retroactive because we wish to close out a number of monthly bills already in hand which total well over $2,000. The contractor was selected on the basis of telephone solicitations for temporary, secretarial services. This contract will run through September 30, 1978, to allow EEPA the time necessary to conduct a formal, sealed-bid procedure through the city's Purchasing Office and process the contract to provide temporary, secretarial services for the entire fiscal year, commencing October 1.

Because the contract is for services provided in good faith at our request, and at a reasonable cost, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising, I therefore request approval to make this award, without advertising, for sealed bids in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Management Conference

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Mr. Edward J. Tomey, Box 44, Cobble Hill Road, West Swanzey, N.H. 03469, for the purpose of implementing and conducting a management conference (with an emphasis on program development) for the EEPA executive staff. Services under the contract include individual and group meetings with staff members, preparing content of each management session, and follow-up briefings and reports.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period May 1, 1978, through June 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $2,450, to be paid upon completion of the contract.

EEPA is requesting this award retroactively because of a delay in the negotiation stage of the contract process. Considering the services performed under the contract are of high quality and reasonable cost, and because this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Proposal Writing Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Technical Development Corporation, TDC, 11 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass. 02108, for the purpose of writing and editing a proposal for the Skill and Training Improvement Program (STIP). The contractor will cover all elements of proposal writing and will assist the Research, Planning and Evaluation Department of EEPA.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under the Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act (YEDPA) of 1977, P.L. 95-93 and the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for period May 1, 1978, through July 15, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $12,570.

EEPA is requesting this award retroactively because of a delay in the negotiation stage of the contract process and because of the necessity of honoring a number of bills which aggregate well over $2,000. Since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Elderly Services Program

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Mr. Thomas Saltonstall, 57 Grove Street, Apt. 2, Belmont, Mass., to provide consulting services to the Employment and Economic Policy Administration in connection with designing and implementing an elderly services department. This action is being taken in order to provide much-needed attention to the elderly citizens residing in the City of Boston. The unit will perform elderly outreach services utilizing CETA Public Service Employment participants.

Under the terms of the contract, Mr. Saltonstall will perform the following duties: design and oversee the implementation of an elderly services project for EEPA.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contractor will be paid $150 per day for work to be performed from June 1, 1978, through August 31, 1978, total not to exceed $8,550.

Because of the extreme importance in designing a project of this nature, the contractor's willingness to work hours on demand, the reasonable cost for services, his knowledge and experience in the operation of these types of programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Rental Cars

Dear Mayor White:

I hereby request your Honor's approval to contract with Mirak Chevrolet, d/b/a Thrift Rent-A-Car, 75 Summer Street, Arlington, Mass. 02174, for the purpose of closing out bills due for the use of rental cars by EEPA at the Boston Plan, Project YES. These services were initially obtained on the basis of an immediate need which did not allow for the delay incident to formal advertising. Now that EEPA's automobile use needs have been determined, a formal solicitation will be conducted during the summer for such services in FY79 commencing October 1, 1978.

Funds for this contract will be provided to the city through grants from the federal government under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203, and the Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act of 1977, P.L. 95-93. The contract will be effective for the period February 2, 1978, through September 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $6,500.

The request for approval for this contract is retroactive because the services were obtained on the basis of an emergency need and because EEPA wishes to honor a number of bills which aggregate well over $2,000. Since this contract is for services already provided in good faith at EEPA's request, and at a reasonable cost, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Management Information System, etc.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award a contract to MetaSoftware, Inc. 320 Central Park West, New York, N.Y. 10021, for the services of a project manager and two systems analysts to the Employment and Economic Policy Administration (EEPA) to complete the implementation of and training of EEPA staff on the Boston Plan, Project YES automated management information system (MIS).

This contract, for additional services, is necessary because of the extremely complicated reporting requirements of the Department of Labor (DOL) and Manpower Demonstration Research Corporation (MDRC) for the Youth Incentive Entitlement Pilot Project (YIEPP/Project YES). Additionally MetaSoftware personnel were required to spend significant amount of unscheduled time to resolve problems with the computer job file, to speed up the assignment of participants to jobs, and to produce several special reports to aid the Project YES staff in determining status changes for a significant portion of the client population.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided to the city through a federal government grant under the Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act of 1977, P.L. 95-93. The contract will be effective for the period July 1, 1978, through May 30, 1979, at total cost not to exceed $37,400.

Because this is a negotiated contract for professional services, at a reasonable cost consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, and because of the knowledge and experience of the contractor, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Tracking System, etc.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with MetaSoftware, Inc., 320 Central Park West, New York, N.Y. 10025, for professional services to the Employment and Economic Policy Administration (EEPA) in the design, documentation, programming, and implementation of an automated, client-tracking system for CETA Titles, I, II, III, and VI. The contractor will also provide instruction and consultation to the EEPA Research Planning and Evaluation Division in the operation and maintenance of the system.

This contract is being undertaken to insure that the city is able to comply effectively with the massive, federal reporting requirements for prime sponsors on CETA programs and participants. The contractor is eminently qualified to perform such services, having ably designed a management information system for The Boston Plan, Project YES. Performance under this contract will thereby be enhanced by the experience and familiarity the contractor already has with the City of Boston's CETA programs.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period July 1, 1978, through May 30, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $134,800.

Because this is a negotiated contract for professional services, at a reasonable cost consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, and because of the knowledge and experience of the contractor, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Security Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with further advertising and to award a contract to Bonded Security, 8 Beacon Street, Suite 85, Boston, Mass. 02108, for full-time security guard services to be provided for the Employment and Economic Policy Administration's new office, located at 15 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

Funds for this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contractor will be paid $5.25 per hour for work performed between May 1, 1978, and September 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $21,000.

Several offers were solicited for these services. Bonded Security was selected as best on several key measures; their pricing was well within reason in light of other bids. Because of the extreme importance of this security service, the top level experience of the contractor, the full line of services to be provided, and the prior solicitation, it is my opinion that no useful purpose would be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

Management Information System

Dear Mayor White:

I hereby request your written authority to dispense with public bidding and to award a contract in an amount not to exceed $12,000, to the RAPIDATA Company, located at 21 Merchants Row, Boston, Mass., for the development of a management information system. The period of this contract shall be from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979. Payment of this contract shall be made from the Community Block Grant, appropriation account No. 8-36-03-322.

Under the terms of the agreement, RAPIDATA could develop, for the Equal Employment Opportunity Contract Compliance Office, a contractor/employee tracking system which will be of great assistance in the monitoring of contractors compliance with federal, state, and city equal employment opportunity regulations. Such a system would give this office increased capabilities in evaluating the progress of minority utilization within construction trades, in accordance with all construction contracts awarded by the City of Boston.

The RAPIDATA Company enjoys an excellent reputation within the industry and the company's experience, expertise, and demonstrated flexibility will provide for speedy development of this much-needed system.

Because of the professional nature and reasonable cost of these services, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
James M. Younger,
Director.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Apparatus Repairs

Dear Sir:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award the Salami's Truck Center, 124 Norfolk Avenue, Roxbury, Mass., the task of performing certain repairs to Engine 4-149P. The contract price for the work described is $2,816.77, on Service Order No. S62815-78.

The service order is covered under Contract No. 0062 for repetitive services for the year 1977-1978.

Because of the nature of these repairs the cost could not be ascertained until the engine was removed from the vehicle and inspected to determine the cost.

In my opinion the contractor is qualified to do the work herein-described and no advantage would accrue to the city through publicly advertising this work, inasmuch as Salami's Truck Center is thoroughly familiar with all types of work on said engines. The price quoted for the work is reasonable and it does not appear that any lower price could be obtained through publicly advertising for bids.

The work involved is extremely urgent to the safety of the public from fire, and any delay in its accomplishment would hamper the proper and efficient operation of Engine 4 in the protection of lives and property in the City of Boston.

Very truly yours,
George H. Paul,
Fire Commissioner.

Dear Sir:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award the following work, without advertising, to Mass. Truck Body & Trailer, Inc., 60 Arlington Street, Chelsea, Mass., in the amount of $3,801.10 on Service Order No. 62809-78.

The service order is covered under Contract No. RS 0062 for repetitive services for the year 1977-1978.

The contractor will furnish labor, parts, and materials for repair to Ladder 28-203T.

The following three bids were obtained for the performance of this work, copies of which are attached:

Mass. Truck Body & Trailer, Inc., $3,801;
Woodward Frame & Body Alignment, $5,850;
Gibson Motor & Machine Service, Inc., $5,975.

The contractor, in my opinion, is qualified to perform the work described on the attached sheet. Also, the bid price of $3,801 is reasonable and in my opinion a lower bid could not be obtained through publicly advertising the work.

It is necessary that this work be done as quickly as possible and any delay in its accomplishment would hamper the proper and efficient operation of the equipment in the protection of lives and property of the City of Boston.

Very truly yours,
George H. Paul,
Fire Commissioner.

Dear Sir:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award to Mass. Truck Body & Trailer, Inc., 60 Arlington Street, Chelsea, Mass., the task of performing extensive repairs to Fire Alarm Truck 409T, in the amount of $2,692.74, on Service Order No. 62756-78.

The service order is covered under Contract No. RS 0062 for repetitive services for the year 1977-1978.

Attached herewith are copies of three bids which were obtained for the performance of this work. The bids were as follows:

Mass. Truck Body & Trailer, Inc., $2,692.74;
Lacy Truck Equipment, Inc., $3,200;
Gibson Motor & Machine Service, Inc., $3,895.

On November 15, 1976, the City Auditor and the Law Department gave permission for the Fire Department to follow this procedure due to the emergency nature of the work which involves critical fire-fighting equipment and which exceeds the $2,000 limitation.

Very truly yours,
George H. Paul,

Dear Sir:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award to Salami's Truck Center, 124 Norfolk Avenue, Roxbury, Mass., the task of performing certain repairs to Aerial Tower 2 (249T). The contract price for the work described is $2,598.70, on Service Order No. 62714-78.

The service order is covered under Contract No. 0062 for repetitive services for the year 1977-1978.

Because of the nature of these repairs the cost could not be ascertained until the engine was removed from the vehicle and inspected to determine the cost.

In my opinion the contractor is qualified to do the work herein-described and no advantage would accrue to the city through publicly advertising this work inasmuch as Salami's Truck Center is thoroughly familiar with all types of work on said engines. The price quoted for the work is reasonable and it does not appear that any lower price could be obtained through publicly advertising for bids.

The work involved is extremely urgent to the safety of the public from fire, and any delay in its accomplishment would hamper the proper and efficient operation of Aerial Tower 2 in the protection of lives and property in the City of Boston.

Very truly yours,
George H. Paul,
Fire Commissioner.

Dear Sir:

In response to an advertisement in the City Record, of May 15, 1978, inviting interested, competent persons engaged in fire apparatus, truck, and automobile repair work to enter into a contract for estimating periodically the cost of and thereafter, upon the lowest responsible estimate, performing the work of miscellaneous and/or emergency repairs to Fire Department apparatus, trucks, and automobiles, the following company also received application for such contract and was inadvertently omitted from the letter dated June 30, 1978:

Paul's Clutch & Machine Company, Inc., 865 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston.

Your Honor's approval is requested to award a contract to the firm listed for the period July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, inclusive.

Respectfully submitted,
George H. Paul,
Fire Commissioner.

HEALTH AND HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT Various Testing Services

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to New England Medical Center Hospital, 171 Harrison Avenue, Boston, Mass. 02111, for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $3,125.

Under this contract, Dr. Timos Valaes' Laboratory at New England Medical Center will provide for Sephadex testing at a cost of $25 per test.

The Sephadex binding test is not a replacement test of the Bilirubin level test, but rather an additional test to aid in the clinical management of patients whose absolute bilirubin level is at a critical level in terms of the probability of brain damage. It is estimated that 125 tests will be performed in fiscal 1978-79.

This testing is not available at the commercial laboratories in the area. Additionally, as the time between the delivery of the specimen and running of its tests is crucial, the proximity of the laboratory performing the test is important.

Therefore, because of the professional nature of the services to be rendered, and because New England Medical Center Hospital has satisfactorily provided these services in the past, and because the cost is reasonable, no benefit would inure to the city publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Herbert H. Wotiz, M.D., Boston University School of Medicine, Room L-518, 80 East Concord Street, Boston, 02118, for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $4,625.

Under this contract, Herbert H. Wotiz, M.D., will perform estrogen receptor assay (binding) at a cost of $75 each and progesterone receptor assay at a cost of $35 per specimen.

These tests are important to the treatment of tumors (and breast cancer) as the physician is able to obtain early knowledge of the character of the tumor before performing surgery.

Leary Laboratory is the only other laboratory which offers this test. Leary's charge is $150 per test.

Therefore, inasmuch as this contract is of a highly specialized nature and as Herbert H. Wotiz, M.D., is eminently qualified to perform these tests and has satisfactorily provided these services in the past, and as the cost is reasonable, no benefit would inure to the city by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Various Repairs and Maintenance

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Picker Corporation, 220 Bolivar Street, Canton, Mass., 02021, for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $15,000.

Under this contract, the aforementioned company will provide repair services to Picker

X-ray equipment located at the Boston City Hospital.

Physicians Services

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract with the Trustees of Boston University, acting by the Boston University School of Medicine, to provide physicians clinical services for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a sum not to exceed $267,977.

Under this contract, the university shall provide qualified physicians for specified positions to render clinical services in the Outpatient Department of the Department of Health and Hospitals. The aforesaid physicians will serve under the department but without direct compensation from the City of Boston. The individual assignments to the positions will be by the university with the approval of the department.

The decision of this department to enter into this type of contractual arrangement was made after consideration of several factors, the most significant being to make it possible for these physicians to take advantage of certain fringe benefits which would not otherwise be available to them if they were paid directly by the City of Boston. I refer particularly to their participation in the Teachers Insurance Annuity Association, a nationwide benefit plan offering extremely generous benefits to its members who must be associated directly by a university, college, or medical school. Benefits accruing through membership in this association can be transferred if and when academic affiliation might be changed. However, this would not be possible if these physicians were compensated directly by the City of Boston and were members of the State-Boston Retirement System.

Because of the special fitness of the university to provide these services, because of the personal and professional nature of the services to be provided, and as the cost, in my opinion, is reasonable, your approval is respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising and to award this contract to the university under the terms and conditions stated above.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Dear Sir:

Under this contract, the university shall provide qualified physicians to serve in specified medico-administrative staff positions in the divisions of medicine, obstetrics-gynecology, pediatrics, surgery, and psychiatry of the Department of Health and Hospitals. The aforesaid physicians will serve under the department but without direct compensation from the City of Boston. The individual assignments to the positions will be by the university with the approval of the department.

LAW DEPARTMENT

Legal Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your written approval to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award to Nutter, McClellan & Fish a contract, a copy of which is annexed, for their services in representing Marion J. Fahey, superintendent of public schools, as she is receiver in the action in the United States District Court entitled Morgan v. Sullivan, No. 72-911-G, during the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $20,000. This is an action brought against the School Committee of the City of Boston concerning the desegregation issue.

In view of the experience of Nutter, McClellan & Fish, the professional nature of the services to be rendered, and the fact the attorneys for the School Committee have withdrawn as counsel for Ms. Fahey, it is my opinion that public advertisement would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
Herbert P. Gleason, Corporation Counsel.

Authorization for bidders to view the site of the work on the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority's property shall be obtained from the office of the Power Engineer - Project Manager, Charlestown, Massachusetts, from Mr. Edward J. Rowe (Telephone 617-722-5426).

A prebid conference will be held on March 1979, at 10 a.m., in MBTA Board Room, ninth floor, 50 High Street, Boston, Mass. It is imperative that prospective bidders have representative attend. Any request for interpretation of plans and specifications should be submitted in writing at the same time.

All bidders will be required to certify that they are not on the Comptroller General's list of ineligible contractors.

The provisions of Massachusetts Executive Order No. 130, Anti-Boycott Covenants, are incorporated by reference as part of this contract.

All bidders will be required to certify as part of their proposal that they are able to furnish labor that can work in harmony with all other elements of labor employed or to be employed on the work.

Proposal guaranty shall consist of a bid deposit of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000) in the form of a bid bond, cash, certified check, treasurer's or cashier's check issued to the MBTA by a responsible surety, bank, or trust company.

It was Maudie's first day at school — also the first day of the term. The teacher was busy seating the children and getting things started properly. "Here, Maudie," she said, "you may sit here for the present."

"I sat there all day," Maudie tearfully told her mother that evening "but she never brought me the present."

NEIGHBORHOOD EVOLUTION: A CLOSER LOOK

Part VI

David Bayley's article in The Public Interest could be used to let our institutions off the hook. The argument would go like this: if antisocial behavior is a function of society at large, then the quality of our institutions is most likely also a function of society at large and there probably isn't much we can do to change them. Such reductive reasoning would leave us with the observation that, "Things are as they are." Period.

An implicit set of conclusions from the Parkman Center conference is more constructive than that. The message seemed to be threefold: we need to define more realistically what our institutions can and should be doing; we need to see that they adequately carry out a set of clarified responsibilities; and we need to demand better interagency communication and cooperation so that problems, such as juvenile misbehavior, can be treated as a whole rather than as a series of unrelated bureaucratic exercises.

As a corollary to these points, it is imperative that institutions become more accountable. Each year millions of dollars are poured into social service programs, with far too little monitoring of what this money is actually buying. Disbursers of funds must begin exercising more oversight if programs and finances are to give maximum results.

Furthermore, families and communities must be understood as the critical components they are. A failure in these organic institutions appears to guarantee that created institutions, such as police, courts, and youth service agencies, will be asked to do too much and will tend to break down.

Institutional improvement and strengthening of family and community structures are clearly interrelated. Thus, the recommendations which follow proceed from those directed at public officials and agency administrators to those which more specifically address the role of families and communities.

Police

The police have justifiability protested that they cannot solve all of society's problems, among them massive juvenile misbehavior. They should, however, do a far better job of responding to calls for immediate aid. When neighborhood residents feel that the symbol of order, a police officer, will not appear or will make no real effort when he does appear, public confidence is seriously undermined. Feeling defenseless, people tend to lose initiative in taking steps in their own defense.

In addition, the police have a leadership role to play in stimulating citizen cooperation, as for instance through block-watch communities. At their best, police-community relations officers have done much for community morale, and the steady development of police community programs appears to be in everyone's interest.

Courts

Because judges function so much as individuals and because their authority is, of necessity, well insulated, juvenile justice tends to be cloaked in mystery. For that matter, there is simply a great deal of public

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Seventh Mayor
SAMUEL A. ELIOT
1837-1839

Samuel Atkins Eliot, who was the father of Charles W. Eliot, a president emeritus of Harvard, came of a long line of distinguished ancestors, the first of whom to come to this country landed in 1668. He was the son of Samuel and Catherine Eliot, and inherited from them a moderate fortune, which was increased by the estate brought him by his wife, who was a sister of Mayor Lyman.

He was born March 5, 1798, and graduated from Harvard in 1817 and the Divinity School in 1820. Instead of entering the ministry, he spent three years studying languages and literature in Europe, and then devoted much of his time gratuitously to public service and charitable work.

He was much interested in the Prison Discipline Society, and was also first president of the Boston Academy of Music, under whose auspices Beethoven's Symphonies were first given in Boston. As a member of the School Committee, he introduced music into the public school curriculum of Boston, which thus became the first American city to make music a part of public instruction. He served on the Board of Aldermen and in the state legislature. Eliot was mayor at a time when Boston needed a strong hand to save the city from the worst misunderstanding about the system and the people who are responsible for it.

A lack of public information and education in this regard has led to a widespread belief that the judiciary is largely indifferent to community welfare. It is thus in the interests of the courts themselves to explain how juvenile justice is administered and why it appears to be failing. When residents feel, rightly or wrongly, that many courts are insensitive to neighborhood needs for protection from violent offenders, confidence declines and the criminal justice system tends to be further undermined.

The Urban Court Project, attached to the Dorchester District Court, offers a promising approach to greater community involvement in juvenile affairs. Especially noteworthy is the mediation panel which attempts to resolve disputes between family members, neighbors, etc. Many serious situations arise out of exactly this kind of dispute. Also worth duplicating is the court's disposition panel which assists judges in so-called "creative sentencing" — a work restitution program instead of commitment to DYS, for example.

DYS

If the reforms of the last few years are not to be repudiated by the public at large, the Department of Youth Services has got to recognize and respond to an urgent need to remove dangerous youthful offenders from communities seriously threatened by them. Since there is a dispute about how many "dangerous" juveniles there are and who they are, DYS should cooperate with police, courts, and community residents in determining which youths should be removed from the community. To have such offenders on the street is demoralizing to residents who feel that protests will only lead to retaliation. If there is one clear institutional imperative, it is that DYS provide the means to separate demonstrably dangerous juveniles from communities unable to cope with them.

Mental Health and Educational Services

Given the presumption that much juvenile antisocial behavior is linked to emotional problems and learning disabilities, the role of mental health and educational services is of significant importance. A step forward would be, at least experimentally, a coordination of such services on a small-area neighborhood basis and in cooperation with the courts and DYS. It is also strongly urged that Boston increase its efforts to implement an effective chapter 766 program in its schools.

YAC

While it has some excellent staff and programs, the Youth Activities Commission needs to define its purposes, approaches, and constituencies more clearly. If a major focus is the neighborhood, then YAC ought to respond to needs as neighborhoods perceive them. This could mean, for example, different working hours, dealing with older and tougher kids, and taking a leadership role in the formation of neighborhood task forces.

Once decisions about purposes, approaches, and constituencies have been made, YAC should concentrate on informing the public of what its role is. The city, for its parts, ultimately has to decide if conventional youth services are helpful in stabilizing neighborhoods. If they are, then the city should provide better guidance and support for the agency; if scarce resources should be otherwise spent.

Job Programs

Federal, youth-work programs are presently restricted to the public sector. While some private, non-profit agencies and government departments have given young people valuable work experience, there is also a high incidence of "make-work" jobs that do nothing for self-esteem or vocational development and may even reinforce dependency and bad habits. The opening up of federal funds to private-sector, job placements, preferably on a year-round basis, is highly desirable.

The Outward Bound Model

Most observers agree that boredom and a lack of constructive challenges contribute to delinquency. Spectacular instances of vandalism, for instance, convey a dramatic message about the energy and ingenuity being turned into protest against the existing environment.

A model that thus seems worthy of serious attention is Outward Bound. Outward Bound places young people in completely new and even primitive environments where they face challenges designed to build self-reliance and self-esteem. For a number of young Americans the Peace Corps has played this role, while in the past, compulsory military service helped to mature enormous numbers of young people in a roughly similar way.

In terms of a constructive alternative at a critical age, the loss of the draft may have had serious consequences for the country's late adolescent population. (In Massachusetts, the lowering of the drinking age has contributed yet another negative factor.) While costly, and probably very much limited by that consideration, Outward Bound-type experiments should definitely be part of our agenda.

Neighborhood Task Force

In some neighborhoods, better control of juvenile problems might fostered by cooperation between residents and representatives of the police, the courts, the parole system, DYS, the schools, and other concerned agencies and interests. One of the most conspicuous weaknesses of our present system or nonsystem — is its fragmentation. Institutions and the communities they serve in many cases hardly interact at all. Problem kids, who are also and obviously kids with problems, drift in this setting.

A question, though, is who should take the lead in pulling the parts together. Neighborhood residents and neighborhood organizations are the most desirable initiators, since their commitment from residents themselves is critical. Other initiators could possibly be YAC or the Police Department.

Family Intervention

The argument for a more comprehensive approach to individual youths can be enlarged to include entire families. It is fairly clear that a few, extremely problem-ridden families can threaten the well-being of hundreds of others and, in some cases, threaten the survival of neighborhoods.

What one would like to see, as part of a neighborhood stabilization strategy, would be the means to identify such families and to deal with them as they affect their neighborhoods. One can imagine a "neighborhood aide" who could make the missing connections between households and the schools, the police station, the court, the Department of Mental Health, the local civic association, and so on. Such an individual might also act as the "gooser" called for during the conference.

People familiar with bureaucratic organizations will see at once some of the difficulties; yet a place exists for a kind of case worker who could help stitch institutions, communities, and families back together. Boston's Little City Halls are proof that it is possible to develop humane and locally oriented capacity in government. Of course, hard questions would have to be answered about organizational sponsorship, funding, and applicability by neighborhood. Nevertheless, this seems a route to pursue.

element, which was getting control. His efforts to organize both the Police and Fire Departments were successful only so far as the Fire Department was concerned. This department, having become a nuisance and a menace, as firemen received no compensation but received a certain amount for "refreshments," a hoodlum element was attracted which soon filled the fire companies and made them as prone to riot as to put out fires. A crisis was finally reached on June 11, 1837, when an Irish funeral "collided" with a company coming from a fire. A fire alarm brought out another company, and soon 15,000 people were engaged in the riot. Houses were barricaded, blood was spilled, and finally, peace was restored by the mayor's arrival at the head of 800 lancers and infantry. This resulted in the establishment of a paid force. He also created the first organized day police. Previous to this, there were no day police, but a night watch only, consisting of 110 watchmen and ten constables, who were on duty from 7 p.m. in the summer, and 6 p.m. in the winter until sunrise. During his term of office, a hospital for the insane was erected and opened in South Boston. He was elected to Congress in 1850 to fill out the unexpired term of Robert C. Winthrop. Although a friend of the black, he voted for the fugitive slave law, believing that the only way to preserve the Union, prevent war, and help all men, was to support the actual Constitution.

Near the end of his life, a firm in which he was a silent partner failed. He gave up all his property to meet the debt. Returning to Cambridge in "honorable poverty," he spent his time writing and editing books. He died on January 29, 1862. Mayor Eliot was one of the most respected citizens of his time.

Eighth Mayor JONATHAN CHAPMAN 1840-1842

Jonathan Chapman, Boston's eighth mayor, was born on January 23, 1807, and was the son of Jonathan Chapman, who had been a selectman of Boston. Preparing for college at Philips Academy, he graduated from Harvard, studied law under Judge Lemuel Shaw, then went into politics, and was elected mayor in December, 1839, and held office for three years. As the city debt had nearly doubled in eighteen years, though there had been a proportionate increase in the value of the property owned by the city, Mayor Chapman recommended a reduction of the city debt as the chief aim of his administration.

In his inaugural speech in 1841, Chapman spoke of the great commercial importance to Boston of the establishment in 1840 of the Cunard Line between Boston and Liverpool, and the opening of the new Western Railroad to the Hudson River. The old County Court House was made over for use as the City Hall, and was occupied as such on March 18, 1841.

During his term of office he employed an extra police force to prosecute violators of the laws regarding liquor licenses.

He was a brilliant speaker, and had considerable literary ability, contributing to the North American Review and other periodicals. He died on May 25, 1848.

Ninth Mayor MARTIN BRIMMER 1843-1844

The ninth mayor of Boston, Martin Brimmer was described as "a most amiable and upright character, a gentleman without reproach, and a most useful citizen." He was born in Roxbury, on June 8, 1793, the son of Martin and Sarah Brimmer; graduated from Harvard in 1814, where he was captain of the University Corps; and began business in the store of Theodore Lyman, Jr., but later went with Isaac Winslow and Company on Long Wharf. He was alderman in 1838, and mayor for two years.

He was interested in education and, at his own expense, printed and distributed to every school in Massachusetts The School and the Schoolmaster. Militia affairs also attracted his attention. He was an ensign in the Third Regiment, Third Brigade, First Division, in 1815, 1816, and 1817, and lieutenant of the same in 1818. From 1819 to 1822, inclusive, he was captain of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1826, and in 1845, commander of the reorganized Independent Corps of Cadets.

Brimmer was elected mayor as the Whig candidate. He had made a study of the disciplining and construction of prisons, and made suggestions that were carried out when the prison was erected on Charles Street. He believed in extending and beautifying the streets and the public places, in giving careful attention to health and police matters, and in a liberal encouragement of charitable and literary institutions. His death occurred on April 25, 1847.

placing primary emphasis on services to the many seniors who are homebound and cut off from their communities," says Mayor Kevin H.
White. "Visiting aides provide the link necessary to bridge the gap of isolation. In many cases, the program means the difference between life at home and life in an institution."

The program employs seventy-five visiting aides between the ages of fifty-five and eighty-five, who serve thirteen sponsor agencies throughout Boston's eighteen neighborhoods. Visiting aides are trained in areas relevant to their job responsibilities and in issues of particular interest to elders. Each aide carries an ongoing caseload of ten to fifteen clients and meets with them weekly in clients' homes. In addition to providing friendly visits on a one-to-one basis and health monitoring, aides offer information, referral, follow-up services when necessary, and escort services to medical appointments and shopping trips. Visiting aides also provide clients with emotional support during periods of stress and supportive counseling during periods of transition.

"We are very proud of the outstanding services, often unseen but of vital importance to Boston's isolated elderly, provided by the visiting aides and sponsor agencies," says Commissioner of Elderly Affairs Elaine Guiney.

If you are interested in having an aide visit your home, call the Mayor's Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

ABSENTEEISM? DR. WOOD RESPONDS

Superintendent Robert Wood, on January 31, responded to the recent article on absenteeism published in Parents United, a publication of the City-wide Parents Advisory Council.
"I welcome the council's recognition of the major problem of absenteeism in the public school systems, including ours. It is a problem of which we are well aware. We look forward to collaboration with parents city-wide in greater enforcement of attendance requirements.

Closer cooperation between local schools and individual parents is clearly needed. The School Department is glad to know of CPAC's interest in this important issue and we

Dr. Wood suggested several programmatic approaches which would encourage the interest of high school and middle school students such as expansion of Project YES and alternative programs similar to Another Course to College. Work/study opportunities must be increased. Issues raised in connection with locked doors need to be evaluated in light of safety requirements. A stronger effort will be made to notify all parents and students of the thirty-minute, tardy regulation. Dr. Wood has instructed the Director of District Relations,
Mr. John Kelly, to intensify his work in these areas, as well as seek closer cooperation with community and public safety agencies.

HUB GEARED FOR SNOW EMERGENCY!

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced steps the city will take to assure the public's access to all city roads, in the case of a snow-emergency declaration.

Parking will be banned on the odd-numbered sides of the street, and that regulation will remain in effect on a twenty-four-hour basis until the emergency is lifted.

Boston has nearly 500 pieces of equipment ready to remove snow, and to salt and sand streets in the event of a storm. In order for this equipment to be effective, Mayor White asks the public's assistance in obeying emergency parking regulations and in using public transportation.

The Mayor also urges everyone to check on any elderly residents in the neighborhoods to ensure their safety and comfort during any storm and its aftermath.

SICK LEAVE RECORDS AND ANNUAL REDEMPTION OF SICK LEAVE

To: All Department Heads.

In accordance with contractual agreements between the City of Boston and the various unions representing city and county employees (a list of those unions follows) an Annual Redemption of Sick Leave for employees who qualify is to be implemented for the redemption of the 1978 sick leave. This "buy back" payment will be made from each department's Item 10 account.

Eligibility for the redemption is as follows:

1. An employee, having been employed on or before January 1, 1978, and having used less than five days of sick leave during the calendar year is eligible for "buy back" pay.

2. An employee must have been employed by July 1, 1978, to be eligible for the redemption on a prorated basis. Employees with less than six months continuous service are not eligible.

3. Only employees on the payroll on December 31, 1978, qualify for this payment.

4. CETA employees in appropriate bargaining units are eligible for this payment, if they meet the above requirements. Payments will be made by CETA under each department's CETA account.

The procedure for implementation will be as follows:

1. Each appointing authority is responsible for notifying each employee who is eligible for the "buy back" under the attached provision. The last date for filing the Sick-Leave Reimbursement request is March 1, 1979. No payment will be made on requests received after this date or until the Personnel Division receives the Sick-Leave and Vacation Reports from the department. (Instructions for this report will follow in a later directive.)

2. The Sick-Leave Reimbursement Request Form (available in the Personnel Office) will be submitted to the Supervisor of Personnel for approval. Special Sick-Leave Buy Back payrolls will be received shortly. After the Sick-Leave Reimbursement Requests have been returned to the department from the Personnel Division, these payrolls should be prepared and submitted to the Auditing Department, Payroll Unit, along with the approved Sick-Leave Reimbursement Requests. These payrolls will not be processed until after March 1, 1979, and until the department has filed a Sick-Leave and Vacation report with the Personnel Division. Sick-leave reimbursements will not be processed on any other payroll.

3. After the payment is made, the departmental payroll clerk will make the appropriate deductions from the employees's sick leave record.

4. A Sick-Leave Redemption Report will be submitted to the Personnel Division by the Data Processing Unit and will be available for the inspection by each department.

In conclusion, each department should immediately notify eligible employees regarding the optional sick leave and vacation practices and record-keeping practices should be reviewed and monitored to ensure rigid controls of sick-leave accounting procedures and maximum utilization of your work force.

If you have any questions concerning this matter, please contact Ms. Patricia Murphy or Mr. Frank Firicano at 725-3362.

HUB POLICE COMMITTING "EVERY AVAILABLE RE- SOURCE" TO MURDER PROBES

Mayor Kevin H. White said recently, that Boston Police are working "around the clock" in cooperation with the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office on cases involving the death of four black women in Roxbury and Dorchester.

The Mayor said he has instructed Superintendent John Doyle, chief of the Bureau of Investigative Services, to assign fifteen detectives to work with the District Attorney's Office, which directs homicide probes using Boston Police as investigators.

As of September 1, 1978, the District Attorney's Office is by state law in charge of every homicide in the city immediately upon discovery of the body.

The Mayor assured the city's black community that the police are committing "every available resource" to the investigation.

NEW OWNERSHIP FOR CODMAN SQUARE MARKET

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced that the Community Development Corporation of Codman Square has purchased the First National store in Codman Square that closed recently.

The supermarket will be a wholly owned subsidiary of the CDC.

CDC Chairman Tim Clegg said the store should be reopened within a month" for the shopping convenience of Codman Square residents.

Vice-Mayor Edward Sullivan said the CDC's purchase of the store "is a great triumph for the people of Codman Square and for the local business community. A store owned and operated by neighborhood interests is the ideal anchor for the growth of Codman Square."

MAYOR URGES: AUGMENT POLICE DEPARTMENT

Mayor White asks state to allow the hiring of 100 more policemen; enlists Governor King's support to obtain eligible lists.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on February 8, asked the state Division of Personnel Administration to allow Boston to hire 100 more police officers as soon as possible, and enlisted Governor Edward King's support in expediting the division's release of a list of eligible candidates for those police jobs.

In a letter to Acting State Personnel Administrator Eugene Rooney, Jr., Mayor White said, "The City of Boston will face a serious public safety situation if it continues to be unable to hire police officers as a result of the failure of the state Division of Personnel Administration to certify a list of candidates who passed the police exam given in May of 1978."

Mayor White's letters to both the Governor and the state personnel administrator, arose from a community meeting at Boston's Lee School where concerned neighborhood residents expressed dissatisfaction with the number of police patrolling their streets.

In his letter to Governor King, Mayor White said, "I would like to hire 100 new police officers, but this is not possible until the state certifies a list of eligible candidates. This has become more urgent because of the recent tragic murders of four young women and the public concern this has aroused in Boston."

The list of candidates from the latest police exam has been frozen over a dispute about what constitutes a passing score on the exam.

Mayor White's request asks that the top 500 examinees' names be released so that physical, psychological, and background checks may be made of the candidates in preparation for the day they may be certified by the Division of Personnel Administration for hiring in Boston.

In his letter to Acting Administrator Rooney, Mayor White added, "The city cannot tolerate being dependent upon a state agency, such as yours, for such a vital public safety function unless you are able to carry out that function in a manner that is responsive to our needs. The city needs the eligible list now, and I insist that you take steps necessary to see that we get it."

BIRTH DEFECTS PROGRAMMED BY MIT COMPUTER

Director of Markets, Bruce Glin-ski, was on hand to see his efforts on behalf of the Massachusetts Bay Chapter-March of Dimes come to fruition in the form of a computer which will help physicians solve some of the birth defects puzzle.

Because of the tremendous advances in medicine today, a work, thought to be comprehensive and up-to-date at its publishing, might well contain substantial omissions a short time later. In the continuing efforts to eliminate or at least lessen the harmful impact of birth defects, it became apparent that a tool which could retain, retrieve, and constantly update information was necessary. Today, the Birth Defects Information System is such a tool.

A computer located at MIT is programmed to give the most complete, current information available on more than 1,000 birth defects. Physicians in nineteen cities have access to almost instant retrieval of birth defects information gleaned from 400 experts from twenty-two different nations. Formerly, the gathering of such thorough input required either hours of library research or communications between specialists who may be thousands of miles apart. Now, through the cooperation of the National Foundation-March of Dimes, Tufts New England Medical Center, and the Mass. Institute of Technology, a central source accessible by telephone hookup is established here in Mass. Bay for the world's benefit.

As a member of the executive committee of the March of Dimes, Mr. Glin-ski has been active in fundraising and program aspects of the March of Dimes.

MAYOR ANNOUNCES SUPPORT FOR SHELTERS FOR BATTERED WOMEN

Mayor Kevin H. White, on February 6, announced support for further expansion of shelter for battered women within the City of Boston. The Mayor urged regional directors of the National Association of Housing and Urban Renewal Officers (NAHRO) who are part of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to move quickly because the need is so great.

Citing recent statistics on battered women in urban areas, Mayor White pointed out that "these women have great needs for safety, security, dignity, and peace of mind. Very often their lives are in danger and yet they have no place to go. It is incumbent upon the city to do the aid of these women to insure them equal protection under the law."

The Mayor pledged "The city will explore every avenue in an attempt to provide extra housing to meet the needs of the city's residents."

At present there are four shelters within the city spread throughout the various neighborhoods. Each shelter takes in women in crisis and then continues to provide supportive services until the women have been placed in alternative housing or have resolved their problem in some other fashion.

Although the shelters are listed in the phone book and receive referrals from the Police Department and various social service agencies, their exact addresses and locations are kept confidential for reasons of security.

STATUS OF WOMEN: PROGRESS REPORT

The Commission on behalf of people of Boston will formulate, locate, and monitor the enactment of programs, policies, and laws to improve the status of women in the City of Boston."

The Boston Commission to Improve the Status of Women was first established by Mayor Kevin H. White in 1970. The structure of the commission reflects the diversity of neighborhoods in Boston. There are twenty-five commissioners: nineteen members represent each of Boston's neighborhoods; four women represent municipal employees; and a senior citizen and teenage girl represent their age groups.

Each year, new members are selected to serve on the commission. One-third to one-half of former members remain as commissioners to ensure continuity of commission work.

The commission is divided into three task forces which handle issues dealing directly with improving the status of women. Along with monthly meetings of the entire commission, these task forces meet regularly throughout the year.

The Public Policy Task Force publishes a bimonthly newsletter for the commission. The newsletter, titled 53.9 percent, is designed to carry articles which can be used for reference. In the past, features have included information covering such areas as wills, insurance, victims of domestic violence, tax reform, and more.

The Boston Commission to Improve the Status of Women is located in Room 603, Boston City Hall, 725-4496. The office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and has a variety of information on file that concerns women. In addition to informative material, the office posts a weekly job-listing and has a bulletin board containing career development programs and lists agencies which handle job placement for women.

Rape Task Force. This task force is a coalition of representatives from the Police Department, hospitals, the District Attorney's Office, the Attorney General's Office, citizen groups, and the Mayor's Office. The major concern of this task force is with the continuity and delivery of services for rape victims. The task force has published a wallet-sized card with practical advice for rape victims. We have submitted legislation to rewrite the Massachusetts rape statute. It was written to grade rape offenses which are different in kind and degree according to the seriousness of the offense and the severity of the penalty warranted. Its purpose is to facilitate prosecution, increase chances for conviction, and encourage victims to prosecute.

Employment Task Force/Women's Work Cooperative (WWC). The WWC is a coalition of ten, nonprofit agencies dealing with job placement and career counseling for women. This task force coordinates the administration of the cooperative and compiles a weekly job list.

Battered Woman Task Force. This task force was established in the spring of 1977 to coordinate the activities of groups, agencies, and individuals working with victims of domestic violence. Future projects will be designed to research, draft, and file new legislation, collect statistics, and to share information among many groups. The task force has been working with HUD officials to utilize HUD-owned properties as permanent housing for women living in shelters across the Commonwealth.

Public Policy Task Force. This group speaks for the commission on matters of public and governmental policy. Along with the publishing of the commission newsletter, the lobbying and monitoring of legislation is another function of the task force.

Public Policy Task Force — Legislative Subcommittee. In order to implement many of the goals of the Boston Commission and its task forces, members and staff have placed legislation and lobbying activities as one of its top priorities. Bills that the Commission supported in the 1978 legislative session include an act providing certain temporary protection for persons suffering abuse; an act establishing programs for displaced homemakers; and an act which provides for the exclusion of spectators from courtrooms during trials or portions of trials involving the crime of incest or rape; and several bills which will implement the Massachusetts Equal Rights Amendment.

During the 1979 legislative session the task force will be researching and supporting bills dealing with domestic violence, rape, DES, displaced homemakers, and the remainder of the ERA implementation bills, including tenancy by the entirety.

For additional information about these task forces and their work, please call the commission office at 725-4496. Ask for Joan Johnson, Ellen Morris, or Patricia Ross.

During the after-school hours the Boston Community Schools Program transforms these facilities into community learning centers offering everything from day care to adult education to special activities for the elderly.

Programs are developed and governed by community representatives on local Community School Councils who assess their neighborhood's needs to create the most responsive innovative programming.

The exhibit is a photographic presentation by school staff of the many diverse Community School programs with information about how you can become involved in the Community School servicing your neighborhood. The show is currently in the Bostonian Gallery second floor, City Hall, and will end February 28.

ntered the two most severely exposed ire Fighters Hullum and Kelly were sucformed these acts at great personal risk to themselves, the Fire Commissioner/Chief is pleased to highly commend both members and recommend their cases to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

VII. LETTER OF THANKS

"February 5, 1979.

Dear Commissioner Paul:

On Thursday, January 25, 1979, due to severe flooding in the basement of my home, a fire erupted in my gas furnace.

I immediately evacuated my children from the house and called the Fire Department for assistance. Within minutes the fire fighters from the fire station on Neponset Avenue in Dorchester were at my home, and entered the premises without hesitation. The fire was extinguished and the main gas valve turned off to prevent a further occurrence, until the Boston Gas Company could send a service man to check the house.

This is just another example of the competent, courteous, and fearless manner in which the Boston fire fighters perform their daily duties. They are worth every penny of their salaries, especially when they give the citizens of the city a feeling that they are secure in the safety of their homes.

Sincerely,

Michael J. Donovan,

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

MAYOR'S OFFICE

Alternative Work Program

Dear Mayor White:

I hereby request your permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract in an amount not to exceed $10,700, to Programs for Youth, Inc., d/b/a Dorchester Court Alternative Work Program. Payment for this contract shall be made from the Community Development Block Grant Program.

Under the terms of agreement, Programs for Youth, Inc., d/b/a Dorchester Court Alternative Work Program will provide probationers an alternative to paying off fines and court costs through physical labor at a rate of $4 per hour.
In addition, the program will provide judges with the option of sentencing a defendant to community restitution as a laborer. Work done to pay off court fines and costs is voluntary.
Participants' labor does not result in any monetary gain on anyone's part. The program benefits those who because of joblessness would not have been able to pay off fines and fees. The court writes off the fines and fees for participants. Community Development funds shall be used for the payment of one consultant supervisor position and to purchase the maintenance equipment necessary for the operation of Dorchester Court Alternative Work Program. In view of the items to be purchased and the great benefit the Dorchester community receives from the program's labor services, the cost of this contract is most reasonable. The period of performance shall be from June 1, 1978, through July 30, 1978.

Programs for Youth, Inc., d/b/a Dorchester Court Alternative Work Program has demonstrated expertise in the delivery of similar services in the community. In the interest of continuity of service delivery, I recommend that a contractual relationship be established between the city and Programs for Youth, Inc., d/b/a Dorchester Court Alternative Work Program at this time.

Therefore, for the reason cited above, it is my view that public advertising would not serve any useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely,

Katharine D. Kane,
Deputy Mayor.

PARKS AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT Snow Removal

Dear Mr. Mayor:

It is respectfully requested that your Honor approve my engaging the services of the firm of Murphy and Fahy Construction, Inc., general contractors, Box 453, Milton, Mass., to remove snow from roadways under the jurisdiction of the Parks and Recreation Department during the blizzard of 1978 (February 15, 16, 17, and 18). Also requested is your Honor's authorization to dispense with public advertising in the City Record, in the award of this contract.

Due to the accumulation of snow left by the blizzard it was necessary to engage the services of two, front-end loaders to supplement the department forces in opening roadways in the park system.

The firm of Murphy and Fahy Construction, Inc. were able to furnish the two pieces of equipment required, and qualified operators to remove the snow and were engaged for a total of 160.5 hours at a total cost of $7,027.50. The rate for one, 1½-cubic yard, front-end loader was $30 per hour, and for one, 2-cubic yard, front-end loader was $55 per hour. It was my judgment that the hourly rate was fair and reasonable for the equipment furnished.

The original letter to your Honor dated February 24, 1978, requesting approval to award this contract, without public advertising for bids, has been lost and therefore I have had this letter prepared at this late date so that we may proceed with executing a contract so that the contractor can be paid for services rendered.

As the proposed contract is to be one for the performance of services in response to an emergency and as time was of the essence a public solicitation of bids would serve no useful purpose. The contract will be charged to appropriation Snow Removal.

Respectfully yours,

Alan M. Austin,
Commissioner.

Engineering Services, etc.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

It is respectfully requested that your Honor approve my selection of Bryant Associates
Inc., consulting engineers with offices at 648 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass., to furnish general engineering and surveying services for the preparation of plans and specifications and for the supervision of construction of improvements to parks and playgrounds at various parks facilities, during the period August 15, 1978, and December 31, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $25,000, payable at the rate not greater than the rates set forth for office work and field work in the 1973 Eastern Massachusetts Association of Professional Engineers and Surveyors, Inc. "Recommended Minimum Fee Schedule for Professional Services," which rates are in my opinion fair and reasonable.

Bryant Associates Inc. is a minority-owned, consulting engineering firm whose principals have over forty-five years of combined experience in the field of consulting engineering and is qualified to provide the professional services required under the proposed contract.

Also requested is your Honor's authorization to dispense with public advertising in the City Record, in the award of this contract.

As the proposed contract is to be one for the performance of professional services, a public solicitation for bids, therefore would serve no useful purpose. The proposed contract will be charged to Beautification and Improvement of Park Lands 3-31-16.

Very truly yours,

Alan M. Austin,
Commissioner.

Utilities Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your written approval to dispense with proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award to Federated Dorchester Neighborhood Houses, Inc. (Federated of 1353 Dorchester Avenue, Dorchester, Massachusetts), a contract for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $15,000. This sum is reasonable based upon charges for previous years and a formula from the Public Facilities Department.

The Parks and Recreation Department owns and operates a swimming pool at the above address in a premises connected to Federated property by a shared, locker-room facility. This department seeks to renew its contract with Federated for the purchase from Federated of utilities utilized for the operating of the city pool at the above premises for the current fiscal year. The utilities are supplied to Federated by the servicing utility companies and the city will pay Federated a share of the billed cost, proportional to the actual use of such services, and set forth in the following formula:

Heat, city, 29.05 percent, Federated, 70.95 percent; electricity, city, 30.20 percent, Federated 69.80 percent; water, city, 68.00 percent, Federated, 32 percent.

Federated Dorchester Neighborhood Houses, Inc. is qualified to supply this service. In view of the fact that Federated has supplied the city with necessary utilities supplied to them by servicing utility companies in the past, it is my opinion that public advertisement would serve no useful purpose. Charge to 1-11-41 (29).

Very truly yours,

Alan M. Austin,
Commissioner.

Bus Transportation

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On June 28, 1978, your Honor authorized the award of a publicly advertised contract for furnishing bus transportation to the low bidder, Hub Bus Lines, Inc., 755 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., to provide day trips for senior citizens participants in recreation centers and playground programs, and handicapped children and adults in our Camp Joy program, and for transportation of these same groups to a variety of special events and activities conducted by the Parks and Recreation Department for the approximate sum of $71,125.

Hub Bus Lines, Inc. enclosed with its proposal filed with the awarding authority a letter indicating that they were unsure of obtaining a bond to cover the bid and proposed that we accept a cashier's check or savings book in the amount of $7,112.50 as 10 percent of the bid in lieu of a bond.

The advertisement, the bid proposal, and the contract documents required the successful bidder to furnish a performance bond and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price. Hub Lines Inc. was notified in writing on May 24, 1978, that its inability to obtain the bonds required could result in the rejection of its bid.

Hub Bus Lines, Inc. then informed this office by telephone in July of 1978, that they felt they could obtain the required bonds and were agreeable to provide the transportation services called for in the contract starting July 1, 1978, and that they would proceed to execute the contract.

On August 1, 1978 Hub Bus Lines, Inc. informed us by telephone that they could not obtain the required bonds. The total services provided by Hub to date is approximately $10,000.

We are now in the height of summer recreation program and many events involving bus transportation are scheduled. Therefore, I propose to sever all relationships with Hub Bus Lines, Inc. and award the contract to the second bidder, William S. Carroll, Inc. for the remainder of the contract term, based upon the bids received on May 18, 1978, which were publicly opened and read aloud. The following is a tabulation of the bids received:

Hub Bus Lines, Inc., 755 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., $71,125; William S. Carroll, Inc., 640 Hammond Street, Brookline, Mass., $77,575.

The unit prices submitted by William S. Carroll, Inc. on its proposal are in my opinion fair and reasonable, and the company is qualified to perform the services called for and meet the schedules set by the department.

Your approval is requested to rescind the letter of award to Hub Bus Lines, Inc. dated June 21, 1978, and approved by your Honor on June 28, 1978, and approve award of the contract to William S. Carroll, Inc., 640 Hammond Street, Brookline, Mass., for the period of August 4, 1978, through June 30, 1979, for the approximate sum of $77,575, to be charged to 1-11-41-29.

Very truly yours,

Alan M. Austin,
Commissioner.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

Snow Removal

Dear Mayor White:

Due to the severity of the great blizzard February 6, 1978, it was necessary to hire several pieces of emergency, snow-fighting equipment in addition to the amount usually used in a smaller storm.

When this equipment was hired, it was the intention of the Police Department and Public Works Department to allow the owner to perform work that would exceed an amount of $2,000. However, due to the severity of the storm, many days of work were required to make passable the streets of Boston.

Following is a list of contractors and the cost, which I deem reasonable, for service provided by them during the snow season 1977-78 without a contract, and I respectfully request that you award a contract, without public advertising, to the following-named contractors:

Roger R. Winslow, Winslow's Auto Body, 1000 Dover Road, New Boston, NH 03070, $2,560; Carlos Mora, B. & S. Company, 1252 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass., $5,232; East Boston Towing Company, Inc., 147 Liverpool Street, East Boston, Mass., $3,168; Phil's Towing & Auto Service, 57 Denver Street, Saugus, MA 01906, $9,889.

Harvard Tow, 40 Harvard Avenue, Brighton, MA 02135, $11,264; Stadium Auto Body, 30 Western Avenue, Brighton, MA 02135, $3,480; George Goverino, River Road, New Boston, MA 03070, $2,560; Rosindale Motors, 3475 Washington Street, Jamaica Plain, MA 02130, $19,840.

Parkway Towing, 8 Willow Street, P.O. Box 231, West Roxbury, MA 02132, $2,592; Abbot Towing & Auto Removal Service, 49 Freepoint Street, Dorchester, MA 02125, $3,840; D. & Company, 1438 Hyde Park Avenue, Hyde Park, MA 02136, $2,592; Cappy's, Inc., 41 Amos Street, Boston, Mass., $3,500.

The period of each contract is from January 20, 1978, through February 28, 1978. The total of the contracts to be awarded shall not exceed $70,525.

Respectfully,

Joseph M. Jordan,
Police Commissioner.

Meals Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request authorization to dispense with public bidding in the award of contract to Victoria Restaurant, Inc., 10 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, MA 02118, an amount not to exceed $6,000, for the period November 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978.

The purpose of this contract is to provide meals for persons held under arrest by the department in Police Districts One, Two, and Four, pending their arraignment in court. In the past various establishments have provided meals to the above districts at the rate of $1.10 for breakfast and $1.25 for lunch and dinner. However, during the period of time indicated above the only restaurant in these districts that has been available at all hours, seven days a week, to provide this service at the above cost has been Victoria Restaurant, Inc. Other establishments are either not available at times needed to provide the meals or cannot provide the service at this low a cost.

the Victoria Restaurant, Inc. has provided delicious meals at the costs indicated for many years. The establishment continues to provide the meals at the set rate when other restaurants will not do so. The districts have surveyed their areas for other restaurants to provide the services at the set price, but to no avail.

Therefore, I request authorization to dispense with public bidding in the award of this contract in an amount of $6,000, a price I deem reasonable.

Respectfully submitted,
Joseph M. Jordan,
Police Commissioner.

Physician Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request authorization to dispense with public bidding in the award of a contract to Dr. Isaac M. Taylor, an internal medicine specialist, with a practice at the South End Health Clinic, not to exceed the amount of $25 per hour for seven hours per week, or $9,135, for the period of time commencing July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

The purpose of this contract is to provide for medical examination of present and prospective officers to aid in departmental decisions relating to:

(1) Determination of fitness of injured or ill officers for return to light or full duty; (2) distinguishing between on- and off-duty injuries and illnesses of officers; (3) selection of officers from applicants; (4) promotion of officers.

Previous departmental attempts to either maintain a physician as a full-time employee or contract with the facilities and staff of a local hospital have proved unsatisfactory. It has been very difficult to hire a well-qualified physician for full-time work, because of the salary rate and the interest of most well-qualified physicians in maintaining some private practices.

Our recent attempts to arrange these services through the Boston City Hospital have also been discouraging. The department's needs have not been met. Their work load, administrative problems, the orientation of their physicians to treatment rather than evaluation, and the understandably low priority the hospital assigns to the department's needs, have combined to make the arrangement unacceptable. Insufficient time is allocated for officers' visits and there is an inadequate commitment by the physicians.

Under this arrangement we have lost a substantial amount of money as officers have continued to be out on sick leave, or injured leave, for substantial periods after they have been fit to return to duty. We have lost several thousand dollars in labor arbitration decisions that award officers injured leave as a result of inadequate medical evidence, due to our inability to schedule sufficient medical examinations through Boston City Hospital.

We believe the proposed contract will help solve these problems. First, its part-time nature enables the department to select a more highly qualified physician who wishes to maintain a private practice, while it provides greater comprehensiveness via employment of both an orthopedist and an internist. Second, the expiration of a contract, with subsequent renewal, revision, or nonrenewal of the terms of agreement, is superior to a longer-term, employment relationship, in that we have more flexibility to correct the deficiencies of the system. Third, the contract provides sufficient time to schedule all the appointments we require.

Adequate evaluation of the health states of officers is, of course, vital to efficient functioning of the department. With respect to sick leave and injury leave, it has become even more important because of three troublesome areas. One is the recent expansiveness of conditions for which arbitrators are granting benefits to injured and ill officers through the grievance process. The second area is in the direct relationship between low morale and improper use of sick leave, as exemplified by an officer who, dissatisfied with his transfer from an indoor to outdoor functions, calls in sick for a few days or longer. The third area is the continuing need to evaluate injured officers to return them to work as soon as they are fit.

We have recruited applicants for the positions through the New England Journal of Medicine and the Journal of Occupational Health. Dr. Taylor is the most qualified of the applicants for the position of internist. His background includes graduate work at Harvard University and the position of Dean of the University of North Carolina Medical School. Currently he lectures at Harvard. Moreover, he is particularly interested in occupational medicine.

He has worked for us during fiscal year 1978 in this capacity and proved very effective. The cost of Dr. Taylor's services is reasonable.

Therefore, because of the advertising already undertaken by the department, and in light of the qualifications and experience of Dr. Taylor, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully submitted,
Joseph M. Jordan,
Police Commissioner.

Psychologist Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's written authorization to dispense with public bidding in the award of a contract to Russell Boxley, Ph.D., professor of psychology at Boston University, not to exceed the amount of $7,500, for a period of time commencing July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979. I have determined that the contract cost is reasonable.

The purpose of this contract is to provide for the psychological screening of police applicants. It is expected that approximately 500 candidates will be psychologically tested and evaluated, with follow-up interviews in selected cases, in order to select approximately 200 police recruits over the life of the eligible list. This psychological examination will afford a more accurate evaluation of potential police officers.

Dr. Boxley developed and performed the psychological testing of candidates for the recruit classes appointed in 1974, 1975, and 1977. His procedure represented a great improvement over previous attempts. From this experience he has formulated a process which is both job-related and empirically valid through demonstrable evidence, an essential element in dealing with challenges from applicants, of which we expect many.

Dr. Boxley has had broad experience in dealing with similar situations. His work with diverse cultural, racial, and ethnic backgrounds provides him with the needed skills and insight to handle this important step in the selection process. Further, he has unique experience in the police appointment process, having worked on appointment lists such as those specified by the federal court in the Castro v. Beecher case. Lists will continue to be certified under the authority of this decree in the same manner as in the past, making his experience unique.

Numerous psychologists were interviewed at the time Dr. Boxley was originally selected. He was chosen from a large number of qualified candidates.

Therefore, because of the unique services required to perform this contract, and in light of the qualifications and prior service of Russell Boxley, Ph.D., it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully submitted,
Joseph M. Jordan,
Police Commissioner.

Orthopedic Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request authorization to dispense with public bidding in the award of a contract to Dr. William Wigglesworth, an orthopedic specialist with a practice at the Harvard Health Clinic, not to exceed the amount of $25 per hour for twenty hours per week, $26,100 total, for a period of time commencing July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

The purpose of this contract is to provide for medical examinations of present and prospective police officers to aid in departmental decisions relating to:

(1) Determination of fitness of injured or ill officers for return to light or full duty; (2) distinguishing between on- and off-duty injuries and illnesses of officers; (3) selection of officers from applicants; (4) promotion of officers.

We have recruited applicants for the positions through the New England Journal of Medicine and the Journal of Occupational Health. Dr. Wigglesworth is the most qualified of the applicants for the position of orthopedist. He is a graduate of Harvard Medical School, a lifelong practitioner in the Boston area, and is highly experienced in the orthopedic and trauma-related problems that compose the bulk of our problems.

He has worked for us during fiscal year 1978 in this capacity and proved very effective, and the cost of Dr. Wigglesworth's services is reasonable.

Therefore, because of the advertising already undertaken by the department, and in light of the qualifications and experience of Dr. Wigglesworth, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Joseph M. Jordan,
Police Commissioner.

PUBLIC FACILITIES DEPARTMENT

Leasing Certain Premises

Dear Mayor White:

Under a delegation of its power from the Public Facilities Commission to the director of Public Facilities, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's written authority to dispense with public advertising in extending the lease of certain premises deemed necessary and convenient by the director for Youth Activities Commission purposes. There is a further delegation of power from the Commission to the director to execute such a lease or extension thereof, upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor of Boston.

The term of the lease extension will be twelve months, beginning July 1, 1977, and terminating June 30, 1978.

The rental for the term will be $360 per month. I have determined that this cost is reasonable. Exclusive of telephone, all utilities will be supplied by lessor.

Since these facilities are both adequate and convenient, it is not felt by the writer that public advertising would be useful in this instance.

Very truly yours,

Donald B. Manson,
Director.

Design Services, etc.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Pursuant to a vote of the Public Facilities Commission on May 10, 1978, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award nunc pro tunc, a contract to Richard Dunn, d/b/a Dick Dunn Design, interior space designer, with offices at 120 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

Under the terms of the contract, Dick Dunn Design has provided to the Employment and Economic Policy Administration, in connection with the consolidation and relocation of their various operating units, feasibility studies for the interior space use at various buildings and office space planning for occupancy at 15 Beacon Street, including assembling or redrawing available drawings and surveys, or from data gathering, prepare complete sets of 1/8-inch scale, floor plans and written reports with recommendations to guide and discipline the occupancy of said space as directed from time to time between the period December 1, 1977, to March 31, 1978, at a total cost for such services not to exceed $6,600 (payable at the categorical hourly rates to be set forth in the contract), which in my opinion, is a reasonable contract cost.

The reason for awarding a nunc pro tunc contract, is that the Employment and Economic Policy Administration does not have the authority to enter into contracts, which is within the exclusive province of the Public Facilities Department.

Due to the above and the fact that the services have been performed, it is my judgment that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,

Victor E. Hagan,
Acting Director.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Pursuant to a vote of the Public Facilities Commission on May 10, 1978, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award a contract to CE Maguire, Inc., engineers, a Delaware corporation registered to do business in Massachusetts, with offices at 60 First Avenue, Waltham, Mass.

Under the terms of the contract, CE Maguire Inc., will provide engineering services in the preparation of plans, specifications, and construction cost estimates and will supervise construction of a high-pressure, pumping station to be located at Kneeland Street adjacent to the Dewey Square tunnel, at a cost for such services of 7.22 percent (1967 ASCE A rate) of the presently estimated cost of construction of $750,000, less a credit of $2,500 for studies and site analysis previously done, the cost of the proposed services not to exceed $74,650 (including $23,000 for supplementary services), which, in my opinion, is a reasonable contract cost.

Due to the professional and technical nature of the services to be performed, it is my judgment that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,

Victor E. Hagan,
Acting Director.

Electrical Repairs

At the Fire Department, High-Pressure, Pumping Station 2, Atlantic Avenue, an electrical function caused this pumping station to become inoperable on July 14, 1978. Without electric service a large section of the city without the proper water pressure needed by the Fire Department, thereby causing a serious hazardous condition to life and property in the event of a fire.

Because this emergency condition presents a threat to life and property, and because it is not possible to establish the scope of work, in order that the necessary repairs be made as quickly as possible, it requires using an electrical contractor with adequate manpower and equipment to perform all testing and repairs under the supervision of an electrical engineer to be designated by the Public Utilities Department. Payments to the contractor will be based upon their direct labor, equipment, and materials costs with a markup for overhead and profit and the total amount of work shall not exceed $18,000.

Because of the exigency of the situation, I requested and received written approval from the Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries to dispense with the requirements of section 44A, chapter 149, G.L., as it pertains to public advertising, providing we obtain bids from at least three contractors normally engaged in this type of work. Having invited suitable contractors to submit bids for this emergency repair work, I received bids with the following result:

J. J. Finn Elec. Co., Inc., overhead, 14 percent, profit, 9 percent; William MacKinlay Elec. Co., overhead, 17 percent, profit, 14 percent; Joseph McKeen, Inc., overhead, 18 percent, profit, 9 percent.

Whereas this emergency work is absolutely necessary in the interest of protection of life and property, I hereby request permission to dispense with the provisions of chapter 149, section 44A, G.L., and to award a contract for the above work to J. J. Finn Elec. Co., Inc., 357 Ponset Avenue, Dorchester, Mass., to provide labor, materials, and equipment necessary to complete the temporary repairs to the electrical system of this facility for a total amount not to exceed $18,000.

Donald B. Manson,
Director.

Consultant Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Pursuant to a vote of the Public Facilities Commission on July 19, 1978, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award a contract to Wagner-Hohns-Inglis, Inc., consultants, a New Jersey corporation registered to do business in Massachusetts.

Under the terms of the contract, Wagner-Hohns-Inglis will provide consultant services reviewing and analyzing claims for compensation on the Fens Restoration Project and submission of a written report detailing the findings, the cost for such services not to exceed $5,100 (including $400 for directly related, out-of-pocket expenses), payable at the negotiated hourly rates to be set forth in the contract which, in my opinion, is a reasonable contract cost.

Due to the professional and technical nature of the service to be performed, it is my judgment that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
Donald B. Manson,
Director.

PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

The brochure will provide public information on Boston's housing opportunities and neighborhoods. Payment for this contract will be made from the Innovative Projects Grant funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Under the terms of the contract, the contractor will print 50,000 copies of the brochure in accordance with the following specifications: twenty-page, self-cover, size 8-1/2 inch by 11 inch, plus bleed, on eighty-pound Caress Text, smooth finish, using four-color process ink, plus two PMS colors, including sixty-three halftones and two color separations, with saddlewire on 11-inch binding. The city will provide artwork and composition and the contractor will furnish cromalins and salt proof.

The contractor's competitive prices, professional expertise, and consistent record of high quality work for the city and other clients make the company uniquely and eminently qualified to undertake this assignment. It should be noted that before the contractor was selected, it was learned that the city Printing Department does not have the capability to fulfill the requirements of this job and written estimates were solicited from three separate companies. I have determined the price quoted by the Nimrod Press to be fair, reasonable, and in accordance with prevailing printing rates. Because of the importance of portraying Boston's housing opportunities, neighborhoods, amenities, and advantages in an appealing and positive light, it is preferable that the printing of this brochure be undertaken by a vendor whose quality of work has been clearly demonstrated through an excellent record of past performance. During the past several years, the contractor has demonstrated such quality on a variety of jobs for the city.

Compensation under this contract shall not exceed $14,560. The term of this contract shall be from June 20, to August 31, 1978.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Sincerely,
John Weis,
Director.

Survey

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The Office of Program Development has recently completed the programming of the city's Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) of $24.5 million for fiscal year 1978 and the city's proposed capital budget expenditures for the same period. During this process my staff made great use of the results of the citizen attitude survey conducted last spring.

Since the results of this survey were so useful, and since there is a strong desire on the part of the staff of the Office of Program Development to obtain additional information on issues related to CDBG and capital budget programming and to update much of the data obtained a year ago, this office recently issued a request for proposals to do a similar but not identical survey this year. Listed below are the firms which responded to our request and the cost for the job proposed by each:

Decision Research Corporation, $68,613; Consensus, Inc., $73,000; Market Opinion Research, $74,000 — $7,300*; Opinion Research Corp./Becker Research Corp., $89,500 — $6,200*.

*These bidders chose to propose optional designs and prices.

The Office of Program Development recommends that the firm of Consensus, Inc., the second lowest bidder, be selected for the following reasons:

1. Consensus, Inc. has done very similar work in several other cities. Comments from the Cities of Bridgeport, Connecticut, and Seattle, Washington, were especially complimentary; 2. The survey design proposed by Consensus, Inc. has several features which highly recommend it in comparison to the others, particularly a sophisticated pretest process and a combination of personal and telephone interviewing which will allow a much larger group of people to be contacted than any of the other proposals; 3. The contract cost proposed by Consensus, Inc. is relatively low; 4. The lowest bidder has had no comparable experience with local government projects, and proposed a much more limited and less productive sample design than did Consensus, Inc.

The contractor will commence work by May 25, 1978, and the final report will be delivered no later than September 5, 1978. The contract cost will not exceed $73,000, which I have determined to be a reasonable price.

I, therefore, request that because of the professional nature of this contract, that it be awarded without public advertising, and that it be awarded to Consensus, Inc. of New York City, N.Y. Funds for this contract will be paid out of the Community Development Block Grant budget.

Sincerely,
John Weis,
Director.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT

Lab Testing Services

Mr. Mayor:

The Public Works Department does not have a testing laboratory, therefore a private engineering firm must be engaged to control the quality of material used in street construction and repair. It is also necessary to supplement the city inspection of construction and to provide supervision of asphalt and concrete operations to insure compliance with city specifications.

It is not customary to select professional engineering assistance by public bidding, so after careful consideration I have selected the Thompson & Lichtner Company, 8 Alton Place, Brookline, Mass., to perform this work. The

Thompson & Lichtner Company, under the direction of Dr. Miles W. Clair, not only operates a complete testing laboratory, but maintains an excellent staff of professional engineers capable of furnishing complete materials testing and engineering services to this department.

Accordingly, your permission is requested to dispense with public advertising, and to award a contract to the Thompson & Lichtner Company for the aforesaid purposes, in the amount of $52,000, which I consider to be a reasonable cost. It has been agreed that the engineering services will be paid for on a basis of a schedule of hourly rates that will be set forth in the proposed contract, which will be for a period of one year, from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, and will include Social Security, unemployment compensation, insurance, payroll costs, overhead, and profit.

It is understood and agreed that the total fee will be based on services rendered at hourly rates, with the total fee not to exceed $52,000.

Very truly yours,

Joseph F. Casazza,
Commissioner of Public Works.

REAL PROPERTY DEPARTMENT Parkman House Services

Your Honor:

Your permission is requested to award a contract, without advertising, to the Boston Foundation, Inc., for the care, cleaning, security, operations, and provisions and expenses, relating to the function of the Parkman House, 33 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass.

The Parkman House is now approaching its fifth year of operation. It is used by the city for the purposes of a conference center, a reception center, accommodation for overnight guests of the city, and seminar space for the Parkman Center for Urban Affairs.

This contract will provide for the services of two, full-time employees; one as a security guard and the other as the resident housekeeper, which has proven to be more economical than hiring a three-shift, security force.

In view of the special nature of the building and its multipurpose use, I have determined that the Boston Foundation, Inc. is the most suitable entity to perform the services described above and that public advertising would not be useful in this instance. The cost of this contract is fair and reasonable.

The terms of this contract will be from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, and the total amount will not exceed $42,000.

Sincerely,

Bernard W. Callahan,
Assistant Commissioner.

Pursuant to the supplemental minority participation section of the City of Boston contract, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least N/A percent of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business organization in which 51 percent of the beneficial ownership is held by one or more minority persons (Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians).

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a Minority Business and General Contractor's Letter of Intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city, one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for minority business enterprise utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation provision of the City of Boston contract for Boston Redevelopment Authority-funded construction contracts, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent (30 percent for impact area) of his/her bid price shall be extended for minority business enterprise. For the purpose of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means, business of at least 51 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indian.

The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city one or more of the lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. The goals and timetables for minority and female participation must be expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered area. (See page EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specification for goals and timetables.)

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered area.

As used in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Boston, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Mass.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and regulation in 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the equal opportunity clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

POLL REVEALS: OPTIMISM PERVADES BOSTON

bucks national trend on pessimism.*

Boston residents generally share a more optimistic view of their city today than they have for the last three years — viewing the city in more dynamic and favorable terms; and expressing more confidence today in the future of Boston; citing slightly improved conditions during the past three years; and having expectations of further improvements yet to come.

That conclusion, and a host of others gauging the public temper, are the results of a 204-page poll commissioned by the city's Office of Program Development and conducted by Consensus, Inc., the national public opinion research firm.

Said Tully Plesser, president of Consensus, Inc., "Much of that confidence and optimism is the result of the Boston public's strong commitment to their neighborhoods."

The poll, the product of interviews completed from August 17, to October 2, 1978, sampled the mood and attitudes toward city services of 2,550 Bostonians.

Mayor Kevin H. White said, "This poll is an invaluable instrument in fine-tuning city programs to the needs of the city as a whole, and in tailoring broad programs to better serve specific neighborhoods."

Mayor White added, "The results of the poll are encouraging. We have apparently reversed the negative trend which had been building in the city's neighborhoods. That mood was reversed by improved service delivery, and innovative programming, but mostly by just plain, hard work."

Some of the highlights of the survey are:

Quality of Life in Boston

A large majority (74 percent) of Bostonians judge the quality of conditions in their city to be better (30 percent) or at least the same (44 percent) as conditions in other major U.S. cities. Fewer than one in four (23 percent) feels that Boston residents are not as well off as those who live in other cities.

Budget Direction

Despite the growing concern about government spending and the attendant, growing, tax demands it places on property owners, a majority of Boston residents called for major budget increases for: public schools, street repair, the housing improvement program, and assistance to the elderly and handicapped.

Boston's Fiscal Condition

The vast majority of the population feels that the fiscal management of the city is largely dependent upon the state and federal government, and other outside influences such as union contract negotiations and inflation.

A majority of Boston residents feel they pay too high a property tax, and feel that the city could cut taxes, particularly if tax-exempt institutions paid taxes on their property, and/or if the state provided a fairer degree of financial support.

The City Tax Rate

Twenty-five percent of city residents polled expressed confusion about their property tax bills this year, unsure of whether their taxes were higher, lower, or the same as last year's.

Looking ahead to next year, nearly half of all Boston homeowners expected a $3 increase, and relatively

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Tenth Mayor
THOMAS A. DAVIS
1845

The tenth mayor of Boston was Thomas Aspinwall Davis. His ancestors were among the earliest settlers of Brookline, where he was born, December 11, 1798. He was educated in the public schools, learned the trade of a jeweler, and later became interested in politics. He became the candidate for mayor of a new party called the Native American Party against Josiah Quincy, Jr., and Adam W. Thaxter, Jr. Quincy withdrew, and finally Davis won of the eighth ballot. The only project of importance during his administration was an effort to get a supply of city water from Long Pond, but it was defeated. Davis's health became so poor that he offered his resignation, which was not accepted, and he continued to be nominal mayor until his death, November 22, 1845. He bore an excellent character, but lacked the qualifications to become a successful administrator.

Eleventh Mayor JOSIAH QUINCY, JR.
1846-1848

Josiah Quincy, Jr., elected the eleventh mayor of Boston in 1846, was another of Boston's great mayors. During his administration the city secured the Long Pond, or Cochituate, water supply. His father, Boston's second mayor, had urged the securing of city water for few expected an increase as much as $6. Better than two out of three residents indicated they would be satisfied or pleased if the city tax rate remained the same.

Crime Concerns

Overall, resident perceptions of personal safety in their neighborhoods have remained unchanged since 1977, but feelings of "total" safety have diminished substantially. Nearly three of four Bostonians reported feeling safe in their own neighborhoods in 1978, as they did in 1977. Only 32 percent of residents indicate increased crime rates in their own neighborhoods, suggesting that, to many Bostonians, the rising crime rate is a problem facing the city that they are aware of or hear about, but don't necessarily experience in their own lives and locations.

Plesser, who has directed opinion research programs for governmental agencies in Seattle, Minneapolis/St. Paul, Rapid City, Greensboro, Bridgeport, New York City, Louisville, and the state of Florida, said, "Bostonians are realistic about the city's problems and are quick to express their concerns regarding the city's property tax rate, the quality of education in public schools, crime, environmental conditions, and needed street repairs. On balance, however, the net overview is clearly positive, and pride in the quality of their city and its neighborhoods outweighs these areas of concern."

NEW ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR BOSTON SCHOOLS

Dr. Robert Wood, superintendent of the Boston Public Schools, has announced the establishment of a new, fifteen-member, advisory committee, formed to expand and strengthen the association of the Boston schools with other instructional and community leaders within the city and to lend additional advice and counsel to the department.

The committee, selected from public and private sectors, will complement other, already-active, advisory councils such as parent councils and vocational education task forces.

Early agendas of the new advisory committee will embrace such topics as examination of enrollment trends with the goal of encouraging students to return to Boston schools; a study of job placements for students; review of budget trends; and advice on management.

The Advisory Committee members include: Jane Bowers, president, League of Women Voters; Sr. Mary Camilla, Catholic School Bureau; Alfred L. W. Daniels, Black Corporate Presidents of N. E.; Fred Davis, Boys' Clubs of Boston; John Driscoll, Esq., Herrick and Smith; Aaron Fink, superintendent, Newton Public Schools; Dr. Kenneth Haskins, president, Roxbury Community College; Ellen Jackson, dean-director, Northeastern University; Katharine Kane, deputy mayor; Melvin King, state representative; Edward Phillips, N. E. Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Polly Rabinowitz, executive director, Cultural Education Council; Kenneth Ryder, president, Northeastern University; Edward Sizer, Phillips Andover Academy; and Paul Ylvisaker, dean, Harvard University.

Boston Mayor . . .

Boston from the Charles or Neponset Rivers. Josiah, Jr., took up the project, and Loamm Baldwin, the eminent engineer, planned and constructed the Cochituate supply system, which cost $5,000,000 but brought water to every street in Boston. It was laughingly said of Quincy, the junior: "He has written his name in water, yet it will last forever. The people of Boston have never found him dry, and he has taken care that they shall never be so."

The mayor aided by his father and the venerable John Quincy Adams broke ground for the work at Long Pond on August 20, 1846. A banquet followed, at which the mayor suggested that, as the name Long Pond was without distinction, it should be changed to Cochituate, the Indian name. The suggestion was adopted and the water supply source became known as Cochituate. The tumult of one hundred guns and the ringing of church bells greeted the rising of the sun on the day of opening of the supply, October 26, 1848. A procession marched to the Common, where children sang an ode written by James Russell Lowell. Mayor Quincy and Nathan Hale, chairman of the Water Commission, made speeches, and the citizens were asked if it was their pleasure that water should be introduced. After a great roar of affirmation, a gate was thrown open, and a column of water, 6 inches through, leaped 80 feet into the air. Bells again rang, cannons were fired, and in the evening a display of fireworks occurred.

Mayor Quincy was born on January 17, 1802, in Boston, on Pearl Street, fitted for Harvard at Phillips Academy at Andover, and graduated from college in 1821. He read law with William Sullivan, and was admitted to the bar, and married Jane Miller, the daughter of Samuel R. Miller. Military affairs early attracted his attention. In 1833, he was a member of the City Council, and from 1834 to 1837, its president. He became president of the Senate in 1842, and mayor of Boston in 1846. His veto, while chairman of the Board of Aldermen, of the liquor license showed great courage and elicited the admiration of his fellow citizens.

Great financial ability was shown by him in handling the Western Railroad, and he also displayed much ability as treasurer of the Central Vermont. He was treasurer of the Boston Athenaeum in 1837, and continued as such for fifteen years. As chairman of the Building Committee of the Athenaeum, he personally endorsed loans to a large amount to help in erecting the building on Beacon Street. Mr. Quincy presided February 2, 1842, at the public festival in honor of Charles Dickens.

"The mayor of the city of Salem sends his compliments to the mayor of the city of Boston, congratulating him on the new bond of union between the two cities," came over the telegraph wires when it was first stretched in December, 1847, between the two cities. Mayor Quincy replied: "The mayor of Boston reciprocates the compliment of the mayor of Salem, and rejoices that letters of light connect the metropolis with the birthplace of Bowditch." Mayor Quincy about this time remarked "that rum mixed with gunpowder, was not the only means of inspiring courage," and "that men who stand alone are best fitted to stand together." During his administration the police were reorganized, and just before he retired from office he signed the contract for the erection of the jail at the corner of Charles and Cambridge Streets. He died on November 2, 1882.

Twelfth Mayor
1849-1851

John Prescott Bigelow was the son of Timothy Bigelow, who for eleven years was speaker of the House of Representatives, and was the grandson of Colonel Timothy Bigelow, the Revolutionary hero of Worcester. His birthplace was Groton, where he was born August 25, 1797. Mr. Bigelow graduated from Harvard in 1815.

He was admitted to the bar in 1818. In 1824, he went abroad, where he spent some years. His wife died in 1847, and his son also was taken from him. He turned to politics, in which he had early taken an interest.

He became a member of the Common Council for Ward 9, where he served nine years, being president of the council in 1832 and 1833. He was one of those who worked hardest to stay the cholera scourge which afflicted Boston. In 1828, the Whigs elected him to the House of Representatives of Massachusetts, to which he was reelected, with the exception of one year, until 1836. He was prominent in the movement to reduce the number of membership (which was then over 700), was active on many committees, and took a leading part in railroad legislation.

From 1836 to 1843, he served as Secretary of State with marked ability, and then became a member of the executive council under Governor Briggs, serving four years. He was elected mayor in 1848. During his tenure of office the Charles Street Jail was completed at a cost of $450,000. In the summer of 1849, Asiatic cholera caused the death of no less than 5,080 people out of a population of 130,000. An event that was fraught with trouble for Mayor Bigelow was a meeting in 1850 at Faneuil Hall to congratulate George Thompson, the abolitionist, upon his arrival in this country. Cheers for Daniel Webster, Jenny Lind, and the Union, which the police, acting under the orders of Mayor Bigelow, did nothing to stop, broke up the meeting. The next year the Board of Aldermen declined to allow the use of Faneuil Hall for a reception to Daniel Webster because of the fear of a disturbance. Webster and his friends were furious, and when the Common Council, with the concurrence of the mayor, later sent a committee to wait upon Webster at the Revere House and "tender him in the name of the City Council an invitation to meet and address his fellow citizens at Faneuil Hall," Webster curtly replied that it was not convenient for him to accept. At the next election the mayor and the council were all retired to private life.

In 1851, the last term of Mayor Bigelow, every section of Boston was supplied with pure water at a cost of $4,321,000; the new almshouse was built on Deer Island; a system of telegraphic fire alarms invented by Dr. William F. Channing was installed; and a great pageant was held to celebrate the completion of the railroads between Boston and Canada and the Great Lakes.

On Mayor Bigelow's retirement a number of friends wished to show him their appreciation by presenting him with a silver vase. He asked that the money be given to the Public Library, and this was the first gift that the public library received. Mr. Bigelow became one of the Board of Trustees of the Library. He died July 4, 1872.

BOSTON POLICE REPORT

Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan has endorsed and offered his support for a legislative amendment which would reinstitute the legal drinking age to twenty-one years.

"The question will never be one of alcohol usage, but rather of alcohol abuse."

As Police Commissioner for the largest city in the Commonwealth, Commissioner Jordan stated, "I have seen the effects of this abuse on our highways and in our neighborhoods. We have witnessed an alarming increase in alcohol-related arrests involving the eighteen- to twenty-year-old."

In the City of Boston, arrests for driving under the influence of alcohol (DUI) increased an overall 70 percent between 1972 and 1977.

By 1974 — only one year after the reduced drinking age went into effect — DUI arrests for persons under eighteen rose 115 percent. Other statistical information offers clear evidence that a lowered drinking age has allowed more individuals access to the highways while under the influence, with the results showing an increase in alcohol-related fatalities and injuries for this age group.

According to the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse, the number of teenage arrests for driving while under the influence has tripled since 1960. While overall fatalities may have decreased nationally, incidents of alcohol involvement in highway fatalities among young people has risen substantially. Between 1972 and 1976, alcohol-related, fatal accidents within the Commonwealth increased 189 percent for individuals under the age of eighteen. Fatal accidents for the eighteen- to twenty-year, age group rose 81 percent. The grim statistics speak for themselves. (From Massachusetts Safety Council.)

During the past several years, the neighborhoods of Boston have progressively felt the effects of alcohol abuse among the adolescent population. Vandalism, disorderly conduct, unwarranted violence, and youth crime, all have increased sharply since the state's drinking age was lowered. These problems have lent concern, disruption, and fear to the residents of our neighborhoods. The facts speak for themselves.

In conclusion, Commission Jordan stated, "I think the time has come for us to recognize that a mistake was made and remedial action must be immediately taken."

Testimony for increasing the legal drinking age was presented by Michael D. Donovan, assistant to the commissioner, at a hearing before the House Committee on Governmental Affairs, chaired by Representative Robert Ambler.

STAY OFF THE ICE!

The Metropolitan District Commission has issued a strong warning against venturing onto ice atop the Charles River or on any other body of water under MDC jurisdiction.

In the warning, the MDC asked that all persons, adult and child alike, stay off the ice covering rivers and ponds, not only those in the MDC bailiwick, but others where such activity is not permitted. On several occasions this winter, MDC police have urged various groups of youngsters and adults to get off the ice, particularly on the Charles River, and their requests have been treated with little seriousness. Yet such actions have resulted in numerous drownings over the years, all preventable. A unique problem exists in the Charles because the river never freezes under or near the bridges, the existing ice is much thinner than that covering ponds, and the currents tend to undermine the ice, making it more treacherous than at other locations. In addition, a destratification project in the Charles River basin creates more movement of water, leading to an even thinner ice surface.

The MDC warning issued today comes at an especially appropriate time since most schools will be closed for winter vacations.

SPECIAL REPORT REGARDING SCHOOL PROPERTIES

Superintendent Robert Wood, on February 14, submitted to the School Committee a report on the disposition and reuse of school properties. This report, received February 13, from the Department of Implementation, is the response to the court inquiry and prepared as a component to the Student Assignment Plan. Although the School Department would much prefer to address school closings within the Unified Facilities Plan due next fall, it is clear the court expects some schools to be closed at the completion of this school year. In an effort to be direct with parents, as well as responsive to the court's wishes, the memorandum will now be shared with all concerned parties for reaction. Community district superintendents will review and respond to the report after consultation with the CDAC of the district. CPAC will be requested to provide the Department of Implementation with its commentary from a city-wide perspective. The process should be completed by the beginning of March.

The School Department has been working with Public Facilities Department on the issue of school reuse. Discussions in Washington and at the regional level have been held with officials of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. They are interested in the possibility of Boston's serving as a demonstration project to address the national problem of declining enrollments and school reuse. The Office of Planning and Policy has formed a task force to include these prospects in the Unified Facilities Plan.

Superintendent Wood said, "Although I recognize the time constraints imposed by the student assignment process, I believe that the focus provided by the Department of Implementation Report and the acceptance of the Unified Facilities Plan, both will allow a considered judgment with contributions by all concerned and greatly reduce the uncertainty with which we have all had to live."

NEW SEWER PIPE FOR HUB AREA

As one of its first major capital improvement projects of 1979, the Boston Water and Sewer Commission is laying 319 feet of 18-inch sewer pipe and 810 feet of 12-inch water pipe on Yawkey Way, between Boylston Street and Brookline Avenue.

The existing sewer pipe is collapsing and the existing water main, laid in 1887, is not providing sufficient capacity. Once the construction is completed, area residents will enjoy stronger water pressure and increased, fire-flow capacity for safety. The new sewer line will ease any sewage problems the area has experienced due to the collapsed old line.

The construction contract was awarded by the Boston Water and Sewer Commission to John Mahoney Construction for $306,265. Work started on February 19, and is expected to be completed by April 1, 1979.

Water service to area residents will be interrupted between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, while construction is in progress. Residents who are at home during those hours should store enough water to satisfy household needs until service is restored each day.

In addition, the section of Yawkey Way under construction will be closed to traffic while the work is under way.

Various Foods

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Newmarket Produce Co., 119 New England Produce Ct., Chelsea, for the purchase of perishable foods and other edible commodities, during the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

It is the practice of the School Committee to purchase perishable foods and other edible commodities on the bases of bids submitted weekly or monthly because of the perishable nature of these goods, the fluctuation in their prices, and the quantities required. The cost of all perishable foods and other edible commodities purchased under this contract will be based on formal quotation prices received from several suppliers.

Because the purchasing procedures, which accrue considerable savings to the School Committee, do not lend themselves to formal public bids, its my opinion that advertising would serve no useful public purpose.

Proposals shall be submitted in duplicate on forms obtained at the office of the Commissioner, Parks and Recreation Department, Room 802, City Hall, Boston, Mass. Each copy of the proposal shall be properly filled out, signed, and enclosed in a sealed envelope, plainly marked with the name of the bidder and the description of the work bid upon. One copy shall be filed at the office of the Commissioner, designated above, and the other copy shall be filed at the office of the City Auditor, City Hall, Boston, Mass. Both copies shall be filed before the time stated above for the opening of the proposals.

A bid deposit in the form of a certified check on a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Boston, in the sum of 5 percent of the total amount bid, shall be submitted with the copy of the proposal filed with the Commissioner. The bid deposit shall be in a separate envelope, plainly marked. Bid bonds will not be accepted.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents, including, without limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders) and the provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications on supplemental equal employment opportunity, antidiscrimination and affirmative action program contract provisions, and to the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of workforce needs as required by section 3 and a section 3 Affirmative Action Plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. These are tables AAP-1—AAP-3 and form AAP-1 and can be found at pages ST1-ST7 of the contract documents. This requirement will be strictly adhered to. Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. No bidder shall be eligible for award on this project unless he is able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Awarding Authority his ability to comply with these requirements.

The contractor's attention is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specifications" set forth in this part.

The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered areas (see pages EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specifications for goals and timetables).

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered areas.

As used in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Arlington, Boston, Belmont, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Canton, Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Milton, Norwood, Reading, Revere, Somerville, Stoneham, Wakefield, Westwood, Winthrop, Winchester, Woburn, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for Minority Business Enterprise Utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation section of the City of Boston contract, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business at least 50 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or, in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock is owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a minority business and general contractor's letter of intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city, one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulations in the 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order, and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the list of minority businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority Business Enterprise to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within thirty days after the actual date of the opening thereof. The rate per hour of the wages to be paid to mechanics, chauffeurs, and laborers in the work to be performed under the contract shall not be less than the rate of wages in the schedule determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth, a copy of which schedule is annexed to the form of contract referred to herein. Copies of said schedule may be obtained, without cost, upon application therefor at the office of the Commissioner.

Specifications and other contract documents may be obtained at the office of the Commissioner at and after 9 a.m., Boston time, Monday, February 26, 1979, upon the deposit of cash or a certified check, payable to the City of Boston, for $25 per set of specifications. The full amount of the deposit will be refunded upon the return of all documents in good condition, within thirty days after the opening of the bids (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded).

The successful bidder will be required to provide by Insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Law, General Laws (Ter. Ed.), chapter 152, to all persons to be employed under the contract, and sufficient proof of compliance with the foregoing stipulation will be required before commencing performance of this contract.

Both copies shall be filed before the time stated above for the opening of the proposals.

A bid deposit in the form of a certified check on a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Boston, in the sum of 5 percent of the total amount bid, shall be submitted with the copy of the proposal filed with the Commissioner. The bid deposit shall be in a separate envelope, plainly marked. Bid bonds will not be accepted.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents, including, without limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders) and the provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications on supplemental equal employment opportunity, anti-discrimination and affirmative action program contract provisions, and to the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of workforce needs as required by section 3 and a section 3 Affirmative Action Plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. These are tables AAP-1—AAP-3 and form AAP-1 and can be found at pages ST1-ST7 of the contract documents. This requirement will be strictly adhered to. Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. No bidder shall be eligible for award on this project unless he is able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Awarding Authority his ability to comply with these requirements.

The contractor's attention is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specifications" set forth in this part.

The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered areas (see pages EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specifications for goals and timetables).

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered areas.

As used in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Arlington, Boston, Belmont, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Canton, Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Milton, Norwood, Reading, Revere, Somerville, Stoneham, Wakefield, Westwood, Winthrop, Winchester, Woburn, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for Minority Business Enterprise Utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation section of the City of Boston contract, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business at least 50 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or, in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock is owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a minority business and general contractor's letter of intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city, one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulations in the 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order, and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the list of minority businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority

Business Enterprise to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within thirty days after the actual date of the opening thereof. The rate per hour of the wages to be paid to mechanics, chauffeurs, and laborers in the work to be performed under the contract shall not be less than the rate of wages in the schedule determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth, a copy of which schedule is annexed to the form of contract referred to herein. Copies of said schedule may be obtained, without cost, upon application therefor at the office of the Commissioner.

Specifications and other contract documents may be obtained at the office of the Commissioner at and after 9 a.m., Boston time, Monday, February 26, 1979, upon the deposit of cash or a certified check, payable to the City of Boston, for $25 per set of specifications. The full amount of the deposit will be refunded upon the return of all documents in good condition, within thirty days after the opening of the bids (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded).

The successful bidder will be required to provide by insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Law, General Laws (Ter. Ed.), chapter 152, to all persons to be employed under the contract, and sufficient proof of compliance with the foregoing stipulation will be required before commencing performance of this contract.

A performance bond and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a surety company qualified to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Commissioner and in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price, as well as certain public liability and property damage insurance will be required of the successful general contractor.

The Commissioner reserves the right to waive any informalities and to reject any and all bids if it be in the public interest so to do.

MAYOR OF BOSTON

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE, MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

JOSEPH M. TIERNEY
PRESIDENT, CITY COUNCIL

VOL. 71

MONDAY, MARCH 5, 1979

NO. 10

THE CHARLESTOWN NAVY YARD

The redevelopment of the Navy Yard has the potential for being the most exciting of all the renewal projects undertaken in Boston in recent years.

This project provides Boston with another opportunity to reclaim portions of the waterfront that were closed to public use and enjoyment. Buildings of distinction will be recycled to provide new uses for future generations. Perhaps most important of all, the city stands to benefit from the economic growth generated by this development program.

Beyond the obvious benefits of this project there is the fact that Boston has once again shown it knows how to profit from adversity. In 1974, the U.S. Navy deactivated the yard and thousands of jobs were lost. Yet, only a few years later we are embarking on a redevelopment program that will give this facility a new life. In that sense, this facility, which contributed so much to this nation, will provide all of us with a reminder that Boston has the capacity to make a liability into an asset.

Kevin H. White,
Mayor.
City of Boston.

The purpose of this article is to outline briefly a proposal for development of the Charlestown Navy Yard. The development program being undertaken by the Boston Redevelopment Authority will result in new housing, recycling of historic buildings for commercial uses, apartments, and light industry, and possibly the construction of a hotel and conference center.

This development will provide new jobs, and for the first time the City of Boston will receive tax revenue from the Navy Yard. Those are matters of vital importance to the continued growth of the city's economy. But in yet another sense, the reuse proposal outlined in this article also presents an opportunity to improve the quality of life in Boston.

For instance, a major feature of this development program is that the residents of Charlestown will have access to the waterfront for the first time since 1800, when the Navy Yard was established. In addition, many buildings of architectural and historical importance will be recycled to serve new uses.

This imaginative and resourceful development program is one which can bring new life to the Navy Yard. It will also contribute in a significant way to the continuing revitalization of Boston's waterfront.

Robert J. Ryan,
Director, BRA.

On July 1, 1974, after 174 years as a military installation involved in the building, repair, and conversion of naval ships, the production of arms, and the manufacture of rope and chain for the entire U.S. Navy, the Boston Naval Shipyard in Charlestown was decommissioned.

On that day, a proud chapter in the history of the U.S. Navy came to a close. For it was at the Charlestown Navy Yard that the first warship of the U.S. Navy was constructed. It was here that the first screw steamship and the first torpedo boat were built. The Navy's first iron-clad vessel, the "Merri-

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Thirteenth Mayor BENJAMIN SEAVER 1852-1853

Boston's thirteenth mayor, Benjamin Seaver, was born April 12, 1795, was educated in the Roxbury Grammar School, and at the time of his election was an auctioneer. He was supported by Marshal Francis Tukey, who directed his men to work for him, but this did not prevent Seaver from removing Tukey from office when Tukey criticized changes Seaver made. Seaver ran for mayor a third time, but was defeated by Mayor Smith. Benjamin Seaver died February 14, 1856.

During Seaver's administration it was voted to erect a building for the Boston Public Library, and in December, 1853, a revision to the city charter was proposed. An act was also passed prohibiting the burial of people, except in certain cases, within the city limits. The administration was marked by efficiency and economy, as it was felt that the previous administration had put the city to great expense.

Fourteenth Mayor JEROME V. C. SMITH 1854-1855

Jerome Van Crowninshield Smith was Boston's fourteenth mayor. Mayor Smith was an eminent practitioner of medicine as well as an author of considerable ability. He was born July 20, 1800, at Conway, New Hampshire, where his father practiced medicine. After an A.M.

mac," was built here, as was the "Hartford" — Admiral Farragut's flagship at the battle of Mobile Bay. The USS "Constitution" was the first and last ship to be overhauled in Dry Dock 1 at the Navy Yard and has been moored here intermittently since the War of 1812.

Indeed, the historic importance of the site precedes its use as a shipyard. It was this location, then called Moulton's Point, where the British landed for their assault on the Patriots in the 1775 Battle of Bunker Hill.

But even though the site is rich in history — and even though it played an invaluable role in the defense establishment of this nation from the time of the Revolution — the Navy Yard was one of those military bases which was a candidate for deactivation whenever the Pentagon began talking about economy.

As rumors of the Navy Yard's demise increased in the late 1960s, the Charlestown community and the Boston Redevelopment Authority, in its capacity as the city's planning agency, began preliminary studies of reuse proposals for the Navy Yard.

A part of this preliminary study by the BRA suggested that the southernmost portion of the Yard — the area where the USS "Constitution" is permanently berthed — be set aside as a historic park. This provision was included in the Boston National Historic Park Bill, a measure that was approved by Congress and signed into law by the President in October, 1974. Operated by the National Park Service in cooperation with the United States Navy, the Boston Naval Shipyard National Historic Site features "Old Ironsides" and exhibits describing the history and technological aspects of the Boston Naval Shipyard.

But the historic park, even though it is a welcome addition, does not make up for the 5,000 jobs lost when the Navy Yard was closed.

The BRA, then, has proposed a plan which will return the Navy Yard to active economic use, by creating new jobs for Boston residents and generating large-scale capital investment to augment the city's tax base.

This plan was developed on the basis of three years' work, planning a new use for the Charlestown site. Early attempts to market the site for private shipbuilding and other related labor-intensive, industrial uses were not successful. Accordingly, the current program is directed toward maximizing the tourism potential of the historic character of the site itself and of the surrounding area, which includes the USS "Constitution" (Boston's single greatest, tourist attraction), Bunker Hill Monument, and the historic Freedom Trail. In addition to its unique historic setting, the Navy Yard is strategically located near the heart of Boston's waterfront and is less than one mile from the center of Boston's Central Business District.

A key feature of the redevelopment program is the creation of a 16-acre waterfront park adjacent to Dry Dock 2. The park, which will open in spring, 1979, will be similar in concept to the waterfront park built on Atlantic Avenue as part of the Downtown-Waterfront Urban Renewal Project.

Construction of the park will provide impetus for eventual creation of 1,200 units of housing at the Navy Yard. The housing will occupy approximately one half of the Yard's 103 acres, and about half of these apartments will be produced by recycling old buildings to residential use.

The first phase of the housing complex will begin early 1979, with rehabilitation of Building 42 for 362 units for market rental housing.

Grants totaling $7 million from the Economic Development Administration, $1.4 million from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, and $2.4 million from Urban Development Action Grants have been received by the BRA to begin site-preparation work at the Navy Yard, and the City Council has approved a $2.2 million, City of Boston, bond authorization as the city's matching share of the federal funds.

The City Council and appropriate state and federal agencies have also approved a BRA request to extend the boundaries of the Charlestown Urban Renewal Project to include the Navy Yard.

Briefly the program calls for a mixed-use development as follows:

- Approximately 1,200 units of housing;
- Over 80,000 square feet of retail commercial space;
- Some 430,000 square feet of institutional activities;
- About 60,000 square feet of office/loft, incubator industry;
- A new hotel/conference center;
- Up to 25,000 square feet of labor-intensive light industry.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority will act as developer for the entire site. Development responsibilities will include site preparation and the improvement of all public areas — streets, parks, and related open space. These improvements are estimated to cost $17 million. The Authority will market the site, identifying appropriate private developers, exhibits, and institutions for historic buildings, as well as developers for new construction such as the hotel, housing, and light manufacturing uses. Working with private users, the BRA will insure design controls, oversee the phasing of development, and coordinate developer plans with various federal, state, and local agencies which have a role in the development process relating to funding and/or review of plans.

The overall reuse plan will be carried out over a ten-year period and will involve about $200 million in total capital investment, of which more than 80 percent will come from private developers and public and semipublic institutions. The remaining capital investment will take the form of site preparation and infrastructure costs.

The proposed investment program should yield 455 construction jobs in the peak year, or an average of nearly 300 construction jobs per year over a ten-year period, in addition to nearly 1,700 permanent jobs, with an annual payroll of more than $15 million. Secondary employment will support another 800 jobs in the local and regional market.

Retail sales in tourist expenditures, such as parking, hotel, and personal services, are estimated at nearly $18 million per year, with secondary impacts on the city and region projected at $13 million per year.

Annual tax revenues generated by new uses in the Navy Yard are estimated at $3.6 million.

The economic factors are of vital importance. Almost equally important is that the Navy Yard, under the plan the BRA is proposing, offers an opportunity to carry out the largest recycling project in the United States. Boston has compiled a remarkable record when it comes to recycling old buildings for new uses, and the adaptive reuse proposed for the nineteenth century, granite structures in the Navy Yard will be the capstone of all these achievements to date.

The BRA's plan for the Charlestown Navy Yard is ambitious. It also involves a complex development process. But in many ways the plan for the Navy Yard mirrors the work the BRA has done over the past decade in transforming Boston's downtown waterfront.

Just as men of vision, more than a decade ago, spelled out a program to revitalize Boston's historic waterfront, so today is the BRA once again proposing that another part of Boston's history be renewed to serve the contemporary needs of this city.

The BRA's experience in redeveloping the downtown waterfront has shown it can be done. Old buildings can be adapted for new uses. Parks and open space can help future generations rediscover the historic harbor. But most of all a facility which once contributed so much to this city and this nation will once again function to everyone's advantage.

degree, Smith also secured an M.D. from Williams College. He studied surgery under Dr. William Ingalls, an eminent surgeon of Boston, and as a pastime took up sculpture, executing the busts of Bishop Fitzpatrick, Hon. Marshall P. Wilder, Bishop Eastburn, and others.

He became editor of the Boston Medical Intelligencer, later known as the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal, editing more than forty volumes thereof, and also made authoritative notes to an edition of Cooper's Surgery. He edited the Boston Weekly News Letter, and was the author of a treatise on the culture of the honeybee and a history of the American Indian.

His first public office was in 1826, when he became port physician. In 1837 he was elected to the State Legislature, and put through a capitalization tax on foreigners arriving in any port in Massachusetts, with the money being used for the care of poor and sick immigrants. The law was eventually declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States. Dr. Smith was also a member of the School Committee and a justice of the peace. In 1848 he was reelected to the Legislature, became a candidate for mayor in 1852, and was finally elected in 1854. While in office he advocated the introduction of pure water at city expense. Dr. Smith made many suggestions for the improvement of the city's government, though, fortunately for the city's credit, few of them were carried out.

He recommended the sale of Quincy Market to private individuals; the erection of an insane asylum on Deer Island; the erection of a tall tower on Beacon Hill for the use of the Fire Telegraph and Fire Department offices; and a forced sale of city land to promote the erection of buildings. He also advocated the appointment of a physician in each ward to serve the poor and to be paid by the city. His administration was not marked by any great achievement. His death occurred August 21, 1879.

Fifteenth Mayor ALEXANDER H. RICE 1856-1857

Alexander Hamilton Rice was born August 30, 1818, at Newton Lower Falls, Massachusetts, where his father was a paper manufacturer. He was educated in the Newton public schools, and entered the paper and publishing business. Acquiring a taste for literature, he went to Union College at Schenectady, and then went into business again, becoming a prominent paper manufacturer and dealer. Public affairs early attracted his attention. He held many offices, serving as a member of the Boston School Committee, Board of Public Institutions, Common Council, president of the Board of Trade, and as first Republican mayor of Boston. During his term as mayor, 1856-1857, the Back Bay was developed, the City Hospital started, and the Boston Public Library dedicated on Boylston Street. His speeches were brilliant efforts, particularly the ones at the unveiling of Washington's statue in the Boston Public Garden, of the Sumner and Farragut statues, and at the opening of the Marine Park in South Boston. During his second term Devonshire Street was laid out from Milk Street to Franklin Street, and Winthrop Square was opened.

Although he gave the preference to members of his own party in his appointments as mayor, he acted quite independent of party lines in retaining every faithful and competent official he found in public office. He reorganized the police system and consolidated the boards of government of public institutions. He went to Congress in 1859, serving in the 36th, 37th, 38th, and 39th Congresses, and in 1867 declined a renomination. He took an active part in the reconstruction of the Union, served on the Committees on the District of Columbia, the Pacific Railroad and Naval Affairs, one of his duties at the beginning of the Civil War being to collect the widely scattered navy. He made an elaborate report on the use of steam machinery in the navy, and carried its adoption in the face of much opposition.

From 1876 to 1878, Rice was governor of Massachusetts. He interested himself in education and in the state institutions for correction, reform, lunacy, and charity. He received, while governor, the degree of LL.D. from Harvard. He was a trustee of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the Museum of Fine Arts. He died on July 22, 1895.

82nd FOR MUNICIPAL PRINT SHOP CHAPEL

The Municipal Printing Plant was established in March of 1897 by Mayor Josiah Quincy for the purpose of supplying the city's printing needs. Mayor Hugh O'Brien was one of the four founders of Boston Typographical Union 13 and served as secretary-treasurer of the local.

The City Plant, headed by Frank F. Chin, and supervised by Joseph Toto, Sr., is capable of supplying the city with all its printing needs, from business cards and social announcements, to legal briefs, annual reports, and brochures. Many of the city's printing needs are unique in that they are required by law to be printed, but the small quantity needed is not considered worth the trouble of outside commercial printers. The plant is at 174

North Street, Boston, was built in 1932, and employs a total of sixty-eight unheralded, dedicated persons including compositors, proofreaders, pressmen, bindery workers, office staff, and maintenance men.

The top quality work produced at the plant is evidenced by the end result and the numerous encomiums received for a job well done.

The City Record (edited by Joseph J. Fahey) is printed weekly at the Printing Plant, under the direction of Mayor Kevin H. White, and is the official chronicle of the City of Boston. Through the City Record (priced at $5 per year), advertisements for bids on city contracts are published, also notice of awarding of contracts. News from City Hall and the Mayor's Office is printed weekly along with Fire and Police Department orders and department changes.

NEW OWNERS FOR DORCHESTER MARKET

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced that new owners have been found for the Dorchester Lower Mills supermarket vacated by First National in late January.

The store is the third former Finast facility for which a purchase has been arranged.

Two other stores in Codman Square and the South End are now under new management.

The new owners of the 12,000-square-foot market, adjoining St. Gregory's Parish, are three former executives of the Roche Brothers chain: William Kelly of Roslindale, Alfred DeFranco of Dedham, and Paul Topping of Norwood.

The market, which employed about fifty-five, is expected to reopen in early April.

Mayor White said the purchase is "a reassurance for the people of Lower Mills that their shopping needs will be met.

"A store, owned and operated by professionals willing to leave an established chain to go into business for themselves, shows confidence in their business skills and in the community. It says a lot for the stability of the Lower Mills business district."

NEW HUB MORTGAGE PROGRAM

Mayor White announces plan to offer lower interest rates to low-and moderate-income home buyers.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on February 19, announced proposed legislation which, if approved, will allow the city to make available to Boston banks up to $100 million in home loan monies for low-and moderate-income persons, at interest rates as much as 20 percent lower than the conventional rate.

The plan, the Boston Home Ownership and Rehabilitation Act, would be administered at no cost to the city, but could mean lower interest rates for a projected 3,000 low-and moderate-income, home purchasers who would become owner-occupants of homes with between one and eight units in them over the next two years.

Said Deputy Mayor for Fiscal Affairs James Young, "The steadily increasing interest rates which banks are forced to charge on mortgages make it virtually impossible for many, if not most, middle-income families in Boston to own a home in Boston. This program is designed to address that problem."

Under this program, the mortgages would be funded by Boston's sales of tax-exempt, housing-revenue bonds. Those bonds, although capitalizing on Boston's considerable experience developed through the regular sale of capital construction bonds, would not be secured by the city, or its revenues, nor would the bonds be moral obligation bonds. The bonds would be backed by the payments on the mortgage loans, which the bonds would be sold to finance.

The proceeds from the bond sales would then be made available to local banks. In all cases, the banks would be the lender. The city itself would not be involved directly in the loan process. Income eligibility would be determined by the lender bank, with an upper-range limit established by the city.

Said Deputy Mayor Young, "By making lower mortgage money available to low-and moderate-income purchasers, the health of the city's neighborhoods will continue to improve. New owners will have more money to spend on repairs and improvements than they otherwise would, and the real estate market will considerably improve as homes become more affordable."

The housing-revenue bonds should go on sale eight weeks after the state Legislature acts upon the city's home rule petition which was filed with the City Council recently.

How the Boston Mortgage Program would work.

1. After enabling legislation is passed by the City Council and Legislature, the City of Boston will sell mortgage-revenue bonds. (The security for these bonds will not be the power of the city to levy property taxes but rather the mortgage loans this money finances and the individual properties involved.)

2. The money received from the sale of the bonds will be made available to banks who want to participate and meet certain criteria.

3. Persons interested in getting a mortgage to buy a one- to eight-family house in Boston will apply to one of these banks. If the person's income is less than the program limits, and the bank determines, using its normal underwriting practices, that a person has the financial capacity to pay all the costs associated with owning the home and that the house involved is worth the purchase, the applicant will be granted a mortgage at an interest rate approximately 2 percentage points lower than would otherwise be available on a mortgage with similar terms.

4. The new homeowner will pay the monthly payments to the bank just as though it were a regular mortgage.

5. The bank will monthly forward all payments on these mortgages to the city, or the city's trustee. This money will then be used to pay the bondholders interest and principal.

6. The program can be effective because the interest paid to the bond-holders is exempt from federal and state income taxes, because of the purpose of enabling low-and moderate-income people to own their own homes.

BOSTON AGENCIES FUNDED: ELDERLY WILL BENEFIT

Mayor Kevin H. White announced on February 25, the awarding of $543,728 in one-year grants under Title III of the Older Americans Act to fourteen Boston agencies serving older Bostonians.

After considering proposals submitted by over thirty-two agencies, Mayor White allocated funding through the Commission on Affairs of the Elderly/Area Agency on Aging to the following organizations: $47,019 to Greater Boston Elderly Legal Services to continue provision of legal assistance; $30,612 to Alianza Hispana for continued outreach and counseling of Hispanic elders, a twenty-four-hour, bilingual emergency service and expansion of senior services; $27,298 to the Boston Indian Council for housing advocacy for elderly Indians; $30,891 to the Massachusetts Association of Older Americans to create a senior job bank; and $41,635 to the Trustees of Health and Hospitals for the City of Boston to create an adult, day-care center on the grounds of Mattapan Hospital.

Other grants include: $29,413 to the Congregation Kadimah-Toras Moshe for the establishment of a senior citizen center in Brighton; $12,167 for the Whittier Street Health Center to expand its home health care program; $29,435 to Cape Verdean Community House to establish an elderly drop-in center; $31,992 to the Boston Community Schools Program for new courses for elders; $6,600 to the M. Harriet McCormack Center for the Arts for the development of a model, music appreciation course for seniors; and $15,000 to the Greater South Cove Golden Age Center to hire an activities director.

Mayor White also awarded $241,666 to three agencies for in-home services. These grants include $75,000 to Southwest Boston Senior Services; $83,333 to Area II Home Care for Senior Citizens; and $83,333 to Senior Home Care Area III.

"We are proud to enable these eleven organizations to continue providing and developing their programs and services which are vitally necessary for the well-being of Boston's elderly," said Mayor White.

These programs are designed to enable seniors to remain in their communities rather than to be forced into nursing homes and other institutions. "By funding Boston agencies, more seniors, especially those living alone and in need of in-home services, are better able to be a part of normal, day-to-day living as opposed to a life which removes them from their familiar surroundings. The city is pleased to award these grants so as to serve the seniors of Boston in a manner in which they deserve," Commissioner of Elderly Affairs Elaine Guiney said.

For more information about these grants or programs provided by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, call the Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

Deadline for application to enroll in the Practical Nursing Program is March 9, 1979.

The course for Dental Assistant is a ten-month, day program and applications will be accepted up to May 4, 1979.

REVITALIZATION PLANNED FOR BLUE HILL AVENUE

Mayor White announces opening of Blue Hill Avenue Business Development Office.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on February 23, announced the opening of the Blue Hill Avenue Business Development Office at 460 Blue Hill Avenue to oversee the administration of a $1.8-million grant secured under the city's Boston Plan.

The Blue Hill Avenue Urban Development Action Grant, UDAG, will be matched by $6 million in private investment committed by five Boston banks to encourage revitalization of Grove Hall and Dudley Station commercial areas:

The banks:

- Unity Bank and Trust Company
- The First National Bank
- New England Merchants National Bank
- State Street Bank and Trust Company
- The Shawmut Bank

will work with the UDAG Business Development Office in the allocation of loans and rebates to qualifying businesses in the target areas.

Mayor White said the launching of the UDAG project "is the best possible example of public and private financing to bring neighborhoods back to life in the city.

"I don't have to tell you that we've all discovered progress comes in stages," the Mayor said.

"At this stage, we get to see evidence that our efforts to revitalize Blue Hill Avenue are taking hold, including:

- involvement of five Boston banks in providing financing
- opening of a business development office to help local merchants, and a
- reconstituted Blue Hill Avenue Commission to ensure community participation.

"The support of local bankers and their commitment to the revitalization of the Blue Hill Corridor and the Boston Plan, is a tribute to the confidence Boston's business community places in the growth of the city," the Mayor said.

The funds will support four components of the program:

—A Capital Investment Rebate Program for business renovation;

—A Local Development Corporation Assistance Program to provide investment assistance to new business;

—A Private Security System Program to rebate a percentage of the cost for installation of security equipment; and a —Project Related Public Improvements Program for street amenities, lighting, and parking.

"The Business Development Office will foster business retention and development in the Blue Hill Avenue Corridor," said Emanuel Horne, project director. "We will also concentrate on attracting additional private investment to locate or relocate in Grove Hall and Dudley area."

BRA EXPANDS DEVELOPMENT STAFF

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has appointed project coordinators for four of its major development projects.

The appointees and the projects they will oversee are: Paul Kelly, Charlestown Navy Yard; Matthew S. Coogan, Fort Point Channel-South Station; Jeffrey A. Chmura, Copley Place; and William A. Condo, Theatre District.

Robert J. Ryan, director of the BRA, said, "We are about to launch a new decade of development in Boston and it is extremely important that we expand our development staff. In doing so, we advertised nationally in an effort to recruit the best talent available for these operations. I am confident that each of these appointees combines the background, experience, and proven skills to oversee these ambitious projects."

Kelly, a Dorchester resident, has been with the BRA since 1974. He has been involved in every phase of the Navy Yard project since the BRA began planning for the redevelopment of the Navy Yard in 1975. He is a graduate of Syracuse University and has a master's degree from the Rhode Island School of Design. Prior to joining the BRA he was associated for three years with the Northampton Development Corporation in England, where he worked on the planning of new towns.

Coogan served most recently as assistant secretary of transportation for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. He was a transportation planner with the Boston Transportation Planning Review and was also a research assistant at the MBTA. A North End resident, he graduated from Harvard College and was a Loeb Fellow in advanced environmental studies at the Harvard Graduate School of Design in 1975-1976.

Chmura, presently serving as director of waterfront planning in Providence, Rhode Island, is a graduate of Notre Dame University. He also has master's degrees in architecture and regional planning from Cornell University. He previously served as a planning consultant for the Cato Hill historic district project in Woonsocket, Rhode Island, and has taught at the Rhode Island School of Design.

Condo has been director of the Amherst (Mass.) Redevelopment Authority since 1972. He graduated from the University of Rochester and did graduate work at New York University and the New School for Social Research in New York. He was a field representative with the National Committee of Urban Planning and served with the Peace Corps in Bombay, India.

RSVP CURRENTLY RECRUITING VOLUNTEERS

"For some older people a good time is dancing. My good time is working here . . . it's good for my soul," says Cecilia Perera, of Boston, about her volunteer job as an administrative assistant at the Veterans Administration Outpatient Clinic on Court Street. Mrs. Perera found her position through the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), a program sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly.

"Being a productive member of the community is a source of deep personal satisfaction to older Bostonians. RSVP is committed to fulfilling that need," says Mayor Kevin H. White. RSVP places senior volunteers in the community at non-profit agencies of their choice. Volunteers are covered by a cost-free, supplement accident, insurance policy. They also are eligible for partial reimbursement for transportation to and from volunteer stations and meal expenses incurred during volunteer work hours.

"RSVP staff members assist seniors in finding jobs which coincide with their interests and experience," says Commissioner of Elderly Affairs Elaine Guiney. Volunteers work in hospitals and health centers, schools, museums, nutrition sites, and municipal, state, and federal agencies.

RSVP is actively recruiting volunteers. Any retired or semi-retired Boston senior over the age of sixty who is willing to devote a minimum of three hours per month is eligible to participate in RSVP. For more information about RSVP or any of the other programs offered by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, call the Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

Chapter 636 Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendations of the Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to the University of Massachusetts/Boston to administer chapter 636, District VI Olympics/Multicultural Festival, during the period from May 1 through June 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $10,556.

The contractor shall administer the Olympic/Multicultural Festival district-wide in District VI. Duties will include the running of all events and performances in the Olympic/Multicultural Festival; recruit, hire, and pay all personnel; develop and publish an Olympic newsletter; provide transportation from the district schools to the university and back again.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided by the University of Massachusetts/Boston and the expertise in the field of program administration, and because of the success of last year's Olympics (1976-77), it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Funds for these services are available through chapter 636, 78-BC-0760.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendations of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for the award of a contract to President and Fellows of Harvard College, Harvard Business School. The contract shall be in effect during the period of June 15, 1978, to June 15, 1979, and occur at a cost not to exceed $29,220, which is deemed reasonable by the committee.

The contractor will provide room, board, case materials for participants, and miscellaneous support services for a cooperative, executive-training program for head masters and principals selected by the Boston Public Schools. The educational services of the program teaching faculty and various other support expenses are being contributed by the Harvard Business School.

The program has the objective of providing for the professional growth of Boston School administrators in such topical areas as the development of annual school plans, staff development and utilization, decision-making, time management, communications systems within the school and the community, cost accounting and budget techniques, budget management, and the ramifications of the collective bargaining process.

Because this program has been developed cooperatively, and because Harvard Business School is especially capable of delivering the services noted above and is contributing a portion of such services without charge, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertising for bids.

This agreement is to be executed, without an appropriation of funds, under the provision of General Laws chapter 44, s. 53A, and is to be subject to the receipt of funds under grant from ch. 636, state-approved Project No. 78-BC-0757.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Alarm Systems Maintenance

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I request your approval of my action in awarding a contract, without public advertising, to the following firm for the supervision and maintenance of intrusion alarm systems presently in operation in six school buildings:

3M Alarm Service, 63 Washington Avenue, Chelsea, MA 02150.

The total amount of the contract will not exceed $7,659, and the contract will be in effect from July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979. It is my considered opinion that this cost is reasonable and fair.

This company has been providing this service to the Department of Planning and Engineering for many years and is uniquely qualified to perform this work in these school buildings. Inasmuch as this equipment has over a period of years been leased from this firm and along with the fact that the equipment is tied in with their central station and is monitored on a full-time basis by them, the 3M Alarm Service is the only firm that can supply this service to the six school buildings covered by this proposed contract. In addition, this program operates in conjunction with the City of Boston, Public Facilities Department, Electronic Security Patrol.

It is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully yours,
Anthony L. Galeota,
Chief Structural Engineer.

Bus Leasing

Dear Mayor White:

The School Committee of the City of Boston requests your authorization for the awarding of a contract, without public advertising, to McGregor-Smith Leasing, Inc., Haverhill, to lease ninety-five, sixty-five-passenger, 1977 International school buses, with automatic transmission, at a monthly rental of $36,886.02 for sixty months.

After two years, the School Committee has an option to extend the lease for three years with a purchase option after five of $200/bus; cancel the lease, with an early termination penalty of $1,760/bus; purchase the buses outright for $8,800/bus, the details of which are more fully explained by attached Summary A.

This request is being made at this time because of the short time before school opens and, the necessity and desirability of transferring these school buses from more stable transportation system for the Hudson Bus Lines in order to insure a more stable transportation system for the coming years.

Very truly yours,
Frances J. Kelleher,
Acting Secretary.

Data Processing Services

Dear Mayor White:

The School Committee of the City of Boston requests your authorization for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to Kindler Associates, Inc., One Broadway, Cambridge, Mass. 02142, during the period June 30, 1978, through September 1, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $8,000.

The contractor will provide the Boston Public Schools with graphics, data processing services.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this contract, and the expertise of Kindler Associates, Inc., it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Transportation System

Dear Mayor White:

The School Committee of the City of Boston requests your authorization for the award of a contract to Kindler Associates, Inc., One Broadway, Cambridge, Mass. 02142, during the period from June 30, 1978, through September 1, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $40,000.

The contractor will provide the Boston Public Schools with a computer-assisted, pupil transportation system (CAPTS).

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this contract, the expertise of Kindler Associates, Inc. in providing such services, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Under the terms of this contract, the contractor will work for the Child Service Demonstration Resource Center of the Richard J. Murphy Community School in revising a listing of over forty agencies servicing Spanish children in Boston, for the purpose of adequate, information-sharing between the center and these agencies. Agencies will be interviewed and a descriptive brochure developed. Also, consultant will develop referral form from agencies to core evaluation teams.

Compensation under this contract shall not exceed $2,645. This will be paid through a Title VI B grant from the federal government to the Boston School Department. The term of this contract shall be from July 1, 1978, to August 31, 1978.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed and the reasonable cost of these services, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Your authorization is requested for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to Xerox Corporation, 100 Charles River Plaza, Boston, for furnishing machine purchase, rental and service, during the period from July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, as listed in the contract.

This equipment has been in use by the School Department for numerous years and this is a continuation of the service agreement. The equipment has proven satisfactory and the cost is reasonable. Because of the specialized nature of Xerox equipment it is the opinion of our staff that advertisement of bids would serve no useful purpose. The amount of the contract shall not exceed $600,000.

Very truly yours,
Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

Packaging Materials

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The School Committee respectfully requests the approval of your Honor for the award, of a contract, without public advertising, to the Webster Co., for the purchasing of packaging materials for the Central Food Facility. This contract is for the period May 1, 1978, through June 30, 1978, at a unit cost of $20.50 per case and a total cost of $18,450, which is reasonable.

I deem it in the best interest of the city that this contract be awarded.

Very truly yours,
Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

Relocation of Data Processing Center

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The Boston Public Schools are under a court mandate to relocate the Data Processing Center, now located in the Boston Technical High School to the Central Administration Building, 26 Court Street, Boston.

Public bids were invited and received in this office on June 6, 1978 and publicly opened and read as follows:

Crystal Electric Co., $31,500; William H. Chellman Co., Inc., $41,840.

Upon examination of the bids it was found that the bid submitted by the Crystal Electric Co. was in violation of chapter 149, section J of the Statutes Regulating Competitive Bidding and Construction Contracts for Public Buildings and Public Works Projects. Therefore, the bid of the Crystal Electric Co. was rejected. The bid submitted by William H. Chellman Co., Inc. appeared to be excessive.

Whereas time is of the essence to furnish and install a complete, sophisticated, temperature control unit with new electric service, it could not be possible to publicly advertise and receive bids and have the work completed by August 1, 1978. Permission was granted by the court, as indicated in the attached Exhibit A, to undertake and cause to be performed such construction, alterations, repairs, and renovations as may be necessary without compliance with the provisions of General Laws, chapter 149, sections A to L, inclusive, and chapter 30, paragraph 39 (m). It further ordered that the chief structural engineer, in all circumstances covered by this order, invite bids from at least three reputable contractors who normally perform the type of work to be contracted, and that such bids were to be received and opened publicly.

In compliance with the order bids were invited, received, and publicly opened and read on June 29, 1978, as follows:

Balco, Inc., $31,585; Crystal Electric Co., $34,500; William H. Chellman Co., Inc., $34,970; Deleco Industries, $35,550.

The bid received from Balco, Inc. was incomplete and, therefore, rejected.

I request your approval of my action in awarding a contract to the Crystal Electric Co., 108 Everett Avenue, Chelsea, in the amount of $34,500, without public advertising.

Respectfully submitted,
Anthony L. Galeota,
Chief Structural Engineer.

This request of your approval of an award letter supersedes and replaces the award letter to this firm which had already been issued and is now void as the city has terminated negotiations of the contract and all collection activities by G.C. Services. This termination arose subsequent to the arrest of one of G.C. Services employees for larceny against a taxpayer by reason of soliciting a cash payment in exchange for "losing" an overdue bill.

While, in my opinion, it was appropriate and necessary for the city to terminate contract negotiations, for an ongoing relationship with G.C. Services Corporation based on this event, it is appropriate and fair for the city to accept some responsibility for the work which G.S. Services has performed for the city.

Under the terms I am proposing, G.C. Services Corporation will be paid a fee equal to 33.3 percent of all amounts collected on delinquent accounts which G.C. Services has commenced to collect up through February 28, 1978. For all those accounts on which monies are collected after February 28, 1978, and before July 1, 1978, G.C. Services Corporation will be paid a fee equal to 25 percent of all amounts collected for the months of March and April and 12 percent for the months of May and June. In other words, G.C. Services will not be paid under this negotiated fee schedule on any delinquent account unless and until the city has received payment on that account. Additionally, G.C. Services will be paid, for close-out services, an amount which will not exceed $50,000. In no event, however, will the payments made by the city to G.C. Services exceed the aggregated sum of $200,000; collections to date, by G.C. Services, are approximately $400,000.

In view of the efforts and results of G.C. Services, Inc. during protracted negotiations which had failed to yield a contract at the time the city terminated the relationship, it is, in my opinion, only fair and right for the city to make this arrangement to pay G.C. Services for services rendered.

Very truly yours,
James V. Young,
Collector-Treasurer.

Consulting Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with the usual form of advertising and to award a contract for consulting services to J. Chester Johnson, 3421 Northampton Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20015. The amount of the contract will not exceed $40,000, and will run from July 15, 1978, to June 30, 1979, at a rate of $350 for each full day's services. I have determined that this amount is reasonable.

Mr. Johnson will provide the following professional consultant services to the city:

1. Analysis and recommendations on structure of bond and note sales, including possible modifications of maturity schedules, decision-making on choice of competitive versus negotiated sale, and special security features analysis;
2. advisory assistance on all issues of city securities, including format and content of required documents and issuance statements;
3. act as the city's liaison with institutional investors, underwriters, national rating agencies, and other interested parties;
4. provide ongoing analysis of actual versus potential sources of capital, including innovative sources, for investment, in Boston's several debt obligations;
5. provide assistance to the city in preparing and applying for grants for financing assistance for economic development.

Mr. Johnson is the former assistant treasurer of the United States Government, in charge of the Treasury Department's State and Local Finance Division, and has served as vice-president and chief of the Public Finance Advisory Group of the Morgan Guarantee Trust of New York. He is, therefore, uniquely qualified for this work. Public advertisement for these services would, in my opinion, serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
James V. Young,
Deputy Mayor.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to George N. Heos, Jr., 272 Belgrade Avenue, Roslindale, Mass. 02131, for services as a consultant in the Trust Fund Administration Project and legal matters pertaining to the Treasury.

Mr. Heos will be supervising the overall management of the Trust Fund Administration Project, will help coordinate all activities in this area with Treasury Department personnel, and in addition, will undertake such research as the Treasury may from time to time require.

Compensation under this contract will be $8.50/hour and the total liability of the city will not exceed $7,200. The term of the contract will be from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979. This is a reasonable contract cost.

Mr. Heos has previously undertaken research projects for the city in the areas of trust fund administration, collection of revenue, and debt financing. Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed and of Mr. Heos' experience with Treasury procedures, I believe that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Sincerely,
James V. Young,
Collector-Treasurer.

Termination, 4.1, by either party must be with sixty days' prior written notice.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with the usual form of advertising and to award a contract to SynerGraphics, Inc., Lakeside Office Park, 607 North Avenue, Door 18, Wakefield, Mass. Financial Printing

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your approval for the awarding of a contract to George H. Dean Co., 645 Summer Street, Boston 02210, for services as the financial printer of the city's official statements and related material necessary to the issuance of General Obligation Bonds and Revenue Anticipation Notes for the 1979 fiscal year.

Financial printing is a highly specialized field and there are a very limited number of firms which can perform this kind of service. In printing these official statements, the firm chosen had to have the capacity to make changes, and produce proofs of draft official statements twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week, thus permitting the continuous revision of these official statements, a process which is necessary to meet the scheduled issuance of bonds or notes.

Proposals were solicited from various Boston printers as to qualifications, capabilities, sources of recommendation, and cost information. We have selected George H. Dean Co., based upon the recommendations of leaders in the financial community, underwriters, and counsel that it has the capacity to perform the work to our specifications at a cost to the city below other local financial printers. The total cost to the city for George H. Dean Company's services as financial printer will not exceed $46,150. The contract cost is reasonable.

Sincerely,
James V. Young,
Collector-Treasurer.

YOUTH ACTIVITIES COMMISSION

Youth Games Services

Dear Mayor White:

I hereby request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Tufts University, located in Medford, Massachusetts, for services that were rendered during the period of August 1, 1976, through August 31, 1976, at a cost not to exceed $27,000.

Under the terms of this agreement, Tufts University provided facilities and services for participants in the Summer Youth Games held in Boston during the month of August 1976. The youth games were a series of competitive athletic contests, mostly in the track and field area, and the major items provided by Tufts were room and board and athletic facilities for the participants. The games included over 1,000 youths—ages nine to fifteen years old—from fourteen cities, including Boston.

Tufts University was chosen because of its past experience in delivering similar services and the ability to provide these services at a reasonable cost. Other schools in the Boston area were contacted regarding this matter, but only Tufts University was willing to make its facilities available for the Summer Youth Games.

Since this contract is being awarded retroactively, I believe an explanation is in order regarding the timing of my submission of this request. I had mistakenly believed that a contract between the City of Boston and Tufts University had been drawn up and approved by the appropriate agencies. It was only recently that I realized there was no such written contract. You may recall that the summer of 1976 was extremely tense here in the city; that several city agencies, including Y.A.C. and the Parks and Recreation Department, were working extra hours and expending major efforts to keep things calm; that several events scheduled for Boston in the summer of 1976 were canceled; and that there was a serious question as to whether the Summer Youth Games would be canceled with them. Also, Harvard University, which had expressed an earlier willingness to deliver these services, withdrew with very little advance notice. I realize these items do not eliminate the need for a contract, but I mention them only because they may serve to explain, to some extent, the oversight of not awarding the contract in a more timely manner.

However, the facts are that Tufts University has performed these services and performed them very well, and I believe that Tufts University should be reimbursed for the services.

For the reasons cited above, it is my opinion that a contractual relationship with Tufts University for the services rendered in connection with the Summer Youth Games of 1976 should be established at this time.

Sincerely,
Donald B. Manson,
Executive Director.

SUFFOLK COUNTY

District Attorney's Office

Computer Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

As District Attorney for Suffolk County, I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising in the award of a contract to Sirvess, Inc., 490 Riverview Drive, Totowa, New Jersey 07512, an amount of $9,600, for the period of July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

The purpose of this contract is to allow the Suffolk County District Attorney's Office services to a mini-computer system. The upkeep of this system includes both service and parts. This company has been servicing this same machine for close to four years and we would like to have them continue. It is absolutely necessary for this operation to continue smoothly since it is one of the essential aspects of my office.

The rental cost is $800 a month and will remain the same for the entire twelve months. The cost is reasonable.

For the above reasons, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Thank you for your consideration of this matter.

Sincerely,
Garrett H. Byrne,
District Attorney.

Stenographic Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with advertising and award a contract to Mr. Robert H. Lange, 50 Congress Street, Boston, Mass., for stenographic services provided to the Boston Juvenile Court from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979.

This request is made pursuant to the statutory requirements set out in Massachusetts General Laws Annotated, chapter 221, section 91A, as it applies to said stenographic services. Mr. Lange is a certified court reporter with twenty years' experience. He has provided satisfactory services to this court within the past. His charges are reasonable as compared with other court stenographers.

Because of the professional nature of the services, advertising would serve no useful public purpose.

Sincerely,
Francis G. Poitrac,
Presiding Justice.

Municipal Court, Dorchester District

Children's Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with advertising and to award a contract to Basics, Inc., a private, nonprofit corporation, located at 230 West Sixth Street, Boston, Mass. Under the terms of the contract, Basics will provide educational services to children referred to it by this court under St. 1973, chapter 1073, the Children in Need of Services Act.

The program will include individualized curricula for six hours per day under the direction of three certified teachers. Counseling and other supportive services are also provided. Vans are utilized to transport the children to and from school. Because Basics is part of the School Department's Flexible Campus Program, students may receive public school credits for work done elsewhere.

This contract will be effective from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $28,860, which is both reasonable and in compliance with the rates set by the Rate Setting Commission.

Because of the unique nature of the services to be provided, I believe that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
Paul H. King,
First Justice.

Sheriff's Office

Legal Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I hereby request your permission to award a contract, without advertising, to Theodore Tedeschi, Esq., for legal services. Mr. Tedeschi in the past year has been representing the Sheriff's office in the case of Inmates of the Suffolk County Jail, et al. v. Eisenstadt, et al., which concerns the construction of a new jail.

The Sheriff's office, prior to my appointment, had been represented by counsel which among other duties was the responsibility of the above litigation. Mr. Tedeschi, acting as my counsel, will deal exclusively with the aforementioned case. It is anticipated that these matters will extend throughout fiscal year 1979.

Total payments under this contract shall not exceed $15,000. The term of the contract will be from July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

Because of the professional nature of the services involved, and because of Mr. Tedeschi's unique familiarity and experience with the matter in which he represents the Sheriff, it is my belief that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,

WORK TO DO

Dear Lord, throughout this busy day
How shall I find the time to pray?
How can I possibly afford
To pause and have my soul
restored?

I'd like some leisure time with You,
But there is so much work to do.
When I had voiced this fervent plea
I seemed to hear God answer me:
"My child, for every common task
You have help, if you but ask.
You need not seek a place apart
To ease the longing in your heart.
Remember, God is yearning too,
To share in all the work you do."

DORCHESTER'S ASHMONT HILL: A REPORT

Report of the Ashmont Hill Study Committee on the potential designation of Ashmont Hill as an Architectural Conservation District under Chapter 722 of the Acts of 1975 Boston Landmarks Commission

INTRODUCTION

The Ashmont Hill Study Committee hereby submits to the Boston Landmarks Commission its report on the designation of the Ashmont Hill area as an Architectural Conservation District.

The Committee consisted of ten persons — six members and four alternates — from Ashmont Hill, and five members of the Landmarks Commission: Mr. Lawrence Bianchi, Ms. Libby Blank, Mr. Romas A. Brickus, Mrs. V. Capernaros, Mr. John Cooke, Mr. Joe Gildea, Mr. Richard Harrison, Mr. Raymond D. Ivaska, Mr. Norman Janis, Ms. Frances Kayser, Mr. John F. McCready, Rev. Andrew Mead, Mr. Charles F. Murphy, Mr. Charles A. O'Hara, Ms. Martha L. Rothman.

The committee held its first meeting on June 9, 1977, and met every two or three weeks thereafter. All meetings were held in Ashmont Hill. The major tasks performed by the committee included delineating the district boundaries, surveying buildings, discussing the area's history, formulating standards and criteria, and deciding on the form of district regulation.

Judith McDonough and Matthew Kiefer, of the Boston Landmarks Commission staff, provided invaluable guidance, assistance, and support during the study. Mrs. McDonough guided the committee in the use of the building survey forms, in recognizing the relevant architectural styles, and in the arduous task of developing standards and criteria. The Study Committee Report was researched and written by Mr. Kiefer, who also completed the building survey and assisted in the formulation of standards and criteria.

The recommendations presented in the report are those of the Ashmont Hill Study Committee. The myriad decisions which formed the basis for these recommendations were arrived at by the consensus. The recommendations for district designation and establishment of a district commission were formally voted on by the Study Committee, and passed unanimously by those present.

I. LOCATION AND BOUNDARIES OF PROPOSED DISTRICT

The Ashmont Hill neighborhood is located in the Ashmont section of Dorchester, between Peabody and Codman Squares. The initial petition for designation of the area as an Architectural Conservation District did not specify boundaries for study, but proposed to consider the general area bounded by Washington Street, Welles Avenue, Talbot Avenue, and Ashmont Street.

Due to strong interest on the part of residents of Brent Street, adjacent to the proposed study area on the north and similar to it in character, both sides of the street were added to the study area. Following continued discussion by the Ashmont Hill Study Committee, final boundary recommendations were established, adding two houses fronting on Burt Street.

BOSTONS FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Sixteenth Mayor
FREDERICK W. LINCOLN, JR.
1858-1860
1863-1866

Frederick Walker Lincoln, Jr. was born in Boston, February 27, 1817, and was educated at public and private schools. He learned the trade of a maker of mathematical instruments and soon rose to be a prominent businessman. He was a member of the lower house of the legislature in 1847, and was a delegate in 1853 to the Constitutional Convention. When he attempted, during his first term as mayor, to uniform the police, the violent opposition which it engendered charged that he was copying the "liveried" servants of the Old World. On the other hand, his supporters said that they had trouble locating a policeman in citizen's clothes, and welcomed the change which would make the policeman more conspicuous.

It was Lincoln's practice to go about the city at night, often disguised, visiting saloons and gambling houses to learn if the laws were being enforced.

He was one of the first to perceive the need of the government's taking steps to preserve the Boston Harbor, and his efforts in this direction bore fruit in 1859 in obtaining the cooperation of the United States government. In the same year, plans for the improvement of the Public Garden were completed, but Lincoln's project of preserving the Back Bay as open space was defeated.

Conservation District therefore runs as follows:

"beginning at the intersection of the rear lot line of the north side of Brent Street with the center line of Washington Street, running east along said rear lot line until it intersects with the center line of Talbot Avenue, thence running south along said line until it intersects with the rear lot line of the south side of Ashmont Street, thence running west along said lot lines to the west lot line of No. 6-8 Burt Street, thence north along said line to the center line of Burt Street, thence west along said line to the southwest corner of No. 51 Ashmont Street, continuing west along the rear lot line of the south side of Ashmont Street to the center line of Washington Street, thence north along said line to the beginning."

This boundary encompasses all structures fronting on both sides of the following streets: Alban, Grace, Harley, Mellen, Montague, Ocean, Roslin, Waldorf, Walton, Welles Avenue west of Talbot Avenue, and Ashmont Street between Talbot Avenue and Washington Street. In addition, this boundary encompasses all structures on the westerly side of Talbot Avenue between Brent Street and Ashmont Street, all structures on the easterly side of Washington Street between Brent and Ashmont Streets, and three structures on the southerly side of Burt Street at its intersection with Ashmont Street.

II. DESCRIPTION OF PROPOSED DISTRICT

Ashmont Hill is a cohesive, residential district comprising twelve blocks and about forty acres of predominately free-standing, wood-frame, single-family houses in a variety of late Victorian styles. Built primarily between 1872 and World War I, the district's houses span a range of sizes and degrees of architectural sophistication from large, generously sited, shingle-style mansions, to modest bungalows on narrow lots.

On the total of just over 300 structures in the district, only seventeen are non-residential in use. Six of these house institutions, including three rest homes and a nursery school located in former single-family residences, a church, and a library, and the remainder are commercial uses.

Of the district's residential structures, about 250 are or were built as single-family homes, with about fifteen, three-deckers and fifteen, two-family houses scattered throughout the district. There are also seven, multiple-family, apartment buildings, mostly on Washington Street or Talbot Avenue on the district's edges. Only ten of the district's structures are of masonry construction, and all of these are either commercial or apartment buildings. The remainder are wood frame, or, in a handful of cases, stucco.

The area's topography and street pattern reinforce its cohesiveness and visual appeal. Sited, as the name implies, on a gently sloping hill whose crest is along Ocean Street at the head of Roslin Street, many of the area's houses have views of the Harbor and points to the west, north, and south.

The area's major interior streets are Alban, Ocean, and Welles Avenue. Of these, Welles Avenue is the widest and the only through street in the neighborhood. All but one of the remaining shorter streets run into each other to form T intersections. This street pattern lends a sense of self-containment and visual interest to the district, both by reducing through auto traffic and by containing vistas and providing views of houses at the head of streets.

The size of house lots in the area ranges from 3,000 square feet to over 20,000 square feet, with most of the largest lots along the major streets of Alban, Ocean, and Welles Avenue, and to a lesser degree, on Roslin and Harley — the first streets to be laid out in the district. The later streets — Grace, Montague, Mellen, Waldorf, and Brent — tend to have smaller houses on narrower lots.

Setbacks likewise are greater on the major streets (partly due to early deed restrictions), where they range from less than 10 to over 50 feet, and average about 25 feet. Setbacks on remaining streets average about 10 feet. Although there is little public open space in the area (with the exception of two vacant lots on the district's edges), the generous setbacks and mature trees that line most of the area's streets lend a sense of openness and a "sub-urban" ambience.

What is Good?

"What is the real good?"
I ask in musing mood.
"Order," said the law court;
"Knowledge," said the school;
"Truth," said the wise man;
"Pleasure," said the fool;
"Love," said the maiden;
"Beauty," said the page;
"Freedom," said the dreamer;
"Home," said the sage;
"Fame," said the soldier;
"Equity," said the seer.
Spoke my heart fully sad:
"The answer is not here."

Then within my bosom
Softly this I heard:
"Each heart holds the secret:"
"Kindness is the word."

Boston Mayor . . .

The slavery question was the most troublesome during his administration. On December 3, 1860, a collision occurred between the abolitionists and the supporters of slavery. At a meeting held in Tremont Temple for the commemoration of John Brown and to consider the question of how slavery in America could be abolished, pro-slavery men seized the hall, which was not protected by the authorities, and after filling it, pronounced resolutions denouncing John Brown. The mayor had the hall cleared, and later an antislavery meeting was held in a black church. Incipient riots followed, which the police, with a reserve of cavalry, quelled. The conscript riots against drafting followed. Some women attacked a draft officer near the Boston Gas Lighting Company, and a mob collected which surrounded the police station and the armory. Firearms were stolen from a shop, and for a time, there was a riot at Dock Square. Lincoln called out all the soldiers, and the trouble was stopped.

During Lincoln's administration the City Council gained the right to widen, lay out, and grade streets, and to assess abutters for the improvements. The Soldiers and Sailors Monument on the Common was erected, free public baths were started, and Fort Hill was removed and the material was used to fill in the Back Bay. The new city hall was first occupied at this time, and steps were taken to construct the Chestnut Hill Reservoir during Mayor Lincoln's administration.

It was felt that Lincoln had been effective in paring the amount of city money spent on junkets, street widening, and new buildings, and this contributed to his reelection in 1863.

After his retirement, he continued to serve the city on such boards as Overseers of the Poor, and Harbor Commissioners, and was a member of the Relief Committee after the great Boston fire of 1872.

Seventeenth Mayor JOSEPH M. WIGHTMAN 1861-1862

The city's seventeenth mayor, Joseph Milner Wightman, was born in Boston, October 19, 1812, of English parents. He was apprenticed to a machinist, and took up mathematics, engineering, and physics in his spare time. He finally became a manufacturer of surgical instruments. The discussion about a city water supply enlisted his service, and led him to enter politics. He was on the School Committee for ten years, from 1845 to 1854, and served three years on the Board of Aldermen, from 1856 to 1859.

The refusal of Moses Kimball to give the old line and Webster Whigs the use of Faneuil Hall for a Webster meeting resulted in Webster's defeat for the mayoralty and the election of Wightman. Wightman showed no judgment in declining to allow antislavery agitators to hold a meeting in Tremont Hall. As the antislavery agitators feared that under Wightman, a Democrat, they would be denied free speech, they introduced a measure into the state Senate to give the state control of the police, which was eventually defeated. While action was pending on the matter, a meeting of antislavery advocates was held in Faneuil Hall, but the thirty police present made no effort to maintain order, and the meeting was soon interrupted by groans and hisses. At the request of the trustees of the building, who feared that there would be injuries, the mayor had the galleries cleared, but the trouble broke out again, and the meeting was adjourned until evening, when admission would be by ticket. When some of the disturbers said they would remain until evening, the mayor had the building cleared, and refused to allow the evening meeting.

Mayor Wightman displayed enthusiasm and energy in abundance, but was a man of poor judgment. He was successful though, in supplying money for the expenses of fitting out soldiers and in providing for their salaries. The cornerstone of the new city hall, now considered the old city hall, was laid during his administration, on December 23, 1862.

This is the final test of a gentleman: his respect for those who can be of no possible service to him.

—William Lyon Phelps.

SAFETY FIRST: AVOID FIRE HAZARDS!

Mayor Kevin H. White, on February 28, warned Boston residents to take extra safety measures in the operation of electric space heaters and other alternative means of providing heat throughout the winter months.

"It is tragic that it took the loss of six lives in the recent fire in Dorchester to bring this problem to the public's attention," Mayor White said. "Due to the high cost of heating fuel, many people have resorted to the dangerous practice of leaving their oven on to heat their homes.

The following safety procedures should be followed:

- Stoves and ovens are not to be used for heating. If gas ovens are left on for long periods of time they will burn up the available oxygen in the room.

- Gas and oil space heaters must be vented outside the home to allow the release of gas fumes.

- Electric space heaters should not be used in homes which have not had their electric circuits modernized within the last twenty years.

- Electric units should not exceed 800 watts.

- Heating elements should be enclosed by a grid or screen.

- Do not use extension cords with the electric units. Units should be plugged directly into outlets.

- Keep heating units away from baseboards, clothing, and other flammable materials.

- When replacing burned-out fuses, use only fuses specifically designed for your electric wiring.

COUNCILLOR HICKS ADVOCATES: ALLOW PETS IN BHA RESI- DENTIAL UNITS

Boston City Councillor Louise Day Hicks has asked that pets be allowed — in some of the 16,457, residential units operated by the Boston Housing Authority.

Her order calling for relaxation in the ban on animals — in effect over forty years — was given unanimous endorsement by the City Council at its recent session.

The order would have to be a democratic process involving majority assent of residents in a building or the same address to permit well-behaved animals to live with owners in the public housing units.

Owners would have to agree to a code of standards for care and supervision to be worked out by the Housing Authority or by the immediate neighborhood residents.

Councillor Hicks noted that pets — especially small lap dogs — can be a comfort to persons living alone. At a time when security is a prime concern, a well-trained, larger animal can be of protection in deterring would-be intruders.

The suggestion sent to the housing agency called for serious attention into revising the lease stipulation that presently bans all animals from public housing units.

Owners seeking the privilege of keeping pets would have to have them inoculated and licensed by the city, register with the project manager, and pledge that public areas inside and outside the development would not be fouled.

Animals would be required to be on leash or in suitable carriers when brought outdoors.

A grievance procedure with residents serving on a judgment panel was suggested in guidelines proposed in Mrs. Hick's order. She said this would help assure equity for all concerned.

"These ground rules would be a democratic solution to a problem that has long existed in the housing developments," she said.

If, through majority agreement or through designation, pets can be permitted in certain buildings "it might help bring a little happiness into the lives of pet lovers," the Council member said.

"Many of these are elderly who have few or no companions and would appreciate this gesture.

"It would be worthwhile," she said, "to try this, even on a pilot program basis, in one or several developments."

THE TEST OF PATRICK By Bob Aldrich

In troubled times as these the test of Patrick,

His constant thrust against the scourge of darkness,

The scourge which made a vacuum of God's treasure,

And robbed the soul of all its priceless grandeur:

In troubled times as these the flame is lighted,

And with that light a man need fill his hours.

To turn toward God and find within His Wisdom

The path which courses from increasing shadow,

From world of clay to world of the celestial:

No times are these for man to idle on!

Saint Patrick made no compromise with truth,

Nor did he seek appeasement with the snake!

The devil's fang he met, with courage, strength,

And banished it forever from the land.

The challenge we must meet as Patrick did,

With faith and fortitude and freedom's might;

And he who passed through Ireland's fragrant earth

Will shine as that compelling light of faith

In troubled times as these when shadows fall

And lengthen over righteous paths of peace!

former reporter for the Hearst newspapers here in City Hall, and presently one of our better freelance writers, for permission to print his excellent poem.)

EVACUATION DAY

A famous event in Boston's history took place on March 17, 1776, Evacuation Day. Except for defeat in Canada, the American colonists were holding their own against the British forces. The colonial forces in Boston were stronger than ever despite the lack of guns and ammunition.

Fortunately, cannons and ammunition arrived to add an ironic touch to the triumph; for the guns which Ethan Allen had captured from the British at Fort Ticonderoga almost a year before were available for use against the invaders.

During the winter, the American troops, commanded by Colonel Henry Knox, hauled the cannons over the wilderness trails on sledges drawn by oxen. By early March, 1776, the captured cannons were mounted on Dorchester Heights, South Boston, and were made ready for action.

Viewing the awesome sight of these cannon aimed directly at their ships, the British invaders realized that their occupation of Boston must cease at once. They evacuated Boston, March 17, 1776, and set sail for Nova Scotia. It was a great victory for General George Washington, for the British never again returned to that area.

TOP O' THE MORNING

Saint Patrick (389?—461), Ireland's patron saint, whose special day the Irish celebrate on March 17 with their annual parade through South Boston, was reputed to have been born in England. He lived in southwestern Britain and was educated as a Christian.

When he was sixteen years old, a group of Irish raiders took him as a slave to Ireland. After serving in Ireland for six years as a swineherd, he escaped in a ship bound for Gaul, France. He later became a monk and then returned to his home in Britain.

After his return, he dreamed one night that a man came to him with a paper bearing these words, "The voice of the Irish," and at the same time he heard the Irish calling, "We pray thee, holy youth, to come again and walk amongst us as before."

Beloved Patrick then decided this was a missionary call to Ireland. He returned to Gaul and spent fourteen years preparing for his work. With the title of bishop, and the Pope's blessing, he arrived in Ireland and became its patron saint.

He did much to establish Christianity firmly in Ireland, building churches and monasteries and converting the people. This remarkable work was accomplished in spite of fierce tribal chieftains ruling the land.

1713—THE OLD STATE HOUSE—1978

The Old State House, or Town House as it was originally called, is one of the oldest public buildings in America. It is an important historic shrine, for within its walls took place some of the most significant events in the history of the American Revolution.

The building, constructed in 1713 and restored in 1880, stands in the middle of the head of State Street, facing Long Wharf and the waterfront in the distance. Around the building flows traffic to and from Washington Street—one of Boston's busiest thoroughfares.

The Boston Massacre took place in front of the building on March 5, 1770. Three persons were killed and six others injured. As a result, Samuel Adams, the great patriot, known as "The Father of the American Revolution," appeared in the Council Chamber of the Old State House to demand the removal of British troops from the town of Boston to the forts in Boston Harbor.

John Adams, our second President, wrote that "...the child Independence was born in her halls in 1761, when James Otis argued against the Writs of Assistance. ... laying down the revolutionary propositions that God made all men equal; that kings were made for the people, not the people for them; and that taxation without representation was tyranny."

On July 18, 1776, Colonel Crafts appeared on the balcony to announce the Declaration of Independence to a great crowd below. The declaration was followed by the burning of everything pertaining to British sovereignty.

In 1780, John Hancock was inaugurated in the Council Chamber as the first governor of Massachusetts.

Three years later, the Treaty of Peace with Britain was read to a great crowd from the State House balcony.

The Old State House was the seat of Massachusetts government until 1798, when the new State House on Beacon Hill was opened.

For ten years in the 1830s, the building was used for offices of the city government of Boston.

Today, the Old State House, protected by the Preservation Law of 1907, is preserved and maintained jointly by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the City of Boston, and The Bostonian Society, which makes its home in the building. It contains a collection of Boston historic relics and treasures, including tea from the Boston Tea Party. The building is open to the public.

Boston's Consumers Council

Tips for consumer survival.

- Try to avoid paying cash for large purchases. Write a check, charge it, or use a bank credit card. This gives you a chance to refuse payment if the merchandise is defective.

- If you receive a package you didn't order, you don't have to pay for it or return it. You can keep it as a gift!

Repairs and estimates — It's smart to get several written estimates in advance so that you can compare costs. Don't pay more than the agreed price unless valid reasons are given. Ask for an itemized list of all work performed.

- Massachusetts law requires a merchant to clearly disclose to you, before a sale is made, the exact nature of his refund, return and cancellation policy. A written statement on the back of a sales receipt is not enough!

- You have a right to inspect pre-packaged fruits or vegetables. If you suspect a rotten apple or tomato, see the produce manager. Demand that bad produce be replaced or that the good produce be reweighed.

- If you sign a contract in your home for goods or services worth more than $25, you can cancel if you notify the company in writing within three business days after you sign. This only applies to contracts signed in a location that is not the seller's normal place of business!

MAYOR SPONSORS ANTI-RAPE LEGISLATION

Mayor Kevin H. White is sponsoring legislation which if passed, will rewrite the current Massachusetts rape statute.

The bill, which is sponsored by the Mayor's Commission to Improve the Status of Women, will base penalties for rape offenses on their severity and degree of violence used. The current statute treats an enormous range of offenses under the blanket term of "rape" without distinguishing among them.

"Juries are reluctant to convict offenders under the current law, for fear that a first offender will be sentenced for life," Mayor White said. "This new legislation, based on the severity of the crime, will increase convictions and encourage victims to prosecute."

A public hearing will take place on Wednesday, March 14, at 1:00 p.m., in Room 136 of the State House to hear public testimony on the bill which was filed in December, 1978, by Senator Allan Sisitsky. The legislation was written by Sarah McClean, Senate counsel for the State House's Judiciary Committee.

For those unable to attend the hearing, written testimony may be submitted to the Mayor's Commission to Improve the Status of Women, Room 603, Boston City Hall. The commission which has researched and supported the bill, will be coordinating public testimony and organizing a lobbying effort directed at Boston legislators.

For more information call the Commission at 725-4496.

BILINGUAL EDUCATION REORGANIZATION PLANNED FOR HUB SCHOOLS

The Office of the Superintendent of the Boston Public Schools has recently stated its position as regards bilingual education, particularly as it is affected by recent reorganization actions. Plans to integrate bilingual education into the mainstream of the Boston Public Schools, both in administrative and educational matters, have resulted in an evaluation which will be forwarded to the School Committee at its next meeting. Highlights include strengthening of the bilingual program by locating new resources within central staff in such offices as: Personnel, Curriculum and Competency, and Community and Public Affairs. In keeping with the aims of decentralization, additional bilingual staff will be placed in district offices, enabling community superintendents to use those resources to best serve bilingual students and parents.

Superintendent Wood invited the Bilingual Team to monitor the implementation of recommendations. He stressed the mandate of today's society demands integration of bilingual concerns into the mainstream of education life, both for career and social development. "Our commitment is to see bilingual education move forward with improvement for bilingual students and all students together. This proposed reorganization will continue to strengthen all of Boston's present bilingual classes, while bringing the bilingual administration out to the districts and making them more accessible to students and teachers."

OIL DEALERS: TAKE NOTE!

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) has announced it will hold a hearing on Small Fuel Oil Dealers Price and Supply Problems on March 14, 1979, at Faneuil Hall in Boston. The hearing will start at 10 a.m.

The meeting will consider current federal assistance and regulations for small fuel oil dealers, as well as, federal policy to promote competition in the field. Milton D. Stewart, SBA chief counsel for advocacy, will preside at the hearing which is open to the public.

"The fuel oil crunch in New England is a serious problem that affects consumers, distributors, and dealers and one we can't afford to ignore," Stewart said.

Participants will include small fuel oil dealers, trade association members, representatives of major oil companies, as well as federal, state, and local officials from the six-state, New England area.

Any member of the public may speak at the hearing, but will be requested to file a written statement beforehand. Stewart also said anyone may file a written statement with the Office of Advocacy before, during, or after the hearing.

For more information, individuals are asked to call (617) 223-4495.

Success is merely a manner of putting your knows to the grindstone.

"THE SHADOW BOX" PLAYS BOSTON

On March 8, the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs sponsored a reception at the Charles Playhouse in honor of the Boston premier of the Pulitzer Prize winning play, The Shadow Box. Directed by Richard Chamberlain, written by Michael Cristofer, and costarring Frank Converse and Betsy Palmer, The Shadow Box will open at the Charles on Wednesday, March 14.

"We are excited that such a highly acclaimed production is coming to Boston," said Helen Rees, director of the Office of Cultural Affairs, "and we would like to honor the company of The Shadow Box in recognition of their contribution to our theater district."

In addition to being last year's Pulitzer Prize winner, the play also won the 1977 Tony Award. The Shadow Box treats a serious and important subject — death — with great compassion. Costar Betsy Palmer is known to viewers for her panel role on the TV game show "I've Got a Secret," and Frank Converse's last role was also as a costar on the TV series, "Movin' On."

MAYOR REAFFIRMS SUPPORT OF MUSIC HALL ALTERATIONS

Mayor Kevin H. White has reaffirmed Boston's continuing support for the planned leasing and refurbishment of the Music Hall by the Metropolitan Center, Inc.

As a gesture of support, the Mayor will urge the Boston Redevelopment Authority board to consider the Metropolitan Center's request for 10,000 square feet of land adjacent to the Tremont Street property. The land is needed to expand the stage to accommodate large touring productions such as the Bolshoi Ballet which has been unable to previously perform in Boston.

The Metropolitan Center, Inc. has until May 25 to raise the remaining $650,000 in order to guarantee a forty-year lease on the 4,200-seat facility. So far, $1.1 million has been raised.

Mayor White said that the success of this project plays an important role in the continuing redevelopment of Boston's Theatre District, orchestrated by the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, the BRA, and the Office of Federal Relations.

CELEBRITIES DISPLAY THEIR KITES

A kite by Edward Kennedy is one of the autographed celebrity kites featured in this month's art exhibit, "Kites to Fly and to Delight the Eye," at the fifth floor, Main Gallery, in Boston City Hall. Other celebrities showing their kites are Mel Brooks, Henry Winkler, Dwight Evans, and Ann Landers. But that's not all that makes this event exciting, other attractions include a stained-glass kite and a gold-leafed kite, as well as a variety of other colorful and unique exhibits from Boston architects, designers, and contributors from the School of the Museum of Fine Arts.

The exhibit is co-sponsored by the Museum School and the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs. It is now open to the public through March 28, Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The kites will be auctioned on April 7, 1979, in the Tapestry Room at the Museum of Fine Arts to benefit the Museum School.

HAVE YOU RECEIVED YOUR EXCISE BILL?

Boston residents not receiving 1979 Excise Bills urged to call city's Taxpayers Service Line.

City of Boston residents, who have not received their excise bills in the mail by March 13, should call the Taxpayers Service line at 725-4125, city Treasurer-Collector Lowell Richards said March 8.

Richards said his office has sent out 136,000 motor vehicle bills for the year 1979 to Boston taxpayers since March 1.

He added, however, that some taxpayers may not receive their bills because the Registry of Motor Vehicles does not print zip codes on the excise bills.

Residents having this problem can obtain a duplicate bill by calling the Taxpayers Service Line, Richards said.

Adams & Abbott's unique qualifications lie in their full range of facilities from photostats to line reproduction to halftone work to film negatives. This includes stripping facilities for combining halftones with black and white type or line art. Crucial to this office is their close proximity which insures a rapid pickup and delivery service. They also offer an emergency service for rush jobs at no extra cost, for which other businesses of this type charge between one and a half and twice as much as the normal charge. Service charges at Adams & Abbott are completely competitive and in some cases, special effect screens are less expensive. Their services have been used a great deal by this office and found extremely reliable and satisfactory.

Compensation under this contract shall not exceed $3,000. The terms of this contract shall be from November 15, 1977, to June 30, 1978.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
Edward T. Sullivan,
Director.

Purchasing Division

Copy Machines

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Your Honor's permission is requested to dispense with public advertising and renew, without advertising, the city's contract with Xerox Corporation, 100 Charles River Plaza, Boston, Mass. 02114, for rental and maintenance of copy machines to the various city departments, to include, but not limited to, the attached fifty-seven departments and the Suffolk County Courts and the District Attorney's Office for the period from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979. Total amount of the contract is not to exceed $438,000.

This contract for the first time includes a purchase option provision under which the city may take advantage of rental credits that have accrued on each machine since installation.

These machines have been of great value to the various departments because of their ability to copy onto ordinary cut-sheet, bond paper and a unique capability of copying on both sides of a sheet of paper thereby saving considerable supplies and postage costs. Many of these machines have automatic sorting features which speed the processing of contracts, bid specifications, and reports.

Because the city has been well satisfied with Xerox' past record of performance and maintenance, and because in my opinion the cost of this contract is reasonable, it is my opinion that the best interests of the city would be served by contracting with Xerox under the terms and conditions above.

Respectfully yours,
Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

CITY COUNCIL

Advertising Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your written permission to dispense with inviting proposals in the City Record for the awarding of a contract to the Boston Globe, 135 Wm. T. Morrissey Boulevard, Dorchester.

This contract to be entered into with the Boston Globe is for the purpose of advertising the City Council's public hearings upon request of the Council from the period beginning July 1, 1978, through to June 30, 1979. The total cost of this contract is not to exceed $3,000.

Being of the opinion that this contract is both just and reasonable and in view of the fact that we engage all three major Boston publications in this service, I feel that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Sincerely,
James M. Coyle,
Staff Director.

EEPA

Youth Training Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Boys' Club of Boston, 15 Green Street, Charlestown, Mass. 02129, for the purpose of placing and training a number of underprivileged Boston youth in social service positions. This program will provide seventeen City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants with the opportunity to develop skills in an established, youth-serving agency.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided under Title VI-B of the Comprehensive Employment Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period August 1, 1978, through July 31, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $185,357.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

(1) The ability of the project to employ the CETA target population; (2) the ability of the project to provide training to CETA enrollees; (3) the ability of the project to deliver services to CETA-designated, significant segments; (4) the project's value in addressing unmet needs of residents of the City of Boston.

In view of the fact the contractor was chosen based on a competitive selection process, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Printing Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Liberty Square Press, Inc., 92 Water Street, Boston, Mass. 02109, for emergency printing services to the Employment and Economic Policy Administration (EEPA). As the federal CETA prime sponsor, EEPA is periodically confronted with application deadlines which require the submission of massive documents, proposals, and reports. Since the planning and information gathering for these submissions occupies considerable ongoing time, the final draft often requires printing on a rush basis.

The contractor for these services was therefore selected on the basis of an immediate need which did not allow for the delay incident to formal advertising. In order to insure that the city received the benefit of competition in awarding the contract, four commercial printing firms (Postal Instant Press, Copy Cop, Spaulding Press, and Liberty Square) were solicited for estimates for these services on the bases of turn-around-time and pricing. Liberty Square Press was selected on the basis of these criteria.

Funds for this contract will be provided to the city through a federal government grant under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period March 28, 1978, through September 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $5,600.

The request for this award is retroactive in order to pay bills in hand for services rendered in good faith at EEPA's request which aggregate well over $2,000. Since this contract is for services already provided at a reasonable cost, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Staff Training

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Boston Regional Training Center, Room 1008 J W McCormack Post Office and Court House Building, Boston, MA 02109, to provide professional, job-related training for EEPA staff and management personnel.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided to the City of Boston through a federal government grant under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period June 1, 1978, through September 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $9,000.

This request is retroactive because the full extent of the use of Civil Service training by the EEPA during the contract period was not known until the end of July. Because this is a contract for educational services at a reasonable cost, from an agency of established repute, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids in the matter. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator

Zoo Administration Assistance

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Boston Zoological Society, Franklin Park, Dorchester, Mass. 02121, to provide staff to assist in planned improvements to the Franklin Park Zoo. Under the contract, seventeen City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants will be employed in various positions within the Zoo Administration and be responsible for improving services during the construction of new facilities. Improvements include increasing the number of educational programs, both on and off zoo grounds, and providing for more contact with the public in order to increase zoo memberships and donations.

Funds for this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VI-B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period August 17, 1978, through April 13, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $111,027.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

(1) The ability of the project to employ the unskilled, long-term unemployed; (2)

the ability of the project to provide a suitable training to CETA enrollees; (3) the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project; (4) the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston; (5) the ability of the agency to administer the project and supervise the enrollees.

Because the contractor was selected based on the aforementioned competitive criteria, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator

Conservation Projects

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD), 150 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass. 02111. This contract will employ and train seventy-five City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants in the construction and maintenance of household energy conservation projects. These projects will consist of (1) weatherization of 400, low-income households; (2) construction of fifty solar, window box-collectors in city residences; (3) energy conservation-oriented repairs to 225 households in the city; (4) installation of solar space heating system in one low-income home.

Funds for this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VI-B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period July 27, 1978, through July 26, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $926,772.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

(1) The ability of the project to employ the unskilled, long-term unemployed; (2) the ability of the project to provide suitable training to CETA enrollees; (3) the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project; (4) the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston; (5) the ability of the agency to administer the project and supervise the enrollees.

EEPA is requesting this award retroactively because of a delay in contract negotiations. Because the selection of the contractor was based on a competitive evaluation, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Data Processing, etc.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Northeastern Systems Associates, Inc., 475 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, MA 02115, for the purpose of providing professional services to EEPA in conjunction with the turnkey acquisition and implementation of a data processing facility and related software. These services include conducting a bidders' conference; developing an evaluation procedure for proposals received, assisting in contract negotiations; and planning and controlling system development and implementation. The contractor is a minicomputer based time-sharing company with extensive expertise in the type of hardware and software systems that EEPA is acquiring. The contractor was selected to provide continuity in planning and project control. Mr. Frank Jerabek, a senior associate of the contractor, performed exemplary service to EEPA in the market research, cost/benefit analysis, and drafting of the RFP (Request for Proposals) for the data processing facility. His subsequent association with Northeastern Associates will expand the resources available to EEPA in implementing the turnkey system.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided to the city through a federal grant under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period July 1, 1978, through October 31, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $29,000. This award request is retroactive in order to pay for services performed in good faith at EEPA's request while contract negotiations were being finalized.

Because this is a negotiated contract for professional services, at a reasonable cost, consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,

Erik Butler,
Acting Administrator.

ment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The effective dates of operation of this contract will be from October 1, 1978, through September 30, 1979, inclusive, at a total not to exceed $6,925.

Under the terms of the proposed contract, the Employment and Economic Policy Administration will be entitled to receive subscription services from the U.S. Conference of Mayors Employment and Training Project. Subscription to the Employment and Training Service will enable Boston to join other cities in the United States receiving benefit from this unique organization. The following subscription series will be provided:

1. Provide a Washington, D.C.-based staff for the new U.S. Conference of Mayors Employment and Training Advisory Council;
2. conduct a series of national, regional, and local meetings designed to provide new information and techniques to all members;
3. continue to maintain ongoing formal and informal contact with local prime sponsors and others for the purpose of pinpointing local problems irreconcilable at the regional level;
4. through communications, individual contacts, and field and/or policy meetings, provide an ongoing service by analyzing the impact of the Department of Labor policies upon local governments; such activity will be initiated as appropriate as well as upon request;
5. provide an informal service to constituents by distributing documents developed for the implementation of CETA;
6. in addition to the general implementation information identified above, the USCM will also provide information and training as appropriate for implementing selected aspects of CETA; this service will be provided to local prime sponsors on an as-needed, on-call basis;
7. schedule and conduct a minimum of three status and review meetings for chief elected officials. These meetings will be designed to bring together Department of Labor officials responsible for implementing CETA nationally, and Mayors responsible for CETA implementation locally;
8. attend meetings and conferences sponsored by other public interest groups, community-based organizations, and others that extend invitations for participation in conferences on manpower and related issues;
9. maintain a relationship with and provide information from the areas of vocational education, economic development, and youth.

Due to the fact that the services to be provided by this organization can not be duplicated elsewhere, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City

Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Supervisor Training

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Youth Enrichment Services, Inc., 180 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass. 02115, for the purpose of implementing the Career Awareness, Employment-Training-Supervisor Project (C.A.D.E.T.-S.) This project, which will employ and train nineteen City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants as youth supervisors, is designed to benefit some of the city's economically disadvantaged youth through participation in activities such as skiing, canoeing, biking, bicycling, summer camp, and environmental education programs.

Funds for this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VIB of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period July 17, 1978, through July 16, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $257,922.

The contractor was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

- (1) The ability of the project to employ the unskilled, long-term unemployed;
- (2) the ability of the project to provide suitable training to CETA enrollees;
- (3) the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project;
- (4) the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston;
- (5) the ability of the agency to administer the project and supervise the enrollees.

Considering the contractor was chosen based on a competitive selection process, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Vocational Counseling, etc.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Jobs for Youth-Boston, Inc., 119 Charles Street, Boston, Mass. 02114, for the purpose of providing vocational counseling and education, job placement, follow-up on individual youths, and job upgrading to economically disadvantaged Boston youth. Under the terms of the contract, five City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants will be employed as vocational counselors, employer service assistants, and counselor aides to assist in the orientation and eventual placement of those youth in neighborhoods which are not serviced by the Boston Plan Project YES.

Funds for this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VIB of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period August 1, 1978, through July 31, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $58,577.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

- (1) The ability of the project to employ the unskilled, long-term unemployed;
- (2) the ability of the project to provide suitable training to CETA enrollees;
- (3) the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project;
- (4) the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston;
- (5) the ability of the agency to administer the project and supervise the enrollees.

The request for this award is retroactive because of delays in contract negotiations and budget finalization. Considering the contractor was selected based on the aforementioned competitive criteria, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Program Analysis, etc.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Ms. Audrey Ryack, 18 Ware Street, Cambridge, Mass. 02138, for professional services to EEPA as a senior planner in the Research Planning and Evaluation Department. Under the terms of the contract, Ms. Ryack will be responsible for the development of annual plans for Titles II and VI programs, including conducting an in-depth analysis of Public Service Employment (PSE) programs as they relate to clients, agencies, and post-termination needs of clients, etc.

The contractor is eminently qualified to aid EEPA in this task, having worked as a planner in community-based, social service agencies and with funding authorities including the United Community Planning Corporation of Boston, where she developed innovative programs and coordinated services to meet community needs, utilizing skills in needs assessment which included demographic analysis and techniques for obtaining community perceptions of need.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under the Comprehensive Employment and Training

Act of 1973 P.L. 93-203. The contractor will be paid $83.26 per day for work to be performed from June 12, 1978, through September 1, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $5,000.

Because this is a negotiated contract for professional services, at a reasonable cost, consistent with federal procurement requirements and because of the knowledge and experience of the contractor, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator

Employability Training

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Epilepsy Foundation of America, 3 Arlington Street, Boston, MA 02116, for the purpose of implementing the Self-Help and Pre-Employment Project (SHAPE). This project, which will employ and train six City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants in general counseling and job development, is designed to increase the employability of persons with epilepsy and to upgrade their general quality of life through the use of self-help groups, individual and group counseling, testing, and preemployment workshops with sections on physical care.

Funds for the operations of this contract will be provided through a federal grant to the City of Boston under Title VIB of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-203). The contract will be effective for the period August 1, 1978, through July 31, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $80,325.

(1) The ability of the project to employ the unskilled, long-term unemployed; (2) the ability of the project to provide suitable training to CETA enrollees; (3) the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project; (4) the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston; (5) the ability of the agency to administer the project and supervise the enrollees.

Because a competitive procedure was utilized in selecting the contractor, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator

Monitoring System, etc.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Urban League of Eastern Massachusetts, Inc., 236 Huntington Avenue, Room 311, Boston, MA 02115, for the delivery of on-the-job training (OJT) services to the CETA eligible clients of Boston and the Commerce and Industry Community of Eastern Massachusetts, as part of the "Urban Partnership" which is a concept adopted by the Urban League for the delivery of social services, training, and economic development services to a large segment of the American population who are disadvantaged.

Under the contract, the agency proposes to (1) take charge of the fiscal requirements of the OJT program; and (2) add to this component a monitoring system which will serve to bring the fiscal accountability process to a point commensurate with the expected increase in the overall OJT activity in the Boston CETA system.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided to the city through a grant from the Help through Industry Retraining and Employment (HIRE) Program under Title III of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period July 24, 1978, through July 24, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $1,164,000.

This request is retroactive because of a delay in finalizing details of the contract which had to be known before the award request could be made. Because this is a negotiated contract at a reasonable cost with an agency of established repute, consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator

Ambulance Service

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Boston Ambulance Squad, 19 Dickens Street, Dorchester, Mass. 02122, for the purpose of providing ambulance service to the City of Boston Department of Health and Hospitals. Under the contract, eight City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment (PSE) participants will be trained and employed as emergency medical technicians and will serve as additional ambulance crew members and dispatchers.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VIB of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The dates of operation will be from October 1, 1978, through July 31, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $108,013.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

(1) The ability of the project to employ the unskilled, long-term unemployed; (2) the ability of the project to provide suitable training to CETA enrollees; (3) the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project; (4) the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston; (5) the ability of the agency to administer the project and supervise the enrollees.

In view of the fact the contractor was chosen based on the aforementioned competitive criteria, the reasonable cost involved and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

HEALTH AND HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT

Ventilator Service

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Clarence E. Smith Co., 32 Buena Vista Road, Arlington, Mass. for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $5,000.

Under this contract, the Clarence E. Smith Co. will completely overhaul and update ten Emerson volume ventilators. This will include updating internal parts, installing new manometers, resurfacing cabinets, and installing new, stainless steel, counter tops.

Clarence E. Smith Co., is the sole representative for the Emerson Co. on the eastern seaboard and there are no other known vendors equipped or certified to service Emerson ventilators.

Therefore, as the hospital's experience with Clarence E. Smith's work performance is excellent, as the price is reasonable, and because of the reasons stated above, no useful purpose would be served, in my opinion, by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner

Data Equipment

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Digital Equipment Corporation, 146 Main Street, Maynard, Massachusetts 01754, for the maintenance of the DEC System-20 clinical/laboratory data acquisition and processing system used by the Department of Health and Hospitals, for the period April 1, 1977, through June 30, 1977, at a cost not to exceed $5,298.

Under this contract, Digital Equipment Corporation will provide all materials and perform all the work necessary for and incidental to providing preventative and remedial maintenance services, including necessary repairs and replacement of parts, as required of the DEC System-20, located at Mattapan Hospital and including data acquisition equipment, located at Boston City Hospital.

Due to the complex nature of the DEC System-20 considerable expertise in its maintenance is required. Since the DEC System is still a relatively new computer system there are presently no companies better equipped to provide this service than Digital Equipment Corporation, the supplier of the system.

Because of the preceding maintenance contract with Digital commenced with the installment of the DEC System-20, it did not coincide with the city's fiscal year. To facilitate the administration of this contract it is in the department's interest to adjust its period to concur with that of the city's fiscal year.

Therefore, because of the particular circumstances described above and because Digital Equipment Corporation is uniquely suited to furnish this service and as the cost to the city is reasonable, no benefit would inure to the city, in my opinion, by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Communications Equipment

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Motorola, Inc., 15 Bradston Street, Boston, Mass. 02118, for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $6,000.

Under this contract, Motorola shall provide the labor and parts necessary to repair Motorola radio communications equipment owned by the Department of Health and Hospitals and used by the Ambulance Service. This equipment includes, but is not limited to, mobile U.H.F. radios, control heads, and antennae, and U.H.F. and V.H.F. base stations, repeaters and antennae.

Inasmuch as this equipment was manufactured by Motorola, their service in the past has been excellent, and the cost to the city is reasonable, no benefit would inure to the city by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Electronic Equipment

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Coulter Electronics, Inc., 110A Commerce Way, Building No. 1, Woburn, Mass. 01801, for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $5,000.

Under this contract Coulter Electronics will repair Coulter medical equipment located in Hematology Laboratories at Boston City Hospital.

Coulter Electronics, Inc. is qualified to do the work and has provided satisfactory service in the past. Coulter is the manufacturer of this equipment, can provide immediate competent service personnel, and has ready access to necessary spare parts.

Therefore, inasmuch as this contract is of a specialized nature, and as the cost is reasonable, no benefit would inure to the city by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Laundry Equipment Service

Dear Sir:

An invitation for bids for maintenance of laundry equipment was advertised in the City Record on May 31, 1978, for the period July 1, 1978 through June 30, 1979. Bids were publicly opened on June 14, 1978. No bids were submitted.

New specifications for a multi-vendor contract have been completed and an advertisement has been placed in the City Record for the August 28, 1978, publication. In addition a list of vendors has been developed who will be notified by mail that proposals for repair of laundry equipment are available.

Therefore, because we have no contract for the months of July and August for emergency repairs, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to the Revere Pump Sales and Engineering Company, 281 Lee-Burbank Highway, Revere, Mass. 02151, for the period July 20, 1978, through August 31, 1978.

The Revere Pump Sales and Engineering Company comes highly recommended and their charges, in my opinion, are reasonable. The total cost of this contract will not exceed $10,000.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

OFFICE OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE

Leasing Certain Premises

Dear Mayor White:

On December 30, 1977, you approved a contract between the City of Boston and the Urban Court Program in an amount not to exceed $4,730, for the period August 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978.

The M.O.C.J. now has the opportunity to increase the amount of the contract by $2,586, which would permit the Urban Court Program to continue through December 31, 1978.

Award of this increase is made pursuant to a grant received under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 (P.L. 90-351), as amended by the Crime Control Act of 1970 (P.L. 91-644) and the Crime Control Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-83).

The purpose of the grant is to allow Stella Trust to provide office space to the Urban Court Program, located at 560A Washington Street, Dorchester, Mass., where it has been since its inception in 1975.

I respectfully request your Honor's written authorization to dispense with public advertising in the award of this increase because of the unique services required to perform the function of this contract, it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful or practical purpose.

Respectfully,
Brian M. Leahy,
Acting Director.

PARKS AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT

Entertainment Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with inviting proposals by advertising in the City Record, in awarding to Mr. Angelo Picardi, 58 Cedars Acres Road, Marshfield, Mass., a contract to supply entertainment and to perform at Wednesday Evening on the Plaza, August 31, 1978, "Italian Night" for a total not to exceed $2,800. This is to be charged to the Parks and Recreation Department Budget 1-11-41 (29) Miscellaneous Contractual Services. This sum is reasonable and is the standard rate for professional services of this nature.

The services to be provided by Mr. Picardi include organizing and providing entertainers and performing on the evening of August 31, 1978.

Because of the special nature of the services provided by Mr. Picardi no useful purpose will be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
Alan M. Austin,
Commissioner.

PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

Research Services, etc.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On May 4, 1977, this department awarded a contract to Massachusetts Institute of Technology, approved by your Honor without public advertising, to perform research and evaluation services in connection with the Innovative Projects Program, during the period March 3, 1977, through June 3, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $57,000.

Your authorization is requested to amend this contract in order to evaluate additional items of importance to the program at a price not to exceed $3,800, and to extend the term of the contract to September 30, 1978. Analysis at the end of the term of the contract suggests a need to evaluate certain program components still ongoing. The cost of the contract, as amended, shall not exceed $60,800, which is, in my opinion, a reasonable price. Final payment on this contract has not been made.

Because of the professional nature of these services and the importance of continuity in the program evaluation, it is my opinion that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bid.

Sincerely,

John Weis,
Director.

Designer Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Pursuant to a vote of the Public Facilities Commission on July 19, 1978, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record, and to award a contract to Richard Dunn, d/b/a Dick Dunn Design, interior space designer, with offices at 120 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

Under the terms of the contract, Dick Dunn Design will provide feasibility studies for the interior space use of various buildings, and, from assembling or redrawing available drawings and surveys, or from data gathering, prepare complete sets of 1/8-inch scale, floor plans and written reports with recommendations to guide and discipline the occupancy of said buildings, as directed from time to time between the period July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, at a cost for such services not to exceed $12,500 (payable in accordance with the categorical hourly rates schedule and out-of-pocket expenses to be set forth in and further defined by the proposed contract), which, in my opinion, is a reasonable contract cost.

Due to the professional and technical nature of the services to be performed, it is my judgment that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
Donald B. Manson,

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT

Snow Removal

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Due to the severity of the great blizzard of February 6, 1978, it was necessary to hire several pieces of emergency, snow-fighting equipment in addition to the amount usually used in a smaller storm.

When this equipment was hired, it was not the intention of the Public Works Department to allow the owners to perform work that would exceed an amount of $2,000. However, due to the severity of this storm, many days of work were required to make passable the streets of Boston.

Herewith is a list of contractors and the estimated cost for services provided by them during the snow season of 1977-1978, without a contract, and I respectfully request that you award a contract, without public advertising, to the contractors named herein, as the cost, in my opinion is reasonable.

John A. Aalto Backhoe Service, $2,565; Charles Boyajian Trucking, $5,337; Chapell Tractor Sales, Inc., $6,666; Circle Power Demolition Corp., $2,793; DeRoma Bros. Corp., $29,016; Fred DeRoma & Son, Inc., $13,532; Grandview Contr., Inc., $8,466; Higginbottom Bros., $2,772; R. D. Howes Const., $5,247.

Paul D. Lamb, Jr., $4,200; Victor Manilenko, $2,534.84; Park Constr. Co. $4,779; Ray Perreault Earthmoving, Inc. $3,234; South Shore Paving Corp., $20,586; Angelo Todesca & Son, $53,636.50; Charle

RETIREMENT BOARD

Auditing Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising and award a contract for auditing services to the firm of Coopers & Lybrand, 100 Federal Street, Boston, Mass. 02110. The period of the contract would be from July 13, 1978, to June 30, 1979, although it is not anticipated that this full-time period will be necessary. A limited amount of work, which would be reimbursable under the contract, has already been performed in order to determine the scope of the project.

Coopers & Lybrand will examine the controls surrounding the Board's procedures for processing refunds to employees who have terminated and make recommendations for strengthening these controls where applicable. They will also perform an audit of refunds processed during calendar year 1977 to determine that all such refunds have been properly processed and paid to the proper individuals.

The possibility of an irregularity has been brought to the Board's attention, and since Coopers & Lybrand are immediately available and familiar with city procedures, and to some extent Retirement Board procedures, as a result of their audit of the city's books now in progress, it is believed that no public purpose would be served by obtaining competitive bids at this time.

The fee for this audit would not exceed $50,000. The Board plans to write a contract for $15,000 to $20,000 for the first phase of this contract at this time, and to extend the contract up to the limit of $50,000, if the result of the first phase indicates that such extension is necessary or desirable. The expense of the audit would be paid from the Expense Fund of the retirement system.

Very truly yours,

Thomas J. Grimley,
Chairman.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

Various Foods

Dear Mr. Mayor,

I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to S.S. Pierce Co., 10 Wildwood Ave., Woburn, MA 01801, for the purchase of perishable foods and other edible commodities, during the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

It is the practice of the School Committee to purchase perishable foods and other edible commodities on the bases of bids submitted weekly or monthly because of the perishable nature of these goods, the fluctuation in their prices, and the quantities required. The cost of all perishable foods and other edible commodities purchased under this contract will be based on formal quotation prices received from several suppliers.

Because the purchasing procedures, which accrue considerable savings to the School Committee, do not lend themselves to formal public bids, it's my opinion that advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,

Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

Evaluation Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the Boston School Committee and upon the recommendation of the Superintendent and the Board of Superintendents, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Ms. Angela Fong-Chu Ho, 1855 Washington Street, Boston, Mass. 02118, as evaluation assistant (full time), in the Evaluation Component of the Emergency School Aid Act Project, during the period July 15, 1978, through September 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $3,125.

Under the terms of the contract, Ms. Fong-Chu Ho will be responsible for the evaluation of resources in accordance with city and federal rules and regulations. The enclosed job description reflects work to be performed by Ms. Fong-Chu Ho for the Department of Management Information Services. She is most qualified for this position and can be expected to continue to serve the citizens of Boston quite satisfactorily based upon her previous experience and skills.

The salary is reasonable and is commensurate with that paid evaluation assistants in the Boston Public School system.

Because of the need to continue the program without further interruption during the present academic year, the School Committee believes that the public interest would not be served by a time-consuming process of public bidding for this position.

This agreement is to be executed, without an appropriation, under the provisions of G.L. c. 44, s. 53A, and is to be made subject to the receipt of funds under the grant from Emergency School Aid Act, Grant No. G01, 77-528-01, at no cost to the City of Boston.

Very truly yours,

Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Repair of Windows

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I request your approval of my action in awarding a contract, without advertising, for emergency glass work replacement, and to repair the window sash at the William M. Trotter School, 135 Humboldt Avenue, Roxbury, Mass., in an amount not to exceed $3,800, to the Radar Glass Co., 726 East Second Street, South Boston, Mass.

During the evening hours of August 1 and 2, 1978, vandals broke into the William M. Trotter School, 135 Humboldt Avenue, Roxbury, Mass., and broke approximately thirty lights of glass and did damage within the interior of the building.

In order to secure the building against the elements, and to prevent further unlawful entry into the building, and to make emergency repairs, I solicited three bids from persons competent to do this type of work and to award the contract to the lowest bidder without public advertising.

The bids received and opened on August 8, 1978 were as follows:

Radar Glass Co., $3,800; Palmas the Glassman, Inc., $4,228; and B & C Service Systems, Inc., $5,460.

Respectfully submitted,

Anthony L. Galeota,
Chief Structural Engineer.

Boston Theatre Projects, Inc. shall provide two instructors, one coordinator, and one musical director for the twenty-week program with additional Boston Theatre Projects, Inc. staff throughout the course of the program and for the final production by the students.

Because the nature of the program requires a staff highly educated in the techniques of improvisational theatre, in which Boston Theatre Projects, Inc. excels, and because of the success of this program during the past two years at the Dickerman School, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

This agreement is to be executed without an appropriation, under the provisions of General Laws, chapter 44, s. 53A, and is to be subject to the receipt of funds under grant from chapter 636, state-approved Project 79-5S-0456.

The contractor is especially qualified to provide the above services because it has professional staff with broad experience, including services in District One in 1977-78.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this agreement and the expertise of the contractor in providing such services, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

This agreement is to be executed without an appropriation of funds, under the provision of General Laws, chapter 44, s. 53A, and is to be subject to the receipt of funds under grant from chapter 636, state-approved Project 79-ID-0301.

Very truly yours,

IV. HAZARDOUS CONDITION

It has come to the attention of this office that the South Station Building, Atlantic Avenue and Summer Street, presents an added hazardous condition to members during fire fighting operations within the complex.

The wire lath and plaster construction of the large expanse ceilings are liable to collapse due to the weight of water accumulating in them from tactical operations.

Extreme caution is demanded while performing duties within these buildings.

V. THE "96"

The retirement on March 1, 1979, of Fire Capt. Robert W. Collins, Ladder Company 8, will bring to an end the presence within our ranks of a group of men who were referred to and were justly proud to be called the "96."

To the members of the department who are not aware of the "96," they were a group of 96 fire fighters appointed July 16, 1937, a time when appointments were few and far between.

Over the years these men, by their example of courage and experience, kept the spirit and camaraderie of this department alive and well. Furthermore, they had the foresight that brought positive changes within the department that are enjoyed by all members today, changes such as creation of Local 718, Celeste Blood Bank, establishment of the Credit Union, and change in Relief Fund elections.

On behalf of all members, I am pleased to highly commend these men and wish them good health in their retirements.

VI. INSTRUCTIONS APPLYING TO RULE 17.23

XI. LETTERS OF THANKS

"February 11, 1979.

Dear Sir:

My husband and I just want to express our belated thanks for the fine job the firemen did on the night of January 8th when our new condominium caught fire. They arrived at our apartment in record time and did their best to damage as little of our belongings as possible. Due to their consideration and effort, we were able to salvage many of our possessions and are currently rebuilding.

Many thanks for a job well-done by a team of professionals.

Our sincere thanks,
Joe and Vicki Keimig,
1990 Commonwealth Avenue, Brighton, Mass."

"February 18, 1979.

Dear Sir:

On Tuesday morning, January 30, 1979, about 8:45 a.m., Ladder Company 19, South Boston, responded immediately to a call for assistance to my wife who suffered what proved to be a fatal heart attack.

I am most grateful for the kind and efficient service rendered by Captain Hasson and Fire Fighters Golden, Jackmauh, and McDonough. Thank you.

Pursuant to the supplemental minority participation section of the City of Boston contract, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 30 percent of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. JAPANESE GIFT HOUSE SET FOR HUB

Children's Museum to house valuable Sister-City gift.

Boston's Sister City, Kyoto, Japan, has given an authentic, Japanese house valued at $337,000 to the City of Boston for Boston's Children's Museum. The house represents the largest and most valuable gift yet exchanged in the International Sister Cities Program.

Portions of the house, called a Kyomachi-ya, have been date-verified at 125 years of age. The remainder of the structure is now being dated, but experts believe it may become the oldest house in Boston.

The gift culminates six years of planning by the Children's Museum, the Mayors of Boston and Kyoto, the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, and the Sister Cities committees. The Kyomachi-ya will be installed next year in Museum Wharf, the new waterfront home of the Children's Museum.

Boston Mayor Kevin White's wife, Kathryn, who has been active in the planning of the Kyomachi-ya's arrival, said, "The gift is a generous expression of the strong Sister City ties which Boston and Kyoto have had for twenty years. I am proud that Boston has a museum of the stature of the Children's Museum, where the house will be preserved for all time and utilized to its fullest potential for the benefit of the people of Boston."

The Kyomachi-ya ("Kyoto-style artisan's house, shop") is a two-story structure that will be equipped with artifacts and furnishings for home and work. The house is the first piece of everyday commercial and residential Japanese architecture to be on permanent exhibit in the United States.

The Kyomachi-ya will arrive in Boston this spring, 1979, and will be assembled by native Japanese craftsmen during a four-month period, beginning with the grand opening of the Children's Museum at Museum Wharf in July.

The Children's Museum, a national leader in the development of Japanese cultural exhibits and programs for over thirty years, will create a series of shop exhibits within the house, including a noodle shop, tatami (mat)-making, shoji (paper screen)-making, and a craft such as kite or doll-making. Children and adults alike will have an opportunity to try their skills at all the Japanese craft exhibits.

The Kyomachi-ya was donated by a fourteenth generation, silk-weaving family. Other individuals and family businesses in Kyoto are contributing the architectural planning, the materials for restoration, and travel expenses for the five craftsmen who will undertake the reassembly of the house in Boston. The Boston-Kyoto Sister City Foundation and the Children's Museum are currently attempting to raise a matching amount of money to prepare the Museum for receipt of the house, cover expenses of the Japanese craftsmen while in Boston, and develop exhibit and program materials necessary to utilize the Kyomachi-ya gift to its fullest potential.

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Eighteenth Mayor OTIS NORCROSS
1867

Otis Norcross was the eighteenth mayor of Boston. He was one of the few mayors who could truthfully say that during his connection with city affairs, he never used a dollar's worth of merchandise, never made a contract with the city either indirectly or directly, and never put a friend or relative into office of any kind.

He was born in the North End, November 2, 1811, and studied at Miss Devenport's School and later at Abel Whitney's School. He went on to the English High School, and at fourteen became an apprentice in his father's firm, Otis Norcross and Company, crockery dealers. His father died in 1827, and he became a partner, retiring in 1867.

In 1871 he was one of the Boston Committee to relieve the Chicago fire sufferers, and in 1872 while the Boston fire was raging, he was made treasurer of the relief committee.

While a member of the Water Board in 1865, he helped in promoting the construction of the Chestnut Hill Reservoir. During his term as mayor, Roxbury was annexed. He welcomed President Johnson and General Sheridan as guests of the city, vetoed an order of the City Council for building an insane hospital in Winthrop, and was a member of the commission which selected the site for the new post office. His failure to receive the customary second term was due to the stiffness of his virtue, for he was not pliable enough to suit the politicians. He was one of the commission in 1873 for a new charter, which was not adopted. He was one of the original members of the Union Club, life member of the Boston Natural History Society, on the Board of Trustees of the Institute of Technology, member of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, and a member of many other organizations.

Nineteenth Mayor NATHANIEL B. SHURTLEFF 1868-1870

Nathaniel Bradstreet Shurtleff served as Boston's nineteenth mayor, from 1868 to 1870. Shurtleff is more known for his antiquarian labors than for his work as mayor, although during his mayoralty many new streets and much territory were added to Boston. He was born in Boston on June 29, 1810. His father, Benjamin Shurtleff, was a physician. He was educated in the Boston public schools, the Round Hill School, at Harvard, and the Harvard Medical School where he became a medical demonstrator, and later succeeded to his father's large practice. He was elected mayor on December 9, 1867, on the Democratic ticket.

He was not a good judge of human nature, knew little of the proper method of government, and therefore was not much of a success as a mayor. While he was in office, Atlantic Avenue was laid out along the lines of the Barricade, which connected the North Battery with the South, Broadway in South Boston was extended, Federal Street was widened, the East Boston ferries were taken over by the city, and Dorchester was added to the city. During his term, the power to lay out streets was taken from the Board of Aldermen and given to the Street Commissioners.

He was the author of A Topographical and Historical Description of Boston, and he edited the Massachusetts Colony records and the New Plymouth Colony records. He held many degrees, was a member of many historical societies, and a member and secretary of the Board of Overseers of Harvard.

Twentieth Mayor WILLIAM GASTON 1871-1872

The twentieth mayor, William Gaston, was one of Boston's potent forces at a time when strong men were needed at the helm of administration; nor can we wonder that he was a forceful character. In his veins flowed the blood of the French Huguenots, a strain of the Mayflower Pilgrims, and also the blood of one of the followers of Roger Williams. One of his ancestors was Jean Gaston, a French Huguenot who, banished from France in the seventeenth century, sought refuge in Scotland, where his sons in turn were driven by religious persecution, and found refuge in the north of Ireland. John Gaston, one of their descendants and the great-grandfather of Mayor Gaston, joined the Separatist colony in America, and was a freeman of Voluntown when the town was organized in 1736-37. It is said that he originally landed at Marblehead, Mass. Alexander Gaston, the mayor's father (whose brother, William Gaston, was afterwards United States Senator from North Carolina), had as his second wife Kezia Arnold, of Brownville, Rhode Island, and lived at Killingly, Connecticut, where their child, William Gaston, was born October 3, 1820. William, whose family crest was an owl, the bird of wisdom, studied at Plainfield Academy and entered Brown University when he was but fifteen. He graduated with honors in 1840, and went to Boston, where he entered the law office of Judge Francis Hillard, of Roxbury, and when he completed his law studies, entered political life. He was elected mayor of Boston in 1871, and served one term.

AUGMENTED FINES PLANNED FOR UNLICENSED "JUICE BARS"

Mayor Kevin H. White has signed a home rule petition designed to strengthen the city's enforcement powers over the operation of unlicensed "juice bar" operation in Boston.

The home rule petition, which awaits the approval of the state legislature, provides for two new weapons for the city's licensing arsenal:

— A graduated fine system for violation. The new law would allow the city corporation counsel to increase the fines levied upon unlicensed "juice bars," running from $50 for the first day of operation up to $1,000 per day for an extended period of operation.

— the power to enjoin operation. Under this part of the legislation, the city corporation counsel could through court injunction, simply close down the "juice bars" which failed to comply with Boston licensing provisions.

Said Mayor White, "Existing licensing laws don't have the teeth necessary to effectively regulate the operation of these so-called 'juice bars.' This legislation, if passed, will allow the city to close down severely fine operators who persist in flaunting the licensing law."

MAYOR URGES CONGRESSIONAL SUPPORT OF NEW COUNTERCYCLICAL AID BILL

Mayor Kevin H. White, on March 6, urged quick Congressional approval of the Carter administration's latest supplementary, fiscal assistance proposal, a $250 million, countercyclical, funding program which, if passed, could mean a lump-sum grant to Boston of $2.95 million for fiscal 1979.

Mayor White, president of the National Conference of Democratic Mayors, called the Carter program, "essential to ease the fiscal strain unemployment and inflation have placed on city services.

"If it had not been for the sympathetic ear this nation's mayors had received at the White House in December when we made the case for renewed, countercyclical aid, this program would now be only a pleasant memory. I hope President Carter will display the same kind of leadership and initiative in seeking this bill's passage as he has shown in reviving a modified, urban, self-help program."

The Carter program is a dramatic revision of the original, countercyclical funding which was created as part of the 1976 Public Works Employment Act.

That original program, which was up for renewal last year for $500 million in direct unrestricted blocks of money to localities, was killed in the last session of Congress.

The original program provided for emergency assistance through grants to state and local governments to offset the effects of high unemployment. The first year that program authorized $1.25 billion nationwide; the second year, $2.25 billion nationally was authorized.

Boston's share of that program in fiscal year 1977 was $6.5 million. Its share in 1978 was $5.4 million.

Under the Carter administration's scaled-down version of the program, Boston would receive about half its previous allocation, but that money would be targeted to offset specific strains produced by unemployment on the local economy.

The unemployment rate, as computed through the Department of Treasury's formula, must exceed 6.5 percent over six months for localities to be eligible for the new program. Boston's unemployment rate for the period analyzed by the Treasury Department was 8.3 percent.

The Carter program calls for a fiscal year 1980 national allocation of $150 million.

COUNCILLOR HICKS SUGGESTS PUBLIC HOUSING FAMILIES CONVERT TO CONDOMINIUM UNITS

Low-interest-rate mortgage proposals should be explored as a way to encourage families in public housing to purchase and fix their apartments as condominium units, Boston City Councillor Louise Day Hicks suggested last week.

Her order asking that the Mary Ellen McCormack development in South Boston be considered as a possible "pilot" program won adoption on vote of her Council colleagues.

"I believe many of the families, some in their second and even third generation at the Old Harbor Development, would like to acquire their own condominiums and stay on there if attractive enough financing terms could be arranged," said Mrs. Hicks.

Under the proposed "City of Boston Home Ownership and Rehabilitation Assistance Act of 1979" now before the City Council, city sale of tax-exempt bonds would pass benefits to low- and moderate-income families seeking to buy and fix up homes for their own occupancy.

The proposed "home rule" measure, requiring legislative approval, would have cooperating lending institutions provide below-market-rate, mortgage loans guaranteed by insurance.

Mrs. Hicks, as chairman of the City Council's Committee on Housing, was authorized in the order to schedule a public hearing to elicit views on feasibility of including the McCormack development units for the program coverage.

She pointed out that a precedent was established years ago for transfer of public housing properties to private, tax-paying status. Councillor Hicks said the Veterans' Housing complex off River Street, Mattapan, was offered and sold to veterans.

She noted that the McCormack or Old Harbor development, showing signs of wear as the city's oldest, public-housing complex, could be revitalized through rehabilitation purchase by tenants.

The city would benefit from real estate taxes and the plans might serve to lessen the prospect of receivership overhanging various Boston Housing Authority projects.

In determining feasibility, the Councillor said, "the bottom-line determinant must always be the scaling of principal, interest, and tax costs to ability of prospective owners to meet these obligations.

There are bigger things than money — bills, for instance.

DORCHESTER'S ASHMONT HILL:

A REPORT

Part II

The architectural styles of the district's houses range from Second Empire and Italianate through post-World War II modern, although the great majority (about 80 percent) are Queen Anne, Shingle Style, or Colonial Revival in style. A dozen of the district's houses are in the Second Empire or Italianate styles, including two double houses on Brent Street and one on Ocean Street. The district's Second Empire houses are characteristically one- or two-stories tall with a mansard roof that functions as a top floor; simple, symmetrical facades; and details such as bracketed porches and pedimented window lintels typical of the style. Of the few Italianate or Italian Villa-style houses in the neighborhood, perhaps the most characteristic is that at 34 Alban Street, with its hip roof, offset tower, and bracketed detailing.

The Queen Anne Revival Style, an extremely popular one in its day, was also the most popular style on Ashmont Hill, where well over a hundred examples were built in two decades. These houses are characterized by irregular massing and rooflines, a variety of porches, verandas, overhangs, turrets, and gables, as well as by the use of contrasting and highly textured materials such as patterned shingles, stucco, terra-cotta, and masonry. Detailing is often floral, and much turned-spindle work is found, particularly on porches.

Examples on Ashmont Hill range from the extremely complicated and elaborate house at 47 Ocean Street (now a rest home), with high-relief carving in the gables and distinctive porches, to the simpler and much less imposing, gable-fronted houses with patterned shingles found along Ashmont and Brent Streets.

Elements from the Stick Style, such as applied cross-bracing, diagonal porch supports, and hood dormers, appear on a number of Ashmont Hill houses, although the area can claim only one true Stick Style house — that at 44 Alban Street, whose contrasting colors of paint effectively highlight its detailing.

There are also a number of Shingle Style houses in the area. Characterized by the exclusive use of exterior wooden shingles to form a "skin" which encloses porches, balconies, and dormers, this style also makes frequent use of the gambrel roof and of horizontal window bands. Because it is essentially an outgrowth of the Queen Anne style, it is often difficult to distinguish between the two styles on Ashmont Hill houses.

The most notable examples of the Shingle Style on Ashmont Hill are the house at 60 Ocean Street and the Dorchester Temple Baptist Church. A more modest interpretation of the style is found in the row of houses numbered 24 through 42 Roslin Street, where the use of a curved shingle "skin" to frame the gable windows is the most distinguishing feature.

Houses in the Colonial Revival Style, though built at the same time as their Shingle Style neighbors, can be distinguished from theme by the use of clapboards, symmetrical facade massing, and the frequent use of elements such as elliptical facade bays, porches with urns and ballasters supported on classical columns and hip roofs — all derived from American Georgian and Federal architecture. The large and elaborately detailed house at 85 Ocean Street is perhaps the most impressive, although the style can also be seen on a number of the district's three-deckers, including those at 11 and 17 Alban Street, 493 to 501 Talbot Avenue and 10-12 and 18-20 Mellon Street.

The only remaining style found in any quantity in the area is the so-called Bungalow Style. However, most examples on Ashmont Hill (and elsewhere in Dorchester) are not full-fledged bungalows, but rather more traditionally styled houses with some Bungalow Style details, such as wide overhanging hipped roofs, simple rectilinear lines, and horizontal window bands. Often covered with shingles these houses can be distinguished from Shingle Style examples by their straight lines and lack of projections. The most notable example on Ashmont Hill is the house at 61 Alban Street; however, a number of others can be found on Alban, Brent, Ocean and Roslin Streets. (A particularly notable bungalow porch can be found on the house at 27 Roslin Street.)

Although there are a handful of post-World War II modern houses in the interior of the district, particularly the five adjacent "Garrison Colonials" built on the former Fitzgerald house site, they are generally unobtrusive. The only buildings whose use, scale, and/or setting contrasts dramatically with the overall character of the district are the new library, a few, small, commercial buildings on Washington Street, and a large, modern apartment building and a repair garage on Talbot Avenue — all on the district's edges.

The great majority of the district's buildings are in a good to excellent state of repair. A small number in good structural condition need paint or other minor repairs. Only a very small number of buildings (again, mostly on the district's eastern and western edges) are in need of major repair.

III. SIGNIFICANCE OF PROPOSED DISTRICT

Statement of Significance

The proposed Ashmont Hill district has both architectural and historical significance to the City of Boston as a distinctive and well-preserved, late-Victorian, commuter suburb, on land formerly belonging to an estate occupied by General Henry Knox and Daniel Webster; as the former home of numerous prominent Boston families; and as an area which contains a number of houses designed by notable Boston architects.

General History

The Town of Dorchester was originally settled in 1630, when it extended south almost to the Rhode Island border, and included all of Mattapan and Hyde Park, as well as such present-day towns as Quincy, Dedham, and Foxboro. For nearly 200 years, it developed primarily as a series of small farming communities, clustered around major crossroads such as Fields Corner and Edward Everett Square, with industrial and commercial villages at Lower Mills and near Commercial Point. During the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries, the area was also dotted with the large country estates and summer homes of wealthy Bostonians seeking an escape from the increasingly crowded conditions of the city.

Toward the middle of the nineteenth century, a number of events and circumstances combined to change Dorchester from a cluster of rural villages to a more densely settled, middle-class suburb. The emergence of a large middle-class of merchants and manufacturers and the Irish immigration of the late 1840s and 1850s created tremendous housing pressure in the central city. The railroad and the streetcar relieved this pressure, serving as cheap, reliable transport into and out of town for the emerging middle class wishing to leave the congested central city, but lacking the means or the time for a private carriage and team of horses.

This combination of events led to the growth of the commuter suburb, of which Ashmont Hill is a prime example. Early suburban development occurred along the 1844 Old Colony railroad line (which ran along the current MBTA Red Line/Penn Central right-of-way), particularly on nearby hilltops such as Savin Hill and Jones Hill. As horse-drawn streetcars began to proliferate, the town of Dorchester voted in 1869 to annex itself to Boston, further encouraging development. The hawmut branch of the Old Colony line, which followed the current Ashmont branch of the Red Line, was laid out about the same time, opening up areas such as Melville Park and Ashmont to development. Within two years of the coming of the railroad through Peabody square, George Welles began to subdivide his land on Ashmont Hill and to build strategically located, speculative houses to stimulate land sales and development.

ANDERSON PARK CONVERTED TO HOUSING UNITS

Anderson Park, a former Beacon Hill parking garage on Cambridge Street which is being converted to sixty-four units of housing, is nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy.

The Cambridge Street Community Development Corporation (CSCDC), Robert H. Kuehn, Jr., of Housing Economics and Edwin D. Abrams of Abrams Management Company, Inc., obtained a $2,974,488 loan from the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency to finance the conversion which is seen as a key to preserving the residential nature of Beacon Hill and as the first major step in CSCDC's extensive renewal plans for Cambridge Street.

MHFA Executive Director John T. Eller said at opening ceremonies on March 1, 1979, that the successful rehabilitation of Anderson Park is a demonstration of what can be accomplished in urban areas through the cooperation of community, city, and state officials and a housing finance agency. He credited members of the development team, the City of Boston, and State Representative Barney Frank whose joint efforts were necessary to bring the project to fruition.

CSCDC, a joint enterprise of the Beacon Hill Civic Association, Massachusetts General Hospital, and the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, conceived the project in 1972 and more recently invited Kuehn and Abrams to act as codevelopers and to assume long-term responsibility for owning and managing the property. Other members of the development team include the architects, Stull Associates; the contractor, the George B. H. Macomber Company; and the legal firm of Brown, Rudnick, Freed & Gesmer.

The structure originally consisted of a six-story garage and a two-story, garage annex. The existing building was entirely renovated, and additional stories were built over the garage annex. The resulting apartments are exceptionally large and varied, as is often the case in housing produced through rehabilitation work, and include thirty-two, one-bedroom, thirty, two-bedroom, and two, three-bedroom units. A small amount of commercial space is located on the ground floor, and twenty-seven parking spaces have been built underground to satisfy tenants' parking needs.

The structure is located within the National Historic District of Beacon Hill. A great deal of care has been taken in designing the renovation of the buildings exterior so that it will blend with the architecture of Beacon Hill. Brick, similar to the kind found in neighboring structures, has been used for the new exterior walls.

To date, approximately 600 applications have been received for Anderson Park's sixty-four units. Rentals in the apartments will be reduced with funds from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development's Section 8 program, which enables tenants to pay no more than 25 percent of their monthly income for rent. Some of the units are expected to be rented at market rate level.

RESIDENTS REMINDED OF "NON-DRIVERS PHOTO-ID" SERVICE

With the need for an identification card with photo more than ever important, Richard E. McLaughlin, Registrar of Motor Vehicles, reminds Massachusetts residents of its "Non-Drivers" Id.

Particularly helpful for elderly and handicapped persons who don't drive, as well as many who live in cities and have no need for car ownership, the Massachusetts Photo-Id for unlicensed drivers is available to those over age eighteen.

The Id. is recognized as a secure form of identification for cashing checks or for use in any situation requiring proof of identification, Registrar McLaughlin said.

Registry branch offices and local police have applications available. Complete instructions are on the application.

The Id. itself is issued only by the Registry at any of its thirty-four branch offices for a $5 fee, Registrar McLaughlin added.

MAYOR DISCUSSES PROS AND CONS OF CABLE TV

Mayor Kevin H. White recently hosted WHDH radio's David Brudnoy Show on which the pros and cons of cable television were discussed.

Joining Mayor White in the two-hour discussion were cable television proponent Roger Fisher, law professor at Harvard; cable television opponent Joseph DiMino, general manager of WSBK-TV; and the general public.

Said Mayor White, "Cable TV is an important subject affecting the future of Boston. Publicly weighing the pros and cons of cable television is essential to the decision of whether Boston will join other Massachusetts cities in providing a technology which will have a great impact on the existing broadcast system, and on Boston residents as well."

The following are some of the points made as a result of the discussion:

- Cable TV should be a choice of the public.

- Cable television would bring to Boston some of the most advanced technology of the twentieth century.

- Reception would be improved by cable television.

- Cable television may pose a threat to individual privacy.

- Audiences may end up paying for what they now see free through cable TV.

- Pornographic movies would be easily accessible in the home through cable television.

"Approximately 50 percent of Boston residents want cable, according to a Hart survey recently conducted on the subject," stated Mayor White.

VICE-MAYOR SULLIVAN WELCOMES "THE SHADOW BOX"

Vice-Mayor Edward T. Sullivan on March 8, welcomed to Boston the Pulitzer Prize-winning play "The Shadow Box" at a press reception at the Charles Playhouse. The play had its Boston premiere on Wednesday, March 14.

Vice-Mayor Sullivan was joined by the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, Director Helen Rees, in honoring the play's director, Richard Chamberlain, along with author Michael Cristofer and co-stars Frank Converse and Betsy Palmer.

In addition to the 1978 Pulitzer Prize for Drama, the Broadway production of the "The Shadow Box" won a Tony Award for best play.

Noting that the play treats a serious and important subject, terminal illness, with humor and compassion, Vice-Mayor Sullivan said, "We welcome the Boston production as an outstanding event in the city's theater season."

"We are excited to have this highly acclaimed production in Boston," said OCA Director Rees, "and we honor the company of 'The Shadow Box' for their contribution to our theater district."

Richard Chamberlain, who is more often seen as actor than director, has a long list of starring roles in stage, screen, and TV productions to his credit. His most recent film, "The Last Wave," is currently running in Boston theaters. Frank Converse is most familiar to TV viewers as co-star of the recent series "Movin' On," while Broadway and film star Betsy Palmer will also be remembered as a panelist on the long-running, TV game show, "I've Got a Secret."

AN EXHIBIT WORTH VIEWING

The Boston Parks and Recreation Department is presenting an exhibit of paintings by its Hyde Park Adult Art Class, now through March 30, at the Hyde Park branch of the First National Bank of Boston, 1219 River Street, Hyde Park.

Mayor Kevin H. White cordially invites the community to view the exhibit which is a combined effort of the Parks Department and the First National Bank. Presented is a collection of the varied talent and creativity that exists in the Hyde Park community. All of the contributing artists are from Hyde Park and attend classes at the Hyde Park Municipal Building, 1179 River Street, under the direction of Art Supervisor Mary Ross.

Lee Buckley, manager of the Hyde Park branch of the First National Bank, and Joy Waldman, the bank's civic affairs coordinator, have been extremely helpful and enthusiastic in planning this community effort.

A variety of mediums will be represented, including acrylic paintings, still life monoprints, collages, and mixed media using driftwood and shells. The seasons of the year will be displayed in all their glorious splendor with birches in the snow, spring jonquils, autumn trees, and sunny summer scenes.

For more information, call Dorothy M. Curran, director of recreation at 725-4008.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

March 9.

General Order No. 15

I. FIRE ALARM BOX INSTALLED

The following box has been installed and company commanders shall add it to Circuit Card 87:

13-2551, Southwest Campus High School, No. 2, 144 McBride Street.

II. HIGH COMMENDATION

On February 17, 1979, the department responded to Incident No. 6508, Box 1771, which was struck for a fire at 422 Columbia Road at 1432 hours.

Upon arrival of Engine Company 24 at the scene, orders were received to run a 2½-inch line to the fourth floor. While in the process of advancing the line, Fire Fighter James B. Fitzgerald of Engine Company 24 was informed that people were trapped on the fifth floor, whereupon Fire Fighter Fitzgerald ascended to the fifth floor and proceeded to conduct a search for victims. Directed to an apartment by cries for help, Fire Fighter Fitzgerald found a man and woman whom he calmed and started to lead to safety. Due to the smoke and heat conditions encountered, Fire Fighter Fitzgerald used his air mask face piece on both victims alternately while he brought them out of the building to safety.

Because of the resourcefulness of Fire Fighter Fitzgerald in the judicious use of his respiratory equipment and judgment, he undoubtedly saved these two people from injury and death.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief is pleased to highly commend Fire Fighter James B. Fitzgerald, Engine Company 24, for the manner in which he conducted himself at extreme personal risk while performing these rescues and recommends his case to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

III. COMMENDATION

On February 20, 1979, the department responded to Incident No. 7033, Box 13-4192 which was struck for a fire in the stairwell of the Tobin Memorial Bridge at 1153 hours.

Upon arrival of the fire companies at the scene, fire was showing at both the first and second levels. Fire Lieut. Joseph G. Flynn and Fire Fighter Bernard McCaffrey of Ladder Company 9, Fire Fighter Thomas Crilley, Ladder Company 1, detailed to Ladder Company 9 and Fire Fighter Richard Johnson, Engine Company 36 made their way into the enclosure of the stairwell to the elevator where a maintenance worker was trapped inside because of failure of the elevator doors. These members worked under extreme conditions of heat and smoke which required the use of lines of hose to protect them while they forced the jammed doors to effect the rescue.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief is pleased to commend Fire Lieut. Flynn, Fire Fighters McCaffrey, Crilley, and Johnson for the manner in which the rescue efforts were conducted, without regard for their own personal safety, which is in the best tradition of the Boston Fire Department.

IV. PUBLIC EDUCATION SPECIALIST

In line with the Presidential Commission's Report "America Burning," Mr. James M. Murray has been appointed a public education specialist for the department, effective February 14, 1979.

A graduate of Boston College, concentrating in English/Journalism, he will be spending an initial period of time becoming acquainted with the department and the many facets of its operations. The orientation will include visits to the various divisions and engine and ladder companies as well.

Mr. Murray's duties will include, but not be limited to, the planning, development, and implementation of a city-wide, public education program aimed at reducing the rate of fire-related deaths and injuries to civilians and fire fighters alike.

Working with community groups, individuals, public agencies, schools, and the private sector, the program will stress basic fire safety techniques and programs, as well as community and individual cooperation with fire officials and fire fighters.

Mr. Murray will also utilize his writing background by assisting in the production of handbooks, brochures, and other literature relating to fire safety and promoting the efforts of the Boston Fire Department in fulfilling its mission.

All comments, suggestions, and insights relative to public education that you, as fire fighting professionals may wish to offer, will be welcomed and should be forwarded to Mr. Murray at Headquarters.

He can be reached at Extension 219.

V. LETTER OF THANKS

"Dear Commissioner:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank Deputy Fire Chief John Harrison and District Fire Chief Edward Campbell and all the fire fighters under their command on duty Thursday, February 22, 1979.

The quick response and the efficient use of men and equipment minimized our loss which was most important since there was no insurance coverage.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT Purchasing Division Orthopedic Supplies

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is requested to award a contract, without advertising, to Howmedica, Inc Orthopaedics Division, 23 Brunham Road, Hudson, New Hampshire, for Howmediac orthopedic instrumentation supplies and accessories. This company is a responsible corporation and the prices are reasonable.

The orthopedic items on Proposal 336 were advertised in the City Record and bids were publicly opened in this office on May 17, 1978. Since that time, Howmedica, Inc. has instituted changes in their distribution system and will supply hospitals only on a direct basis. This eliminates all distributors. However, Howmedica has agreed to furnish all of the items at the same prices (list less 14.6 percent) as Healthco, Inc. the lowest bidder on the publicly advertised bid. The contract with Healthco, Inc. will be canceled.

The total amount of contract for Howmedica will not exceed $14,000, net.

Respectfully yours,

Eugene K. Welsh,
Acting Purchasing Agent.

AUDITORIUM Mechanical Systems Maintenance

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On May 25, 1977, you granted permission to the Auditorium Commission to dispense with advertising and award a contract to Bay State York Service Inc., 94 Beaconsfield Road, Brookline, Mass. 02146, for full maintenance of the heating and air-conditioning systems in the John B. Hynes Veterans Auditorium, at 900 Boylston Street, Boston, for the period July 1, 1977, and ending June 30, 1978, at a cost to the city of $87,409.15. The agreement at that time gave the city an option to renew this contract for two more years at the same contract price.

The Auditorium Commission has investigated all phases of contract costs for maintenance of the Auditorium and in its judgment feels the cost is reasonable in view of the fact that the machinery is getting older and under this contract there is a full guarantee for all the equipment. Due to the professional nature of this contract, it was felt that public advertising would serve no purpose as this work requires the special expertise of a first-class engineer and a firm which specializes in this type of work. The Auditorium Commission, management, and more especially, the building superintendent, felt the city should exercise its option for the coming fiscal year. Based on previous experience, a new contract would cost the city more money to maintain the heating and air-conditioning systems.

Therefore, the Commission would like to exercise its option on this contract for the period July 1, 1978, and ending June 30, 1979, at a cost to the city of $87,409.15. Enclosed is copy of letter dated March 28, 1977, in which the Commission requested permission to accept Bay State's offer for the three-year period and which you approved on May 25, 1977.

Very truly yours,
Bertram A. Druker,
Vice-Chairman.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT Boarding and Securing

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings or structures are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

18 Gaston Street, Ward 12; 205-211 Harold Street, Ward 12; 21 Monadnock Street, Ward 13 (house only); 62-68 Cummings Road, Ward 21.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box by 11 a.m., July 7, 1978 — one copy to Auditing Department. These buildings are in an unsafe and dangerous condition — a hazard to the general public. Buildings are being vandalized and in danger of being fire-bombed; also to prevent further deterioration this bid was ordered.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972 as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to board up and secure them.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the boarding and securing of these buildings or structures.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Donald Clancy & Sons, $2,855; Kenney Construction, $3,490.

Donald Clancy & Sons, 339 Dorchester Street, South Boston, Mass., has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $2,855, to Donald Clancy & Sons, 339 Dorchester Street, South Boston, Mass.

Very truly yours,
Francis W. Gens,
Building Commissioner.

Boarding and Securing, CDBG

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings or structures are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

2-20 Mall Street — 1044-1046 Harrison Avenue, Ward 8.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box by 11 a.m., August 25, 1978. One copy to Auditing Department. Bid box opened by Office of Development and Construction. This building is in a very unsafe and dangerous condition. This bid awarded to prevent further deterioration.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to board up and secure them.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the boarding and securing of these buildings or structures.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Donald Clancy and Sons, $3,640.

Donald Clancy and Sons, 339 Dorchester Street, South Boston, MA 02127, has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $3,640, to Donald Clancy and Sons, 339 Dorchester Street, South Boston, Ma., 02127.

Very truly yours,
James T. Reid,
For Building Commissioner.

Razing of Buildings, CDBG

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

694 East Fifth Street, and garage, Ward 7; 1 Oscar Street, Ward 10; 3 Oscar Street, Ward 10; 3 Walnut Court, Ward 16.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box August 18, 1978, 11 a.m. — one copy to Auditing Department. Box opened by Office of Development and Construction. These buildings are in an unsafe and dangerous condition — a hazard to the general public. Buildings have collapsed walls and are ready to fall.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the buildings or structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of buildings.

or structures, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Napoli Wrecking Co., Inc., $14,400; Raze Construction Co., Inc., $15,800; James G. Grant Co., Inc., $20,500; Mystic Wrecking Co., Inc., $12,600.

Mystic Wrecking Company, Inc., 265 Carter Street, Chelsea, MA 02150, has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for the individual buildings or structures were not requested because it would be a practical, physical impossibility for several different contractors to conduct efficient contracting operations simultaneously in individual buildings or structures. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference and each contractor would be exposed to severe hazards not under his control, by the operations of adjacent contractors. I also believe that the aggregate cost of individual bids would be much higher than the cost of one bid for the total buildings or structures to be demolished, and that handling the buildings or structures as one unit results in one administrative cost to the city rather than what would result from handling the individual buildings or structures as separate bids and contracts. Unit handling results, however, in this case in a contract price of over $2,000, or over the statutory limitations upon awards that can be made, without advertising, unless your Honor approves the transaction.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $12,600 to Mystic Wrecking Company, Inc., 265 Carter Street, Chelsea MA, 02150.

Very truly yours,
Francis W. Gens,
Building Commissioner.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

1 Alvah Kittredge Park, Ward 9; 2 Alvah Kittredge Park, Ward 9; 3 Alvah Kittredge Park, Ward 9; 8 Alvah Kittredge Park, Ward 9.

Emergency bid placed in bid box by 11 a.m., August 28, 1979 — One copy to Auditing Department. Box opened by Office of Development and Construction. These buildings are in an unsafe and dangerous condition — a hazard to the general public. Due to fire, top floors of these buildings have structural damage.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the buildings or structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of buildings or structures, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Franklin Crane Service, $12,150; Raze Construction, $39,600; James G. Grant Co., Inc., $23,799; Napoli Wrecking Co., Inc., $17,600; Mystic Wrecking Co., $19,800.

Franklin Crane Service, 908 West Washington St., Hanson MA, 02341, has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for the individual buildings or structures were not requested because it would be a practical, physical impossibility for several different contractors to conduct efficient contracting operations simultaneously in individual buildings or structures. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference and each contractor would be exposed to severe hazards not under his control, by the operations of adjacent contractors. I also believe that the aggregate cost of individual bids would be much higher than the cost of one bid for the total buildings or structures to be demolished, and that handling the buildings or structures as one unit results in one administrative cost to the city rather than what would result from handling the individual buildings or structures as separate bids and contracts. Unit handling results, however, in this case in a contract price of over $2,000, or over the statutory limitation upon awards that can be made, without advertising, unless your Honor approves the transaction.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval to the awarding, without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $12,150, to Franklin Crane Service, 908 West Washington Street, Hanson MA, 02341.

Very truly yours,
Leo F. Martin,
Acting Building Commissioner.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow:

58 School Street, Ward 11; 60 School Street, Ward 11.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box by 11 a.m., August 29, 1978 — one copy to Auditing Department. Box opened by Office of Development and Construction. These buildings are in an unsafe and dangerous condition — a hazard to the general public. Buildings have been fire-gutted twice, and walls are in danger of collapse.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the buildings or structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of buildings or structures, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

James G. Grant Co., Inc., $4,200; Napoli Wrecking Co., Inc., $4,300; Mystic Wrecking Co., Inc., $3,775; Raze Construction Co., $4,600.

Mystic Wrecking Co., 265 Carter Street, Chelsea MA, 02151, has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for the individual buildings or structures were not requested because it would be a practical, physical impossibility for several different contractors to conduct efficient contracting operations simultaneously in individual buildings or structures. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference and each contractor would be exposed to severe hazards not under his control, by the operations of adjacent contractors. EEPA

Inmates Project

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with El Centro del Cardenal (Cardinal Cushing Center for the Spanish-Speaking), 1375 Washington Street, Boston, Mass. 02118, for the purpose of implementing the Spanish Inmates Project. This project will employ six City of Boston, CETA, Public Service Employment (PSE) participants to provide job development, tutoring, and training for Hispanic and other linguistic minorities and for Hispanic inmates awaiting release.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VI-B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period

July 18, 1978, through July 17, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $85,058.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

1. The ability of the project to employ the unskilled, long-term unemployed; 2. the ability of the project to provide suitable training to CETA enrollees; 3. the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project; 4. the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston; 5. the ability of the agency to administer the project and supervise the enrollees.

Because the contractor was competitively chosen, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Day Care Program

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Aswalos House-Roxbury Young Women's Christian Association (YWCA), 246 Seaver Street, Roxbury, Mass. 02121, for the purpose of providing an after-school and day-care program. The program will provide services to children six to fourteen, during the school year and summer vacations. In addition, the program will employ and train five City of Boston, CETA, Public Service Employment (PSE) participants in various human services related positions.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VI-B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period September 6, 1978, through February 5, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $30,159.

The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

1. The ability of the project to employ the unskilled, long-term unemployed; 2. the ability of the project to provide suitable training to CETA enrollees; 3. the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project; 4. the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston; 5. the ability of the agency to administer the project and supervise the enrollees.

In view of the fact a competitive procedure was utilized in selecting the contractor, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,
Erik Butler,
Acting Administrator.

Labor Relations Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Mr. Henry J. Sheerin, 598 Main Street, Hingham, Mass. 02043, for professional services to EEPA in the field of labor relations. Mr. Sheerin has over twenty years' experience working with building trades unions, having served as a union business agent, secretary/treasurer, executive board chairman, and as trustee of the National Apprenticeship Foundation. Mr. Sheerin's selection has been mutually approved by the Third World Jobs Clearinghouse and representatives of the building trades unions, pursuant to an agreement reached in City Council and after extensive negotiations as a condition for refunding Third World. He will therefore serve as a monitor on construction projects for the Construction Industry Liaison Committee which was established by that agreement. Mr. Sheerin will also act as liaison between EEPA and the construction unions within Boston, the Community Task Force on Construction, and the Massachusetts Council of Construction Employers. These services are considered essential as CETA activities expand to impact the private sector.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided to the City of Boston through a federal government grant under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period September 5, 1978, through September 4, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $24,000. The contractor will be compensated at the rate of $95 per diem.

Because this is a negotiated contract for professional services, at a reasonable cost, consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request permission to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 4.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

DORCHESTER'S ASHMONT HILL: A REPORT

Part III

The next stage of Dorchester's residential development — the growth of "streetcar suburbs" — began with the electrification of the streetcar lines in the 1890s. Because they were cheaper and stopped more frequently than the railroads, and were much faster than the horse cars, they brought more remote areas of Dorchester within range of more people.

The emergence and new-found mobility of this new class of tradesmen and small shopkeepers via the streetcar led to the proliferation of a new building form: the three-decker, a freestanding, wood-frame, three-family house. Particularly between 1900 and World War I, undeveloped parcels between existing houses, as well as larger tracts of newly subdivided land along newly laid-out side streets, were built up with three-deckers. The lower end of Ashmont Hill and Talbot Avenue, with their three-deckers and smaller single-family houses, are examples of this later stage of development.

Some amount of residential development, mostly in the form of modest, single- and two-family houses, continued on undeveloped and throughout Dorchester after World War I, ending abruptly with the Depression.

Since World War II, with the advent of highway construction and widespread automobile ownership, FHA and FHA mortgages, new neighborhood growth has occurred chiefly in the suburbs, often at the expense of older city neighborhoods.

Ashmont Hill, largely because of its seclusion and distinctiveness, has remained stable and has in fact seen some new residential development since World War II, along with other areas of South Dorchester.

History of Study Area

Almost all of the area now enclosed by Washington Street (a colonial road), the present rear lot line of Welles Avenue, Dorchester Avenue (a Federal Era Turnpike) and Ashmont Street was once a farm. The farmhouse, located on the site of the present library was a large, gambrel-roofed structure built sometime prior to 1784. In this year, it is known to have been occupied by General Henry Knox, who had brought the cannon from Fort Ticonderoga to fortify Dorchester Heights ten years before.

By the early nineteenth century, the house was owned by a Mrs. Cobb, who rented it out as a summer residence. Among the people who rented the house was the statesman Daniel Webster, who lived there in 1822. During this time, there were at least two other eighteenth-century houses within the present day study area — one facing Washington Street near the foot of Roslin Street, and one on Washington Street, just south of Ashmont Street which still survives, almost hidden behind two stores.

Sometime before 1850, the estate and mansion house came into the possession of the Honorable John Welles, who died in 1855. Following a period during which the estate was in the possession of his heirs (and perhaps rented out), it passed in 1870 to John Welles' grandson George Derby Welles. Then twenty-six years old and living in Paris, Welles wasted no time in developing the property through his agent,

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Twenty-first Mayor
HENRY L. PIERCE
1873

To Henry Lillie Pierce belongs the distinction of building up a small chocolate mill into the largest of its kind in America, and making the name of Walter Baker known all over the world. The original chocolate mill was on the Dorchester side of the Neponset River, on the site of what was called Lower Mills. Here, according to the information available, the manufacture of chocolate was begun in 1765 by an Irish immigrant, John Hannon. He wandered one day into the little sawmill that stood on the Neponset, and asserted that he had learned in London a way to make a new kind of chocolate and, if he could use a small corner of the mill and a little water power, he could build up a new business. A part of the mill was set aside for his use, and he started the business, which later came into the possession of Dr. James Baker, then went to his son, Edmund Baker, his grandson, Walter Baker, and was finally acquired by his grandson's half-nephew, Henry L. Pierce. At the time that Pierce assumed control business was profitable, but very small. At the end of forty-two years (1854-96) it had grown under Pierce's wise management to be the largest manufactory of its kind on the continent. As he always paid his employees well and treated them kindly, not once in all that time did labor trouble disturb his work.

Boston Attorney Edward Ingersoll Browne. A street and lot subdivision plan was drawn up by the following year, which laid out all of the previously described area (within which no streets then existed) into 6,000-square-foot lots along the new streets of Alban, Ocean, Roslin, Harley, Walton, and Welles Avenue.

This was a particularly ripe period for development in the area, due to the coming of the railroad through Peabody Square just a few years before, making the area accessible to downtown Boston for middle-class commuters.

Land sales begun in 1872, with early house lots tending to be much larger than the 6,000-square-foot lots shown in Welles' plot plan. Within two years, at least five, large, house lots had been sold and seven new houses built — three of them by Welles. These were prominently sited at the heads of Roslin, Harley and Walton Streets, both to set the tone of the neighborhood and to stimulate development. The prime house lots at both corners of Ocean Street and Roslin Street, at the corner of Harley Street and Welles Avenue, and midway along the north side of Welles Avenue, had all been purchased from Welles (though the corner lot now numbered 60 Ocean Street was not built on for over a decade). Early houses were built in the Second Empire and Italian Villa styles, then popular for "suburban" houses.

Land sales continued gradually through the next decade, with sixteen, new houses built by 1884. In order to maintain the proper residential character of the neighborhood, all deeds were subject to restrictions requiring that:

"no buildings or parts thereof may be used or occupied for any other purpose than dwelling houses and private streets belonging to the same and buildings appurtenant to dwelling houses; that for the same period no building or any part of any and no fence over six feet shall be erected within twenty feet of the street" (thirty feet on Ocean Street), "except that doorsteps, porticos, cornices, piazzas, and bay windows may project into said reserved spaces."

Most houses continued to be built on lots somewhat larger than those shown in Welles' 1871 plan, many with generous side yards and separate carriage houses in the rear.

House construction picked up considerably in the late 1880s and 1890s when about 150 (or approximately half) of Ashmont Hill's houses were built in Queen Anne, Shingle, and Colonial Revival styles. During this time, Talbot Avenue was laid out, along with additional streets at the foot of the hill toward Washington Street — Grace, Montague, Mellon and Waldorf. These were built up somewhat more densely than the rest of the area following an 1893, lot-subdivision plan with deed restrictions lowering the setback requirement from 20 to 10 feet. This density was largely due to the advent of electric streetcar lines along Washington Street, Talbot Avenue, and Dorchester Avenue, which made the area more accessible to a wider range of people.

Also built during the early 1890s, were two major institutional buildings, the Dorchester Temple Baptist Church and the Henry L. Pierce School (named after the president of the Walter Baker Chocolate Company whose beneficence made the school possible, and recently replaced by the Codman Square Regional Library).

Between the turn of the century and World War I, about twenty houses were built, many of them influenced by the simplicity of form in Bungalow and Prairie School architecture. An additional fifteen houses were built between World War I and the Depression, as well as numerous garages behind existing houses.

A handful of modern buildings have been built since then, including two, modern, apartment buildings on Talbot Avenue, a gas station at the corner of Talbot Avenue and Alban Street, and seven single-family houses. Five of the seven houses were built on the site of the Fitzgerald House, demolished in 1938. Nevertheless, the predominant architectural character of the district is that of a late nineteenth-century, wooden suburb which exemplifies the suburban development of Dorchester — a character which is largely intact to this day.

Neighborhood Organization

The origin of the name "Ashmont Hill" is recent and was the result of a community decision.

In 1970, a group of neighbors began to hold monthly meetings on Ocean Street. They were concerned firstly, that residents of the area though mostly conscious of the pleasantness, convenience, and beauty of the houses and streets in and among which they lived, were nonetheless not confident of the area's future; and secondly, that people outside the area were unaware of its existence and would therefore not be making the investments which could secure the future. The consensus of the group was that a neighborhood association might be able to provide correctives for both of these problems.

In the spring of 1971, the half-year-old association decided to organize a neighborhood-wide open-house tour for the following spring, and to call the neighborhood "Ashmont Hill." Topography and location made the choice of the name "Ashmont Hill" fairly obvious. But the act of naming was eve-more important than the name itself, signifying that the area was beginning to perceive itself as a cohesive neighborhood with a distinct character, which merited attention and preservation.

In the fall of 1971, concern about the rumored demolition of the Dorchester Temple Baptist Church prompted consultation with the then, newly established Advisory Boston Landmarks Commission. Robert Rettig, at that time project director for the commission, though unable to be of specific assistance with regard to the church, offered encouragement to the neighborhood's emergent architectural self-consciousness and came to speak about the work of the Landmarks Commission at one of the monthly meetings of the Ashmont Hill Association.

The open-house tour took place as planned in May, 1972. It focused not on interior decoration, but on architectural historical value, with particular attention to the variety of late nineteenth century styles represented on the hill and to their characteristic decorative materials. His tour, and other subsequent Ashmont Hill Association events, attracted considerable attention from architectural historians and city planners in the Boston area and provided a stimulus for other Dorchester neighborhoods to become involved in neighborhood "consciousness-raising" and architectural conservation.

The Advisory Landmarks Commission put out a short report on the Background and Significance of Ashmont Hill, Dorchester," for distribution at that first tour which described Ashmont Hill as a "prime candidate for designation as an architectural conservation district, should a mechanism for such designation be created through legislation." The neighborhood was thus alert to the possibility of designation as early as 1972 and was ready to take action when such legislation was enacted at the end of 1975. A petition requesting designation as an Architectural Conservation District was signed by Ashmont Hill residents and presented to the Boston Landmarks Commission in early 1977.

Boston Mayor . . .

Mr. Pierce was born in 1825 at Stoughton. His father was an austere New England Methodist, and his mother was a strong-minded, outspoken woman of pronounced prejudices.

He went to work at $3 a week in the mill of his mother's half brother, Walter Baker. He and his half-uncle did not agree politically, and the friction became such that in a year Pierce left and went west, where he vainly tried to gain employment. He finally went back to his uncle's chocolate mill and was put in charge of the Boston countingroom, which had just opened. Mr. Baker died in 1852, and his partner died shortly thereafter. After prolonged negotiations, the trustees of the estate leased the chocolate plant to Mr. Pierce, and he was so successful that in 1884 the trustees conveyed the property to him.

Mr. Pierce early became interested in political subjects, on which he spoke and wrote. He was an ardent supporter of the Free Soil party, from which sprang Republicanism. Pierce helped to organize the straight Republican party as a protest against those Republicans who had joined the "Know-nothing" party, which swept the state in 1854. In 1857, he was nominated treasurer and receiver-general of the party. He was sent in 1859 from Dorchester to the General Court, and served until 1862, becoming the leader of the radical Republicans, who opposed any concessions to the slaveholders.

In 1869, he became a member of the Boston Board of Aldermen, as the first representative from the Dorchester section. The failure of the city authorities to check the smallpox epidemic, as well as the want of executive ability at the time of the Great Fire in 1872, led the businessmen to ask Mr. Pierce to run for mayor as the nonpartisan candidate, and he was elected by a close vote.

In office, he established a smallpox hospital, and effected the reorganization of the Health and Fire Departments. Mr. Pierce successfully urged a commission to revise the city charter, and opened the Public Library on Sunday. He was elected to Congress in November, 1873, and resigned as mayor on the first of December. In response to a petition he again ran for mayor, and was elected in 1878. One of his principal acts was to reorganize the Police Department on an efficient basis.

He was active in 1881 in the formation of the Massachusetts Tariff League, of which Charles Francis Adams, Jr., became president. His eyes began to fail him during his last years, and he was advised by his doctor to be outdoors as much as possible. As he was very fond of the water, he spent much time on his yacht, cruising the coast and crossing the Atlantic thirty-five times, visiting every place of interest in Europe. He finally caught cold on a trip to Chicago, was stricken with paralysis, and died September 17, 1876.

Twenty-second Mayor LEONARD R. CUTTER 1873

Among the forty-five men who have served as mayor of Boston the shortest tenure—just thirty-seven days—was held by Leonard Richardson Cutter a century ago.

As chairman of the Board of Aldermen in 1873, he succeeded as acting mayor upon the November 29 resignation of Mayor Henry L. Pierce to begin service as new Congressman from the Third Massachusetts district.

Cutter, as fifteenth chairman of the Board of Aldermen, became the twenty-second man to occupy the mayor's office. He served until Samuel C. Cobb was inaugurated as mayor on January 5, 1874.

While acting mayor, Cutter continued to head the aldermanic board for the remainder of the municipal year and received plaudits of his colleagues for his dual service. He then stepped down to complete one more year—his fourth—as alderman.

Born July 1, 1825, in farm country, Jaffrey, New Hampshire, he left for Boston at age twenty after teaching three years in his native area. He found work in a grocery store in Boston, lived in the West End, and went into the grocery business for himself.

After a decade he turned to real estate and was a successful real estate agent and owner. He resided at Hancock Street, Beacon Hill, at the time of his elective public service.

He also was for many years a justice of the peace and earlier was a city assessor from 1859 to 1861.

After elective office he served until 1883 as a member of the Boston Water Board, four years as chairman, and also had overlapping service eight years as water commissioner.

Mr. Cutter, who had moved to 1 Arlington Street, Back Bay, died at his residence on July 13, 1894, at age sixty-nine.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

The Boston Water and Sewer Commission undertook a substantial capital improvement project in the North End last week when it began relaying 405 feet of sewer and building 224 feet of surface drain on North Street between Fleet and Sun Court streets on March 19.

The existing sewer pipe, laid in 1842, is collapsing. The new construction by the commission will separate the sanitary and storm sewers and improve the flow capacity in the immediate area.

Construction, which is anticipated to take fifty working days, will disrupt North Street traffic and allow only limited nighttime parking during that time.

The construction contract was awarded by the Boston Water and Sewer Commission to John Mahoney Construction for $306,265 (this sum includes another sewer construction project on Yawkey Way near Fenway Park).

ART GALLERIES PRESENTATION: UNUSUAL, EXCITING

18 Newbury Street Galleries present special concurrent exhibition

Boston's famous Newbury street art galleries have joined together to present a six-week-long concurrent exhibition of major artists, plus films, lectures, and tours to open April 30.

"Beginnings '79" will explore the origins and growth of various art forms, periods, and movements with each gallery featuring a special exhibit. Eighteen galleries are participating, with exhibits ranging from colonial portraits to contemporary art forms.

Cosponsored by Boston's Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs (OCA), "beginnings '79" is an effort to familiarize Boston with the galleries, as well as to provide for serious art buyers a display of unexcelled art spanning three centuries.

Helen Rees, OCA director, said that "the city is most enthusiastic about this unusual coordinated exhibit and we hope that this year's activities will lay the groundwork for another program next year as part of Boston's 350th birthday celebration."

The OCA is coordinating a special preview on April 29 for the galleries' regular visitors. Newbury Street will be closed to traffic and transformed into an open-air museum with strolling musicians entertaining gallery guests.

From April 30 to June 10, the general public is invited to visit the galleries and to attend a variety of free lectures, tours, and films. (A schedule of these events will be forthcoming.)

The participating galleries and their exhibits are: the Alpha Gallery, "American Landscape Painting of the Early 20th Century"; Archives of American Art, "A Century of Watercolors and Sketches from the Archives' Collection"; Art Asia Gallery, "Japanese Printmaking of the Seventies: Ten New Artists"; Childs Gallery, "The Artists's View: Two Centuries of New England Land and Sea"; The Copley Society of Boston, "Highlights of a Century of Copley Society Artists"; Graphics 1 and 2, "Contemporary Realism in Prints: Estes, Katz, Perlstein, Beal, David Sullivan"; the Guild of Boston Artists, "The Tradition of the Guild of Boston Artists from 1914 to the Present"; Marcus Kracow Gallery, "Abstract Painting of the 1950s: Hoffman, Pollock, Kline, deKooning, Motherwell, Still, Gottlieb, Newman, Rothko"; Impressions Gallery, "American Drawings in 1979, New England Draughtmen: Abeles, Pashko, Greene, . . ."; Kiva Gallery of Photography, "Lotte Jacobi: a Major Retrospective"; Neilsen Gallery, "Abstract Painting in the 70s: Amenoff, Berthot, Dworkin, Quaytman, Rotterdam"; Pucker/Safrai Gallery, "Twentieth Century Still-Life: An Intimate View, Gallery Artists and 19th and 20th Century Masters"; Rolly Michaux Galleries, "Alexander Calder: The Man and His Work"; Sunne Savage Gallery, "Contemporary American Landscape: 1970s"; Thomas Segal Gallery, "Paper, Clay, and Tapestry; Explorations into New Media: Dzubas, Francais, Frankenthaler, Noland, Stella, Voulkos, . . ."; Vision Gallery/Stephen T. NEW JOB TRAINING PROGRAM FOR WOMEN

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced that the City of Boston has received nearly a quarter of a million dollars in new, job-training funds to prepare economically disadvantaged women for new careers.

The City of Boston's Employment Policy Administration (EEPA), using funds awarded by the State Employment and Training Council, will establish two new programs which will train close to 200 women for new jobs. Approximately 160 women will be trained in the building trades and other nontraditional occupations and twenty-five to thirty-five welfare mothers will receive training and work experience as secretaries.

"These innovative programs will give women the skills and support they need to compete effectively in the job market. The programs will successfully supplement the City of Boston's other programs to train the economically disadvantaged in marketable skills," Mayor White said.

Four, community-based organizations will operate the new training programs. The Third World Jobs Clearing House and the Boston YWCA, working together, will run the building trades program. The Burdett School and the Urban League of Eastern Massachusetts will form a nonprofit, secretarial agency, which will provide training and supported work experience to welfare mothers at the same time that it provides secretarial services to other businesses and organizations.

The Boston YWCA has been training women in nontraditional occupations since 1977, and the curriculum of the new building trades program will be based on its experience in this area. The Third World Jobs Clearing House specializes in recruiting and placing minority applicants in construction jobs and training programs.

The Burdett School is a secretarial school experienced in training the economically disadvantaged. The Urban League of Eastern Massachusetts is a community-based social service and advocacy agency.

Besides skill training, participants in both new training programs will receive job-related counseling and assistance in developing job-related abilities. For instance, women in the building trades program will receive training in physical fitness, and women in the secretarial program will receive training to strengthen their oral communication skills.

The City of Boston's Employment and Economic Policy Administration (EEPA) administers a wide variety of job-training programs with funds provided to the city under CETA, the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. The money awarded for the new programs is part of a discretionary fund provided to the Governor under CETA, for allocation by the state.

WENTWORTH MARKS ITS SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

Arioch Wentworth never received any technical training, but he had so much natural mechanical ability that by the time he passed away at ninety years of age he was a multimillionaire and willed his fortune for the founding of a technical institute which marks its seventy-fifth birthday on April 5th.

Wentworth, born in Rollinsford, N.H., in 1813, a descendant of William Wentworth who came from England in 1636, always felt that if he had formal technical training success would have been easier.

His interest in formal technical training stayed with him and at his death in March, 1903, he willed his estate to the establishment of a school "for the purpose of furnishing education in the mechanical arts."

That school, Wentworth Institute of Technology, founded seventy-five years ago, observes its diamond jubilee on April 5, 1979. During the three-quarters of a century, it has developed into one of the foremost independent and accredited technical institutes in the world.

Only such a man as Arioch Wentworth, thoroughly versed in the background and tradition of New England, could appreciate the value of formal training in those crafts and technical undertakings which earlier generations were forced to perform without the benefit of organized instruction.

The Wentworth benefactor, who amassed a fortune of more than $6,500,000 from the granite, soapstone, marble, and real estate businesses, was considered the largest property owner in Boston at the time of his passing. He resided at 332 Beacon Street and had a summer home in Swampscott. He came to Boston when he was twenty.

At the time of the founding of Wentworth, it was considered a daring project as vocational schools did not exist and the few technical institutes were just in the stage of development.

During the past seventy-five years there have been dramatic changes in science and engineering undreamed of by the Wentworth founder. The school has kept pace with these changes, offering more professionally accredited, engineering technology programs than any other similar college.

More than 100,000 students have attended classes in the day and evening programs at Wentworth, located on a nine-acre Huntington Avenue campus in Boston, diagonally across from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

In addition, Wentworth trained the 101st Regiment of 26th Yankee Division during World War I, and in World War II taught 2,500 Air Force mechanics and served as a naval training center for firemen, engineers, machinists, and metalsmiths.

An array of events will be held throughout the year in connection with the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the school. The first event will be the Diamond Jubilee Open House on April 4, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and the public is invited to view this big showcase of engineering and technology student projects.

Middle age is that period of life when your idea of getting ahead is staying even.

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL LEAGUE: APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE

The Boston Parks and Recreation Department announces that applications for the 1979 season of the Boston Women's Softball League are now available by contacting Dorothy M. Curran, director of recreation at Room 802, Boston City Hall, One City Hall Square, Boston, MA 02201, or by calling 725-3239.

The league will be divided into three divisions: above average, average, and below average. Only the above average will have bunting, sliding, and stealing, and the below average is basically for novices.

Last year there were 112 teams and this year Bob Curran, league coordinator, said, "I'm hoping to have at least 130 women's teams in the league."

CETA JOB OPENINGS

Companionship can mean a great deal to an older, isolated Bostonian. For those who provide such companionship, new experiences and a sense of satisfaction are to be found. The satisfaction could be yours in the form of a part-time job as a visiting aide.

Mayor Kevin H. White has announced CETA job openings in the Visiting Aides Program, sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, which provides companionship and health monitoring to Boston's isolated elders. To be eligible for a CETA slot as a visiting aide, a person must be fifty-five years or older, a resident of Boston, unemployed for fifteen weeks or more, able to meet certain income requirements and must be healthy and able-bodied. Visiting aides will earn $70 a week for twenty hours worth of work.

Visiting aides work within their own communities and are trained in areas relevant to their job responsibilities and in issues of particular interest to elders. Each aide carries an ongoing case load of ten to fifteen clients and meets weekly with them in the clients' homes. In addition to providing friendly visits on a one-to-one basis and health monitoring, aides offer information, referral, follow-up services when necessary, and escort services to medical appointments and shopping trips. Visiting aides also provide emotional support during periods of stress and supportive counseling during periods of transition.

"The program is unique in placing primary emphasis on services to the many seniors who are homebound and cut off from their communities," explains Commissioner of Elderly Affairs Elaine Guiney. "Visiting aides provide the link necessary to bridge the gap created by isolation. In many cases, the program means the difference between life at home and life at an institution," she says.

Interested applicants should see the CETA intake worker at 7 Beacon Street in Boston. Those with questions about the Visiting Aides Program, or any of the other programs offered by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, should call the Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

IDENT-I-GUARD: CRIME DETERRENT

Crime prevention is everyone's business. Older Bostonians now are able to deter burglars by taking part in Operation Ident-I-Guard, a Police Department program delivered to elders by Mayor Kevin H. White's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly.

Operation Ident-I-Guard consists of sending a staff member from the Elderly Commission's Senior Citizen's Security Program to a senior's home in order to permanently mark his or her Social Security number with an engraving tool on all portable valuables.

The participating senior also receives two Ident-I-Guard stickers to display on the front and back doors of his or her home. The stickers act as a crime deterrent by announcing that the resident's valuables have been marked and are registered with the police.

"Ident-I-Guard has cut burglary rates by as much as 40 percent and requires no more than a few minutes of a person's time. Our staff member will do all the engraving," stresses Commissioner of Elderly Affairs Elaine Guiney.

If a thief does take the chance, steals engraved possessions and attempts to sell them, he is more easily apprehended by Boston police whose headquarters have computer access to all marked items. When a police officer receives a piece of stolen property, he immediately notifies the owner.

"Crime is one of the most serious problems faced by older Bostonians," comments Mayor Kevin H. White, "and we are committed to tackling this problem by utilizing more foot patrolmen and mounted police officers. The Elderly Commission helps to fight crime in yet another sphere with Operation Ident-I-Guard. I urge all senior citizens to join the program."

All Boston residents over the age of sixty are eligible to have their items marked by an agent from the Elderly Commission's Senior Citizens Security Program. For more information about signing up for Operation Ident-I-Guard or any other of the programs offered by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, call the Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT PROJECTS

The Boston Water and Sewer Commission undertook substantial capital improvement projects in West Roxbury last week on Washington and Summer Streets in order to improve the sewer recovery system in the area.

On Washington Street, from Averton Street to Wellsmere Road, the commission will relay 215 feet of 10-inch sewer and 24-inch, storm drain. The existing sewer is broken and has caused backups which have overflowed at the summit manhole.

The Washington Street line is under the sidewalk so construction, which is anticipated to take thirty working days, will disrupt parking and foot traffic in the immediate area.

On Summer Street, from Powell Street to Autumn Street, the commission will install 567 feet of 10-inch, storm drain and two catch basins. The purpose of this job, which will also take thirty working days, is to separate the sanitary and storm sewers. There will be some traffic disruption during construction.

The contract for these two construction jobs, together with one other to relay 240 feet of 10-inch sewer on Claxton Street between Washington Street and Brookway Road (slated to begin April 2), was awarded to Frank Frederick Construction for $158,800.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

EEPA

Vans and Campers

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Avis Rent-A-Car, 103A North Beacon Street, Brighton, Mass., to supply vans for the Neighborhood Maintenance Program to transport CETA workers and supplies throughout the city.

The award, pursuant to authority granted the contractor was selected on the basis of a competitive bid solicitation conducted by the Office of Public Service. Letters requesting bids were sent to seven truck leasing/rental firms in greater Boston. Avis was the only firm to respond to the solicitation.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided to the city through a federal government grant under Title VI-B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period June 6, 1978, through November 7, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $50,000. This award request is retroactive in order to honor bills already in hand.

Because Avis was the only firm able to fulfill our requirements at a reasonable cost, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids in this matter. I therefore request permission to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Mr. Rent-a-Car, 339-345 N. Main Street, Andover, Mass., to provide EEPA, by lease, with two Winebago-type campers to be employed in the recruitment/outreach operations of the Boston Plan, Project Y.E.S. The vendor was selected as the sole source for this procurement because it was the only agency in Eastern Massachusetts which could supply the kind of vehicle required on lease terms.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided to the city through a federal government grant under the Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act of 1977, P.L. 95-93. The contract will be effective for the period September 1, 1978, through April 1, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $15,500.

Because this contract, for goods available on a sole source basis at a reasonable cost, is consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose will be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids in making the award, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator

Funds for this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under Title VI-B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-203). The dates of operation will be from June 12, 1978, through June 11, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $58,668.

The contractor was selected based on the following criteria:

1. The ability of the project to employ the CETA target population; 2. the ability of the project to provide training to CETA enrollees; 3. the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project; 4. the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston; 5. the ability of the agency to supervise the project.

Because of the singular character of the project, reasonable cost, and the extensive review in selecting the project, it is my opinion that no useful purpose would be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Because a competitive procedure was utilized in selecting the contractor, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. Sincerely,

Charles M. Atkins,

I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 7.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,

The contract will be effective for the period June 12, 1978, through November 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $4,400. This request is retroactive in order to pay for services rendered in good faith at EEPA's request.

Because this is a negotiated contract for professional services, at a reasonable rate, consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids in the matter. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in making the award, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins,
Administrator.

Sincerely,
Erik C. Butler,
Acting Administrator.

Sincerely,
Erik C. Butler,
Acting Administrator.
